Degrees in French

Master of Arts Degree—French Instruction

Course Requirements

A total of 30 credit hours, at least 20 credit hours of which must be in French, including F572, F573, F574 or F578, and F580. Additional work must include at least one course from each of the following four areas: French language, Francophone civilization, Francophone literature, and foreign language methodology/applied linguistics/second-language acquisition.

Language Proficiency Requirement

At the end of the first year of graduate study, students will be interviewed in French using a system based on the oral interview procedures developed by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages and the Educational Testing Service. A score equivalent to “Advanced High” on the ACTFL/ETS scale is required.

Final Examination

Written examinations in the following two areas (one essay written in French): applied French linguistics and foreign language methodology/second language acquisition. Oral examination in one of the following two areas of the student's choice: Francophone civilization or Francophone literature.

Master of Arts Degree—French Literature

Course Requirements

A total of 30 credit hours, at least 23 credit hours of which must be in French.

Language Requirement

Reading proficiency in one of the following: German, Classical Greek, Italian, Latin, Russian, or Spanish.

Final Examination

Six-hour written examination based on reading lists on three periods selected from: Middle Ages, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries.

Master of Arts Degree—French Linguistics

Course Requirements

A total of 30 credit hours, of which 20 must be in French, including F574 or F578, F576, F577, F579, F580, F582 and F603.

Language Requirement

Reading proficiency in a language selected from the following list: a modern Romance language other than French (Haitian Creole may count), German, Russian, Latin, or Classical Greek.

Final Examination

Written exams on three out of five areas: French phonology, French syntax, applied French linguistics, history of the French language, and pedagogy/language acquisition. To be admitted to the Ph.D. program, students must select from the first four areas above. After the written examination is passed, students desiring admission to the Ph.D. program take an oral Ph.D. admission examination.

Doctor of Philosophy Degree—French Literature

Admission Requirements

Successful completion of the curriculum and final examination constituting the department's M.A. program in French literature. Students with an M.A. from another institution must pass the department's M.A. examination, which may be taken near the end of the first year of study in the department or at the beginning of the second; courses taken during the first year count toward the Ph.D.

Course Requirements

A total of 90 credit hours: 65 credit hours of course work plus 25 thesis hours (F875). F564, F574, and F603 or their equivalents are required.

Language Requirement

Reading proficiency in two outside languages. One must be German or Latin and the other chosen from the following: Catalan, Classical Greek, Italian, Russian, Portuguese, or Spanish. The language selected for the M.A. may count toward the Ph.D. requirement. Another language may be substituted with permission of the DGS and faculty.

Minor(s)

A total of 9 to 12 credit hours each, as required by the minor department(s) or program(s).

Qualifying Examination

Oral and written exams covering six literary periods (Middle Ages, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries) or 5 centuries and literary criticism. Students may choose to be exempted from written exams on two of the six literary periods, provided they have achieved a grade of B or higher in two courses from each of these areas. Students may also be exempted from literary theory if they have successfully completed F564. Transfer courses may be used to qualify for exemption only if such courses have been validated by successful examination of the same literary periods on the department's M.A. exam. Examination on the minor subject is at the discretion of the minor department.

Dissertation

Ph.D. Minor in French Literature

Doctoral students from other departments may complete a minor in French literature by successfully completing no fewer than four French literature courses (12 credit hours) listed in the University Graduate School Bulletin as carrying credit toward the Ph.D., of which no more than two may be at the 400 level. In all cases, selection of the particular courses to be counted must be made in consultation with the director of graduate studies in French.

Doctor of Philosophy Degree—French Linguistics

Admission Requirements

Successful completion of the curriculum and final examination constituting the department's M.A. program in French linguistics, including oral Ph.D. admission exam. Students with an M.A. from another institution must pass the department's M.A. examination and oral Ph.D. admission exam, which may be taken near the end of the first year of study in the department or at the beginning of the second; courses taken during the first year count toward the Ph.D.

Course Requirements

A total of 90 credit hours: 65 credit hours of course work plus 25 thesis hours (F875). Students must complete at least five 600-level courses in French Linguistics excluding F603.

Language Requirement

Reading proficiency in two languages as follows: (1) German or Latin, and (2) one Romance language other than French (including Picard and Haitian Creole). The language selected for the M.A. may count toward the Ph.D. requirement. For specialists in the history of French, we highly recommend the study of both German and Latin (in addition to the Romance language).

Minor(s)

Twelve (12) credit hours of course work required in (1) general linguistics, excluding Linguistics L503, or (2) second language studies, excluding Linguistics L503. Other minors are possible with the permission of the director of graduate studies.

Qualifying Examination

Students will take two cloistered General Exams, three hours each in length, and one Research Exam, to be completed over a period of one week with access to research materials. For the General Exams the students can select one area from Group A (Lexicology/Lexicography, Languages in Contact, History of French, Sociolinguistics and Dialectology) and one area from Group B (Phonology, Morphology, Syntax, Second Language Acquisition). Selection of the examination areas will be made in consultation with the student's advisory committee.

The Research exam is designed to demonstrate that students have developed sufficient depth in a particular constellation of research questions that they are ready to begin work on their dissertations. The area of this exam corresponds to the area of the student's projected dissertation topic and will be distinct from those of the two general exams. The particular question to be addressed, which will reflect the student's research interests, will be assigned at the beginning of the one-week period during which students write the exam.

The exams will normally be taken during the second semester of the fourth year of study. The General Exams (cloistered) may be taken in January or September; the Research Exam requirement must be satisfied during the same semester as the General Exams. Examination on the minor subject is at the discretion of the minor department.

Dissertation

Ph.D. Minor in French Linguistics

Doctoral students from other departments may complete a minor in French linguistics by successfully completing no fewer than four French linguistics courses (12 credit hours) at the 500 level or above. Doctoral students in French literature may complete a minor in French linguistics by successfully completing no fewer than three French linguistics courses (9 credit hours, 500-level courses or above) in addition to F603, for a total of 4 courses. In all cases, selection of the particular courses to be counted must be made in consultation with the director of graduate studies in French linguistics.

Degrees in Italian

Master of Arts Degree
