Application Procedures
All prospective students seeking admission to a graduate degree, certificate, or licensure program must submit a complete application file according to the requirements set by each program. Incomplete applications will not be reviewed.

Depending on the program specifications and on the applicant’s citizenship (U.S. or international), applicants to degree, certificate, or licensure programs may be required to submit any or all of the following:

- A completed online application (required of all applicants). The online application is campus-specific and non-transferable. Applicants are responsible for submitting an application to the campus where they wish to pursue a degree, certificate, or licensure program.
- An application fee (required of all applicants). Online applications require a nonrefundable payment by credit card and cannot be processed before the fee is paid in full.
- A personal goal statement (required of all applicants) addressing academic and professional background and objectives.
- A current resume or curriculum vitae (required of all international applicants; also required of domestic applicants to some programs).
- Official transcripts (required of all applicants). International applicants must provide official transcripts and degree certificates from every institution of higher education attended. Domestic applicants to degree programs must submit official transcripts from every institution of higher education where they earned a degree or took credits that counted towards a degree. Domestic applicants to non-degree (certificate or licensure) programs must submit official transcripts from every institution of higher education where they have earned a degree or took credits that counted towards a degree.
- Letters of recommendation (required of all applicants) that address the applicant’s academic and/or professional capabilities. The number of letters required (one, two, or three) may vary depending on the program.
- An academic writing sample (required for a few select programs).
- Official GRE Scores (required of all international applicants and most domestic applicants). Some master’s programs and licensure programs may waive the GRE requirement for U.S. citizens whose cumulative undergraduate GPA meets a pre-defined minimum. Applicants who are required to submit GRE scores must submit official scores from a test taken within five years prior to the date an application is submitted.
- Official TOEFL/IELTS Scores (required of all international applicants whose native language is not English). International applicants who are current degree-seeking students at a U.S. institution of higher education may be exempted from the TOEFL/IELTS requirement. U.S. citizens who have been educated primarily outside the U.S. in a language other than English may be required to submit TOEFL/IELTS scores. Applicants who are required to submit TOEFL/IELTS scores must submit official scores from a test taken within two years prior to the date an application is submitted.
- Praxis or Indiana CORE Assessment Scores (required for teacher preparation programs, including the Secondary Transition to Teaching program and other initial licensure programs).

More details about these requirements, including which materials are required for each specific program, and where and how to submit required documents, can be found in the How to Apply section of the School of Education website.

Admission Deadlines
In order to be fully considered for admission to a degree, certificate, or licensure program, prospective students must submit all required application materials prior to the posted application deadline. Early submission of application materials is highly encouraged.

Please visit the School of Education website for updated deadlines for individual programs.

Admission Criteria
The following are the minimum criteria for admission to the School of Education’s graduate degree, certificate, and licensure programs offered on the Bloomington campus.

- A four-year bachelor’s degree (or equivalent), requiring four years of full-time study or equivalent, from a college or university holding full regional or national accreditation, is required for admission to all graduate programs. Applicants with a bachelor's degree from an institution holding only state accreditation may be granted conditional admission if their other application credentials are strong. Applicants in the last semester of a four-year undergraduate program may be granted conditional admission until such time as the bachelor's degree has been awarded. International applicants are generally expected to be bachelor equivalent to be admitted to a program. They are encouraged to confirm with OIS that they have satisfied this requirement after submitting their application and transcripts.

- The minimum acceptable undergraduate grade point average (GPA) varies by program. Graduate degree programs typically require a minimum GPA of 2.75 (on a 4.00 scale) in all undergraduate coursework. Some programs may require a higher undergraduate GPA. Graduate licensure (non-degree, certification only) programs typically require a GPA of 2.5 or higher in all undergraduate coursework. Exceptions may be made when undergraduate coursework is judged to have been especially rigorous, and when other application credentials are very strong. Individual programs may set their own GPA requirements. Meeting the minimum GPA requirement does not guarantee admission.

- Most master's and specialist programs require applicants to have a minimum GPA of 3.30 in any graduate coursework taken prior to application. Doctoral programs usually require a minimum GPA of 3.50 in any prior graduate coursework. Licensure programs typically require a minimum GPA of 3.00 in any previous graduate coursework. Individual judgments are made about the rigor of grading in the graduate work presented.

- GRE scores are required for all Ed.S., Ed.D., and Ph.D. applicants. Most M.S.Ed. programs and the Secondary Transition to Teaching program (with some exceptions) also require GRE scores. The GRE is required for all international applicants. Applicants to doctoral programs in the School of Education typically must have a total GRE (combined verbal and quantitative) score of 302 or higher, and an analytical writing score of 4.0 or higher. Applicants to specialist programs and most master's programs typically must have a total GRE (combined verbal and quantitative) score of 291 or higher and an analytical writing score of 3.5 or higher. GRE scores must be from a test date no more than five years prior to the date an application is submitted. Some exceptions to the GRE requirement exist. For details, please refer to current program-specific application instructions on the "How to Apply" page of the School of Education website.

- TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) or IELTS (International English Language Testing System) scores are required for all international applicants whose first language is not English. TOEFL or IELTS scores must be from a test date no more than two years prior to the date an application is submitted. The School of Education typically requires a score of 79 on the TOEFL internet-based test or 6.5 on the IELTS for admission to its graduate programs. Prospective students whose TOEFL or IELTS scores do not meet the standard listed above may still apply. Exceptions may occasionally be made when other application credentials are strong.

- Admission to all graduate programs is subject to availability of space. Program faculty size, the number of students already in a program, and the number and strength of new applicants all affect selection ratios in a given year.

Admission Categories

Admission

An offer of full admission is valid for two years. If an admitted student fails to matriculate within the allowed time, the admission status is terminated, and the student must reapply. Student must notify their department before the start of the semester if they wish to defer.

Conditional Admission

The faculty admissions committee may grant conditional admission to a student who fails to meet one or more of the admission requirements listed above, if, in the judgment of the committee members, there is sufficient other evidence of probable success in the degree program. Conditional admission carries certain requirements that will be specified in the admission letter. Admission conditions may include but are not limited to: maintaining a certain GPA for the duration of the program, successfully completing certain courses during the first semester in the program, or submitting supplementary materials before beginning the program. The student's progress will be monitored throughout the program to ensure that the conditions are maintained. If, at any time in the program, the student does not meet the conditions of the probation, admission can be terminated.

Applicants who are denied admission to a graduate degree, certificate, or licensure program may not take courses in that program area without the written permission of the department chair.

Re-application to School of Education Graduate Programs following Academic Dismissal

Application to any School of Education program will not be accepted for a period of two years from the date of an academic dismissal.

Special Admission Status

Auditing

Some Education courses are available for auditing. Classes taken as audits are not counted as completed academic credit, but they will be reflected on your grade report and on your transcript as “NC” (no credit). Audit classes are excluded from consideration for official IU certification purposes.

If you are not taking any classes for credit, you can register as an audit-only student on or after the first day of classes. You will need to get a Memorandum for Course Audit signed by each course department and return it to Student Central on Union.

For an estimate of tuition expenses for audit-only enrollment, see the Office of the Bursar's Tuition Estimator. Under the Level dropdown, be sure to select "Auditing (no credit)"

Temporary Intercampus Transfer

Students admitted to a program on one campus of Indiana University may be permitted to take courses on other IU campuses through a Temporary Intercampus Transfer. To take courses on another campus for one semester or a summer session, students should contact the graduate studies/student services office for the School of Education on the campus where they have already been admitted to a graduate program. School of Education students on another campus may request temporary intercampus transfer status on Bloomington by completing the Temporary Intercampus Transfer form on the Graduate Student Portal.

Switching Campuses (Permanent Transfer)

Students admitted to a graduate degree or licensure program that is offered on more than one campus may request to permanently transfer to a different campus. Transfer requests will be treated as new applications for admission. Students wishing to switch campuses must submit a new application form. Specific admissions policies and procedures vary by campus. For details about transfer application procedures, students should contact the graduate admissions office of the School of Education on the campus they wish to transfer to.

Counseling and Educational Psychology

What are the emotional, social, developmental, and structural factors that affect learning? How can we design curriculum to support teaching and learning in a particular context? How do different research methodologies affect our research claims and findings?

Students and faculty in counseling and educational psychology study issues such as identity, culture, motivation, well-being, socialization, addiction, psychological interventions, learning, social development, design of learning environments, research designs and strategies, and different methods of data analysis. Faculty and student research interests are broad and include the areas of counseling, counseling psychology, school psychology, family psychology, learning and developmental sciences, and inquiry methodology.

Counseling Course (3 cr.)
Select a counseling course in consultation with the advisory committee. (3 cr.)

Cognate Requirements (9 cr.)
The cognate must have integrity in its own right and must complement the major. The cognate field must demonstrate wholeness within itself and contribute to the student's overall program. Cognates are normally formulated within a single program area. Major area courses may not be used in the cognate. Most students select counseling for their cognate, which provides a foundation for internships in school settings. The cognate should be selected to prepare for internship and professional positions upon graduation.

Elective Requirement (2-12 cr.)
Electives may be taken in fields inside or outside the School of Education. Students may take electives in any area of interest to complement their program of study. Elective courses must be approved by the advisory committee and must be relevant to the field of School Psychology. The electives category may be used to add to the major, research/inquiry, or minor components to bring the total program credits earned to at least 65 hours.

Capstone Project or Comprehensive Examination
Students develop and maintain a Professional Development Portfolio throughout their program. At the end of the second year, the portfolio will be reviewed and evaluated by the advisory committee during an oral examination that includes coverage of coursework, practica, and ethics.

The Ed.S. program is approved by the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP), which provides the graduate with the opportunity to become a Nationally Certified School Psychologist (NCSP). Students are required to take and pass the National School Psychology Examination (Praxis II) as a condition for graduation. This examination is most often taken in June of the second year of study, just before the start of the internship.

Ed.S. Internship

Upon completion of coursework and the oral examination, students are ready to complete an internship. The internship is overseen by a site supervisor and a university-based supervisor. The internship is a minimum of 1200 hours or the equivalent of a full time (nine-month) academic year. Students are expected to complete the internship under conditions established by the internship site. After the internship is completed satisfactorily, graduation occurs. Because the internship timeline is beyond the regular IU academic year, official graduation is most often in June of the third year, and graduates should be able to obtain a license to work in the schools the following year.

Minors are normally formulated within a single program area. However, an interdisciplinary minor is also possible. If courses in the minor are from more than one program area, a written description of the minor's underlying theme must be provided along with a rationale for each course's contribution to that theme. This written description is typically limited to two pages and submitted to the student's Program of Studies Committee. Courses listed in the Major Requirements cannot be used in the minor. However, other major area courses (i.e., G courses) within Counseling Psychology program may be used in the minor, with the approval of the Program Director. A few minors that have been selected by doctoral students in recent years include educational inquiry, human development, sport psychology, public health, organizational behavior, gender studies, and various interdisciplinary studies.

Ph.D. in Inquiry Methodology

Degree Requirements (90 cr.)

The degree requires 75 credit hours completed before 15 dissertation hours. To reach 75 credit hours, the student will exceed the minimum credit requirements identified below. The additional hours will be determined through consultation with the advising committee.

Inquiry methodology students can opt for a qualitative, a quantitative or an integrated focus combining both qualitative and quantitative courses. For the qualitative and quantitative focus, the students must select a reasonable sequence of courses (30 hours minimum) from among the list below or their equivalent in other Indiana University–Bloomington schools or departments. At least 18 hours have to be selected from the area of focus, and at least two courses must be taken in the opposite focus course listing (not to include courses listed as focusing on integrated methodologies. For an integrated focus, students must select at least 12 credit hours in the qualitative focus and 12 credit hours in the quantitative focus.

Minor Requirements (12-18 cr.)
The minor must have integrity in its own right and must complement the major. The minor field must demonstrate wholeness within itself and contribute to the student’s overall doctoral program. Minors are normally formulated within a single program area. However, an interdisciplinary or individualized minor is also possible. Interdisciplinary or individualized minors require a written description of the minor’s underlying theme along with a rationale for each course’s contribution to that theme through the Minor Justification form. This form should be submitted and approved by the Graduate Studies Office prior to enrolling in the minor courses.

Students will select a minor field of study to complement their study of inquiry methodology. Because inquiry methodology interfaces with substantive areas of study it is important for students in inquiry methodology to develop understandings in at least one such area so that they grasp the complexity of methodology in use. The minor serves to develop students' substantive area of interest. Major area courses (those within the Inquiry Methodology program) may not be used in the minor.

Elective Requirements (6 cr.)

Educational research is multidisciplinary, and students have a broad range of research interests and career plans which requires flexibility for their programs of studies. The program, therefore, enables students to tailor their electives in consultation with their Advisory Committees. Electives may be taken in fields inside or outside the School of Education.

Early Inquiry Experience

To satisfy the program requirements, the student must carry out an independent research project as an early inquiry experience. The resulting research report must be read and approved by the major members of the program of studies committee. This project must be completed before advancing to candidacy and is expected to be completed in the first three years. A master’s thesis can be considered but must meet the same approval process.

Minors are normally formulated within a single program area. However, an interdisciplinary or individualized minor is possible. Interdisciplinary or individualized minors require a written description of the minor's underlying theme along with a rationale for each course's contribution to that theme through the Minor Justification eDoc.

Most students select counseling for their minor, which provides a foundation for advanced practica and internships in clinical or school settings. Some students complete a second minor, most often in inquiry or special education. The minor should be carefully selected to prepare for internship and professional positions upon graduation.

Elective Requirement (0-6 cr.)

Early Inquiry Experience Requirement
To satisfy the program requirements, the student must carry out an independent research project as an early inquiry experience. The resulting research manuscript, written in APA style, must be approved by the student’s advisor and be submitted to a journal for publication consideration. Documentation that the manuscript was successfully submitted and forwarded for peer review by the journal’s editorial review board is required. The early inquiry study must be completed before advancing to candidacy and is expected to be completed by the third year of study.

Practicum and Internship Requirements
Practicum is required every semester. In the second year, students are required to enroll in the academic intervention practicum for one semester, and the behavioral intervention practicum for one semester. Doctoral students also enroll in a doctoral supervision class/practicum in the third year. All students take elective practica in the third and fourth years in their areas. A one-year, full-time internship is required, which typically is completed in the fifth year. Internships may be ten months in a school setting or 12 months in a clinical or other non-school settings. These hours will be listed in the Major Requirements section.

National School Psychology Examination Requirement
All graduates of the School Psychology doctoral program are required to take and pass the National School Psychology Examination (Praxis II) as a condition for graduation. The credits in the major are chosen in consultation with the student's advisor and program advisory committee and divided into two areas.

Focus (24 cr.)
There is substantial flexibility in the major. Courses from related areas of study may be included in the major specialization if their relevance to the major can be demonstrated and if committee approval can be secured. All courses are subject to approval by the student's doctoral advisory committee.

Inquiry Linkage (3 cr.)
A course with a robust research component (e.g., J705, J650, Q690 or other course approved by the program committee) (3 cr.)

Inquiry Requirements (9 cr.)
Select one course from the following (3 cr.):
- Y520 Strategies for Educational Inquiry (3 cr.)
- Y521 Methodological Approaches to Educational Inquiry (3 cr.)*
  *Although either Y520 or Y521 can meet this requirement, Y521 is highly recommended because it is intended for doctoral students.

An additional minimum of six credits must be selected from those approved as Core Inquiry courses. A list of approved inquiry courses may be found at https://education.indiana.edu/students/graduates/approved-core-inquiry-courses.html.

Minor Requirements (9 cr.)
The minor must have integrity in its own right and must complement the major. The minor field must demonstrate wholeness within itself and contribute to the student's overall doctoral program. Minors are normally formulated within one discipline. However, an interdisciplinary or individualized minor is also possible. Interdisciplinary or individualized minors require a written description of the minor's underlying theme along with a rationale for each course's contribution to that theme through the Minor Justification form. This form should be submitted and approved by the Graduate Studies Office before enrolling in the minor courses. Major area courses may not be used in the minor.

Elective Requirements (6 cr.)
A minimum of 6 elective credits must be taken outside the major and the minor. An additional elective may be selected from within the major, the minor, inquiry, or any broad field of study.

Dissertation Requirements (9 cr.)

• C620 Pro Seminar in Higher Education (3 cr.)
• C654 Higher Education in the United States (3 cr.)
• C664 Higher Education Organization and Administration (3 cr.)
• C750 Topical Seminar: variable titles (3 cr.)
• C750 Topical Seminar: variable titles (3 cr.)

Other Courses in the Major (15 cr.)
Select From:
• C655 Higher Education and Public Policy (3 cr.)
• C656 American Community Colleges (3 cr.)
• C661 Foundations of Institutional Research (3 cr.)
• C670 Problems in Financing Higher Education (3 cr.)
• C678 Capstone in Institutional Research (3 cr.)
• C675 Supervised College Teaching (1-3 cr.)
• C690 Independent Study (1-3 cr.)
• C760 Internship in Administration (1-6 cr.)
• C788 Seminar in Research in Higher Education* (Inquiry Linkage) (3 cr.)

In the early inquiry course, a student carries out an actual research project, including the collection and analysis of data to answer a research question, and the writing of a research manuscript.

A course that the instructor designates as providing an early inquiry experience must meet the following criteria:
1. There must be a written product as a result of the early inquiry experience.
2. The product should be suitable for presentation and/or publication. This can include professional conferences or institutional presentations/publications.
3. The syllabus of a Special Topics course will clearly state the requirements that must be completed to fulfill the early inquiry experience.

In most cases, the student should (a) take a course with an assignment the instructor designates as fulfilling the early inquiry experience (including some Topical Seminars [C750] or the Capstone in Institutional Research [C678]) or (b) fulfill the requirement through Independent Study (C690).

Inquiry Core Requirements (12 cr.)

Core Inquiry Course (3 cr.)
• Y520 Strategies for Educational Inquiry (3 cr.) or Y521 Methodological Approaches to Educational Inquiry (3 cr.) *

Although either Y520 or Y521 can meet this requirement, Y521 is highly recommended because it is intended for doctoral students.

Other Inquiry Courses (9 cr.)
Three additional inquiry courses approved by the Advisory Committee are required. Core Inquiry Courses for the School of Education shall include all Y-prefixed courses offered in the School of Education EXCEPT Y500, Y502, Y590, Y660, Y690, Y795, and Y799. A list of approved inquiry courses may be found at https://education.indiana.edu/students/graduates/approved-core-inquiry-courses.html.

Three of the four required inquiry courses above should be taken prior to the qualifying exam.

Minor Requirements (12 cr.)

Course work should focus on the research and scholarship of an academic discipline that provides a useful perspective on the study of higher education. This perspective often influences the topic or methodology used in the dissertation. The minor may be any University Graduate School approved minor outside of the HESA program.

Alternatively, any twelve credits that form a single interdisciplinary minor may be approved by the University Graduate School. For this alternative a faculty member from outside the higher education program (e.g., Sociology, Law, Educational Inquiry, Educational Policy, and Organizational Studies) must be a member of the student’s Advisory Committee. A Minor Justification form must be submitted and approved by the Graduate Studies Office.

Elective or Second Minor Requirements (15 cr.)
Fifteen hours can be used to further study an appropriate field, complete a second minor (minimum of 12 credit hours), or gain other professionally relevant knowledge. Excess hours in other sections may reduce the amount of hours here.

Students are encouraged to enroll in six credit hours that provide a breadth of understanding of higher education as a field of study.

With Advisory Committee approval a student may use courses from other academic areas appropriate to research interests and professional objectives.

Dissertation Requirements (15 cr.)

• C795 Dissertation Proposal Preparation* (3 cr.)
• C799 Doctoral Thesis in Higher Education (12 cr.)
Students are required to design, conduct, and orally defend an original piece of research. Refer to the Graduate Bulletin checklist of doctoral program milestones and other program resources for further details.

Additional Program Requirements

Pre-Requisite

Y502 Intermediate Statistics Applied to Education (3 cr.) or its equivalent is required as a pre-requisite for the Ph.D. If the course has not been taken prior to admittance to the program, it may be taken post-admission and be counted among electives.

First Year Review

At the end of the first year (or after 18 credit hours of course work for those not enrolled full time), doctoral students must participate in the First-Year Review process. Instructions for this review can be found on the HESA web site. The advisor will assess performance to date and future program plans. The focus of the review is assessing a student's ability to: 1) clearly articulate thoughts and ideas in an organized manner (written and orally), 2) analyze and synthesize research in order to formulate an opinion or argument, and 3) successfully complete program requirements, including the dissertation.

Fields most likely to be chosen for the minor include sociology, anthropology, economics, philosophy, political science, business, law, history, geographic area studies, and public and environmental affairs. Students are strongly encouraged to take minors outside the School of Education, however, minors may also come from within the School of Education. All minors must have the approval of the advisor. Elective Requirements (6 cr.)

A minimum of 6 semester hours but normally 15 semester hours. The multidisciplinary nature of policy studies and the potentially broad range of students' research interests and career plans imply a need for flexibility in students' programs of studies. Minors are normally formulated within a single program area. However, an interdisciplinary or individualized minor is also possible. Interdisciplinary or individualized minors require a written description of the minor's underlying theme along with a rationale for each course's contribution to that theme through the Minor Justification form. Instructional Systems Technology

We improve human learning and performance in diverse contexts. First established in the 1940s as the Department of Audio-Visual Instruction, the Department of Instructional Systems Technology now takes a holistic look at how to improve teaching and learning for all ages across all segments of society through the study and design of learning environments and strategies.

We believe instructional materials and assessment tools must support the way that people acquire, process, and share information. This philosophy, combined with the deep and varied experiences of our faculty, enables us to give students the best possible preparation for work in the field of instructional systems technology. Here, faculty and students observe and analyze learning environments, evaluate the effectiveness of different strategies for learning, and research which technologies-analog, digital, and conceptual-can make those environments and strategies more powerful.

Policies & Procedures

The following pages provide an overview of the academic policies and procedures that have been developed and approved by faculty to govern and facilitate student academic progress. These policies and procedures exist for all graduate students including master’s degree students, master’s thesis students, education specialist students and doctoral degree students.

Policies Governing All Graduate Programs

Retention in Graduate Programs

Students admitted to graduate degree programs are expected to maintain a high level of scholarship and to make regular and sufficient progress toward program completion.

Maintaining Active Student Status

Students who have matriculated in a graduate program but fail to enroll in program coursework for a period of two academic years are automatically terminated from the program. Students whose admission status is terminated because of a two-year lapse in enrollment may apply for readmission. They must meet current criteria for admission, and, if readmitted, are subject to current program requirements.

Minimum Grade Point Average

Indiana University course grading is on the following four-point scale:

<th>Grade</th>

Students in certificate programs are expected to maintain a GPA of 3.00 or higher in graduate coursework. Master’s students are expected to maintain a GPA of 3.30 or higher in graduate coursework. Specialist and doctoral program students are expected to maintain a GPA of 3.50 or higher in graduate coursework. Graduate students whose program GPA falls below the minimum for their program are subject to probation and dismissal. Additionally, doctoral students may be dismissed for failure to maintain adequate progress toward the degree. For doctoral candidates, this standard is set by the faculty of each program or by the student’s dissertation committee. The student must first be notified of deficient academic progress by being placed on probation for one semester. If the deficiency is not rectified then the student may be dismissed by the School of Education Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. Students may not graduate with GPA’s in their programs coursework below the minimum specified level. Students so dismissed may apply for readmission. Application to any School of Education program will not be accepted for a period of two years from the date of an academic dismissal. They will be readmitted only if there is a substantial reason to expect that their academic performance will improve.

Policy for Assigning Grades

The following grading policy has been adopted for graduate courses in the School of Education:

A = Outstanding achievement. Unusually complete command of the course content; exceptionally high level of scholarship.

A- = Excellent achievement. Very exceptionally high level of scholarship.

B+ = Very good achievement. Thorough command of course content; very high level of scholarship.

B = Good achievement. Solid, acceptable performance.

C+ = Adequate achievement and performance.

C = Not wholly satisfactory achievement. Marginal performance on some aspects of the course requirements. Minimally acceptable performance.
on course assignments. Lowest grade which may be counted in graduate programs.

C- = Unsatisfactory achievement. Inadequate knowledge of course content. (Courses with a grade of C- or lower may not be counted in graduate programs.)

Pass/Fail Grading (P/F)

Pass/Fail grading allows any grade from an A to a D in a course to be recorded as a grade of P on the transcript. A grade of F issued in a P/F course included in the GPA, but the P grade is not averaged in the GPA. Students may not use courses graded Pass/Fail in their degree programs.

Satisfactory/Fail Grading (S/F)

Courses graded Satisfactory/Fail (S/F) are not the same as courses graded Pass/Fail (P/F). S/F grading is applied to all students in a class. Only a few graduate courses, including some workshop courses and thesis courses, are eligible for S/F grading. A grade of F in an S/F course is included in the GPA, but a grade of S is not averaged into the GPA.

In order to count a course graded S/F towards a graduate degree program a memo is be required from the instructor showing that a grade of B or higher would have been issued to the student for the course. Without this memo the course will not be counted toward a degree program.

Incomplete Course Work (I)

A grade of Incomplete may be assigned when, at the end of the term, a student has not completed all coursework. This grade may be given only when the completed work is of passing quality.

Unfinished coursework must be completed within one calendar year from the date the grade of I is assigned. The course must ordinarily be completed with the original course instructor. The instructor then completes an e-Grade Change to remove the incomplete and assigns a letter grade. Incomplete grades that are not removed within one year are changed to a grade of F. This change occurs automatically unless the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies receives and approves a petition for extension from the course instructor.

Accumulation of Incomplete Courses

Graduate students with 9 or more credit hours of incomplete (I or R grade) courses (excluding dissertation credits) may not be allowed to register in additional courses.

Deferred Grade (R)

An R, indicating that the grade has been deferred, may be assigned in thesis and dissertation courses, internship courses, and a few other selected courses where work is expected to take longer than one year to complete. Unlike a grade of I, a grade of R does not automatically change to an F.

Withdrawal from Courses (W and WF)

Withdrawal from enrollment in a course during the drop/add period (in the first week of each term) is not recorded on a student’s transcript. Withdrawal after this time is recorded as a W on the student's transcript. During the first quarter of each term, students may withdraw without instructor consent. After this date, instructor approval is required. If a student is failing at the time of withdrawal, or simply discontinues attending the class, a grade of WF (withdrawal with failure) is assigned. This is treated as an F in grade point averaging. Near the end of the term withdrawal is not allowed at all, except in cases where a student is withdrawing from all classes. See the Schedule of Classes at http://enrollmentbulletin.indiana.edu/pages/index.php for pertinent dates.

Courses Counted in Graduate Programs

Courses at the 500 level and above are designated as graduate courses at Indiana University. Beginning master's courses are at the 500 level; advanced master's and beginning doctoral courses are at the 600 level; and advanced doctoral courses are at the 700 level. Some 300- and 400-level courses in the College of Arts and Sciences are also approved for graduate credit. These are listed in the University Graduate School Bulletin.

Courses counted toward the requirements for one advance degree or certificate may not be counted toward requirements for another at the same level with the exception of the master's degree where up to 6 credits may be applied from a previous master's degree if the coursework is relevant and approved by the advisor.

Not all courses listed in this bulletin are offered every year. Inquiries concerning the availability or suitability of a particular course should be directed to the appropriate departmental chairperson.

Correspondence courses and activity courses may not be used in graduate programs. (Activity courses are courses for learning and practicing a nonprofessional skill, such as a sports activity or playing a musical instrument.)

Students in Residential Programs Taking Online Courses

Students in residential programs may take online courses, but on campus courses must account for at least half of their coursework. Online courses do not count towards the residency requirement. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Students in Online Programs Taking Courses on Campus

Students in online programs are allowed to take on campus courses. However, students doing this can be subject to not only higher tuition rates but also additional on campus fees. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Using Graduate Coursework in Two Programs

Coursework applied toward a master's degree may also be applied to a specialist or doctoral degree (with the exception of the Master's degree required for admission toward the 60 credit hour post-master's Ed.D. program), and coursework applied toward a specialist degree may also be applied to a doctoral degree, providing such coursework is relevant to the requirements of the more advanced degree and that it is less than seven years old or is revalidated. This does not apply when degrees are earned in the opposite direction. If coursework is applied to a completed, more advanced degree, then it may not be counted afterward to a lesser degree. Students seeking to earn a second master's degree may apply 6 credit hours of relevant coursework from the first conferred master's degree to the second master's degree. The number of credits applied from one degree to another may not exceed the limits of allowable credits transferred into that degree, even if the credits were earned at Indiana University. In all cases, a program advisor and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies must approve the use of such coursework.

Certificate and Licensure Students Applying for a Master's Degree

Students in certificate and licensure programs who wish to seek a master's degree must go through the standard process for admission to graduate study. Furthermore, in order to be accepted into any of the School of Education's specialization areas in which a master's degree may be earned, students must be admitted to a master's degree program in one of these specialization areas in the semester prior to the semester in which they intend to graduate and they must be officially registered in the semester in which they graduate.

Credit hours earned by a licensure student who has been admitted to a master's degree program may or may not be counted in the student's master's program. The Department Chair or program head and the Associate Dean of Graduate Studies must approve the inclusion of courses taken while the student was earning credits toward licensure but was not admitted to a master's degree program. A licensure student who has been admitted to a master's degree program may use a maximum of 15 credits taken while the student was working on licensure but was not admitted to the master's degree program toward the master's degree.

Undergraduate Students in Graduate Courses

There are two conditions under which undergraduate students may enroll in graduate courses: (1) students in their junior or senior year may take graduate courses which will count toward their undergraduate degree if the graduate courses are relevant to their program of study and there is no similar undergraduate course available; (2) students in their last undergraduate semester may take graduate courses which may later be applied to a graduate degree. Graduate courses taken prior to the last semester may, ordinarily, not be applied to a graduate program, and no course may be applied to both an undergraduate and a graduate program. Students who meet either of these conditions must, in addition, have an undergraduate GPA of 3.00 or higher (exceptions are made in majors where grading is especially stringent). The student must also complete the Verification Coursework was not Applied to a Bachelor's Degree Form, which requires advisor approval in addition to the signatures of the undergraduate recorder from the applicable program, and of the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies.

Semester Load

Full-time graduate students typically enroll in 9 to 15 credit hours per semester. Specialist and doctoral students should normally carry no more than 12 credit hours per semester. The maximum allowable course load for graduate students is 16 credit hours in any semester. The maximum load for summer sessions is 16 credit hours.

Graduate students holding appointments such as associate instructor, graduate assistant, and research assistant for 15 hours per week (.375 full time equivalency) or more must be registered for 6 credit hours during each semester (no registration is required during summer sessions). Fellowship holders must enroll in a minimum of 6-8 credit hours per semester. International students should check with the Office of International Services concerning required credit hours to meet visa requirements.

Additional policies apply. Please refer to the degree sections (Certificate, Masters, Ed.S., Ed.D., or Ph.D.).

Certificate Policies

General Requirements for Certificate Programs

A graduate certificate program requires a minimum of 9 credit hours. As there is no "general" certificate program in education, requirements vary between programs. Students must go through the standard process for admission for a certificate and be admitted before the semester starts. Certificates that share coursework with higher degrees must be awarded before or at the same time as the higher degree.

Faculty Advisor

An advisor from the major program area must be selected by the student or assigned by the department. Students should check with the department office for information about the assignment of faculty advisors.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS)

For the certificate program there is a program outline form used for planning the specific courses included in a student's electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS). It must be developed with a faculty advisor, then be approved by the Department Chair and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) must be submitted before all coursework for the certificate is completed. If any courses listed on the electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) were not taken at Indiana University, a Request for Transfer of Graduate Credit must be submitted concurrently. The electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

Transfer Courses

Up to 6 credit hours of graduate coursework completed at other universities may be transferred into certificate programs that require at least 12 hours, and a maximum of 4 hours may be transferred in for 9-hour certificate programs. All coursework transferred must be from an accredited college or university. No transfer credit will be given for a course with a grade lower than B. Courses graded P (Pass) may not ordinarily be transferred into education graduate programs. Courses graded S (Satisfactory) may be transferred only if a letter is received from the course instructor stating that the student's performance in the course was at or above a grade of B.

All transferred courses must be relevant to the student's Plan of Studies. They must be approved by a program advisor and by the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An official transcript showing the courses to be transferred and the grades awarded for them is required for coursework to be transferred. A course description or syllabus may be required in order to judge the appropriateness of coursework to be transferred.

Certificate students must complete a minimum of 6 - 15 credit hours of coursework at Indiana University. Beyond this, graduate coursework may be transferred from other universities. At least half of the hours must be taken on the campus awarding the certificate.

Course Revalidation

Revalidation is a process whereby a student demonstrates current knowledge of course material that was not taken recently. For all graduate certificate programs, coursework over seven years old must be revalidated. For certificate programs, the seven years is counted back from the date of certificate conferral.

Several methods of revalidating old courses are available:

- Passing an examination specifically covering the material
- Passing a more advanced course in the same area, taken
- Passing an examination specifically covering the course material
- Teaching a comparable course – Attached CV required.
- Scholarly publication which demonstrates knowledge of course content – Attached CV required
- Professional experience in which course content was required, applied, or demonstrated Attached CV required

Forms for course revalidation are available on the School of Education Graduate Student Portal. Courses must be revalidated individually (only one course per form).

The revalidation evidence for each course must be assessed by an Indiana University faculty member who teaches the course being revalidated. The revalidating faculty member must be personally convinced, based upon present evidence, that the student demonstrates current mastery of basic course concepts and principles.

Graduation

Certificate Conferral

Certificate conferral occurs monthly. An online Application for Graduation form must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office at least one month prior to the degree conferral date. The Graduate Studies Office will send out an e-mail and post these specific dates each semester.

Failure to apply for graduation by the deadline may result in the certificate being denied for that graduation period. The application may be filed for the subsequent period, but students should note that this may create issues with the seven-year deadline for completing coursework or for visa status, depending on individual circumstances. The online application to graduate can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

Masters Policies

General Requirements for Master's Programs

A master of science in education program requires a minimum of 36 credit hours. Up to 6 credits may be undergraduate course credits at the 300 and 400 level, however courses counted in a bachelor’s degree may not be counted in a master's degree. Also up to 6 credits may be applied from a previous master's degree if the coursework is relevant and approved by the advisor. As there is no “general” master's program in education, requirements vary between programs. The minimum number of credit hours in a major area of specialization ranges from 12 to 30. Several programs have additional course requirements in areas such as research and foundations as well.

A minimum of 6 credit hours must be taken outside of the major program area for all master's programs. Master's degree students must complete all program coursework within seven years of matriculating in the program.

Faculty Advisor

An advisor from the major program area must be selected by the student or assigned by the department. Students should check with the department office for information about the assignment of faculty advisors.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS)

The electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) is a coursework plan to fulfill program requirements. It must be developed with the faculty advisor, then be approved by the Department Chair, and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) should be submitted within one year of matriculation. Failure to do so can result in a hold on enrollment. If any courses listed on the electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) were not taken at Indiana University, a Request for Transfer of Graduate Credit must be submitted concurrently. Links to the electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) as well as other forms can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

Students in Residential Programs Taking Online Courses

Students in residential programs may take online courses, but on campus courses must account for at least half of their coursework. Online courses don't count towards the residency requirement. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Students in Online Programs Taking Courses on Campus

Students in online programs are allowed to take on-campus courses. However, students doing this can be subject to not only higher tuition rates but also additional on-campus fees. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Master's Thesis

A master's thesis is an option in some program areas. Carrying out master's thesis research and writing a master's thesis are particularly valuable experiences for students who seek a scholarly career. Students who choose to write a master's thesis should incorporate appropriate research coursework in their electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS).

Students who opt to complete a master's thesis must enroll in 3-6 credit hours of 599 Master's Thesis as part of the minimum 36 credit hour requirement for the degree. A master's research committee must be appointed. This committee consists of two or three faculty members.
The thesis director must be from the major area of specialization. If the proposed research involves the use of human subjects, a research review form for the use of human subjects must be completed. The thesis study must include gathering information or data to answer a research question pertinent to the area of specialization of the student’s major. A thesis manuscript must be written and submitted to the research committee.

The thesis manuscript must explain all aspects of the study, including the question posed, the rationale for the study, a literature review, the method and procedure for collecting information to answer the question, procedure for data reduction, synthesis and analysis, conclusions of the study, and educational implications.

A public thesis defense is required. The announcement of the defense must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office, at least four weeks prior to the defense date for dissemination to school faculty. The committee members assess the quality of the manuscript and of the thesis defense. The committee must approve the thesis in order for a passing grade to be awarded in the thesis credits.

Forms for the appointment of a thesis committee, the acceptance of the thesis proposal, the thesis defense announcement, as well as information about the formatting and submission of the thesis manuscript, are available online at the School of Education Graduate Student Portal.

Workshops

Workshop courses are intended primarily as a mechanism for the professional development of teachers and other education professionals. The topics covered and the skills learned in workshop courses are generally of an applied nature intended to give participants hands-on experience with models and techniques directly useful in school settings. Workshop courses are typically scheduled to meet on a concentrated schedule (e.g., for one or a few continuous days, sometimes all day) and afford little or no time between class sessions for studying or for out-of-class assignments. They may or may not generate credit hours. Workshop courses carrying graduate credit require a minimum of 700 contact minutes per credit hour and require readings and papers or projects for each credit hour earned. (Papers are sometimes scheduled with a due date after the end of the workshop period.)

Up to 9 hours of credit gained through workshop courses (including conference and institute courses) may be used in master’s programs. If both undergraduate and workshop courses are to be used in a master’s program, the total of undergraduate credit hours and workshop credit hours may not exceed 9.

Transfer Courses

Some graduate coursework completed at other universities may be transferred into degree programs at Indiana University. All coursework transferred must be from an accredited college or university. No transfer credit will be given for a course with a grade lower than B. Courses graded P (Pass) may not ordinarily be transferred into education graduate programs. Courses graded S (Satisfactory) may be transferred only if a letter is received from the course instructor stating that the student’s performance in the course was at or above a grade of B.

All transferred courses must be relevant to the student’s electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS). They must be approved by a program advisor and by the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An official transcript is required for coursework to be transferred. A course description or syllabus may be required in order to judge the appropriateness of coursework to be transferred.

The amount of hours that can be transferred in are dependent on the overall hours of the degree.

- 15 hours for a 60 hour degree
- 12 hours for a 48 hour degree
- 10 hours for a 41 hour degree
- 9 hours for 36 hour degree
- 7 hours for a 30 hour degree

At least half of the overall degree hours must be earned on the Bloomington campus.

Course Revalidation

Revalidation is a process whereby a student demonstrates current knowledge of course material that was not taken recently. For all graduate degree programs, coursework over seven years old must be revalidated. For master’s programs, the seven years is counted back from the date of degree conferral.

Several methods of revalidating old courses are available:

- Passing an examination specifically covering the material taught in the course (such as a course final examination).
- Passing a more advanced course in the same subject area, taken more recently (within the seven years).
- Passing a comprehensive examination (e.g., a doctoral qualifying examination) in which the student demonstrates substantial knowledge of the content of the course.
- Teaching a comparable course.
- Publishing scholarly research that demonstrates substantial knowledge of the course content and understanding of fundamental principles taught in the course.

Presenting evidence of extensive professional experience that requires the application of material taught in the course.

Forms for course revalidation are available on the School of Education’s Graduate Student Portal. Courses must be revalidated individually (only one course per form). A Curriculum Vitae is required when revalidating coursework through professional experience, publications, and teaching.

The revalidation evidence for each course must be assessed by an Indiana University faculty member who teaches the course being revalidated. The revalidating faculty member must be personally convinced, based upon present evidence, that the student has current mastery of basic course concepts and principles.

If the course instructor is not available, a faculty member in the same program specialization area may be substituted. Permission to use a part-time faculty member or a faculty member at another university for course revalidation must be secured from the Associate Dean of Graduate Studies.

Departments have the right to limit the amount of old coursework to be included in graduate programs.

Graduation

Degree Conferral

Degree conferral for Master’s degrees occurs monthly. An online Application for Graduation form must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office at least one month prior to the degree conferral date. In order for a name to be listed in the Commencement program, students must apply much earlier. The Graduate Studies Office will send out an e-mail and post these specific dates each semester. Generally, applications must be submitted by the dates listed below, however dates are subject to change year to year.

- Late September for December Commencement
- Late February for May Commencement

Failure to apply for graduation by the deadline may result in your degree being denied for that graduation period. The online application to graduate can be found in the Graduate Student Portal.

Commencement

There are two Commencement ceremonies per year: May and December. May commencement is intended for students graduating January through August, and December commencement for students graduating September through December. Procedures for participating in Commencement may be obtained online at http://www.commencement.iu.edu. Information will be mailed by the IU Alumni Association to those who applied on time to graduate.

Additional policies apply. Please refer to the "Policies Governing All Graduate Programs" section of this bulletin for more information.

Ed.S. Policies

An Ed.S. program consists of a minimum 65 credit hours, at least 35 of which must be taken on the campus awarding the degree.

The remaining credit hours may be from other campuses of Indiana University or transferred from other accredited colleges. A residency period of 9 credit hours taken in one semester or summer, following admission, is required. Specialist degree students must complete all degree requirements within seven years of the date of matriculating after admission. Students who fail to meet this time limit may be terminated from the program. Such students may apply for readmission to the program. They are subject to current admission and program requirements. See the section titled Policies Governing All Graduate Programs for regulations governing all graduate programs in the School of Education, including course revalidation, residency, and GPA requirements.

A form for the appointment of the advisory committee and electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) is available on the Graduate Student Portal. The completed electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) must be submitted within one year of matriculation in the program. Failure to do so can result in a hold on enrollment.

Advisory Committee

Each student admitted to an Ed.S. program must form an advisory committee to assist in program formation and to monitor program progress. This committee must consist of two faculty members from the specialization area and one from the cognate area. A regular faculty member from the specialization area serves as chair. At least two members of the committee must be regular faculty members. The third may be a part-time or adjunct faculty member. The committee must be approved by the Department Chair and by the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS)

The electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) is a coursework plan to fulfill program requirements. It must be developed with the faculty advisory committee, then be approved by the Department Chair and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) should be submitted within one year of matriculation. If any courses listed on the electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) were not taken at Indiana University, a Request for Transfer of Graduate Credit must be submitted concurrently. Links to the electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) as well as other forms can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

All Ed.S. programs must include appropriate coursework in the following categories:

Major (24 cr.)

This is the area of specialization. Eighteen (18) of these credit hours must be taken on the campus awarding the degree.

Cognate (9 cr. minimum)

The cognate area should complement the major, and should consist of courses that in combination form a cohesive entity. The cognate courses must be outside of the major area of study and may be from within or outside the School of Education. The cognate committee member must approve the selection of courses in this category.

Research/Inquiry (6 cr.)

A list of approved inquiry courses is available on the School of Education’s Graduate Student Portal.

Electives

Electives taken must bring the total to at least the minimum required credit hours for the degree and be approved by the advisory committee. They must be relevant to the program. The electives category may be used to add to the major, research/inquiry, or minor components.

Capstone Project or Comprehensive Examination

A substantial project or a comprehensive examination constitutes the culmination of the Ed.S. program. A project normally requires a written manuscript describing the project. Projects vary from program to program.

Practical Experience
Ed.S. students must have demonstrated successful practical experience in order to be eligible for graduation. This experience may be in the form of work experience prior to or during the program, or it may be accomplished through practicum and internship courses taken during the program.

Final Meeting and Nomination to Award Degree of Specialist in Education

A final meeting of the advisory committee is required, at which the student's entire program, including the project manuscript or comprehensive examination results, are reviewed. If the committee is satisfied that all program requirements have been successfully completed, the Nomination to Award Degree of Specialist in Education can be signed and submitted prior to the student applying for graduation. The Nomination to Award Degree of Specialist in Education form can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

Workshops

Workshop courses are intended primarily as a mechanism for the professional development of teachers and other education professionals. The topics covered and the skills learned in workshop courses are generally of an applied nature, intended to give participants hands-on experience with models and techniques directly useful in school settings. Workshop courses are typically scheduled to meet on a concentrated schedule (e.g., for one or a few continuous days, sometimes all day) and afford little or no time between class sessions for studying or for out-of-class assignments. They may or may not generate credit hours. Workshop courses carrying graduate credit require a minimum of 700 contact minutes per credit hour and require readings and papers or projects for each credit hour earned. (Papers are sometimes scheduled with a due date after the end of the workshop period.)

Up to 9 hours of credit gained through workshop courses (including conference and institute courses) may be used in specialist programs.

Residency

The purpose of a residency requirement in graduate programs is for students to become closely involved in the academic life of their program and of the university; to become fully immersed in their graduate study for a substantial period of time; and to develop a relationship of scholarly and professional collegiality with faculty and fellow students. To this end, it is advantageous for students in graduate programs to be full-time, residential students for a significant period. During their residency period, students are expected not only to take courses, but to participate in other aspects of the intellectual life of their discipline and of the university community. There are numerous opportunities to attend presentations, colloquia, conferences, and brown-bag lunches in which they are invited to participate in discussions about both theoretical and practical issues in their discipline. Participation in national and regional professional meetings, including the presentation of scholarly papers, is encouraged during this time.

Ed.S. students must fulfill residency requirements by completing 9 credit hours in one semester or summer after admission to the program.
Advisory and Research Committee submit an electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS).

During the first semester each doctoral student will be advised by the program head or Department Chair, or will be assigned a temporary faculty advisor. Before the end of the third semester in the program, each student must submit an electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS).

Degree Conferral

Degree conferral for Ed.S. students occurs monthly. An online Application for Graduation form must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office at least one month prior to the degree conferral date. In order for a name to be listed in the Commencement program, students must apply much earlier. The Graduate Studies Office will send out an e-mail and post these specific dates each semester. Generally, applications must be submitted by the timeframes listed below, however exact dates are subject to change year to year.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS)

The e-POS is a coursework plan to fulfill program requirements. These requirements fall into several component categories. The student and the Committee Chair are responsible for planning and creating the e-POS. The e-POS must then be approved by the Department Chair and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. If any courses listed on the e-POS were not taken at Indiana University, a Request for Transfer of Graduate Credit must be submitted concurrently for approval. An e-POS should be submitted within one year of matriculation. Failure to do so can result in a hold on enrollment.

Annual Review

Faculty will formally review their doctoral students’ progress annually, with results reported to the Graduate Studies Office. As part of this review, students will write a self-assessment of their progress, and faculty will provide brief, written feedback. Failure of students to submit their self-assessment will result in a hold being put on their registration.

60 Hour Program

For the 60 credit hour program, a master's degree is a prerequisite for admission. Master's coursework may not be counted toward the 60 required credit hours, but graduate coursework beyond the master's degree may be, as long as it meets requirements. In this program, 42 credit hours must be taken on the campus where the degree is awarded. At present, the 60 credit hour program is only available in Curriculum and Instruction, Educational Leadership, Higher Education, Instructional Systems Technology and Literacy, Culture, and Language Education.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) Components

Major

The major must consist of a minimum of 27 credit hours, of which 3 credit hours are to be in an inquiry linkage course. Courses from related areas of study may be included in the major component if their relevance to the major can be demonstrated and committee approval can be secured. Early inquiry experience courses may be required by the program.

Inquiry Core

Inquiry Core courses are to lay a rudimentary methodological foundation for applied inquiry courses in the major, and for dissertation research. This component requires a minimum of 9 credit hours of inquiry core coursework. The Inquiry Core includes a survey course in research methodologies (e.g., Y520) and beginning courses in statistics, measurement, program evaluation, or in ethnographic, qualitative, quantitative, and historical research methods. A list of approved Inquiry Core courses is available at the School of Education Graduate Student Portal website. Substitutions or transfer courses for this section must be approved by a member of the Inquiry Methodology faculty as well as your Committee Chair.

Additional Coursework

Programs require up to 15 credit hours of additional coursework to reach a total of 51 pre-dissertation hours. Students should see program-specific requirements in the Bulletin. If a program requires a minor, it will consist of a minimum of 9 credit hours of coursework taken in an area of studies outside of the major. The minor must complement the major and have integrity in its own right. The committee member representing the minor field must approve the selection of courses in the minor area. 9-hour Ed.D. minors are listed in the School of Education Bulletin. Any minor not listed with a 9-hour version in the School of Education Bulletin must be submitted as an individualized minor. Ed.D. minors not officially listed in the School of Education Bulletin will show as individualized on the transcript.

Dissertation

The dissertation requires 3 credit hours of 795 and 6 credit hours of 799. The focus of the dissertation is on data collection and analysis for the purpose of answering practical questions and developing possible solutions in the field. Descriptive research, program evaluation, needs assessment, case study, campus audit, and survey research are examples of the kinds of research studies expected.

90 Hour Program

For the 90 credit hour program, credit hours earned in master's or specialist degree programs may be included in the doctoral program as long as they are relevant to the student's doctoral areas of focus. 60 credit hours (including 12 dissertation credit hours) in the 90 credit hour program must be taken at Indiana University.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) Components

Major

A major consisting of a minimum of 36 credit hours of coursework in the selected field of specialization is required. Courses from related areas of study may be included in the major component if their relevance to the major can be demonstrated and committee approval can be secured.

In addition to the inquiry core coursework, 6 credit hours of inquiry coursework are required in the major. One of these inquiry courses must be an early inquiry experience, during which a student carries out a research project, including the collection and analysis of data to answer a research question, and the writing of a research manuscript. This research is to be prior to the dissertation and not a direct part of the dissertation research. The early inquiry experience may be implemented through an independent study course (e.g., a 590 course), through a master's thesis (e.g. 599 course), or through a departmental research seminar. Each student must carry out an independent research project. The research manuscript that results from this study must be read and approved by the student's committee.

The second of the two major area inquiry courses is an inquiry linkage course. This is a course in which research relevant to the major field of specialization is studied. Such study, however, focuses more on the research design and methodology of research in the major area than on the findings of the research. Analyzing and critiquing the research methodology are of primary importance in this experience. Each department has a research seminar or a specialized research methodology course for this purpose. The inquiry core courses normally should be completed prior to taking inquiry courses in the major.

Inquiry Core

Inquiry Core courses are to lay a rudimentary methodological foundation for applied inquiry courses in the major, and for dissertation research. This component requires a minimum of 9 credit hours, however many doctoral programs in the school require 12 or 15 credit hours of Inquiry Core coursework. The Inquiry Core includes a survey course in research methodologies (e.g. Y520) and beginning courses in statistics, measurement, program evaluation, or in ethnographic, qualitative, quantitative, and historical research methods. A list of approved Inquiry Core courses is available at the School of Education Graduate Student Portal website. Substitutions or transfer courses for this section must be approved by a member of the Inquiry Methodology faculty as well as your Committee Chair. Inquiry Core courses may be used toward the doctoral program requirement of 15 credit hours outside of the major program area.

Programs require up to 30 credit hours of additional coursework to reach a total of 75 pre-dissertation credit hours. Students should see program-specific requirements in the Bulletin. If a program requires a minor, it will consist of a minimum of 12 credit hours of coursework taken in an area of studies outside of the major. The minor must complement the major and have integrity in its own right. The committee member representing the minor field must approve the selection of courses in the minor area. Students may minor in any area of study inside or outside of the School of Education that is listed in the University Graduate School Bulletin. An interdisciplinary or individualized minor is also possible.

Dissertation

The dissertation requires 3 credit hours of 795 and 12 credit hours of 799. The focus of the dissertation is on data collection and analysis for the purpose of answering practical questions and developing possible solutions in the field. Descriptive research, program evaluation, needs assessment, case study, campus audit, and survey research are examples of the kinds of research studies expected.

Shared Policies for 60 and 90 Hour Programs

Workshops

Workshop courses are intended primarily as a mechanism for the professional development of teachers and other education professionals. The topics covered and the skills learned in workshop courses are generally of a very applied nature, with the intent of giving participants hands-on experience with models and techniques directly useful in school settings. Workshop courses are typically scheduled to meet on a very concentrated schedule (e.g., for one or a few continuous days, sometimes all day) and have little or no time between class sessions for studying or for out-of-class assignments. They may or may not generate credit hours. Workshop courses awarding credit require a minimum of 700 contact minutes per credit hour and require readings and papers or projects for each credit hour earned. (Papers are sometimes scheduled with a due date after the end of the workshop period.)

Up to 9 hours of credit gained through workshop courses (including conference and institute courses) may be used in Ed.D. programs.

Residency

The purpose of residency in graduate programs is for students to become closely involved in the academic life of their program and of the university; to become immersed in their graduate study for a substantial period of time; and to develop a relationship of scholarly and professional collegiality with faculty and fellow students. To this end, it is advantageous for students in graduate programs, especially those in doctoral programs, to be deeply engaged for a significant period. Ed.D. students are expected not only to take courses, but to participate in other aspects of the intellectual life of their discipline and of the university community. Each program offers opportunities for involvement, such as presentations, colloquia, and conferences in which students are invited to participate in discussions about both theoretical and practical issues in their discipline. Students should follow their program-specific residency requirements.

Students in Residential Programs Taking Online Courses

Students in residential programs may take online courses, but on campus courses must account for at least half of their coursework. Online courses do not count towards the residency requirement. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Students in Online Programs Taking Courses on Campus

Students in online programs are allowed to take on campus courses. However, students doing this can be subject to not only higher tuition rates but also additional on campus fees. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Transfer Courses

Some graduate coursework completed at other universities may be transferred into degree programs at Indiana University. All coursework transferred must be from an accredited college or university. No transfer credit will be given for a course with a grade lower than a B. Courses graded P (Pass) may not ordinarily be transferred into education graduate programs. Courses graded S (Satisfactory) may be transferred only if a letter is received from the course instructor stating that the student's performance in the course was at or above a grade of B.

All transferred courses must be relevant to the student's e-POS. They must be approved by a program advisor and by the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An official final transcript reflecting the courses to be transferred is required. A course description or syllabus may also be required in order to judge the appropriateness of coursework.

Students may transfer no more than 30 credit hours into an Indiana University 90-hour doctoral program. No more than 18 credit hours may be transferred into a 60-hour doctoral program. The form required for students to transfer courses is available at the School of Education Graduate Student Portal.

Double Major

Students in a doctoral program may declare a double major. A double major requires students to take all of the required coursework in both majors. No minor is required, and some required courses outside of the major proper may be double-counted (i.e., research courses—including inquiry linkage courses and foundations courses). Please note that the credit hours will not be double-counted. Students must be admitted to each program in which they are intending to major. Double majoring students must include two representatives from each major on their advisory and research committee, and they must take qualifying examinations in both major areas. Only one dissertation is required.

Guidelines for Maintaining Doctoral Progress

Qualifying Examinations

In order to be eligible to take the qualifying examinations a student must have:

- been admitted unconditionally to the doctoral program;
- an appointed doctoral advisory committee and an-POS that has been approved by the Graduate Studies Office;
• completed all or nearly all doctoral coursework, with no more than 6 credit hours graded as incomplete; and
• completed the early inquiry requirement for that doctoral major program.

Prior to beginning a doctoral dissertation, students in the School of Education must pass a qualifying examination in the major area, or areas (for a double major) of study. This examination process is intended to determine if a student is qualified to begin work on a doctoral dissertation.

A minor area qualifying examination may also be required for minors outside the School of Education.

Departments and programs determine the specific form of qualifying examination their students will take and establish the times at which examinations will be administered. Students need to file an application with their major and minor departments in the School of Education to take their qualifying examinations. Such application forms are available in departmental offices.

All qualifying examinations contain written and oral components. The written component will take one of three forms:

A proctored examination: The major area examination is administered in the School of Education in two four-hour sessions on consecutive days. The minor area examination is administered in a four-hour session on a third day. The major and minor examinations may be taken in the same semester or in different semesters.

A take-home examination: Students completing a take-home examination in either their major or minor area should contact the appropriate program or department for examination requirements.

Portfolio: Students work with their doctoral advisory committee to determine the contents of the portfolio and a timeline for its completion. Students taking this form of examination should see their advisors regarding specific requirements for preparation of their portfolios.

Students are not required to register for the semester they are taking qualifying exams. However, continual enrollment is required every fall and spring the semester after passing the qualifying exam until graduation. Summer enrollment is only required if the student is graduating in the summer.

After all portions of the written component of the qualifying examinations are taken, an oral examination must be held. The primary purpose of this examination is for the advisory committee to review the answers to the written qualifying examination questions, to request elaboration or clarification to questions that were poorly or incompletely answered, and to quiz the student in-depth over any or all of the examination material.

Double-Major Examinations

Students with a double-major must take qualifying examinations in both major areas.

Retaking the Exam

Students who fail some or all portions of the qualifying examinations may be allowed to retake these portions. This decision is made by the student's advisory committee and the Department Chair, and is based on the student's overall program performance and the extent of the deficits on the qualifying examinations. Only ONE retake of the qualifying examinations is allowed.

Seven-Year Rule

The date of passing the oral qualifying examination is a critical date. All coursework must be completed within seven years (prior and post) of the examination date. If coursework has been completed more than seven years prior to the examination date, course revalidation is required.

The dissertation must also be completed within seven years of passing the final component of the qualifying examination. After this time, doctoral candidacy is terminated for students who have not completed the dissertation. Such students may apply for readmission, but will be subject to the current admission criteria. If readmitted, students must retake the current qualifying examinations and fulfill other conditions imposed by the department in order to establish currency (such as taking or auditing selected courses). If the qualifying examinations are passed and the other conditions are met, these students are readmitted to candidacy. They have three years from the passing of second qualifying exam date to complete and submit a dissertation.

Revalidation

Revalidation is a process whereby a student demonstrates current knowledge of course material that was not taken within seven years of passing the oral qualifying examination.

Several methods of revalidating old courses are available:

• Passing an examination specifically covering the material taught in the course (such as a course final examination).
• Passing a more advanced course in the same subject area, taken more recently (within the seven years).
• Passing a comprehensive examination (e.g., a doctoral qualifying examination) in which the student demonstrates substantial knowledge of the content of the course.
• Teaching a comparable course.
• Publishing scholarly research that demonstrates substantial knowledge of the course content and understanding of fundamental principles taught in the course.
• Presenting evidence of extensive professional experience that requires the application of material taught in the course.

Forms for course revalidation are available on the School of Education’s Graduate Student Portal. Courses must be revalidated individually (only one course per form). A Curriculum Vitae is required when revalidating coursework through professional experience, publications, and teaching.

The revalidation evidence for each must be assessed by an Indiana University faculty member who teaches the course being revalidated. The revalidating faculty member must be personally convinced, based upon present evidence, that the student has current mastery of basic course concepts and principles.

If the course instructor is not available, a faculty member in the same program specialization area may be substituted. Permission to use a part-time faculty member or a faculty member at another university for course revalidation must be secured from the Associate Dean of Graduate Studies.

Departments have the right to limit the amount of old coursework to be included in graduate programs.

Transfer credit must be transferred before it can be revalidated.

Nomination to Candidacy

It is the responsibility of the advisory committee, either before or during the oral examination, to review all aspects of the student's doctoral program work, to assess the student's development as a scholar and a professional educator, and, if appropriate, to discuss topics for dissertation research and career goals. Thus, the committee is expected to assess the student's progress in the doctoral program, inventory the work remaining, plan program requirements to ensure a good fit to career goals, and offer advice, criticism, and encouragement.

Examination of all major scholarly works produced by the student during their program is also the responsibility of the advisory committee under the guidance of the committee chair. These works include the research manuscript that resulted from the early inquiry experience study, papers presented at conferences or published, and scholarly works produced in courses taught throughout the program. These may include literature reviews, position papers, curriculum development projects, program evaluation studies, measurement instrument construction studies, needs assessments, library research studies, and data-based research.

When the advisory committee is satisfied with the student's performance in the written and oral qualifying examinations and with the student's overall progress in the doctoral program, the student can be nominated to candidacy.

All non-dissertation coursework must be completed and graded at this time.

Students must submit a Nomination to Candidacy form, which may be found on the School of Education's Graduate Student Portal.

Candidacy

Admission to candidacy is approved by the Graduate Studies Office after the student has an approved e-POS, completed all required non-dissertation coursework, and submitted a Nomination to Candidacy form.

Maintaining Active Status

After passing qualifying examinations, doctoral students must register for at least 1 credit hour each semester (not including summer session) in order to maintain active student status. This is ordinarily done by enrolling in 1 or more credit hours of dissertation credit (799). After 90 credit hours of program coursework have been taken and students have been admitted to candidacy (i.e., all but the dissertation hours have been completed and qualifying examinations have been passed), students may enroll in G901 Advanced Research in order to maintain active status. G901 is a 6 credit hour course and is an inexpensive way for students to maintain continual enrollment. However, enrollment in G901 is limited to 6 semesters. Permission from the Graduate Studies Office is required to enroll in G901. The G901 request form can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

Off campus sections of 799 may be available for doctoral students who reside more than 25 miles from the Bloomington campus. Permission should be requested through the department.

Students who fail to register each semester after passing qualifying examinations must back-enroll for all semesters missed, in order to graduate.

Dissertation Proposal

After candidacy students are required to submit a dissertation proposal, a document that is considerably more detailed than the prospectus/summary. The proposal should contain the following elements: a statement of purpose, rationale, literature review, research questions, proposed procedures, the source of data, methods of data collection, methods of data analysis or data reduction, and the contribution of the study to theory and/or to practice. Frequently, students are advised by their advisory and research committee to write a draft of the first three chapters of the dissertation (purpose and rationale, literature review, and method) as their research proposal.

A meeting of the advisory and research committee must be held to discuss and approve the dissertation proposal. A dissertation proposal approval form is available on the Graduate Student Portal. When committee approval has been secured, the form must be submitted to the department who will file it with the Graduate Studies Office. This form must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office before a defense announcement will be approved.

Use of Human Participants

If the proposed research includes the use of human participants or accessing archival data that includes identifiable information of human beings, the School of Education requires verification of review from the Institutional Review Board. A copy of the Institutional Review Board approval must be submitted with the Dissertation Proposal Approval Form after the dissertation proposal meeting.

If the proposed research does not involve the use of human participants or accessing archival data that includes identifiable information of human beings, the School of Education requires verification from the dissertation advisor that Institutional Review Board review is not required (by checking the appropriate box on the Dissertation Proposal Approval Form). Note that human research proposals applicable under the exempt category of IRB review still require IRB approval.

Completing Your Doctoral Program

Dissertation Manuscript

The Ed.D. Dissertation Guide can be found on the Graduate Student Portal. This guide contains detailed instructions for the preparation and submission of the dissertation manuscript.

Dissertation Defense

A Dissertation Defense is scheduled at the completion of the dissertation research, after the dissertation manuscript is complete, allowing the student to defend the dissertation research. Committee members must receive a copy of the dissertation manuscript two weeks prior to the final Defense.

A Defense Announcement must be submitted to the Graduate Recorder in the Graduate Studies Office one month prior to the examination. Formatting instructions are located in the Ed.D. Dissertation Guide.

Following acceptance by the advisory and research committee, the dissertation is submitted to the Graduate Studies Office. Students are expected to submit the final version of the dissertation within six months of the defense date to maintain sufficient academic progress.

Degree Conferral

Ed.D degrees are awarded monthly. An online Application for Graduation must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office at least one month prior to the degree conferral date. In order for a name to be listed in the Commencement program, students must apply much earlier. The Graduate Studies Office will send out an e-mail and post these specific dates each semester. Generally, applications must be submitted by the timeframes listed below, however exact dates are subject to change year to year.

- Late September for December Commencement
- Late February for May Commencement

Failure to apply for graduation by the deadline may result in your degree being denied for that graduation period. The online application to graduate can be found in the Graduate Student Portal.

Commencement

There are two Commencement ceremonies per year: May and December. May commencement is intended for students graduating January through August, and December commencement for students graduating September through December. Procedures for participating in Commencement may be obtained online at http://www.commencement.iu.edu. Information will be mailed by the IU Alumni Association to those who applied on time to graduate.

Additional policies apply. Please refer to the "Policies Governing All Graduate Programs " section of this bulletin for more information.

Ph.D. Policies

Getting Started in Your Doctoral Program

During the first semester each doctoral student will be advised by the program head or Department Chair, or will be assigned a temporary faculty advisor. Before the end of the third semester in the program, each student must submit an electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS).

Advisory Committee

The advisory committee consists of at least three faculty members. Two must be from the major area of study and one from the minor area. The committee chair, who becomes the student's primary advisor, must be a regular faculty member in the major area of specialization. For interdisciplinary minors, the minor representative must be from outside the major. At least two of the faculty members on each doctoral advisory committee must be members of the Graduate Faculty; one may be an adjunct, emeriti, or part-time faculty member.

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS)

The e-POS is a coursework plan to fulfill program requirements. These requirements fall into several component categories. The student and the advisory committee chair are responsible for planning and creating the e-POS. The e-POS must then be approved by the Department Chair and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. If any courses listed on the e-POS were not taken at Indiana University, a Request for Transfer of Graduate Credit must be submitted concurrently for approval. An electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) should be submitted within three semesters of matriculation. Failure to do so can result in a hold on enrollment.

Annual Review

Faculty will formally review their doctoral students’ progress annually, with results reported to the Graduate Studies Office. As part of this review, students will write a self-assessment of their progress, and faculty will provide brief, written feedback. Failure of students to submit their self-assessment will result in a hold being put on their registration.

90 Hour Program

Credit hours earned in a master's degree may be included in the doctoral program as long as they are relevant to the student's doctoral areas of focus. The 90 hours consists of 75 hours of pre-dissertation work, 3 hours of dissertation proposal preparation (795), and 12 dissertation hours (799).

Electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) Components

Major

A major consisting of a minimum of 36 credit hours of coursework in the selected field of specialization is required. Courses from related areas of study may be included in the major component if their relevance to the major can be demonstrated and committee approval can be secured.

In addition to the inquiry core coursework, 6 credit hours of inquiry coursework are required in the major. One of these inquiry courses must be an early inquiry experience, during which a student carries out a research project, including the collection and analysis of data to answer a research question, and the writing of a research manuscript. This research is to be prior to the dissertation and not a direct part of the dissertation research. The early inquiry experience may be implemented through an independent study course (e.g., a 590 course) or through a master's thesis (e.g., 599 course), or through a departmental research seminar. Each student must carry out an independent research project. The research manuscript that results from this study must be read and approved by the student's advisory committee.

The second of the two major area inquiry courses is an inquiry linkage course. This is a course in which research relevant to the major field of specialization is studied. Such study, however, focuses more on the research design and methodology of research in the major area than on the findings of the research. Analyzing and critiquing the research methodology are of primary importance in this experience. Each department has a research seminar or a specialized research methodology course for this purpose. The inquiry core courses normally should be completed prior to taking inquiry courses in the major.

Inquiry Core

Inquiry Core courses are to lay a rudimentary methodological foundation for applied inquiry courses in the major, and for dissertation research. This component requires a minimum of 9 credit hours, however many doctoral programs in the school require 12 or 15 credit hours of Inquiry Core coursework. The Inquiry Core includes a survey course in research methodologies (e.g. Y520) and beginning courses in statistics, measurement, program evaluation, or in ethnographic, qualitative, quantitative, and historical research methods. A list of approved Inquiry Core courses is available at the School of Education Graduate Student Portal website. Substitutions or transfer courses for this section must be approved by a member of the Inquiry Methodology faculty as well as your Advisory Committee Chair.

Minor

The minor requires a minimum of 12 credit hours of coursework taken in an area of studies outside of the major. The minor must complement the major and have integrity in its own right. The committee member representing the minor field must approve the selection of courses in the minor area. Students may minor in any area of study inside or outside of the School of Education that is listed in the University Graduate School Bulletin. An interdisciplinary or individualized minor is also possible.

Electives

The electives category is designed to allow students freedom in course selection. This is also the place to put foundations courses. Each program area has specified courses in foundations, substantive core perspective, or other areas outside the major and minor, which are required for breadth. Courses that may fall into this category are those needed to meet the doctoral program requirement for 27 credit hours outside of the major program area. This ordinarily includes the 12 credit hours of minor coursework, and the 9 or more credit hours of inquiry core courses.

Dissertation

The dissertation requires 3 credit hours of 795 and 12 credit hours of 799. The focus of the dissertation is on data collection and analysis for the purpose of answering practical questions in the field. Descriptive research, program evaluation, needs assessment, case study, campus audit, and survey research are examples of the kinds of research studies expected.

Workshops

Workshop courses are intended primarily as a mechanism for the professional development of teachers and other education professionals. The topics covered and the skills learned in workshop courses are generally of a very applied nature, with the intent of giving participants hands-on experience with models and techniques directly useful in school settings. Workshop courses are typically scheduled to meet on a very concentrated schedule and may or may not generate credit hours.

No workshop credit hours can be applied toward a Ph.D. program.

Residency

The purpose of a residency requirement in graduate programs is for students to become closely involved in the academic life of their program and of the university; to become fully immersed in their graduate study for a substantial period of time; and to develop a relationship of scholarly and professional collegiality with faculty and fellow students. To this end, it is advantageous for students in graduate programs, especially those in doctoral programs, to be full-time, residential students for a significant period. During their residency period, students are expected not only to take courses, but to participate in other aspects of the intellectual life of their discipline and of the university community. Many doctoral students have research assistantships in which they work closely with faculty members and peers on research and development projects. Some have teaching assistantships. There are also numerous opportunities to attend presentations, colloquia, conferences, and brown-bag lunches in which they are invited to participate in discussions about both theoretical and practical issues in their discipline. Participation in national and regional professional meetings, including the presentation of scholarly papers, is encouraged during this time.

For Ph.D. students, two consecutive semesters in a single academic year (exclusive of summer session) must be spent in residence on the campus where the degree is awarded. This residency period must be subsequent to admission to the program. 8 credit hours of program coursework must be completed in each of these semesters. Students holding appointments as associate instructors, graduate assistants, or research assistants must ordinarily be registered for 6 credit hours during each full semester. Dissertation credit hours (795, 799, and G901) may not be used to fulfill residency requirements.

Students in Residential Programs Taking Online Courses

Students in residential programs may take online courses, but on campus courses must account for at least half of their coursework. Online courses do not count towards the residency requirement. Information on tuition and fees can be found on the Bursar website.

Transfer Courses

Some graduate coursework completed at other universities may be transferred into degree programs at Indiana University. All coursework transferred must be from an accredited college or university. No transfer credit will be given for a course with a grade lower than a B. Courses graded P (Pass) may not ordinarily be transferred into education graduate programs. Courses graded S (Satisfactory) may be transferred only if a letter is received from the course instructor stating that the student's performance in the course was at or above a grade of B.

All transferred courses must be relevant to the student's e-POS. They must be approved by a program advisor and by the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. An official final transcript reflecting the courses to be transferred is required. A course description or syllabus may also be required in order to judge the appropriateness of coursework.

Ph.D. students must complete 60 credit hours of coursework at Indiana University (this includes dissertation credits) while enrolled in that doctoral program. Ph.D.
students may transfer no more than 30 credit hours into an IU doctoral program. The form required for students to transfer courses is available on the Graduate Student Portal on the School of Education’s website.

Double Major

Students in a doctoral program may declare a double major. A double major requires students to take all of the required coursework in both majors. No minor is required, and some required courses outside of the major proper may be double-counted (i.e., research courses—including inquiry linkage courses and foundations courses). Please note that the credit hours will not be double-counted.
Students must be admitted to each program in which they are intending to major. Double majoring students must include two representatives from each major on both their advisory and research committees, and they must take qualifying examinations in both major areas. Only one dissertation is required. Special forms are available on the University Graduate School website for the appointment of double major advisory and research committees.

Guidelines for Maintaining Doctoral Progress

Qualifying Examinations

In order to be eligible to take the qualifying examinations a student must have:

- been admitted unconditionally to the doctoral program;
- an appointed doctoral advisory committee and a doctoral electronic Plan of Studies (e-POS) that has been approved by the Graduate Studies Office;
- completed all or nearly all doctoral coursework, with no more than 6 credit hours graded as incomplete; and
- completed the early inquiry requirement for that doctoral major program.

Prior to beginning a doctoral dissertation, students in the School of Education must pass a qualifying examination in the major area, or areas (for a double major) of study. This examination process is intended to determine if a student is qualified to begin work on a doctoral dissertation.

A minor area qualifying examination may also be required for minors outside the School of Education.

Departments and programs determine the specific form of qualifying examination their students will take and establish the times at which examinations will be administered. Students need to file an application with their major and minor departments in the School of Education to take their qualifying examinations. Such application forms are available in departmental offices.

All qualifying examinations contain written and oral components. The written component will take one of three forms:

- A proctored examination: The major area examination is administered in the School of Education in two four-hour sessions on consecutive days. The minor area examination is administered in a four-hour session on a third day. The major and minor examinations may be taken in the same semester or in different semesters.

- A take-home examination: Students completing a take-home examination in either their major or minor area should contact the appropriate program or department for examination requirements.

- Portfolio: Students work with their doctoral advisory committee to determine the contents of the portfolio and a timeline for its completion. Students taking this form of examination should see their advisors regarding specific requirements for preparation of their portfolios.

Students are not required to register for the semester they are taking qualifying exams. However, continual enrollment is required every fall and spring the semester after passing the qualifying exam until graduation.
Summer enrollment is only required if the student is graduating in the summer.

After all portions of the written component of the qualifying examinations are taken, an oral examination must be held. The primary purpose of this examination is for the advisory committee to review the answers to the written qualifying examination questions, to request elaboration or clarification to questions that were poorly or incompletely answered, and to quiz the student in-depth over any or all of the examination material.

Double-Major Examinations

Students with a double-major must take qualifying examinations in both major areas.

Retaking the Exam

Students who fail some or all portions of the qualifying examinations may be allowed to retake these portions.
This decision is made by the student's advisory committee and the Department Chair, and is based on the student's overall program performance and the extent of the deficits on the qualifying examinations. Only one retake of the qualifying examinations is allowed.

Seven-Year Rule

The date of passing the oral qualifying examination is a critical date. All coursework must be completed within seven years (prior and post) of the examination date.
If coursework has been completed more than seven years prior to the examination date, course revalidation is required.

The dissertation must also be completed within seven years of passing the final component of the qualifying examination. After this time, doctoral candidacy is terminated for students who have not completed the dissertation. Such students may apply for readmission, but will be subject to the current admission criteria. If readmitted, students must retake the current qualifying examinations and fulfill other conditions imposed by the department in order to establish currency (such as taking or auditing selected courses). If the qualifying examinations are passed and the other conditions are met, these students are readmitted to candidacy. They have three years from the passing of second qualifying exam date to complete and submit a dissertation.

Revalidation

Revalidation is a process whereby a student demonstrates current knowledge of course material that was not taken within seven years of passing the oral qualifying examination.

Several methods of revalidating old courses are available:

- Passing an examination specifically covering the material taught in the course (such as a course final examination).
- Passing a more advanced course in the same subject area, taken more recently (within the seven years).
- Passing a comprehensive examination (e.g., a doctoral qualifying examination) in which the student demonstrates substantial knowledge of the content of the course. (Only two courses may be revalidated by this method).
- Teaching a comparable course.
- Publishing scholarly research that demonstrates substantial knowledge of the course content and understanding of fundamental principles taught in the course.
- Presenting evidence of extensive professional experience that requires the application of material taught in the course.

E-docs for course revalidation are available in One.IU. Courses must be justified individually even if a common method is used. A Curriculum Vitae is required when revalidating coursework through professional experience, publications, and teaching.

The revalidation evidence for each must be assessed by an Indiana University faculty member who teaches the course being revalidated. The revalidating faculty member must be personally convinced, based upon present evidence, that the student has current mastery of basic course concepts and principles.

If the course instructor is not available, a faculty member in the same program specialization area may be substituted. Permission to use a part-time faculty member or a faculty member at another university for course revalidation must be secured from the Associate Dean of Graduate Studies.

Departments have the right to limit the amount of old coursework to be included in graduate programs.

Transfer credit must be transferred before it can be revalidated.

Nomination to Candidacy

It is the responsibility of the advisory committee, either before or during the oral examination, to review all aspects of the student's doctoral program work, to assess the student's development as a scholar and a professional educator, and, if appropriate, to discuss topics for dissertation research and career goals. Thus, the committee is expected to assess the student's progress in the doctoral program, inventory the work remaining, plan program requirements to ensure a good fit to career goals, and offer criticism, advice, and encouragement.

Examination of all major scholarly works produced by the student during their program is also the responsibility of the advisory committee under the guidance of the committee chair. These works include the research manuscript that resulted from the early inquiry experience study, papers presented at conferences or published, and scholarly works produced in courses taught throughout the program. These may include literature reviews, position papers, curriculum development projects, program evaluation studies, measurement instrument construction studies, needs assessments, library research studies, and data-based research.

When the advisory committee is satisfied with the student's performance in the written and oral qualifying examinations and with the student's overall progress in the doctoral program, the student can be nominated to candidacy.

All non-dissertation coursework must be completed and graded at this time.

Students must submit a Nomination to Candidacy E-doc via One.IU.

Candidacy

Admission to candidacy is approved by the University Graduate School after the student has an approved e-POS, completed all required non-dissertation coursework, and submitted a Nomination to Candidacy e-doc.

Maintaining Active Status

After passing qualifying examinations, doctoral students must register for at least 1 credit hour each semester (not including summer session) in order to maintain active student status. This is ordinarily done by enrolling in 1 or more credit hours of dissertation credit (799). After 90 credit hours of program coursework have been taken and students have been admitted to candidacy (i.e., all but the dissertation hours have been completed and qualifying examinations have been passed), students may enroll in G901 Advanced Research in order to maintain active status. G901 is a 6 credit hour course and is an inexpensive way for students with graduate assistantships to maintain a full load. However, enrollment in G901 is limited to 6 semesters. Permission from the Graduate Studies Office is required to enroll in G901. The G901 request form can be found on the Graduate Student Portal.

Off campus sections of 799 may be available for doctoral students who reside more than 25 miles from the Bloomington campus. Registration should be requested through the department.

Students who fail to register each semester after passing qualifying examinations must back-enroll for all semesters missed, in order to graduate. There is a significant fee per semester, in addition to tuition and fees, for back-enrollment. For current fee please check with the Bursar.
Forming a Research Committee

After admission to candidacy, the student must assemble a research committee. The doctoral research committee has the responsibility to guide the student through the dissertation process and to conduct the final oral defense.

Research committees must have at least four members who are listed on the Graduate Faculty List maintained by the University Graduate School. Two must be associate or full professors in the student's major area of study. The dissertation chair must be an endorsed member of the University Graduate School faculty. The fourth member should be the minor member, however the minor member can be waived if approved by the minor department and the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies. If the minor representative is waived another member outside of the student's major must still be added. They cannot be from the major field of study. One member may be from the faculty of a campus of Indiana University outside the core campus. At least two of the committee members must be tenure-line faculty members. The committee chair must be an endorsed member of the Graduate Faculty.

It is possible to include a committee member who is not an Indiana University faculty member, such as a faculty member at another university, on a doctoral committee. The full committee must still be composed from Indiana University faculty. The outside Indiana University member is in addition to the full committee and is not counted as one of the four required members. To receive approval for such an addition, two conditions must be met:

- the outside Indiana University member must have special expertise not available among University Graduate School faculty, either in the substantive area of the study or in the research methodology, and
- the outside Indiana University member must supply evidence of published research.

The procedure for selecting a research committee chair and research committee members varies considerably from student to student. Ideally, the research question that becomes the focus of the dissertation study stems naturally from research experiences, coursework, or graduate assistantship assignments that the student has had during their program. Often the advisory committee chair is the student's mentor and becomes the research committee chair. In such a case, the student and chair typically have had discussions about tentative dissertation topics prior to admission to candidacy and prior to the selection of other research committee members.

It is not required that the advisory committee chair be asked to chair the research committee, nor that the advisory committee chair agree to chair the research committee, if asked. Ultimately, the choice of a research chair involves a combination of personal compatibility and compatibility of the research interests of the student and the chair. The student and the committee chair typically confer regarding the selection of other research committee members.

An emeritus faculty member may remain on program committees and research committees formed prior to retirement and continue to serve as member, chair, co-chair, or director. An emeritus faculty member may not be appointed as chair of either a advisory committee or a research committee. However, an emeritus faculty member who continues to be actively engaged in research and in their professional field may serve as a member of a program committee, or serve as director, co-chair, or member of a research committee, with the recommendation of the chair of the committee and approval of the department chair. Appeals to this policy based upon extraordinary circumstances should be directed to the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies.

Prospectus/Summary

A one- to two-page dissertation prospectus/summary must be submitted with the Nomination of Research Committee e-doc found in One.IU. This prospectus/summary should include a clear statement of the questions to be addressed in the study, an outline of the design of the study, the research methods to be used, and a discussion of the contribution of the study to theory and/or to practice. The prospectus/summary should play an important role in the selection of a research committee. This document allows prospective members to decide whether to participate in the study, based on the area of focus and the integrity of the prospectus.

Dissertation Proposal

After submitting the prospectus/summary, students are next required to submit a dissertation proposal, a document that is considerably more detailed than the prospectus/summary. The proposal should contain the following elements: a statement of purpose, rationale, literature review, research questions, proposed procedures, the source of data, methods of data collection, methods of data analysis or data reduction, and the contribution of the study to theory and/or to practice. Frequently, students are advised by their research committee to write a draft of the first three chapters of the dissertation (purpose and rationale, literature review, and method) as their research proposal.

A meeting of the research committee must be held to discuss and approve the dissertation proposal. A dissertation proposal approval form is available on the Graduate Student Portal. When committee approval has been secured, the form must be submitted to the department who will file it with the Graduate Studies Office. This form must be submitted to the Graduate Studies Office before a defense announcement will be approved. If the proposed research has changed since submission of the Nomination of Research Committee e-doc, then a new two-page summary must be attached to the Dissertation Proposal Form.

Use of Human Participants

If the proposed research includes the use of human participants or accessing archival data that includes identifiable information of human beings, the School of Education requires verification of review from the Institutional Review Board. A copy of the Institutional Review Board approval must be submitted with either (a) the Nomination of Research Committee e-doc prior to the dissertation proposal meeting or (b) the Dissertation Proposal Approval Form after the dissertation proposal meeting.

If the proposed research does not involve the use of human participants or accessing archival data that includes identifiable information of human beings, the School of Education requires verification from the dissertation advisor that Institutional Review Board review is not required (by checking the appropriate box on the Dissertation Proposal Approval Form). Note that human research proposals applicable under the exempt category of IRB review still require IRB approval.

Completing Your Doctoral Program

Dissertation Manuscript

A Guide to the Preparation of Theses and Dissertations is available through the website for the University Graduate School. This website contains detailed instructions for the preparation and submission of the dissertation manuscript.

Dissertation Defense

A Dissertation Defense is scheduled at the completion of the dissertation research, after the dissertation manuscript is complete, allowing the student to defend the dissertation research. This examination may not be scheduled less than six months subsequent to the date of research committee approval. Committee members must receive a copy of the dissertation manuscript two weeks prior to the final Defense.

A Defense Announcement is available via One.IU. The Defense Announcement must be received by the University Graduate School at least 30 days prior to the defense. Since this document must be approved by both the Graduate Studies Office and committee chair before it reaches the University Graduate School an additional week should be allowed for processing time beyond the 30-day requirement.

Following acceptance by the research committee, the dissertation is submitted to the University Graduate School. Students are expected to submit the final version of the dissertation within six months of the defense date to maintain sufficient academic progress.

Degree Conferral

The Ph.D. degree is conferred by the University Graduate School. Submission of the dissertation defense announcement to the University Graduate School constitutes an application for conferral of the Ph.D. degree. For more information, contact the University Graduate School or visit their website.

Commencement

There are two Commencement ceremonies per year: May and December. May commencement is intended for students graduating January through August, and December commencement for students graduating September through December. Procedures for participating in Commencement may be obtained online at http://www.commencement.iu.edu. Information will be mailed by the IU Alumni Association to those who applied on time to graduate.

Additional policies apply. Please refer to the "Policies Governing All Graduate Programs" section of this bulletin for more information.
