School of Liberal Arts

A liberal arts education begins with the premise that one's world and one's self are at the core of the pursuit of knowledge. It leads to viewing the world from more than one perspective and learning something about its social, cultural, intellectual, and spiritual dimensions. Those different perspectives within the liberal arts encompass two major groups of academic disciplines: the humanities, which explore the history and experience of human culture, and the social sciences, which examine the social and material foundations of human life. Regardless of the perspective, the focus in the liberal arts is on knowledge itself, on both its substance and the tools for pursuing it, on what is known and what is worth knowing. Skills for acquiring and generating knowledge, as well as the preservation of knowledge, are enfolded within the School of Liberal Arts curriculum.

Liberal arts graduates are expected to read and listen effectively and to speak and write clearly and persuasively. They learn how to think critically and creatively. As perceptive analysts of what they read, see, and hear, liberal arts students are expected to be able to reason carefully and correctly and to recognize the legitimacy of intuition when reason and evidence prove insufficient. They learn to use various analytical tools, such as mathematics and statistics, to enable them to undertake quantitative analysis when such a strategy is appropriate.

Furthermore, students in the liberal arts, by developing communication skills in both English and at least one foreign language, equip themselves to communicate with others within their own culture and different cultures. This ability to communicate requires insights into diverse patterns of thought and modes of expression. Such insights allow students to identify universal, as well as unique, aspects of their culture, their community, and themselves.

Students in the liberal arts spend a substantial amount of time studying local and international human communities. Students cultivate an informed sensitivity to global and environmental issues by exploring the range of social, geographic, economic, political, religious, and cultural realities influencing world events.

Liberal arts students do not limit their studies to the here and now. A liberal arts education requires the development of a historical consciousness, so that students can view the present within the context of the past, can appreciate tradition and what the preservation of knowledge implies, and can understand the critical forces that influence the way we think, feel, act, and speak.

In the midst of discussions of theoretical frameworks and appropriate methods of gathering and verifying data, liberal arts students consider social problems such as poverty, pollution, crime, racism, and sexism. Such consideration leads to an even greater appreciation of the dynamics of change and of what different perspectives have to offer.

A quality liberal arts education also includes an appreciation of literature and the arts and the cultivation of the aesthetic judgment that makes possible the enjoyment and comprehension of works of the creative imagination.

The liberal arts curriculum helps students examine ethical perspectives, so that they can formulate and understand their own values, become aware of others' values, and discern the ethical dimensions underlying many of the decisions that they must make. The issues discussed and the individuals and points of view studied help define the citizen as an informed and responsible individual.

This course of study implies that to be educated is to be tolerant, open to others and their ideas, and willing to admit the validity of alternative approaches. Interdisciplinary courses in which students are asked to consider the same subject from varied perspectives enhance that aspect of the liberal arts education.

General knowledge of the liberal arts provides a firm foundation for productive and responsible citizenship. When professional and personal decisions and actions are informed by knowledge, rationality, and compassion, they make the greatest contribution to a better world.

The broad knowledge and course of study described above as characteristic of a good liberal arts education is coupled with an in-depth exploration of at least one particular academic discipline, a major. Liberal arts students acquire a coherent, sophisticated understanding of a major body of knowledge with all its complexities, unique methodologies, power, and limitations. The major provides a foundation for additional academic study or for advancement within a chosen career. But because of the demanding general requirements, a liberal arts course of study protects students from the pitfalls of overspecialization too early in their postsecondary education.

A liberal arts education is an ideal preparation for professional life, encouraging students to pursue subsequent specialization within a framework of intellectual breadth and creativity. More than just training for today's occupations, however, the humanities and social sciences offer students the skills and flexibility they will need as they move on to careers and occupations not yet known or imagined.

All in all, no individual, whether just out of high school or returning to college after being away for decades, can find a better course of study for the present and the future, for the personal and the professional, than one in the School of Liberal Arts.

Who Should Use This Bulletin

The 2004-2006 Bulletin of the School of Liberal Arts presents the degree requirements effective June 1, 2004. Students admitted to the School of Liberal Arts must satisfy degree requirements as described herein. Students accepted to the School of Liberal Arts prior to fall semester 2000 and continuously enrolled since then (excluding summer sessions) either may meet the school's requirements at the time they were initially accepted as a liberal arts major or they may elect the requirements as described below. Students who are not continuously enrolled or who take more than eight years of enrollment to complete their degrees should confer with the dean of student affairs in the school to determine the requirements applicable to their degrees.

Admission and Transfer

All students entering the School of Liberal Arts must be admitted officially to IUPUI as a degree-seeking student by the Office of Admissions or by another Indiana University campus as a degree-seeking student.

After students have been admitted by IUPUI, they must also be admitted by the specific school in which they intend to pursue a degree. The School of Liberal Arts welcomes nontraditional students and recent high school graduates if they wish to pursue a liberal arts degree and meet the school's requirements for admission. Students can be admitted before they have selected a major if their general interests lie in the humanities or social sciences.

Students not eligible for direct admission to the School of Liberal Arts can indicate their interest in a major in the school by dual admission to University College and to a School of Liberal Arts department or program.

Many liberal arts students are transfer students coming from another college or university, another Indiana University campus, or another division of IUPUI. Procedures for transferring into the School of Liberal Arts and special arrangements for transfer students are described below.

Transfer Students

The School of Liberal Arts welcomes transfer students and is committed to making their transition and transfer of credit as smooth as possible. At admission or at any time after being admitted to IUPUI, a student with a minimum grade point average of 2.0 (C) may transfer to the School of Liberal Arts by filing a Change of Record form. Transfer students who have questions about how their previous course work will apply to their degree, or who encounter difficulties in the process of transferring credit or records, should contact the School of Liberal Arts Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976.

Probationary Admission

Individuals interested in transferring to Liberal Arts whose college grade point average is lower than 2.0 (C) may petition the School of Liberal Arts for probationary admission. Special consideration is given to adult learners and students returning after five or more years.

Petitions are available from the School of Liberal Arts Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976. Transfer students from other colleges or universities, should attach a copy of their college transcript. Petitions are reviewed by the School of Liberal Arts Associate Dean and should be submitted by the following deadlines:

To enroll for the fall semester	July 15
To enroll for the spring semester	November 15
To enroll for summer session	April 15

At the discretion of the associate dean, the school will ordinarily admit transfer students whose past performance, experience, or current situation show reasonable potential for successfully completing a degree. Such students are counseled through the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs or their major department and remain on probation until their cumulative grade point average is raised to at least 2.0 (C).

Undergraduate Degree Programs

The School of Liberal Arts offers a four-year Bachelor of Arts degree, a Bachelor of Science in American Sign Language degree, a two-year Associate of Arts degree, and a variety of structured minors and certificate programs for students pursuing Liberal Arts or other degrees. At the heart of the school's programs are the following:

Statement of Goals

Graduates of the School of Liberal Arts should exemplify the ideals of a liberal arts education. They should be broadly educated across the disciplines and well trained in a particular major. They should have: (1) proficiency in reading, writing, and speaking skills; (2) competence in quantitative, language, and analytic skills; (3) a broadly based experience in the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences; and (4) a major area of study. Although faculty and counselors are available to help students acquire these proficiencies and attitudes, learning must be self-motivated. To be taught, one must first be interested in learning. A liberal arts education, therefore, is the responsibility of the individual student.

By graduation, students in the School of Liberal Arts should have developed:

1. appreciation of the personal and public value of knowledge;
2. ability to acquire and use knowledge;
3. awareness of their own values and commitments and an understanding of different values held by others;
4. adequate mastery of the skills of both interpersonal and public communication;
5. concern for and responsiveness to contemporary events, issues, and problems, as seen and interpreted through the perspectives of the humanities and social sciences;
6. qualifications for meaningful employment and ability to master the specific skills required by that employment;
7. appreciation of the cultural significance of science and technology and their impact on our natural and social environment.

Thereby, they become discerning and responsible citizens of this nation and the world.

Bachelor of Arts Requirements

All students admitted to the School of Liberal Arts after June 1, 2004, must fulfill the requirements described below. Students admitted before that date may elect these requirements by informing their advisor and the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs or may obtain their degree under the requirements in effect at the date they were admitted to the School of Liberal Arts.

All students must meet three types of requirements: general-education requirements, distribution requirements, and major requirements. Questions about general-education and distribution requirements can be answered by the School of Liberal Arts Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976. Questions having to do with major requirements should be directed to a faculty advisor or the chairperson of the major department.

General Education Requirements

1. A minimum of 122 credit hours is required for either a B.A. or a B.S. degree in the School of Liberal Arts.
2. A minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0 (C) is required for graduation.
3. A minimum of 30 credit hours must be at the 300-400 level.
4. A minimum of 26 credit hours must be completed after formal admission to the School of Liberal Arts. This requirement may be waived by petitioning the Academic Affairs Committee. Petitions are available in Cavanaugh Hall 401.
5. Students must complete a minimum of 12 credit hours of their major course work in residence in the appropriate department in the School of Liberal Arts. Some departments have more restrictive residency requirements. Students should check with their major advisor.
6. Courses taken using the Pass/Fail option can be applied only as electives or toward the 300- to 400-level requirements (Area III of the distribution requirements for the bachelor's degree). A maximum of eight courses, with no more than two per year, may be taken.
7. With permission from the departmental advisor and the Office of Student Affairs, a maximum of 12 credit hours may be taken by correspondence through the School of Continuing Studies.
8. All candidates for degrees in May and August must file an application for the degree by December 1 of that year. All candidates for December degrees must file an application for the degree by September 1 of that year. Candidates for degrees in December, May, or August may participate in the May commencement.
9. Credit hours from the following courses will not count toward the 122 hours needed for graduation: English E010, W001, G010, G011, G012, and G013; Mathematics M130, M131, M132, M136, and any mathematics course lower than M118; Business C221, C222, and C225.

10. Once a course has been applied toward one requirement, it cannot be used to satisfy a second requirement, except where explicitly stated otherwise. In addition, except in cases of variable title courses, internships, and other special courses, no course will be counted more than once toward graduation.
11. A maximum of 9 credit hours in unapproved electives can be counted toward the degree.

Distribution Requirements

The requirements for SLA's baccalaureate degree programs include the common general-education core approved by the faculties of both the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Science, and is a curriculum based on the IUPUI Principles of Undergraduate Learning.

Candidates for the B.A. and B.S. degrees must complete the following requirements:

Core Course Requirements

A. First-Year Experience (1-3 cr.)

This course introduces students to IUPUI's culture and values; familiarizes them with campus resources, especially academic uses of technology; provides them with skills in dealing with life at IUPUI; and introduces them to an overview of the humanities and the social and natural sciences. Transfer students with 18 or more credit hours are not required to take this course. This course is cross-listed as follows:

School of Liberal Arts: S100

University College: UC110

B. Junior/Senior Integrator (3 cr.)

This course shows how the humanities and social and natural sciences are interrelated and interdependent. Before taking this course, students must complete the following: one course in their major, English W131 and W132, History H114, one science course, one mathematics course (M118 or above), and one course from two of the following areas: humanities, social science, comparative world cultures. Ideally, students should complete one course from each of the three lists before taking the integrator course. This course may be used in Area III.

Lists of approved courses will be available in the Schedule of Classes and in the Office of Student Affairs (Cavanaugh Hall 401).

C. Capstone Experience (1-3 cr.)

The capstone course is generally taken in a student's major as a cumulative integrating experience that addresses the principles of undergraduate learning as well as values and ethics as they relate to a student's major. The capstone may be an independent research project or study, a practicum, or a seminar or field experience building on students' previous work. Special interdisciplinary capstones may also satisfy this requirement. Students should check with their advisors about which courses satisfy this requirement.

Area I. Communications Core (19 cr.)

The courses in the communications core provide work in English and foreign language to help students organize and present their thoughts in an effective manner. Students should enroll in these courses as early in their college careers as possible.

English Composition (6 cr.) Competency in English composition is required. This requirement may be satisfied in the following ways:

1. by completing W131 (or W140) and W132 (or W150) with a grade of C (2.0) or higher; W231 will also be accepted as the second English course;
2. by becoming eligible for the W131 exemption portfolio through the English Placement Exam and receiving special credit for W131 after submitting a portfolio, and completing W132 (or W150) with a grade of C (2.0) or higher; or
3. for transfer students, by completing course work equivalent to W131 (or W140) and W132 (or W150) with a grade of C (2.0) or higher at another campus or institution.

The School of Liberal Arts strongly recommends that students complete English W131 (or W140) during their first semester or as soon afterward as placement test scores and course availability allow. Students should also take W132 as quickly as possible after becoming a liberal arts major.

Note: Special English as a Second Language (ESL) sections of W001 and W131 have been designated for students whose first language is not English.

Speech Communication R110 (3 cr.) Students with previously acquired competency in public speaking may be eligible for special credit and exemption from this requirement; contact the chairperson of the Department of Communication Studies, Cavanaugh Hall 309, (317) 274-0566.

Foreign Languages Requirement First-year competency is required and second-year competency is strongly recommended. Students may earn additional language credit by taking a placement test, and completing an advanced course. This requirement may be satisfied in one of the following ways:

1. by passing first-year (10 credit hours) courses in a single language with passing grades;
2. by completing a second- or third-year course¹;
3. by taking a placement test and placing into the 200 level or higher; this waives the 100-level requirement but does not carry with it credit toward graduation.

This requirement may be met with first-year proficiency in American Sign Language.

Placement Test Students with previous experience in French, German, or Spanish should take the Foreign Language Placement Test at the Testing Center to assess their level of language preparation.

Students who have achieved elementary or intermediate proficiency in any other foreign language should confer with the World Languages and Cultures department for placement in the correct level of that foreign language.

Students who complete the course into which they were placed with a grade of C or higher are eligible for special credit at a reduced fee for the appropriate lower-division course(s) that precede the course taken. Foreign language special credit counts toward graduation and toward the foreign language requirements.

117 Courses Courses numbered 117 are reserved for students who have never studied the language before. Students who have had two or more years of formal study in a language may take a 117-level course in that language as a refresher course before enrolling in a more advanced course, but they must recognize that their work will be graded on a Satisfactory/Fail (S/F) basis. A grade of S is equivalent to a minimum grade of C.

Nonnative Speakers Students for whom English is not a first language may be exempted from the foreign language requirement, without credit, by completion of English W131 and W132 with the required grade of C or higher.

Students whose native language is not English may demonstrate proficiency in their native language and earn 3 to 6 hours of 298/299 special credit by successfully completing an appropriate 300-level course. They may not, however, receive credit for taking first- and second-year courses in their native language.

Area II. Basic Courses

Analytic Skills (6 cr.) These courses provide the student with insight into the process of logical reasoning. Each student must complete 3 credit hours in mathematics (Math M118 or above) plus 3 credit hours in one of the following: mathematics², a statistics course (Economics E270, Geography G488, Psychology B305, Sociology R359, Statistics 301), a computer programming course (N201, N211), a course in logic (Philosophy P162 or P265), Sociology R251, Political Science Y205, or Computer Science N207. A logic or statistics course in a student's major can be applied toward the second requirement.

Computer science and computer technology courses that develop the student's problem-solving ability and promote the understanding and use of logical structures of thought are appropriate for the analytical skills requirement. Computer courses must focus on programming.

Natural Science (9-11 cr.) This area allows for a choice of courses treating the natural phenomena of the world according to models of scientific thought. The credit hours are to be selected from at least two of the following areas, and at least one of the courses must be a laboratory course:

Anthropology A103
Astronomy A100, A105

Biology K101, K103, N100, N107, N200, N212, N213 (lab), N214, N215 (lab), N217, N251, N322
Chemistry C100, C101, C102, C105, C106
Geography G107, G108 (lab), G185, G303, G307
Geology G107, G117 (lab), G109, G119 (lab), G110, G120 (lab), G206 (lab), G115, G132, G180
Physics 100, 152, 200, 218, 219, 251, P201, P202
Psychology B105

Up to 5 credit hours in geography (G107, G108, G303, or G307) may be counted toward this requirement, but they cannot be counted toward the major as well. G108 may be counted as the laboratory component for this requirement.

History (6 cr.) These courses explore patterns and processes of history essential for making decisions in the present and give the background necessary for students to assume their responsibility as citizens. This requirement is fulfilled by taking H114 and either H108* or H113.*

Arts and Humanities (6 cr.) This area presents insights into aesthetics, ideas, and systems of values.

The 6 credit hours must come from TWO OF THE AREAS below. Courses in one's major cannot be used to fulfill this requirement; however, one course taken as part of a minor may be used. Creative writing, drawing, performance, or studio courses will not satisfy the arts and humanities requirement.

American Studies A103
Afro-American Studies: A150*
Classics: C205*
English Literature: L105, L115
Fine Arts: Communication Studies (theater) T130;
English (film) C190; Herron H100, H101, H102;
Music M174
Folklore: F101*
History: H105, H106, H108*, H113*, H217
Philosophy: P110, P120
Religious Studies: R111, R120, R133*, R173, R180, R212*
Women's Studies: W105*
World Languages and Cultures: F200, German G265, Japanese E231

Social Sciences (6 cr.) This area uses procedures and information developed in the social sciences to examine the complexities of societies and human interaction. The 6 credit hours must come from two of the areas following. Courses in one's major cannot be used to fulfill this requirement; however, courses taken as part of a structured minor may be used to fulfill this requirement.

Afro-American Studies: A150*
Anthropology: A104
Communication Studies: C180
Economics: E101, E201, E202
Folklore: F101*
Geography: G110*, G130
History: H117
Language Awareness: G104
Political Science: Y101, Y103, Y213, Y219
Psychology: B104, B310
Public and Environmental Affairs: V170
Sociology: R100, R121
Women's Studies: W105*

² Additional mathematics courses for this requirement must be above M118 and may not include 130, 131, or 132.

* This course appears on more than one list or in more than one section. However, this course may be used to satisfy only one requirement unless specifically stated.

Comparative World Cultures (3 cr.) This area presents culture in a comparative and conceptual manner and includes material from several cultures.

Anthropology: A104
Classics: C205
Geography: G110
History: H108
Political Science: Y217
Religious Studies: R133, R212
World Languages and Cultures: F200

Transfer Credits Students with transfer work from other universities may have some of their work counted toward the distribution requirements even if their courses, when transferred in, were not designated as matching the courses listed previously. The Office of the Associate Dean for Student Affairs and the departments, when appropriate, will determine whether transfer courses satisfy the distribution requirements.

Area III. Advanced Courses (15 cr. at 300-400 level)

Students must complete five advanced courses outside their major. Students not pursuing a minor or a second major/degree can use up to three 300–400-level courses from any liberal arts or science department outside the major, plus two courses from any school. These two courses may come from outside liberal arts and science. If a student has a second major or degree, the student may use four courses at the 300–400 level from his or her secondary program to count for the Area III requirement. A student may use three 300–400-level courses from an approved minor to count toward the Area III requirement. For exceptions to these rules, students must petition the Academic Affairs Committee. The Junior/Senior Integrator course can be used to satisfy one of the Area III requirements.

Major Requirements

The requirements for each major in the School of Liberal Arts are described, along with course descriptions, in the Liberal Arts section of this bulletin entitled “Departments and Programs.” A minimum of 24 credit hours must be taken in the major subject area. Any course in which the student receives a grade below C (2.0) may not be used to fulfill the major area requirement (a C– does not qualify). However, courses in which the student receives below C, but above an F, will count toward the 122 credit hour total provided that the student does not repeat the course.

*This course appears on more than one list or in more than one section. However, this course may be used to satisfy only one requirement unless specifically stated.

These courses may be used for comparative World Cultures and one other requirement if it appears on the Arts and Humanities or the Social Science.

Electives

Candidates for a degree in the School of Liberal Arts must complete their general-education requirements and the requirements of their major department. Of the remaining credit hours, known as electives, up to 9 credit hours of course work may be accepted from any degree-granting university. The remaining electives must come from courses within the School of Liberal Arts, the Herron School of Art, the School of Journalism, the School of Science, or from a list of courses approved by the faculty of the School of Liberal Arts.

If students wish to use courses that do not appear on the list, they must petition the Academic Affairs Committee before taking the course. A current list of approved elective courses is available in Cavanaugh Hall 401.

Second Bachelor's Degree

Normally, holders of bachelor's degrees seeking further education are encouraged to enter graduate programs; in certain cases, however, students may prefer to work toward a second bachelor's degree. If admitted by the dean to candidacy for a second degree, students must earn at least 26 additional credit hours in residence and meet the requirements of the School of Liberal Arts and of the department in which they are candidates.

Minors and Certificate Programs

School of Liberal Arts students may complete one or more minors and/or certificate programs. Minors will not appear on the student's transcript until graduation. Students in other schools of IUPUI may complete minors in the School of Liberal Arts.

Only courses in which students receive a C (2.0) or higher can be applied to the minors and certificates. Specific requirements are described in the section of this bulletin entitled “Departments and Programs.”

Courses required for minors and certificates may also be used in fulfilling other requirements, including distribution requirements.

School of Liberal Arts minors are presently offered in the following areas:

Afro-American Studies
American Studies
Anthropology
Business and Professional Writing
Classical Studies
Communication Arts Cultural Diversity Economics English
Film Studies
French Geography
German Culture
Germanic Language Skills
Global Economics
History
Japanese Studies
Legal Studies
Media Studies

Medical Humanities and Health Studies
Medical Sociology
Organizational Communication
Philanthropic Studies Philosophy
Political Science
Religious Studies
Sociology
Spanish Theatre
Urban Studies
Women's Studies
Writing

The following certificate programs are also available:
American Sign Language/English Interpreting Geographic Information Science
International Studies Museum Studies
Paralegal Studies
Technical Communication
Translation Studies

Students must receive departmental or program approval for the courses to be used for minors as well as approval for courses not taken at IUPUI that they wish to count in a minor. Special credit may be applied to minor requirements with departmental approval.

Other Options

The School of Liberal Arts allows students to complete double majors and double degrees. For further information, see the section in the front of this bulletin.

Associate of Arts

The Associate of Arts (A.A.) is a 62 credit hour program that is essentially the first two years of the Bachelor of Arts program. Students are expected to meet the degree requirements in effect on the date of their admission to the School of Liberal Arts. However, should the requirements change after that date, students have the option of choosing the new requirements with the approval of the Office of Student Affairs.

Students intending to use the A.A. degree as the first two years of a B.A. degree should work with the A.A. Advisor, whose office is located in the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs (Cavanaugh Hall 401), to select courses that will also apply to the B.A. degree.

Requirements

Candidates for the Associate of Arts must satisfy three types of requirements: general education requirements, distribution requirements, and concentration requirements.

I. General Education Requirements (62 cr.)

- 62 credit hours of regular university courses,
- a minimum grade point average of 2.0 (C),
- completion of at least 30 credit hours in residence at any Indiana University campus with at least 15 credit hours of the concentration at IUPUI,
- courses taken under the Pass/Fail option may not be applied toward the A.A. degree,
- by special permission from the Office of Student Affairs, a maximum of 6 credit hours may be taken by correspondence through the Independent Study Division.

II. Distribution Requirements (44 cr.)

All students must complete the following:

First-Year Experience (1-3 cr.)

See B.A. distribution requirements for acceptable courses. (Transfer students with 18 credit hours are not required to take this course.)

English Composition (6 cr.)

Competency in English composition is required. Each course for this requirement must be completed with a minimum grade of C (2.0). This requirement may be satisfied in the following ways:

- by completing W131 and W132 (or Honors W140 and W150);
- by testing out of W131 through the IUPUI English Placement Exam and completing W132;
- for transfer students, by completing course work equivalent to W131 and W132 at another campus or institution.

Speech Communication R110 (3 cr.)

Students with previously acquired competency in public speaking may be eligible for special credit and exemption from this requirement; contact the Department of Communication Studies in Cavanaugh Hall 309, or call (317) 274-0566.

Foreign Language (10 cr.)

This requirement may be satisfied by completing first-year courses with a passing grade or by completing a second- or third-year course. See B.A. distribution requirements for more detailed information.

Analytic Skills (3 cr.)

See B.A. distribution requirements for acceptable courses.

Natural Sciences (9 cr.)

See B.A. distribution requirements for acceptable courses.

(One course should be a laboratory course. No more than 5 credit hours should be in geography if students plan to complete the B.A. degree.)

Arts and Humanities (6 cr.)

See B.A. distribution requirements for acceptable courses.

Social Sciences (6 cr.)

III. Concentration Requirements (18 cr.)

The purpose of the concentration is to provide students with a focus in a single discipline/area, but it should not be confused with a major, which students would take in the third and fourth years if they choose to pursue a Bachelor of Arts.

The student may concentrate in either Option I, the arts and humanities, or Option II, the social and behavioral sciences, explained below.

Courses counted toward the distribution requirements cannot be counted toward the 18 credits in the concentration area.

Option I: Arts and Humanities: Complete both A and B below.

A grade of C or higher is required in each course.

- Students choose one discipline in the arts and humanities (see the disciplines listed under “Arts and Humanities” in the “B.A. Distribution Requirements”—students cannot concentrate in fine arts for the A.A. degree) and take 12 credit hours in that discipline.
- Students complete 6 credit hours of course work in other disciplines listed under “Arts and Humanities.” These courses may be in a single discipline or in more than one discipline. However, any particular course cannot count toward both distribution requirements and the concentration requirements.

Total 62 credit hours.

Option II: Social Sciences: Complete both A and B below.

A grade of C or higher is required in each course.

- Students choose one discipline in the social sciences (see the disciplines listed under “Social Sciences” in the “B.A. Distribution Requirements”—students cannot concentrate in psychology or linguistics for the A.A. degree) and take 12 credit hours in that discipline.
- Students complete 6 credit hours of course work in other disciplines listed under “Social Sciences.” These courses may be in a single discipline or in more than one discipline. However, no specific course can be used to satisfy both distribution requirements and the concentration requirements.

Total 62 credit hours.

Graduate Degree Programs

Graduate Programs and Courses in the School of Liberal Arts

The communication studies, economics, English, geography, history, philosophy, philanthropy, sociology, and Spanish programs presently offer master's degrees. In addition, virtually all School of Liberal Arts departments offer graduate courses, including certain 300- and 400-level courses that may be taken for graduate credit in programs in the Indiana University Graduate School or the Indiana University School of Education. Students will not receive graduate credit without the written approval of a graduate advisor and the instructor of the course. Obviously, acceptable performance in the courses is also a condition for receiving graduate credit. In addition, other departments offer graduate course work. See sections on IU graduate programs. In addition, several departments and programs offer graduate certificate programs and minors.

Academic Policies Program Planning and Counseling

The School of Liberal Arts provides counseling services to assist students in planning their program of study. Students pursuing an Associate of Arts and those who have not yet chosen a major area of study are counseled through the School of Liberal Arts Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, in Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976. Students who have chosen a major are assigned a departmental faculty advisor and should make an appointment with that advisor before each registration period in order to discuss long-term goals as well as specific course work for the upcoming semester. Consulting with their advisor is a semester-by-semester obligation of students to ensure ongoing progress toward a degree.

Students, however, not their advisors, are responsible for their programs. They should be thoroughly familiar with the general requirements for an SLA degree as well as with those of the department they plan to major in. Students are urged to complete most, if not all, of their general-education requirements during the freshman and sophomore years.

In planning a program, students should refer to both the Schedule of Classes and this bulletin. Special attention should be paid to course descriptions and prerequisites. This bulletin identifies prerequisites with a “P,” corequisites with a “C,” and recommended courses with an “R.” Students should not enroll in courses for which they do not have the prerequisites. Instructors may require a student to drop a class if the student has not fulfilled the prerequisites.

Pass/Fail (P/F) Option

Any School of Liberal Arts undergraduate in good standing (not on probation) may enroll in a maximum of eight elective courses to be taken with a grade of P (pass) or F (fail). The Pass/Fail option can be used for a maximum of two courses per year, including summer sessions. The course selected for Pass/Fail must be an elective. It may not be used to satisfy any of the major or school distribution requirements, with the exception of the 300- to 400-level course requirement (Area III).

Final Examinations

Final examinations or other activities in lieu of a final are to be scheduled during finals week at the time indicated in the Schedule of Classes.

Students scheduled for three or more finals in a 24-hour period may have their examination schedule adjusted. They should notify the instructors involved by midsemester and determine if any of them are willing to schedule an alternate examination. Students having problems with an instructor may consult the chair of the department or the Office of Student Affairs, in Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976.

Forgiveness Policy

The School of Liberal Arts has adopted a modified version of the IUPUI forgiveness policy for students who have been out of school for three years. For more information about the policy, call (317) 274-3976 or visit Cavanaugh Hall 401.

Petition for Grade Change

Either students or faculty members may petition for a change in course grade.

A student desiring a change of grade should first discuss the situation with the instructor. If the instructor agrees, and no more than one full semester has elapsed since the course was finished, the faculty member must file a Grade Change Authorization Form with the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs. If more than one full semester has elapsed, the faculty member still files the Grade Change Authorization Form, but the form may be sent to the SLA Academic Affairs Committee, depending on the reason given for the change of grade. Campus policy limits petitions for change of grades to five years after the course.

If the instructor and student do not agree on a change of grade, or if the instructor cannot be located, the student should discuss the matter with the chairperson, director, or coordinator of the department or program in which the course was offered. Following that, the student may petition the SLA Academic Affairs Committee directly, using the Change of Grade Petition Form; these forms are available in the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs. The petition must include (1) a statement of an attempted but unsuccessful interview with the faculty member and chair, and (2) supporting evidence for the petition.

Academic Standing

Academic Probation

Only IUPUI grades will be considered in determining probation and dismissal. Students are placed on academic probation when their cumulative grade point average falls below 2.0 (C), and they remain on probation until the cumulative grade point average is 2.0 (C) or higher. Students on probation are encouraged to talk with their faculty advisor or with a counselor in the Office of Student Affairs (Cavanaugh Hall 401), (317) 274-8304, or IUPUI Counseling and Psychological Services, (317) 274-2548, to determine how they may become more successful in their studies. Students on probation must go to their faculty advisors before registering. Students without a faculty advisor should go to the Office of Student Affairs.

Students who have two semesters with a grade point average below 2.0 (C) may be placed on probation at the discretion of the School of Liberal Arts Dean of Students regardless of their cumulative grade point average, since they are failing to make progress toward a degree.

Dismissal

Students will be dismissed from the School of Liberal Arts when they have a cumulative grade point average lower than 2.0 (C) and grade point averages of lower than 2.0 (C) for two semesters. (For part-time students, 12 credit hours or fewer may be considered equivalent to one semester.) Students eligible for dismissal will be notified in writing that they have been dismissed and that they must remain out of school at least one semester. The letter will also inform such students that they will be withdrawn from classes for which they have registered. Once dismissed, students must petition for readmission. (See "Readmission.")

Students who have been dismissed a second time must remain out of school for at least two semesters and petition for readmission. (See "Readmission.")

A third dismissal is final.

Readmission

Any student who has been dismissed from the School of Liberal Arts (or its equivalent on another IU campus) must petition for readmission. A Petition for Readmission form may be obtained from the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs (Cavanaugh Hall 401).

Petitions for readmission must be filed by the following deadlines:

To enroll for the fall semester	July 15
To enroll for the spring semester	November 15
To enroll for summer session	April 15

Special Opportunities

Self-Acquired Competency

Credit may be granted for learning experiences acquired through means other than normal college course work. Credit is available for course-specific learning or for non-course-specific learning in (1) arts and humanities, and (2) social sciences.

Faculty will evaluate the experience and determine whether credit should be awarded and the amount of credit to be granted. Students may be asked to prepare a portfolio, take examinations, or document their learning in other suitable ways so that the faculty can make such judgments. Only 12 credit hours of self-acquired competency can be applied toward a degree. A brochure providing additional information is available in the Office of Student Affairs.

Special Study Programs Internships

The School of Liberal Arts faculty has approved internships involving full-time or part-time internships and co-ops related to academic objectives, for the following purposes:

1. to provide interested and qualified SLA students with career training within an academic setting;
2. to assist in the development of appropriate liberal arts skills and capabilities that are applicable in jobs and careers;
3. to facilitate student involvement in work experiences related to the chosen academic curriculum;
4. to facilitate development of occupational alternatives;
5. to facilitate students' self-confidence with regard to the marketability of their liberal arts training;
6. to foster community awareness of SLA-trained students and their capabilities.

Participating departments will work in conjunction with the IUPUI Career Center in accordance with university guidelines to provide experiences for majors. For further information, students should contact departmental advisors, or the IUPUI Career Center, Business/SPEA Building 2010, or call (317) 274-2554.

Extracurricular Activities

A wide variety of activities is available to School of Liberal Arts students, both activities sponsored by the School of Liberal Arts and those open to all students. Students seeking involvement in campuswide activities, such as the IUPUI Student Government, should contact the Office of Campus and Community Life, University College, Room 002, call (317) 274-3931, or visit www.sldp.iupui.edu.

Clubs and Organizations

The following organizations are of particular interest to students in the School of Liberal Arts:

SLA Student Council This council, composed of student representatives from each liberal arts department, advises the dean and the School of Liberal Arts on matters of concern to students. It decides how the activity fee will be used in the school, sponsors activities, communicates information to students, and coordinates Liberal Arts student involvement in campus and community events.

Department Clubs Most departments sponsor clubs and other activities for majors and interested students. Activities include guest lectures and presentations, poetry and fiction readings, visits to museums and exhibits, film viewings, an Academy Awards party, whitewater rafting, production of plays and special performances, debates, international cultural activities, Model United Nations, Model European Union, and more.

Students may find a list of clubs, their activities, and contact information at the Liberal Arts Web site (liberalarts.iupui.edu/studentaffairs/extracurricact.html) or call (317) 274-2465 or the specific departments for more information.

Awards and Scholarships

The School of Liberal Arts recognizes its students' accomplishments at a special Honors Convocation and Celebration of Scholarship held each year. More detailed information about the following awards and scholarships may be found on the Liberal Arts home page (liberalarts.iupui.edu/grants), by contacting the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, or by contacting the individual department or program. Additionally, School of Liberal Arts students are encouraged to apply for IUPUI scholarships administered through the IUPUI Office of Student Scholarships. For information, visit www.iupui.edu/~scentral or call (317) 274-5516.

School-Level Awards and Scholarships

Peter Bassett Barlow Prize This award is for the best paper submitted by a student enrolled in the Department of English master's degree program. The award honors the memory of a man who served the community as a physician; his passionate humanism and great intellect bore witness to the lifelong value of a liberal education.

Arminda B. and Jean C. Bepko Scholarship in Women's Studies This award provides a scholarship for an outstanding student obtaining a minor in women's studies at IUPUI.

Margaret A. Cook Foreign Study Award Each year an award will be made to one or more students majoring in the liberal arts at IUPUI to assist in participating in a study-abroad program sponsored by Indiana University. Priority will be given to junior or senior students majoring in a modern foreign language. Selection will be based on cumulative grade point average, language ability, and the applicants' plans for continued study of foreign languages. The award has been established in honor of Professor Margaret A. Cook, who helped establish the first foreign language programs at IUPUI and who devoted her life to improving our understanding of foreign cultures.

Mary F. Crisler Scholarship These $3,000 scholarships encourage collaboration between Liberal Arts faculty and students on academic or course-related research. The purpose is to provide opportunities for students to gain research experience while an undergraduate and thereby strengthen the community of scholarship. Eligible students must have at least a 3.5 GPA in their major. Up to five Crisler Scholarships are awarded annually.

Preston Eagleson Award The Preston Eagleson Award is presented to an IUPUI student for outstanding achievement in a paper written on the Afro-American experience. The prize honors Preston Eagleson, the first black American to receive an advanced degree from Indiana University.

The James R. East Scholarship This scholarship will be awarded annually to an alumnus or alumna of the Boys and Girls Clubs of Indianapolis.

Faculty Medal for Academic Distinction This award is presented to a graduating senior who, in the judgment of the Faculty Affairs Committee of the School of Liberal Arts faculty, is clearly outstanding in scholastic achievement, interdisciplinary interests, and extracurricular activities.

Marius J. Fauré Family Scholarship The Marius J. Fauré Family Scholarship is awarded each year by the faculty in French to an outstanding student with junior status who has a declared major in French language and literature. The Fauré scholarship honors Mr. and Mrs. Marius J. Fauré, and was established by their daughter Louise Fauré, who was a devoted student of French at IUPUI. Marius Fauré was an immigrant from Sète, France, and was for many years a landscape architect in the Indianapolis area.

Sidney W. Houston Memorial Scholarship An annual scholarship is awarded in honor of Professor Sidney W. Houston, who served from 1963 to 1975 in the Departments of English in the Indianapolis regional campuses of both Purdue University and Indiana University. The recipient shall be an outstanding student in the language and literature departments of the Indiana University School of Liberal Arts. The recipient must have completed at least 56 credit hours, but no more than 90, with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.5 and must be considered a person of moral responsibility and high professional potential.

Sarah Jamison Keller Scholarship A scholarship for tuition is annually open to a senior majoring in English language or literature at IUPUI who is a resident of the state of Indiana and who has achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.3 for all undergraduate courses and not less than a 3.5 cumulative average for all courses in English language and literature. The winning candidate will have submitted as part of his or her candidacy a scholarly or critical essay in English on any aspect of English language or literature; the essay is to be judged by a committee of the English department faculty. The scholarship pays the tuition for up to 15 credit hours in the fall semester of the student's senior year and is renewable for the following spring semester for up to 15 credit hours provided the student achieves a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.7 for all courses in English language and literature taken in the preceding fall semester.

Robert V. Kirch Scholarship An annual scholarship is awarded to an outstanding political science student in honor of Robert V. Kirch, the first chairperson of the IUPUI Department of Political Science and a lifelong student of state and local politics.

Loretta Lunsford Scholarship A scholarship of $3,000 will be awarded to a student who has a declared major in the School of Liberal Arts with a minimum GPA of 3.4. Preference will be given to candidates with an interest in educating others and with a willingness to volunteer five hours a week in any kind of educational organization or institution.

Sam Masarachia Scholars Program Award These full-tuition and fees scholarships are presented to full-time Liberal Arts undergraduate students interested in working in the fields of labor, senior citizens, or community organizations. This program is made possible through the generosity of Sam Masarachia, a representative for the Steelworkers Union in Indiana and an effective advocate for the fields studied in this program.

Museum Studies Award The Museum Studies Certificate program recognizes with its award an outstanding student whose record reflects both academic excellence and a commitment to the museum field.

Rebecca E. Pitts Fiction and Poetry Awards Two annual competitions, one in fiction writing and the other in poetry, are held in honor of Professor Rebecca E. Pitts, who served from 1966 to 1976 in the Department of English. Applicants must be currently enrolled at IUPUI or have been enrolled during the last 18 months before each spring's competition.

Rebecca E. Pitts Scholarship A scholarship is awarded annually to one or more students majoring in the liberal arts at IUPUI who has completed at least 90 credit hours and who plans to seek a graduate degree in a liberal arts discipline. The scholarship is intended to assist an outstanding student in attaining an extraordinary educational experience that will enhance her or his opportunity for advanced study. Applicants must propose uses for the scholarship and describe how the opportunity would make a difference in their education; applications will be evaluated by a faculty committee along with information about educational plans, past academic performance, and potential for future achievement. The scholarship has been established in honor of Professor Rebecca E. Pitts, whose lifelong study of literature instilled in many students a desire for learning at the highest levels of excellence.

Clara Margaret Powell Award This award is presented to an undergraduate student with exceptional research skills. The scholarship is intended to support the recipient's research project or to support attendance at a conference.

Mary Louise Rea Short Story Award An annual award is presented in recognition of Professor Mary Louise Rea, who served from 1946 to 1985 in the departments of English in the former Indianapolis regional campus of Purdue University and the Indiana University School of Liberal Arts. The recipient shall be the winner of the annual competition in short story writing. Applicants must be currently enrolled in the following IUPUI creative writing courses or have been enrolled during the preceding 18 months before each spring's competition: W103, W203, W301, W401, and W411.

Frances Dodson Rhome Scholarship This scholarship goes to support a student excelling in Women's Studies or English. It was established through gifts honoring Professor Frances Dodson Rhome, who taught English and classical studies for many years.

John M. Riteris Award This scholarship is awarded annually to a philosophy student who demonstrates a commitment to the study of philosophy and the potential for high-quality work in the discipline. The recipient is selected by the faculty of the Department of Philosophy.

Ray Russo Faculty/Student Technology Scholarship This scholarship is awarded to students who work with faculty on new teaching technologies. Recipients are chosen based on faculty nominations. The scholarship was established in memory of Professor Ray Russo.

Thelander Memorial Prize The Thelander Memorial Prize is awarded to an IUPUI student for superior achievement in a paper on a historical subject. The prize is presented by the Department of History faculty in memory of a former member of that department, Theodore Thelander Jr.

School of Liberal Arts Student Council Awards

Outstanding Advisor Award The School of Liberal Arts Student Council, in recognition of the role of advisors in enhancing students' growth, has created an award to be given to an outstanding Liberal Arts academic advisor. Any liberal arts student may nominate an advisor; the final decision will be made by the council.

Outstanding Club Advisor The School of Liberal Arts Student Council, in recognition of the importance of extracurricular activities related to the majors and minors, presents an award to the faculty member who has gone out of their way to assist in strengthening a liberal arts student club or organization.

Departmental/Program Secretary Award The School of Liberal Arts Student Council, in recognition of the critical role of departmental secretaries in providing information, advice, and sympathy—lifelines for students majoring in liberal arts—has created a special award to recognize their outstanding contributions.

Departmental and Program Awards

African American and African Diaspora Studies Academic Achievement Award This award is presented by the African American and African Diaspora Studies Program to the outstanding graduating senior in the program and to students who have demonstrated academic excellence in African American and African Diaspora studies.

American Studies Award The Center for American Studies presents an annual award, on the basis of nominations from the faculty, to an upper-division minor in the academic program who has demonstrated excellent abilities in the interdisciplinary study of American culture.

Anthropology Award The Department of Anthropology honors an outstanding departmental major whose academic record reflects both scholastic excellence and intellectual breadth.

Classical Studies Awards

The Arete Award is presented as occasion demands to a senior student with a record of excellence in the field of classical studies.

The P. Ovidius Naso Living Myth Prize is awarded annually for the best creative retelling, in any medium, of a classical Greek or Roman myth by a student in an IUPUI classical mythology course.

Communication Studies Awards

The Academic Achievement Award is presented to the communication studies graduating senior who has demonstrated excellence in the field of communication studies, made outstanding contributions to the department, achieved a superior grade point average, and earned the recommendations of the faculty.

Outstanding Research or Creative Project This award is made in recognition of a superior research paper or creative project upon the recommendation of faculty in the Department of Communication Studies. Up to four awards may be given.

The Service Award This award is given to a student, upon recommendation of the faculty in the Department of Communication Studies, in recognition of outstanding service to the department, school, and/or university.

Economics Awards

Economic Award This award is presented to the senior economics major with the highest cumulative grade point average above 3.4.

Robert Kirk Outstanding New Economics Major Award The Kirk award is presented to an outstanding student in his or her first year as an economics major. The award recognizes Professor Kirk's dedication to students during his 28 years with the department.

The Department of Economics gives a one-year subscription to the Wall Street Journal to the outstanding junior economics major.

English Awards

Academic Achievement Awards are presented to students who have demonstrated consistent excellence in their work with language and literature. The Department of English bases its selection on superior scholastic achievement, faculty recommendations, and special contributions to the English program.

The Creative Writing Award is presented to the student who has submitted the best work of literary art—fiction or poetry—in a creative writing class during the academic year.

Film Studies Award This award is presented to a student who has done exceptional work in film criticism and research in upper-level film studies courses during the past year.

Hal Tobin Outstanding First-Year Writing Award This award is presented to the student who has submitted the best essay in English W131 or W140 in the preceding calendar year.

The Upper-Division Literature Outstanding Student Award recognizes an outstanding achievement by a student in advanced literature courses during the past year.

Linguistics Award This award goes to the student considered by the linguistics faculty of the Department of English to be the most outstanding student of linguistics. Candidates must be students who have taken at least three linguistics courses. Students may nominate themselves for the award.

The Nonfiction Writing Award is presented to a declared English major for the best portfolio of nonfiction pieces submitted for anonymous judging by a faculty committee. Papers are judged on effectiveness of expression in a variety of writing genres.

French Awards

Margaret A. Cook Award The Margaret A. Cook Award is presented to a student who has demonstrated outstanding achievement in the study of French language and literature. This award is named in honor of Professor Margaret A. Cook, who for 26 years provided leadership in promoting foreign language study at Indiana University's operations in Indianapolis.

Beaudry Summer Scholarship for French and Francophone Studies This scholarship is awarded to an IUPUI student participating in a summer French language and culture study program in a French-speaking country. This scholarship is made possible through the generosity of James G. Beaudry, Professor Emeritus of French.

Geography Awards

Geography Award This award is presented to graduating seniors for demonstrated excellence in geographic studies and a high grade point average.

Geography Alumni New Major Scholarship Established by alumni of the department, this scholarship recognizes the most promising new geography major.

German Awards

German Award This award is presented to students who have attained a high grade point average and demonstrated academic excellence in the field of German language and literature.

IUPUI Max Kade German-American Study Abroad Scholarship The Max Kade German American Center at IUPUI awards two scholarships for studying German in approved overseas study programs. German majors, minors, and other IUPUI majors who will earn credits toward their degree are eligible.

History Award This award is presented to the senior judged to exhibit greatest overall competence and accomplishment in history.

Medical Humanities Student Essay Award This award is presented to IUPUI students whose writing is judged to be the best on a topic in medical humanities. The award is sponsored by the Center for Law and Health, the John Shaw Billings History of Medicine Society, and the Medical Ethics Program of the IU School of Medicine.

Philosophy Award An award is presented to the outstanding philosophy major.

Political Science Awards

Academic Achievement awards honor the graduating seniors who have achieved an outstanding grade point average and demonstrated the greatest potential for intellectual growth.

The Political Science Intern Award recognizes the participant in the Applied Politics Internship Program who has demonstrated superior academic accomplishment, diligent service to the intern agency, and promise in career plans.

Religious Studies Award This award is granted to the religious studies student who has displayed consistent excellence in scholarship.

Sociology Awards

The Sociology Award is presented to the outstanding student in the department for distinguished achievement in sociology.

Service Award The Department of Sociology presents an award to the student whose outstanding service to faculty, students, and department has been invaluable.

Spanish Award This award is presented to the outstanding student in the Spanish program.

Women's Studies Awards

The Senior Award is presented to the senior with a minor in women's studies who has made an outstanding contribution to women's studies.

The Anne Donchin Graduate Essay Award This award is presented to the graduate student who submits the most outstanding essay on a topic in women's studies.

The Dolores Donchin Memorial Service Award honors an IUPUI student who has made a substantial contribution to women's studies related service. This award is made possible through gifts in memory of Dolores Donchin.

The Indianapolis Women's Rotary Club Scholarship Fund Award is awarded to assist adult returning women students at IUPUI.

The Friends of Women's Studies Scholarship Fund is awarded to outstanding students in the Women's Studies Program. Students must have taken a minimum of 6 credit hours in the Women's Studies Program.

The Outstanding Essay Award This award is presented to the student who submits the most outstanding essay on a topic in women's studies.

School Resources and Centers

Institute for American Thought

The Institute for American Thought is a unique research facility bringing to IUPUI and to central Indiana an internationally acclaimed concentration of resources and scholarship that focuses on fundamental strongholds of American thought and culture. The institute unites the teaching faculty, editing specialists, and research holdings of the Peirce Edition Project, the Santayana Edition, and the Frederick Douglass Papers with related academic programs in American studies, professional editing, and American philosophy.

The institute is structured around a public research center that supports the work of its academic programs and scholarly editions while providing a singular resource for students and scholars from Indiana and worldwide. In contrast to centers that restrict their focus to the study of American political and economic thought, the Institute focuses more broadly on American contributions to philosophy and to the advancement of thought at the highest intellectual level of Western culture. Current scholarship within the institute concentrates on the production of reliable new texts for seminal American thinkers, on the professional editing process that preserves their writings for future generations, and on the understanding and dissemination of American thought and culture through the promotion of related research, public lectures, and other scholarly activities.

The institute administers an undergraduate minor in American studies and an interdisciplinary graduate program in professional editing; it also is associated with the American Philosophy concentration of the Department of Philosophy's master's program. In addition, the institute provides an editorial home for Documentary Editing, the journal of the Association for Documentary Editing. No other research institute in the country combines academic programs, textual scholarship, and a research agenda in such a comprehensive program with sizeable archival and library collections documenting the major contributions of seminal thinkers to American cultural and intellectual history.

The significance and quality of the institute's holdings has consistently attracted international interest and brings many scholars of American thought and culture to central Indiana. International partnerships with scholar groups in Canada and Germany are already in place, and others in China and Great Britain are being developed. A resident fellows program will attract researchers who are publishing and teaching in wide-ranging areas of American studies, textual studies, American philosophy, and the history of science. The institute is working to turn its interrelated programs into a national model for interdisciplinary research, teaching, and publication in support of America's intellectual heritage.

Scholarly Editions

The School of Liberal Arts is home to three scholarly edition projects: the Peirce Edition Project, a contributor to the school's research culture since 1976; and two more recent arrivals, the Frederick Douglass Papers and the Santayana Edition. This remarkable concentration of major editions establishes IUPUI as a world center for scholarly editing and provides unique opportunities for our students and faculty.

Frederick Douglass Papers

A runaway slave, Frederick Douglass became a leading orator and author of the abolitionist movement. Modern historians regard Douglass as the most influential African American of the nineteenth century, yet most Americans know little about this great humanitarian. The Frederick Douglass Papers Project already has published a five-volume series of the edited texts of Douglass's principal speeches, interviews, and debates. Editors currently are working on a five-volume series of Douglass's correspondence and a three-volume critical edition of his autobiographical writings. The Frederick Douglass Papers Project started at Yale University and moved to West Virginia University before locating at IUPUI. It is supported by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Peirce Edition Project

Charles S. Peirce (1839–1914) was a scientist and philosopher. He is the founder of pragmatism and is considered one of America's greatest thinkers. The primary mission of the Peirce Edition Project is to produce a 30-volume critical edition of Peirce's writings, many never before published. The Peirce Project, supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities and by private funding, is assisted by an internationally renowned team of advisors and contributors. The resources of the project, which include an extensive photocopy and microform collection of Peirce's manuscripts and the Max H. Fisch Library (a large private collection on classical and American philosophy and on nineteenth- and early twentieth-century American culture), have been consolidated in the Institute for American Thought with the resources of the Santayana and Douglass Editions and serve a wide community of students and researchers.

Santayana Edition

George Santayana (1863–1952) is considered a classical American philosopher. Born in Spain, he became one of the widest-read American philosophers of his time. His naturalistic philosophy is explicated in his extensive philosophical works, but he also was a bestselling novelist, poet, and critic of culture and literature. The plan of the Santayana Edition is to produce a 20-volume critical edition. Each volume is published by MIT Press and simultaneously published in a CD-ROM format. The Santayana Edition, formerly located at Texas A&M University, is the latest arrival at IUPUI and rounds out the profile of the consortium of scholarly editions in the School of Liberal Arts' Institute for American Thought. The Santayana Edition is supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Public Opinion Laboratory

The Public Opinion Laboratory (POL) is the interdisciplinary survey research center at IUPUI that provides data-gathering and data-analysis services to a wide variety of private, governmental, and university organizations. It is a research center of the School of Liberal Arts but serves clients as diverse as the School of Medicine, other universities, local and national businesses, local and national media, municipal and state agencies, and the Indiana University system.

All employees are students who gain experience in all aspects of survey research, including face-to-face, telephone, and mail surveys. The POL also conducts focus groups. The POL has a fully operational computer-assisted telephone interviewing (CATI) system with 20 stations. The POL allows students the opportunity to participate in ongoing survey research in a variety of topics, including political behavior, consumer behavior, media impact, and evaluation of programs such as medical delivery and company personnel policies.

Sussman Research Library

The Sussman Research Library, established through a contribution of the books, journals, and papers of Marvin B. Sussman, an internationally known family sociologist, is located in Cavanaugh Hall 316. The library contains an extensive collection of family science and sociology books and journals with emphasis on population/demography, aging, family violence, sexuality, medical/health, law, history, race/ethnicity, and deviance. The library is available to students, staff, and faculty for research use. Materials do not circulate.

African American and African Diaspora Studies (AAADS) encompasses the scholarly exploration of African and African American life and culture from an interdisciplinary perspective. Courses in AAADS are offered in many departments of the School of Liberal Arts.

Minor in African American and African Diaspora Studies

The minor in African American and African Diaspora Studies has four distinct, yet interrelated, objectives. First, AAADS offers instruction in a wide range of empirical research and scholarship related to the life and culture of peoples who comprise the African Diaspora. Second, it provides an additional academic base of students who wish to pursue graduate or professional training in the arts and humanities, behavioral and social sciences, law, medicine, education, and public administration. Third, AAADS presents important information that will be useful to both students and the larger public about the necessity and tools for acquiring political and economic power for successful community development. Finally, it provides students with a crucial global perspective that will prepare students to live successfully in a multiracial, multiethnic, and multicultural world.

Requirements The minor in AAADS requires 15 credit hours, distributed as follows:

Courses

Required Courses (9 cr.)

A150 Survey of the Culture of Black Americans (3 cr.) An introduction to the life and experience of Africans in the United States utilizing resources from history, literature, and the social sciences.

A364 History of Black Americans (3 cr.) A survey of the historical origins and development of the African community in the United States. Topics include kingdoms of ancient Africa, the Atlantic slave trade, New World Slave systems, antebellum free African American protest, the Civil War and Reconstruction, nationalism and Pan-Africanism, the Harlem Renaissance, and the Civil Rights and Black Liberation movements of the 1960s.

A402 Seminar in AAADS (3 cr.) P: junior standing, with 9 credit hours in AAADS, or permission of the program director. Advanced seminar devoted to discussion and analysis of the political, social, and economic status and prospects of the African American community.

Elective Courses (6 cr.)

Students may elect up to 6 credit hours from the following courses offered by the AAADS Program or SLA departments listed.

Program Electives:

A202 The West and the African Diaspora (3 cr.)

An introduction to Western Europe's and America's perception of Africa and Africans. Emphasis is on the image of Africans and their New World descendants, as constructed by European and American intellectuals.

A303 Topics in African American and African Diaspora Studies (1-3 cr.)

Study of selected topics or issues in Afro-American studies occasionally, but not always, coordinated with symposia and/or conferences sponsored by the AAADS Program.

A352 Afro-American Art II: Afro-American Artists (3 cr.)

A survey of the artistic traditions of the Africans in the New World, from the period of slavery in North and South America through contemporary and expatriate African American artists.

A369 The African American Experience (3 cr.)

This integrator course introduces students to the methodological and analytical tools needed to understand the historical background, contemporary challenges, and current policy debates about issues confronting the African American community, such as credit market discrimination, affirmative action, and reparations. A chief goal of the course is to expose students to broad themes in African American history, while also providing them with the necessary interdisciplinary tools—both qualitative and quantitative—to analyze contemporary economic problems and prospects.

A495 Individual Readings in African American and African Diaspora Studies (1-3 cr.)

By arrangement with instructor. Investigation of topics of special interest to students that are not covered in the regular program curriculum or that students wish to pursue in greater detail. May be repeated once for credit.

American Sign Language/English Interpreting

Director Associate Professor Susan Shepherd, English

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 501U, (317) 274-0090

Increasing numbers of Deaf people seek the communicative access that interpreters provide, and this access is mandated by legislators, yet there is a shortage of qualified interpreters nationally and locally. IUPUI's American Sign Language (ASL)/English Interpreting Program is one of very few baccalaureate degree programs available in the country. It prepares students to become capable and flexible participants in the rewarding profession of interpreting.

The ASL/English Interpreting Program introduces students to the theory and practice of interpreting. It provides a strong foundation in language, culture, interpreting, and linguistics. Students develop their abilities in ASL and English, analyze features of ASL and English, discuss ethical issues, and perform guided practice with both simultaneous and consecutive interpreting. The combination of this background with a broad liberal arts education prepares students to enter the profession of interpreting, which serves diverse populations and encompasses a wide range of subjects and settings.

Major in ASL/English Interpreting

The Bachelor of Science degree in ASL/English Interpreting is for students who have achieved fluency in American Sign Language and English and wish to focus on theoretical and applied issues in interpreting. The program is a continuation of the Associate of Arts degree in American Sign Language Studies offered by Vincennes University at its regional campus in Indianapolis at the Indiana School for the Deaf. The program is also open to students who demonstrate equivalent competence in ASL, Deaf culture, and linguistics. Interested students who have not completed the Vincennes University degree should contact the program director at IUPUI.

The major consists of 24 credit hours at IUPUI (see below) and 9 credits from Vincennes University (HDI 206 American Sign Language Grammar, HDI 207 American Deaf Culture, HDI 220 Linguistic Structure of American Sign Language). Required courses at IUPUI are ASL I301, I303, I361, I363, I365, I405, I340, and I342. Enrollment in interpreting classes is limited to students who have been admitted to the program or have received permission from the director.

Certificate Program in American Sign Language/English Interpreting

The certificate is intended for students who already have a baccalaureate degree and would like to go beyond their original undergraduate major by completing the course work for the major in ASL/English interpreting.

The certificate program includes 24 credit hours of course work. To earn the certificate, students are required to complete the following courses with a grade of C or higher:

Required Courses

ASL I301 Interpreting Issues (3 cr.)

ASL I303 ASL for Interpreters (3 cr.)

ASL I361 Basic Interpreting Skills (3 cr.)

ASL I363 Interpreting Community Texts: Consecutive (3 cr.)

ASL I365 Interpreting Community Texts: Simultaneous (3 cr.)

ASL I405 Practicum (3 cr.)

ASL L340 Discourse Analysis: English (3 cr.)

ASL L342 Discourse Analysis: ASL (3 cr.)

Undergraduate Courses

A131 Intensive Beginning American Sign Language I (5 cr.) First course in the introductory sequence of language courses. Emphasis on developing basic conversational skills as well as awareness of Deaf culture.

A132 Intensive Beginning American Sign Language II (5 cr.) Second course in the introductory sequence of language courses. Emphasis on developing basic conversational skills as well as awareness of Deaf culture.

I301 Interpreting Issues (3 cr.) Provides an overview of the field of ASL/English interpreting. Emphasis is on exploring a progression of philosophical frames in the development of the profession; exploring models of the interpreting process and identifying requisite responsibilities, skills, and aptitudes for interpreters.

I303 American Sign Language for Interpreters (3 cr.) This course is designed for student interpreters to continue improving their fluency in American Sign Language (ASL). Emphasis is on the ability to compose and produce a variety of discourse genres in ASL, such as narratives, explanations, descriptions, expository talks, procedural talk, and others. There is an equal emphasis on comprehension of, and response to, the same discourse types. Students will begin to focus on features of language such as prosody, discourse markers, rhythm, accents, variations, cohesive devices, involvement strategies, and others.

I361 Basic Interpreting Skills (3 cr.) P: Director's permission. This is the first course in the professional skills preparation for interpreting. Students begin by analyzing texts for purpose, audience, linguistic features, and discourse structure. Students are taught discourse mapping and retelling texts in the same language. As students learn to analyze, they also learn how to evaluate adequate renditions.

I363 Interpreting Community Texts:

Consecutive (3 cr.) P: Director's permission. This is the second interpreting course that prepares students for the analytical skills needed to interpret. In this course, students continue their practice with interlingual mapping exercises. The greatest change is from an unlimited to a limited time for preparation and production of texts.

I365 Interpreting Community Texts:

Simultaneous (3 cr.) P: Director's permission. This is the third and final course to prepare student to do simultaneous interpreting. In this course, students continue with mapping exercises, working towards interpreting unfamiliar texts, and evaluating interpretations. The greatest change is eliminating pausing.

I405 Practicum (3 cr.) An extensive practicum experience. Students will be placed at two or more sites to experience several interpreting settings during the 15-week course. Students will be required to maintain a journal of their experiences and to meet with onsite practicum supervisors and program faculty regularly throughout the course.

I407 Professional Seminar (2 cr.) This course is to be taken concurrently with I405 Practicum. In this course, students discuss practicum experiences ethical guidelines, decision-making processes, and professional responsibilities that new interpreters are required to know for professional practice. The course is conducted face-to-face and online and consists primarily of discussion and written assignments.

L340 Discourse Analysis: English (3 cr.) This course focuses on the analysis of language use in different genres of spoken English so that interpreting students become explicitly aware of everyday language. Students collect, transcribe, and analyze features of conversations, lectures, explanations, interviews, descriptions, and other types of speech genres while reading and discussing theoretical notions underlying language use in English.

L342 Disclosure Analysis: ASL (3 cr.) This course continues the introduction to discourse analysis, focusing on discourse in American Sign Language (ASL). Topics will include general discourse issues such as approaches to analysis, natural data analysis, technology for research in signed languages, and topics specific to ASL, including transcription in ASL, use of space and spatial mapping, involvement strategies, discourse structures and genres, cohesion and coherence, framing, and interaction strategies. One ongoing issue throughout the course will be the relevance to interpreting.

Assistant Professors Annie G. Coleman, History; Thomas Marvin, English; Nancy Robertson, History

Executive Director, Institute for American Thought Nathan Houser

The field of American studies extends across a broad spectrum of disciplines to offer integrating perspectives on American experience, thought, and expression. In this respect, American studies is decidedly interdisciplinary in its approaches, but at the same time it is very much a field unto itself, generating its own lines of inquiry concerning the American cultural mosaic.

Minor in American Studies

The minor in American studies offers its students the opportunity to understand the American experience in a broader context than is usually possible through the study of a single discipline. More specifically, it provides students with courses that focus on matters that have been traditionally at issue in the study of American civilization and culture. Required are two general courses (A301 and A302) that treat the broad questions of American identity and American community. These will provide underpinnings for the remaining 9 credit hours of course work. A special feature of this program is the senior tutorial, which gives students the opportunity to engage in in-depth research under the guidance of an American studies faculty member.

Students enrolled in the American studies minor program will be required to complete 15 credit hours of upper-level course work, including the senior tutorial, which attempts to synthesize the other courses and the student's particular interests in the field of American studies. As a prerequisite, students must complete History H105 and H106 or provide evidence of knowledge of a general outline of the history of the United States; however, these courses do not count toward minor credit. A student's minor program will be developed in consultation with American studies faculty members and the student's American studies advisor. The student will be required to complete the following program:

1. A301 The Question of American Identity (3 cr.)
2. A302 The Question of American Community (3 cr.)
3. Two additional courses at the 300 or 400 level offered under the American studies rubric or cross-listed in American Studies (6 cr.)
4. A499 Senior Tutorial (3 cr.)

Courses

A103 Topics in American Studies (1-3 cr.) Interdisciplinary consideration of various American studies topics sometimes coordinated with symposia and/or conferences sponsored by the IUPUI Center for American Studies. A103 cannot be counted as credit toward an American studies minor.

A301 The Question of American Identity (3 cr.) Is American culture unified or does it consist of a potpourri of more or less distinct cultures? Beginning with the 1600s but emphasizing the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, this course explores classic texts in American culture, seeking to locate the terms of American unity in the midst of obvious diversity.

A302 The Question of American Community (3 cr.) What are the varieties and forms of American social life? This course will explore the manner in which Americans, from Puritan times through the later decades of the twentieth century, have structured and experienced social life in rural, urban, and suburban settings.

A303 Topics in American Studies (1-3 cr.) Interdisciplinary consideration of various American studies topics.

A304 The Transformation of America 1960-1980 (3 cr.) America in the years from John F. Kennedy to Ronald Reagan. An examination of such topics as the myth of Camelot, the civil rights movement and the subsequent black uprising, Vietnam and its aftermath, the rise of counterculture, campus unrest and the student movement, the road to Watergate and the retreat into narcissism, the pervasive influence of television, and the rise of neo-conservatism. Also, consideration of the literature: modernism and fabulism in fiction, social and cultural criticism, and the new journalism in nonfiction.

A499 Senior Tutorial in American Studies (3 cr.) This course provides students with the opportunity to pursue particular interests in American studies on topics of their choices and to work in a tutorial relationship with an American studies faculty member. In this course of directed study, students will be required to produce research projects for filing in the library.

Anthropology is the study of human culture, biology, and social interaction across time and place. It includes the archaeological investigation of past and present human material culture; ethnographic study of contemporary cultures around the world and in the United States; research into human evolution and the origins of human physical diversity; and analysis concerning the origins, structure, and social use of language.

The anthropology curriculum at IUPUI emphasizes the practical application of anthropological concepts, theory, and methods. It contributes to student growth in three ways: by broadening their understanding of the human experience across cultures and time; by providing a comparative perspective from which to develop an appreciation of human diversity and an understanding of different values and ethical beliefs in a complex, international world; and by providing practical learning experiences in a variety of settings, including community agencies, museums, governmental institutions, health agencies, and neighborhood associations. The anthropology program also has laboratories to assist the faculty and students with guided research in archaeology, ethnography, biological anthropology, and forensics. Frequent summer field courses, both local and international, give students additional opportunities for experiential learning.

Thus, a degree in anthropology from IUPUI prepares a student for lifelong success by improving their ability to think critically, and to integrate and apply knowledge, and by fostering a broad understanding of culture and society. Our graduates have found work in a variety of social service agencies, educational institutions, museums, and governmental organizations. In addition, approximately half of our graduates go on to seek advanced degrees in anthropology or related fields.

In addition to the Bachelor of Arts degree, we offer minors in anthropology and cultural diversity. These programs provide a base to complement careers in fields such as nursing, social work, education, psychology, or urban planning. We also offer a graduate minor in the anthropology of health and support both a graduate and an undergraduate certificate in the Museum Studies Program. Finally, the Anthropology Club serves as a forum for students to exchange ideas, organize field trips, and serve their community.

Major in Anthropology

The B.A. program in anthropology is designed to foster student learning in three areas: (1) a broad conceptual understanding of the human experience across space and time, (2) the ability to conduct and evaluate anthropological research, and (3) the ability to apply anthropological concepts and methods beyond the university.

The degree requires completion of 34 credit hours in anthropology, with a minimum grade of C in each course. A student's particular program is selected in consultation with an anthropology faculty advisor from the following:

12 credit hours in core courses: A103/A303, A104/A304, A201, A360

18 credit hours in advanced courses (300 or above) including:

one research or applied methods course: E404, P405, B301, B426, MSTD A405;
one archaeology course: A401, E316, E335, P398, P402, P405, P330;
one bioanthropology course: B301, B370, B371, B426, B466, B480;

one cultural anthropology course: A361, E300, E310, E320, E326, E336, E356, E380, E384, E391, E402, E403, E404, E411, E421, E455, E457, E470;

and two additional 300–400 level courses from a selected listing: A454, E445, L300, L401, A395, A460, A485, A494, A495, MSTD A403, MSTD A405, CLAS A301, CLAS C412, CLAS C413, CLAS C414, ENG G310;

4 credit hours in capstone courses: A412 and A413, or MSTD A408.

In fulfilling these requirements, a particular course may be counted in only one category. For example, E356 Cultures of the Pacific may be used to fulfill the requirement for an upper-level course in cultural anthropology or as one of the two required electives, but not both requirements simultaneously.

Minor in Anthropology

A minor in anthropology provides basic training in three areas: an overview of anthropological inquiry, understanding of ethnic and cultural behavior, and understanding of a selected conceptual area in anthropology. Requirements for a minor include a minimum grade of C in 15 credit hours of anthropology courses, selected in consultation with an anthropology faculty advisor from the following:

6 credit hours in introductory anthropology: A103 (or A303) Human Origins and Prehistory
A104 (or A304) Cultural Anthropology

Three other courses in anthropology at the 300–400 level, in consultation with an advisor.

Minor in Cultural Diversity

This minor is oriented toward two groups of students. First, it provides a comparative framework for liberal arts and science majors for whom the study of culture, race, ethnicity, or gender overlaps their own disciplines. Second, it serves students in such fields as education, nursing, social work, business, medicine, public affairs, and law who wish to build a multicultural perspective into their professional practice.

Courses for the minor explore the genesis and transformation of racial and ethnic categories; the relationship of culture and biology; processes of acculturation and pluralism; the evolution of scholarly thought on human diversity; and ultimately, how it is that any of us comprehends others.

Requirements for the minor are a minimum grade of C in 15 credit hours of course work as follows:

6 credits hours of introductory anthropology: A103 and A104.

6 credits hours of general courses on diversity, through two of the following courses: B370, E402, and E457.

3 credit hours of electives chosen in consultation with the minor advisor from a list of approved courses. This list is on file in the departmental office and includes courses from both anthropology and many other disciplines that concern diversity in general, or specific gender, ethnic, cultural, or other such groups.

Introductory Courses

A103 Human Origins and Prehistory (3 cr.)

A survey of human biological and cultural evolution from early pre-Pleistocene hominids through the development of urbanized state societies, with the goal of better understanding our human heritage. (Not open to students who have taken A303.)

A104 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (3 cr.)

A survey of cultural and social processes that influence human behavior, using comparative examples from different ethnic groups around the world, with the goal of better understanding the broad range of human behavioral potentials and those influences that shape the different expressions of these potentials. (Not open to students who have taken A304.)

A201 Survey of Applied Anthropology (3 cr.)

P: A104 or A304, and A103 or A303, or permission of instructor. A survey of such issues in applied anthropology as cultural resource management, community development, cross-cultural communication, Third World development, museum studies, archaeological ethics, and the impact of human diversity on health care, education, and social programs.

A303 Evolution and Prehistory (3 cr.)

P: junior standing. An advanced survey of human biological and cultural evolution from pre-Pleistocene hominids through the development of urbanized state societies. (Not open to students who have taken A103.)

A304 Social and Cultural Behavior (3 cr.)

P: junior standing. An advanced survey of cultural and social processes that influence human behavior, with comparative examples from different ethnic groups around the world. (Not open to students who have taken A104.)

Advanced Courses

A337 African American Health Care (3 cr.) An anthropological perspective on the study of African American health beliefs and practices. This course examines the major theories for African American health as well as the relevant issues for understanding these health care practices in delivering health services. Local and national health care issues will be examined.

A360 The Development of Anthropological Thought (3 cr.) An overview of the major theoretical developments within anthropology, as the discipline has attempted to produce a universal and unified view of human life based on knowledge of evolution and prehistoric and contemporary cultures.

A361 Applied Cultural Change (3 cr.) A survey of major concepts of cultural and social change, and an evaluation of different models of applied change. The course emphasizes both a sound understanding of change and its practical application in developmental change.

A395 Field Experiences in Anthropology (1-3 cr.) P: permission of instructor. A supervised field experience in a selected area of anthropology. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

A401 Cultural Resource Management (3 cr.) The concept of cultural resource management as a theoretical and functional tool to effect the conservation and protection of archaeological resources. Law, project review, site registration, and preservation strategies will be addressed.

A412 Senior Project (3 cr.) An independent study course, taken toward the end of undergraduate studies in which students apply their anthropological expertise to projects that range from original research to applied work in the community. Students work on individual projects of their own design in consultation with faculty supervisors. Registration is by instructor authorization.

A413 Senior Seminar (1 cr.) This course examines the present state of anthropology, strategies for career development, and issues involved in using and applying anthropology. Designed to be taken toward the end of undergraduate studies, usually in conjunction with the A412 Senior Project, this course is generally restricted to anthropology majors. Registration is by instructor authorization.

A454 Human Ecology (3 cr.) A survey of the biological and cultural means by which humans adapt to their environment. This course emphasizes the unique nature of human adaptation, focusing on specific human groups and on the general processes of adaptation.

A460 Topics in Anthropology: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) A conceptual examination of selected topics in the field of anthropology. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

A485 Topics in Applied Anthropology: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) An examination of a selected topic where the concepts, principles, and methods in anthropology are utilized to address a particular community or social issue. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

B370 Human Variation (3 cr.) Variation within and between human populations in morphology, gene frequencies, and behavior. Biological concepts of race, race classification, along with other taxonomic considerations, and evolutionary processes acting on humans in the past, present, and future.

B371 The Anthropology of Human Nature (3 cr.) An examination of the foundations of human behavior as viewed from the biocultural and evolutionary perspective of anthropology. This course strives to provide the student with a rational middle ground in the nature/nurture debate by demonstrating that human behavior is innately plastic.

B466 The Primates (3 cr.) The study of our closest living relatives, the prosimians, monkeys, and apes, from the perspective of evolutionary and environmental influences on morphology and complex social behavior.

B480 Human Growth and Development (3 cr.) The study of human growth and development from a biocultural perspective including the physical mechanisms, and social, cultural, and environmental factors that lead to normal growth and development throughout the human life cycle. Causal factors, patterns of expression, and methods of assessment are stressed. Also available for graduate credit.

E300 Culture Areas and Ethnic Groups: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) An ethnographic survey of a selected culture area or ethnic group. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

E310 Cultures of Africa (3 cr.) An ethnographic survey of culture areas and societies of sub-Saharan Africa.

E316 Prehistory of North America (3 cr.) This course will introduce students to the cultural variety and complexity of prehistoric native North Americans. The course focuses on the various environmental adaptations, lifeways, social systems, and material culture that have been revealed through archaeological research.

E320 Indians of North America (3 cr.) An ethnographic survey of native North American culture areas and ethnic groups.

E326 Modern Greek Society (3 cr.) This course examines modern Greek life from an anthropological perspective. Recent Greek history, and the changing circumstances of both village and urban dwellers are explored. The complexity of cross-cultural understanding emerges as the various images that outsiders hold of modern Greece are compared to the realities of contemporary life there.

E335 Ancient Civilizations of Mesoamerica (3 cr.) Historical ethnography of the major pre-Columbian civilizations, especially the Aztec, the Maya, and the Zapotec and Mixtec. Emphasis on the social life, cultural achievements, religion, world view, and political systems to illustrate the diversity and richness of Amerindian life before the Spanish conquest.

E336 African American Culture (3 cr.) This course provides an anthropological and comprehensive approach to the study of African American culture. It will focus on the ethnohistory, culture, politics, gender, language, health care, and values of African Americans. A secondary aim of this course is to examine the contemporary issues which affect the African American family.

E354 Popular Culture (3 cr.) This course studies how traditional anthropological insight can analyze social and political complexities of contemporary popular cultural phenomena. Focuses on how anthropological subjects such as class, racism, and regionalism lurk within popular cultural phenomena including post-1950 music subcultures, civil religion, and consumer culture.

P340 Modern Material Culture (3 cr.) This course examines how contemporary social experience is impacted by material culture ranging from toys to theme parks. Focuses on how consumers perceive themselves and others in modern consumer culture through the medium of commodities and examines systems of inequality that are reproduced and subverted through consumption.

E356 Cultures of the Pacific (3 cr.) This course examines the varied peoples and adaptations of the three main culture areas in the Pacific region (Micronesia, Polynesia, Melanesia) and explores such topics as male/female relations, sorcery, exchange, colonialism, and economic development.

E380 Urban Anthropology (3 cr.) An examination of urban social organization in cross-cultural perspective, including theoretical perspectives on urbanization, kinship and social networks, economic and political factors, and cultural pluralism.

E391 Women in Developing Countries (3 cr.) This course explores the nature of women's roles in developing countries. Particular emphasis is placed on examining how development and cultural change have affected the lives of women.

E402 Gender in Cross-Cultural Perspective (3 cr.) This course considers the meaning and social implications of gender in human society. Cultural definitions of "male" and "female" gender categories as well as associated behavioral and structural differentiation of gender roles will be analyzed using current anthropological concepts and theories.

E404 Field Methods in Ethnography (3 cr.) Introduction to the methods and techniques anthropologists use to study other peoples. Preparation of a research proposal, interviewing, and the use of life histories and case studies.

E411 Wealth, Exchange, and Power in Anthropological Perspective (3 cr.) This course examines cultural patterns of production, exchange, and consumption, with an emphasis on non-Western societies and how these factors influence economic development in the Third World.

E421 The Anthropology of Aging (3 cr.) This course explores age and the aging process cross-culturally by looking at the specific cultural context in which individuals age and by analyzing similarities and differences across cultures.

E445 Medical Anthropology (3 cr.) A cross-cultural examination of human biocultural adaptation in health and disease, including biocultural epidemiology; ethnomedical systems in the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of disease; and sociocultural change and health. Also available for graduate credit.

E455 Anthropology of Religion (3 cr.) Critical evaluation of current approaches to the analysis of religious myth, ritual, and symbolism. Problems in understanding religious beliefs of other cultures. Modern development of anthropology of religion.

E457 Ethnic Identity (3 cr.) A cross-cultural analysis of the nature of ethnic groups and identity, including the effects of colonialism and nationalism on ethnic groups, stereotyping groups, ethnic symbols and styles, and persistence and change in ethnicity.

E470 Psychological Anthropology (3 cr.) A cross-cultural examination of human behavior in its ethnic context, including selected topics such as socialization, sex roles, altered states of consciousness, and personality and sociocultural change.

L300 Language and Culture (3 cr.) This course explores the relationships between language and culture, focusing on research methodology and surveying various theoretical frameworks. Topics to be discussed include linguistic relativity (the Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis), ethnographies of communication, interview techniques, and methods of data collection and analysis.

L401 Language, Power, and Gender (3 cr.) This course investigates sociocultural aspects of language use, focusing on the interaction of power and gender with language. Topics include differences in men's and women's language use, discourse patterns and power relationships, and identity and language use. To what extent does the language we speak sustain the dominance of certain groups in our society?

P220 The Rise of Civilization (3 cr.) Covers the development of complex societies in several regions of the world. The material is approached from an anthropological perspective, with emphasis on archaeological methods of data collection and analysis. Early civilizations in Iraq, India, Egypt, Rome, China, Peru, and Central America will be discussed.

P330 Historical Archaeology (3 cr.) We will examine the ways in which historical archaeologists investigate Colonial and American cultures and lifeways in various regions of North America throughout time. Special attention will be given to understanding the long and complex history of Native American/European interactions. North American social systems, interaction with and exploitation of the environment, technologies, and material culture. The theory and methods used by historical archaeologists will also be emphasized.

P402 Archaeological Method and Theory (3 cr.) This class is concerned with how archaeologists know what they know about the past. Methods of data collection are reviewed and theoretical interpretations are discussed. The focus of the course is on evaluation of archaeological research and explanation, with special emphasis on critical thinking.

Independent Study Courses

A494 Practicum in Applied Anthropology (1-4 cr.) P: permission of instructor. An arranged experience in applied anthropology, appropriate to individual career goals. The student will work with an approved community group or organization in a specific project that facilitates the integration of previous course work and experience in a practical application. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

A495 Independent Studies in Anthropology (2-4 cr.) P: permission of instructor. A supervised, in-depth examination through individual research on a particular topic selected and conducted by the student in consultation with an anthropology faculty member.

A594 Independent Learning in Applied Anthropology (3 cr.) P: permission of instructor. Independent research/training using the anthropological perspective/methods in addressing social issues. The project must be a discrete activity with a concrete product, conducted in conjunction with the student's anthropology advisor and the member of the organization where she or he will be located. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

A600 Seminar in Anthropology (2-4 cr.)

Graduate Minor in Anthropology and Health

The graduate minor in anthropology and health is an integrated field of 12 credit hours of study designed to supplement the graduate training of students with an interest in careers in the health field. The program has three goals: to provide students with a holistic perspective on the anthropology of health, which integrates human biology, ecology, and culture in a systems model of health; to develop students' anthropological inquiry skills in understanding health in human groups; and to develop students' abilities to apply anthropological concepts and skills to health interventions in the areas of their career focus. The graduate minor in anthropology and health will provide students with training that will add greater depth and breadth to their qualifications in their major field. They will be able to use the cross-cultural and bio-cultural perspectives of anthropology to supplement their primary graduate training to better prepare them for a career in the health fields. This focused training will enable students to use anthropological concepts and skills to identify bio-cultural factors in the occurrence of disease, to understand ethnic behavior related to illness, and to identify where health programs across social and ethnic lines can be made more effective.

Course Requirements

Twelve credit hours approved for the minor in anthropology and health with a grade point average of at least 3.25, including E445; A594; one course selected from B521, B523, B525, E404, E606, and L605; and one elective.

Courses

E445 Medical Anthropology (3 cr.) A cross-cultural examination of human biocultural adaptation in health and disease, including biocultural epidemiology, ethnomedical systems in the presentation, diagnosis, and treatment of disease, and sociocultural change and health.

A594 Independent Learning in Applied Anthropology (3 cr.) P: permission of instructor. Independent research/training using anthropological perspectives/methods in addressing social issues. The project must be a discrete activity with a concrete product, conducted in conjunction with the student's anthropology advisor and a member of the organization where she or he will be located. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

Research Methods in the Anthropology of Health

B521 Bioanthropology Research Methods (3 cr.)

B523 Anthropometry (3 cr.)

B525 Genetic Methods in Anthropology (3 cr.)

E404 Field Methods in Ethnography (3 cr.)

E606 Research Methods in Cultural Anthropology (3 cr.)

L605 Field Methods in Anthropological Linguistics (3 cr.)

Electives

Electives will be selected from approved anthropology courses offered at IUPUI and IU Bloomington in consultation with the minor advisor.

Folklore

F101 Introduction to Folklore (3 cr.) A view of the main forms and varieties of folklore and folk expression in tales, ballads, gestures, beliefs, games, proverbs, riddles, and traditional arts and crafts. The role of folklore in the life of human beings.

Communication studies is an integral part of the liberal arts. The Department of Communication Studies at IUPUI offers a major, several minors, and a Master of Arts degree in applied communication. The curriculum focuses on communication theories, methods, and competencies from a variety of contexts; interpersonal, group, organizational, rhetoric/public address, media studies, and theater.

Communication Studies course work assists students in enhancing such competencies as critical inquiry, problem solving, media and message design, oral performance, relational interaction, and cultural communication. The Communication Studies curriculum provides a foundation for students interested in pursuing careers that apply communication principles, such as public relations, sales, marketing, video or film production, corporate media production, training and development, human resources, public affairs, consulting, and special events planning. In addition, it prepares students for graduate work in various areas, including communication, informatics, humanities, or social sciences, or in professional programs such as law, business, health, and social work.

The department offers a competitive intercollegiate forensics program, provides numerous opportunities for study abroad, and sponsors the biennial Waldo M. and Grace C. Bonderman IUPUI National Youth Theatre Playwriting Workshop and Symposium.

For more information, contact the department office at (317) 274-2566, or by e-mail at commdept@iupui.edu, or visit the Communication Studies Web site: www.iupui.edu/~comstudy.

Major in Communication Studies

Requirements:

Every major must complete a minimum of 33 credit hours. The following are a list of additional requirements to successfully complete the major:

- Each student must successfully complete the following three courses: G100 Introduction to Communication Studies, C201 Introduction to Communication Theory, and C299 Introduction to Communication Research.
- Each student must take 6 credit hours in cluster one (Oral Performance). At least 3 hours must be at the 300 level or above.
- Each student must take 6 credit hours in cluster two (Theoretical/Historical Foundations). At least 3 hours must be at the 300 level or above.
- Each student must take 3 credit hours in cluster three (Research/Capstone Experience).
- At least 15 credit hours in the major must be in courses at the 300 level or above.
- The student must take at least 3 credit hours in each of the four designated prefixes of C, M, R, and T: Communication, including Organizational Communication ("C" courses), Media Studies ("M" courses), Rhetoric and Public Address ("R" courses), and Theatre ("T" courses).
- No more than 12 credit hours may transfer. At least 21 credit hours must be taken in the Department of Communication Studies at IUPUI.
- The student must earn a C or higher in all major course work.
- At least 21 credit hours of the major must be in courses offered solely or cooperatively by the communications studies department.

No student may count more than a total of 9 credits of G300 Independent Study and G491 Internship toward graduation.

The faculty highly recommends that G100, C201, and C299 be taken early in the student's academic career.

Core Courses (These classes are essential; they are the first classes in the department that a student must take.)

G100 Introduction to Communication Studies
C201 A First Look at Communication Theory
C299 Introduction to Communication Research

Cluster I: Each of the following courses has significant units designed to help the student enhance oral performance skills. Majors will select 6 hours. At least 3 credit hours must be at the 300 level or above.

C104 Voice and Diction
T133 Acting I
M150 Mass Media and Contemporary Society
T205 Oral Interpretation
R227 Argumentation and Debate
C228 Discussion and Group Methods
R320 Advanced Public Communication
C325 Interviewing Principles and Practices

Cluster II: Each of the courses in this cluster is designed to provide students with experiences in theory, history, and/or methodologies appropriate to the discipline. Majors will select 6 hours. At least 3 credit hours must be at the 300 level or above.

C180 Interpersonal Communication

(This course may count toward major or School of Liberal Arts requirements, but not both.)

R309 Great Speakers: American Public Address

R310 Rhetoric and Public Address

R321 Persuasion

R330 Communication Criticism

T337 History of the Theatre I

T338 History of the Theatre II

T339 Play Directing

G375 Topics in Nonverbal Communication

C380 Organizational Communication

M462 Television Aesthetics and Criticism

Cluster III: Each of these courses in this cluster are designed to provide students with a capstone experience. Students must take 3 credit hours.

C322 Advanced Interpersonal Communication 3 hours

C328 Advanced Topics in Small Group Comm. 3 hours

C392 Health Communication 3 hours

C482 Intercultural Communication 3 hours

G499 Research Seminar 3 hours

M462 Television Aesthetics and Criticism 3 hours

R330 Communication Criticism 3 hours

Other Cluster III courses might include:

G300 Independent Study

G391 Seminar

(Permission must be granted by advisor.)

Electives The remaining 9 hours may be selected from any of the courses offered in communication studies, as long as departmental degree requirements are met.

Communication Studies Honors Degree Requirements

A list of communication studies courses approved for H-Options is available in the Honors Program office or in the department's office. Other courses may be arranged by departmental approval. Students graduating with departmental honors will receive a certificate and a letter of acknowledgment.

Minors in Communication Studies

Note: Students selecting any of the minors below must consult with a department academic advisor. Minors require 15 credit hours, at least 6 of which must be taken at IUPUI.

Communication Arts A generalist minor for anyone wishing an acquaintance with liberal arts from a communication perspective.

Required: G100, plus 12 elected credit hours. The 12 credit hours should be elected in consultation with, or approved by, a departmental academic advisor; the credit hours must be from at least two areas within the department curriculum (areas prefixed C, M, R, T); and, at least 6 credit hours must be from the 300 level or above.

Media Studies Designed to accommodate students interested in the scholarly study of communication media. The minor in Media Studies takes as its starting point an introduction to various media as conveyors of meaning, cultural artifacts, industries, and art forms through the required course M150 Mass Media and Contemporary Society. Students are then able to organize the remainder of their course work in the media studies minor in one of two concentrations: either media production or media aesthetics.

Students wishing to minor in media studies will take M150 Mass Media and Contemporary Society and 12 credit hours from one of the two concentrations, of which 6 credit hours must be at the 300 level or above:

Media Production

M210 Media Message Design

M220 Electronic Graphic Production

M221 Electronic Media Production

M290 Video Production Workshop

M461 Production Problems in Communication Media

M463 Advanced Graphic Technique

M464 Advanced Audio Technique

M465 Advanced Video Technique

M466 Television Direction

Media Aesthetics

M215 Media Literacy

G391 Seminar (in media)

M373 Film and Video Documentary

M462 Television Aesthetics and Criticism

Up to 6 credit hours from other courses approved by the departmental curriculum committee.

Organizational Communication Provides students with the opportunity to develop knowledge and communication competencies applicable in a wide variety of profit and nonprofit organizations.

Required (15 credit hours): C380 and 12 credit hours elected from C180, M150, C228, R320, R321, C325, C328, C392, C394, and G499. Of these 12 hours, at least 3 must be at the 300 level or above.

Theatre Provides knowledge and skills for teaching and lays the basis for further study in acting, theatre directing, youth theatre, and playwriting.

Required for General Theatre Minor (15 credit hours): 12 credit hours elected from T130, T133, T337, T338, and T339. Remaining 3 elective credit hours in theatre courses must be at the 300 level or above.

Required for Youth Theatre Minor (15 credit hours): T130, T133, T336, T437, and T440.

G491 Internship (3-6 cr.) P: permission of instructor; for seniors and majors only. Internship in rhetoric and public address, theatre arts, interpersonal/organizational communication, media studies permitted under the auspices of a qualified cooperating organization. Periodic meetings with faculty advisors and term paper detailing intern's professional activities and reactions. Apply during semester prior to desired internship. Total credit applicable to graduation shall not exceed 9 credit hours of G300 and G491.

G499 Research Seminar (3 cr.) P: upper-division standing or permission of instructor. A survey of the methods used by communication researchers for gathering and interpreting information emphasizing the relationship between theory and research, the seminar will explore important issues such as ethics and naturalistic vs. laboratory approaches.

Masters of Arts in Applied Communication

The Department of Communication Studies offers an M.A. in Applied Communication with concentrations in corporate communication, health communication, or media criticism/management. This unique applied program provides students with theoretical understanding of communication processes as well as with the competencies and skills necessary to address specific communication issues and problems by applying discipline-specific knowledge. The program readies the advanced student for professional career paths and future academic pursuits.

Requirements for Admission Applicants should have: 1) a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum GPA of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale), 2) satisfactory scores on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), and 3) three letters of recommendation. In addition, evidence of strong analytical and writing skills, a background in research methods, and experience in the analysis of communication phenomena are highly recommended.

Course Work All course work must be completed with a grade of C or higher to count toward the degree. The student must maintain a B average (3.0) or higher in order to graduate. In addition, the student must pass the comprehensive examination in order to complete the degree requirements.

Degree Requirements Completion of 33 credit hours, including:

- 1) nine credit hours of core requirements (C500 Advanced Communication Theory, C501 Applied Communication Research, C503 Applied Learning Project, OR C597 Thesis);
- 2) eighteen credits of applied communication elective courses;
- 3) six credits of approved interdisciplinary course work at the graduate level from outside of the Communication Studies Department;
- 4) successful completion of comprehensive examinations.

Economics is the social science in which one studies people's behavior in consuming, producing, exchanging, and distributing goods and services. It provides a framework for understanding how decisions of individuals affect the national economy. It helps explain how the economy and how politicians' and government regulators' decisions are affected by their own interests.

Major in Economics

The economics major has the option of pursuing a general track or a quantitative track. The general track provides a firm grounding in economic theory and exposure to problems and techniques the student is likely to encounter in a business, nonprofit, or government agency environment. The quantitative track supplements the general track with extensive training in mathematical and statistical techniques required for graduate course work. This track is also recommended for those students who prefer a more quantitative approach to problem solving. Completion of this track fully prepares the student for entrance into the department's Master of Arts in Economics program at IUPUI as well as graduate programs at other universities.

All majors must complete 18 credit hours in economics to include E201, E202, E270, E321, E322, and E406. Except for E406, the senior seminar, these courses should be completed by the end of the junior year. Note that E201 is a prerequisite for E202 and E321 and that E202 is a prerequisite for E322. E321 and E322 are prerequisites for E406.

A. General Track

The general track requires an additional six courses, consisting of the following:

1. two courses (6 credit hours) in mathematics, including finite mathematics and calculus (typically M118 and M119). Additional work in mathematics, computer science, and accounting is recommended.
2. three 300- or 400-level electives from economics.

The total number of credit hours is 33.

B. Quantitative Track

The quantitative track requires an additional six courses (or seven courses, depending on the math sequence) consisting of the following:

1. M163 and M164 (10 credit hours);
2. E470;

3. one 300- or 400-level elective (excluding E335 and E470).

The total number of credit hours is 34.

To satisfy the department's residency requirement, at least 12 credit hours of economics must be taken at IUPUI.

A grade of C (2.0) or higher must be received in each course required for the major (a C- does not count).

Minor in Economics

A minor in economics is a logical supplement to programs in business, engineering, technology, health services, science, and the social sciences. A knowledge of economic theory, economic institutions, and how economic policy is formed is necessary for students preparing for careers in law, science, government, or any area that uses the scarce resources of our society.

Requirements

The requirements for a minor in economics are as follows:

1. 15 credit hours in economics courses to include E201 and E202 and three 300- or 400-level courses. (E270 may be substituted for one of the 300- to 400-level courses.)
2. Residency requirements: 9 credit hours of the minor must be completed at IUPUI.
3. Grade requirement: The grade in each course submitted for the minor must be C (2.0) or higher.

Minor in Business

Students are required to meet course prerequisites and entrance requirements, which include completion of the following eight courses or equivalents with a minimum GPA of 2.0 to ensure admission into the business integrative core classes.

BUS A100 Basic Accounting Skills
 BUS A201 Introduction to Financial Accounting
 BUS A202 Introduction to Managerial Accounting
 ECON E201 Introduction to Microeconomics
 ECON E202 Introduction to Macroeconomics
 ECON E270 Introduction to Statistical Theory in Economics
 MATH M118 Finite Mathematics
 MATH M119 Brief Survey of Calculus I

In addition, BUS K201 The Computer in Business, or its equivalent, must be completed with a minimum grade of C before starting the integrative core. Business minors are required to take the integrative core, which is 9 credit hours taken together as a single educational unit (BUS F301 Financial Management, M301 Introduction to Marketing Management, and P301 Operations Management), and must apply for space in the three core classes. Application periods are January 15 to March 1 for the fall semester and August 15 to October 1 for the spring semester. Applications are available in Business/SPEA Building 3020.

In addition to the 12 required courses listed above, BUS X204 Business Communications (3 cr.), BUS L203 Commercial Law I (3 cr.), and BUS Z302 Managing and Behavior in Organizations (3 cr.) are recommended. As with all courses listed above, the Kelley School of Business will impose essentially the same standards for students minoring in business who are enrolled in the integrative core (BUS F301, M301, and P301) as for business majors.

The above minor requires 15-18 credit hours outside of business and 16-18 credit hours of business courses to make up the 34 credit hours required for the minor. Students are encouraged to seek academic advising from their major department to ensure that program planning is accurate. Descriptions of these business courses can be found in the Kelley School of Business Undergraduate Program Bulletin for the Indianapolis campus.

Master of Arts Degree

The Master of Arts program has a twofold objective: (1) to provide students with analytical capabilities and research skills for careers in business, government, and the nonprofit sector; and (2) to prepare those who wish to pursue the Ph.D. at another university or Indiana University Bloomington.

Admission Requirements

Applicants should have completed a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution. Ordinarily, applicants should have a minimum grade point average of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale in their undergraduate course work and in their previous economics courses. Before undertaking graduate study in economics, a student should have knowledge of intermediate-level undergraduate economic theory (E321 and E322), statistics (E270), multivariate differential and integral calculus (the IUPUI equivalents are M163 and M164 offered by the mathematics department, and finite mathematics (M118). Students with deficiencies in economics and/or mathematics may be admitted on a conditional basis.

The verbal, quantitative, and analytical portions of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) are required and applicants are urged to complete the examination by December of the year before admission.

Three letters of recommendation are required. For students with English as a second language, a minimum TOEFL score of at least 550 is recommended.

Course Requirements

Students must complete a minimum of 30 credit hours of graduate course work, which may include up to 6 credits of thesis. Twelve (12) credit hours are devoted to the following required core courses: E504 Mathematics for Economists, E521 Theory of Prices and Markets, E522 Theory of Income and Employment, and E570 Fundamentals of Statistics and Econometrics. These core courses serve as prerequisites for some of the 500-level field courses. No more than 9 of the remaining 18 credits may be earned in courses numbered below 500. If a thesis is written, it must be defended. If a thesis is not written, there will be a comprehensive written examination with an oral defense in an area of specialization within economics.

Students have the option of replacing the thesis with reading proficiency in a foreign language or with 6 credit hours of course work in the tool skills of mathematics or computer science. Consult the department's graduate study guide for a list of acceptable research-skill courses. Courses taken to meet the language or tool skill options are not counted toward the 30 credit hours required for the degree.

Grades

The student must receive at least a C (2.0) in each course and must average at least a B (3.0 on a 4.0 scale) for all courses taken.

Undergraduate Courses

Honors Courses

S201 Introduction to Microeconomics: Honors (3 cr.) Designed for students of superior ability. Covers the same core materials as E201.

S202 Introduction to Macroeconomics: Honors (3 cr.) Designed for students of superior ability. Covers the same core materials as E202.

S270 Introduction to Statistical Theory in Economics and Business: Honors (3 cr.) P: MATH M118. P or C: MATH M119 or 163. Covers the same core materials as E270 but with more involved applications in economics.

Non-Honors Courses

E100 Current Economic Topics (1 cr.) Discussion of socioeconomic issues from applied point of view through investigation and analysis of current topics of interest such as bank regulations, foreign policy, economics of defense, international trade and finance, ethics and economics, economics of crime, and economics of discrimination. Not open to those with previous college-level economics courses.

E101 Survey of Current Economic Issues and Problems (3 cr.) For nonmajors only. Basic economic principles applied to current social issues and problems. Topics covered will typically include inflation, unemployment, wage and price controls, welfare, social security, national debt, health programs, food prices, pollution, crime, mass transit, revenue sharing, multinationals, population, and energy. Not open to those with previous college-level economics courses.

E111-E112 Topics in the Economic History of Western Civilization I-II (3-3 cr.) Selected topics in the economic history of Western civilization, including the growth of the market organization, industrialization, institutional growth and change, imperialism, and labor.

E201 Introduction to Microeconomics (3 cr.) P: sophomore standing. E201 is a general introduction to microeconomic analysis. Discussed are the method of economics, scarcity of resources, the interaction of consumers and businesses in the market place in order to determine price, and how the market system places a value on factors of production.

E202 Introduction to Macroeconomics (3 cr.) P: E201. An introduction to macroeconomics that studies the economy as a whole; the levels of output, prices, and employment; how they are measured and how they can be changed; money and banking; international trade; and economic growth.

E270 Introduction to Statistical Theory in Economics (3 cr.) P: MATH M118. Analysis and interpretation of statistical data in business and economics. Discussion of frequency distribution, measures of central tendency and variability, statistical inference, hypothesis testing, correlation, regression, and time series.

E303 Survey of International Economics (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Survey of international economics. Basis for and effects of international trade, commercial policy and effects of trade restrictions, balance of payments and exchange rate adjustment, international monetary systems, and fixed vs. flexible exchange rates. Students who have taken E430 may not enroll in E303 for credit.

E304 Survey of Labor Economics (3 cr.) P: E201. Economics problems of the wage earner in modern society; structure, policies, and problems of labor organizations; employer and governmental labor relationships.

E305 Money and Banking (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Money and banking system of the United States, including problems of money and the price level, proper organization and functioning of commercial banking and Federal Reserve System, monetary standards, and credit control. Recent monetary and banking trends.

E307 Current Economic Issues (3 cr.) P: E201 or permission of instructor. Current economic issues, problems, and research methods. Designed to explore in depth an economic issue currently before the public or to examine a particular aspect of the methodology of economics. Examples would be a study of the economic aspects of discrimination, a study of urban economic policy, or a study of simplified models in economics.

E308 Survey of Public Finance (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Analysis of government expenditures and revenue sources, taxation and capital formation, public debt and inflation, growth in government spending, and intergovernmental fiscal relations.

E321 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory (3 cr.) P: E201-E202, MATH M119. Theory of demand; theory of production; pricing under different market conditions; allocation and pricing of resources; partial and general equilibrium theory; and welfare economics. Analysis of current economic problems and technology changes in firms and industries.

E322 Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Theory of income, employment, and price level. Study of countercyclical and other public policy measures. National income accounting.

E323 Urban Economics (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Introduction to basic concepts and techniques of urban economic analysis to facilitate understanding of urban problems; urban growth and structure, poverty, housing, transportation, and public provision of urban services.

E325 Comparative Economic Systems (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Essential economic theories and features of economic systems, including private enterprise, authoritarian socialism, and liberal socialism.

E326 Applied Research in Urban Economics (3 cr.) P: E201-E202 or permission of instructor. Field research in urban economics. Topics to be selected by students, covering such areas as human resource problems, transportation and housing surveys, demographic shifts, and income distribution issues.

E335 Introduction to Mathematical Methods in Economics (4 cr.) P: E201-E202, MATH M118-M119. Introduction to quantitative techniques used in economics, and instruction in the application of these techniques to the analysis of economics problems.

E337 Economic Development (3 cr.) P: E201, E202, and junior standing or consent of instructor. Characteristics of economically underdeveloped countries. Obstacles to sustained growth; planning and other policies for stimulating growth; examination of development problems and experience in particular countries.

E355 Monetary Economics (3 cr.) P: E305 or E322 or equivalents. Supply and demand functions for money in the context of models of the U.S. economy. Formulation of Federal Reserve policy decisions and effects on interest rates, prices, output, and employment. Current problems in monetary policy and theory.

E363 Environmental and Natural Resource Economics (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Basic theory and policy of such topics as pollution, resource depletion, environmental risk, and resource conservation. Issues covered include limits to growth, quality of life, and the appropriate roles for the private market and federal control. Credit not given for both E363 and E463.

E380 Law and Economics (3 cr.) P: E201 or permission of instructor. The application of economic method to legal institutions and legal issues. Examples would be the optimum use of resources to prevent crime, the economic value of a human life, the economic consequences of regulating the business firm, the economics of property rights, torts, and contracts.

E385 Economics of Industry (3 cr.) P: E201 or permission of instructor. A theoretical and empirical analysis of the structure, conduct, and performance of major American industries. Emphasized is the degree of competition in various markets, how markets operate under conditions of competition or monopoly, and competition as a dynamic process over time.

E387 Health Economics (3 cr.) P: E201. This course applies economic theory to the study of policy issues in health economics. Specific issues included are: determinants of demand for medical services and insurance; training and pricing behavior of physicians; pricing behavior and costs of hospitals; market and regulative approaches.

E406 Senior Seminar (3 cr.) P: E321 and E322 or permission of instructor. Assessment of the current state of economic knowledge and discussion of how economics is applied to study the problems facing modern society.

E408 Undergraduate Readings in Economics (3 cr. maximum) P: permission of instructor. Individual readings and research.

E410 Selected Topics in U.S. Economic History (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Analysis of selected topics, including transportation developments, government intervention, systems of property rights, slavery, economic growth, income distribution, economic stability, technical change, and others.

E414 Economics of the Nonprofit Sector (3 cr.) P: E201. The role of nonprofit organizations (universities, churches, hospitals, orchestras, charities, day care, research, nursing homes) in mixed economics. Public policy controversies such as regulation of fundraising, antitrust against universities, "unfair" competition with for-profit firms, and the tax treatment of donations.

E420 History of Economic Thought (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Examination of main theoretical developments since the beginning of the systematic study of economics. Theoretical propositions and structures of the earlier writers will be interpreted and evaluated in terms of modern economic analysis.

E430 Introduction to International Economics (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. Forces determining international trade, finance, and commercial policy under changing world conditions; theory of international trade; structure of world trade; tariff and trade control policies; the balance of payments problem; evolution of international economic institutions; and monetary relations.

E441 Economics of Labor Markets (3 cr.) P: E201, E321, and E270 or equivalent. Analysis of the functioning of labor markets with theoretical, empirical, and policy applications in determination of employment and wages in the U.S. economy.

E447 Economics of the Labor Market (3 cr.) P: E201. Analysis of the functioning of the U.S. labor market. Labor force concepts, unemployment, mobility, wages, and current manpower problems and policies. Analysis of wage determination, wage policy, and their interaction with institutional factors.

E450 Business Conditions Analysis and Forecasting (3 cr.) P: E201-E202. This course examines sources of instability in industrialized economies. Various theories of the business cycle are examined and critiqued. In addition, the empirical determinant of aggregate demand, prices, and interest rates are discussed. Alternative forecasting techniques are considered and the use of these techniques is demonstrated.

E470 Introduction to Econometrics (3 cr.) P: E270, MATH M119. Application of regression analysis to economic and business data. Estimation and hypothesis testing of classical regression model. Heteroscedasticity, collinearity, errors in observation, functional forms, and autoregressive models. Estimation of simultaneous equation models. Credit will not be given for both E470 and E472.

E485 Economic and Social Control of Industry (Antitrust) (3 cr.) P: E201 or permission of instructor. This course is a study of the economic reasoning behind and consequences of the application of antitrust laws aimed at altering the structure, conduct, and performance of the American economy. Specific legal cases that have been brought under the Sherman Act, the Clayton Act, as amended, and the Federal Trade Commission Act are analyzed.

Graduate Courses

E504 Mathematics for Economists (3 cr.) Topics in mathematics that are particularly useful in the application of microeconomic theory, macroeconomic theory, and econometrics. Topics covered include: matrix algebra, comparative-static analysis, constrained optimization, difference equations in discrete time, game theory, and set theory as applied to general equilibrium analysis.

E513 Special Topics in Economic History (3 cr.) Explicit methodology and economic analysis applied to major issues in American and European economic history.

E514 The Nonprofit Economy and Public Policy (3 cr.) P: E201. The role of nonprofit organizations (universities, churches, hospitals, orchestras, charities, day care, research, nursing homes) in mixed economies. Public policy controversies such as regulation of fundraising, antitrust against universities, "unfair" competition with for-profit firms, and the tax treatment of donations. (This course may not be taken for credit by anyone who has received credit for E414.)

E519 Regional Economics (3 cr.) Regional economics is the study of economic behavior in space. The course examines the internal and interregional determinants of growth and decline of a region from supply and demand perspectives. Public policies to influence these determinants are considered.

E521 Theory of Prices and Markets (3 cr.) P: E504 or consent of instructor. Pure theory of consumer behavior, competitive exchange, theory of production; resource allocation, Pareto optimum, monopoly and monopsony, imperfect competition, moral hazard, adverse selection, and market signaling.

E522 Theory of Income and Employment I (3 cr.) P: E504 or consent of instructor. Intensive study of intermediate income theory; emphasis on construction and empirical significance of aggregative economic models of the determination of income, employment, and price level.

E528 Economic Analysis of Health Care (3 cr.) A graduate introduction to health economics. Applications of economic theory to problems in various areas in health care. Applications of econometric techniques to the same. Topics include how physicians, institutions, and consumers respond to economic incentives and what policies contribute maximally to efficiency and welfare.

E541 Labor Market Analysis (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. An analytical approach to the labor market. Theoretical underpinning and statistical testing of issues on demand and supply of labor, household decision making, human capital, contract theories, unionism, minimum wages, and discrimination.

E545 Applied Labor Economics (3 cr.) P: E321 or E470 or equivalents. Discussion of wage rates and working conditions, searches by workers or firms, investment in training, quits and layoffs, shirking, discrimination, the division of household labor, retirement, and implicit contracts. The course also examines the impact of institutions such as unions and the government on the efficiency of the labor market.

E551 Monetary Theory and Control (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. Theory of portfolio allocation with specific reference to commercial banking; theory and practice of central bank control instruments and models of Federal Reserve behavior; role of money in determining equilibrium and growth.

E568 Public Finance I (3 cr.) P: E308 and E470. Partial equilibrium, microeconomic analysis of how tax and subsidy policies affect various types of individual and firm behavior. Theoretical models are introduced to assess and develop quantitative studies of fiscal policy. Summaries of the empirical impact of policy will be formed for the purpose of becoming an “input” in the complete general equilibrium analysis conducted in Public Finance II.

E569 Public Finance II (3 cr.) P: E568. Empirical examination of the general equilibrium effects of major tax and subsidy programs, such as personal income taxation, corporate profit taxation, income maintenance, social security, and government provision of education. In addition, proposed reforms to these programs will be analyzed using empirically based simulation models.

E570 Fundamentals of Statistics and Econometrics (3 cr.) Mathematical overview of statistics and econometrics at graduate level. Topics covered include probability and probability distributions, sampling distributions, tests of hypotheses, estimation, simple regression, multiple regression, generalized linear model and its applications, simultaneous equation system.

E574 Applied Econometrics and Forecasting (3 cr.) P: E570. An overview of techniques employed in economic model building, estimation, and usage. Topics covered include single and multi-equation system estimation, limited dependent variable regression techniques, hypothesis testing, policy analysis, and forecasting. Various forecasting techniques are discussed, including smoothing and decomposition methods and time series analysis. A number of projects are assigned throughout the semester in order to give the student hands-on experience with the different techniques.

E581 Topics in Applied Microeconomics I (3 cr.) P: E521. This course is a graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of microeconomics. Applications to problems in the subdiscipline under study will be discussed. From an empirical standpoint, appropriate estimation techniques will also be discussed. Further discussion will consider how the system of firms, institutions, and consumers respond to economic incentives; and normative issues—what policies will contribute maximally to economic efficiency and social welfare.

E582 Topics in Applied Microeconomics II (3 cr.) P: E521. As in E582, this course will apply theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of microeconomics. Problems from a number of areas will be selected for demonstrating solutions. Theoretical model building and prediction, numerical model solving, and hypotheses testing empirically with real data will be included in the course.

E583 Introduction to Applied Macroeconomics (3 cr.) P: E522. This course is a graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of macroeconomics. Applications to problems in the subdiscipline under study will be discussed. Application of estimation and calibration techniques appropriate for the problems in the area will be discussed.

E585 Industrial Organization and Control (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. Analysis of interrelated structure, behavior, and performance in industrial markets and multimarket corporations; multidimensional nature of competitive processes. Public controls. Topics include patterns of oligopoly, vertical integration, entry barriers, “cartelized” coalescence, limit pricing, price discrimination, long-term contracts, capacity expansion and utilization, resource reallocation, and innovation.

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 502L, (317) 274-2258 or (317) 274-3824. English department faculty advise majors under the coordination of Professor Stephen Fox, associate chair for students, Cavanaugh Hall 502E, (317) 278-2054.

The Department of English offers introductory and advanced instruction in the methods and traditions of literary analysis, writing, and language study. Its programs are in five areas: linguistics, literature, writing, creative writing, and film studies.

The department administers programs in American Sign Language/English Interpreting and English as a Second Language. The department also oversees the ACT/IUPUI Theatre Education Program.

Through its courses and other activities in linguistics, writing, creative writing, film, and literature, the Department of English works to create and sustain evolving communities of learners interested in the contributions of language to what has been called the examined life—a thoughtful, morally aware, and civically and personally responsible existence. Faculty and students aim for excellence in analyzing, understanding, and communicating about language and its beauties.

For more information, visit the English department's Web site: english.iupui.edu.

Contact the department office at (317) 274-2258 or english@iupui.edu with messages, questions, and announcements, or to subscribe to the department's e-mail list for announcements and news.

Major in English

The major requires completion of one of the following six concentrations: Creative Writing, Film Studies, Linguistics, Literature, Writing and Literacy, or Individualized Studies. Each concentration requires 33 credit hours in English with a minimum grade of C in each course. All English majors must complete at least 15 hours in English at the 300-400 level. Each concentration (except Individualized Studies) begins with a gateway course that may be used to fill distribution requirements in other concentrations. Therefore, students should feel free to take more than one gateway course before deciding on a concentration. All majors take the capstone course, E450. Any course, unless specified as repeatable for credit, may be used only once to fill requirements within a concentration.

CONCENTRATION IN CREATIVE WRITING

Gateway Course (3 cr.)

Choose one:
W206 Introduction to Creative Writing
W207 Introduction to Fiction Writing
W208 Introduction to Poetry Writing

Distribution Courses (9 cr.) One 3-credit course each, at the 200 level or above, in linguistics (including W310 Language and Study of Writing), literature, and writing (excluding W396 Writing Fellows Training Seminar, E398 Internship in English, and creative writing courses).

Workshop Courses (12 cr.) At least 3 credits must be at the 400 level. Choose from the following courses, only one of which may be repeated for credit:

W301 Writing Fiction
W302 Screenwriting
W303 Writing Poetry
W305 Writing Creative Nonfiction
W401 Advanced Fiction Writing
W403 Advanced Poetry Writing

English Electives (6 cr.) One additional 200-400-level literature course and one additional 200-400-level writing (excluding creative writing), linguistics, or film course, or E398 Internship in English.

Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) E450

CONCENTRATION IN FILM STUDIES

Gateway Course (3 cr.) C292 Introduction to Film Studies

Distribution Courses (9 cr.) One 3-credit course each, at the 200 level or above, in linguistics (including W310 Language and Study of Writing), literature, and writing or creative writing (excluding W260 Film Criticism, W302 Screenwriting, W396 Writing Fellows Training Seminar, and E398 Internship in English).

Film Theory Course (3 cr.) C391 The Film: Theory and Aesthetics

Culture and Film History Courses (6 cr.)

C390 The Film and Society (may be repeated once with different topic)
C393 History of European and American Films I
C394 History of European and American Films II

Genres and Authorship Courses (6 cr.)

C392 Genre Study in Film
C491 Authorship and Cinema
Communication Studies M373 Film and Video Documentary

Film, Writing, and Literature Course (3 cr.)

W260 Film Criticism
W302 Screenwriting
C493 Film Adaptations of Literature

Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) E450

CONCENTRATION IN LINGUISTICS

Gateway Course (3 cr.) G205 Introduction to the English Language

Distribution Courses (9 cr.) One 3-credit course each, at the 200 level or above, in literature, writing (excluding W396 Writing Fellows Training Seminar, E398 Internship in English, and creative writing courses), and either creative writing or film studies.

Core Course (3 cr.) G206 Introduction to Grammar

General Linguistics (6 cr.)

Choose two:
G301 History of the English Language
G302 Structure of Modern English
G310 Social Speech Patterns
G432 Second Language Acquisition
Anthropology L300 Language and Culture
Anthropology L401 Language, Power, and Gender

Applied Linguistics (6 cr.)

Choose two:
W310 Language and Study of Writing
G400 Teaching English for Specific Purposes
G434 TESOL Methods
G441 Materials Preparation

English Elective (3 cr.) One additional 200+ level course elective from linguistics, literature, writing, creative writing, or film, or E398 Internship in English.

Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) E450

CONCENTRATION IN LITERATURE

Gateway Course (3 cr.) L202 Literary Interpretation

Distribution Courses (9 cr.) One 3 credit course each, at the 200 level or above, in linguistics (preferably G205, G206, or G301), writing (excluding W396 Writing Fellows Seminar, E398 Internship in English, and creative writing courses), and either creative writing or film studies.

Literary Traditions Courses (6 cr.) Choose one of the following four options:

Surveys of British Literature (both)

L301 Critical and Historical Survey of English Literature I
L302 Critical and Historical Survey of English Literature II

Surveys of American Literature (choose two)

L351 Critical and Historical Study of American Literature I
L352 Critical and Historical Study of American Literature II
L354 Critical and Historical Study of American Literature III

L213 Literary Masterpieces I
L214 Literary Masterpieces II

Genre Courses (choose two)

L203 Introduction to Drama
L204 Introduction to Fiction
L205 Introduction to Poetry

Diversity Course (3 cr.)

Choose one:
L370 Recent Black American Writing
L378 Studies in Women and Literature
L379 American Ethnic and Minority Literature

L382 Fiction of the Non-Western World
L406 Topics in African American Literature
ANTH L401 Language, Power, and Gender or another course approved by the department chair

Intertextuality Course (3 cr.) L433 Conversations with Shakespeare

Literature Electives (6 cr.) Two literature courses at the 300-400 level; one must be at the 400 level

Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) E450

CONCENTRATION IN WRITING AND LITERACY

Gateway Course (3 cr.) W210 Literacy and Public Life

Distribution Courses (9 cr.) One 3-credit course each, at the 200 level or above, in linguistics (including W310 Language and the Study of Writing), literature, and either creative writing or film studies.

Language (3 cr.)

Choose one:
G204 Rhetorical Issues in Grammar and Usage
G310 Social Speech Patterns
ANTH L300 Language and Culture
ANTH L401 Language, Power, and Gender
W390 Topics in Writing (as appropriate)

History and Theories of Language (3 cr.)

Choose one:
G301 History of the English Language
W310 Language and the Study of Writing
W396 Writing Fellows Seminar
W400 Issues in the Teaching of Writing
W412 Technology and Literacy
Communication Studies R350 Womenspeak: American Feminist Rhetoric
Communication Studies R310 Rhetoric, Society, and Culture
W390 Topics in Writing (as appropriate)

Writing in Different Genres (12 cr.) Choose from two or three areas.

Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) E450

INDIVIDUALIZED CONCENTRATION

An individualized concentration must be a coherent plan, proposed in writing after consultation with an advisor, and approved by the department chair, before more than 18 credits in the concentration have been earned. It must include:

1. A minimum of 33 credits at the 200 level or above, with at least 15 of these credits at the 300-400 level
2. One 3-credit course each, at the 200 level or above, in three of the following four areas: linguistics (including W310 Language and Study of Writing), literature, writing (excluding W396 Writing Fellows Training Seminar, E398 Internship in English, and creative writing courses), and either creative writing or film studies
3. Capstone Seminar: E450

Certificate in Technical Communication

The Certificate in Technical Communication is offered by the School of Engineering and Technology in cooperation with the Department of English, the Department of Communication Studies, and the Society for Technical Communication. Students who earn the Certificate in Technical Communication will have demonstrated that they have the core competencies necessary for entry-level positions as technical communicators. They will have demonstrated their ability to gather and translate technical information for a variety of audiences. They will have designed, developed, and edited effective documents using rhetorical principles and current technology.

Any student formally admitted to IUPUI may be a candidate for the certificate. To receive the certificate, students must have a technical specialty (major, minor, or 9 credit hours of course work), successfully complete 18 credit hours of required and selected courses, and present a portfolio of work that is judged professionally competent by representatives of the local chapter of the Society for Technical Communication. Courses taken at other universities may be recognized as the equivalent of the required or selected courses. The technical communications coordinator in the School of Engineering and Technology must approve candidates' selections of courses.

Minors in English

The English department offers minors in these areas:

Literature
Writing
Creative Writing
Business and Professional Writing
Linguistics
Film Studies

Students intending to pursue a minor should declare such an intention in a letter to Associate Chair for Students Stephen Fox, and arrange for an initial conference with a departmental advisor to plan the program of study and a second conference to establish a rationale for elective courses. As with the major, students need to earn at least a C in each course for certification of the minor by the Department of English.

Minor in Literature

The minor in literature introduces students to the skills of interpretation and critical thinking and provides some familiarity with British and American literature.

Prerequisite: L115 with a grade of C or higher

Requirements: a total of 15 credit hours (five courses)

One course from the following: L202, L203, L204, or L205

One survey of British literature (L301 or L302) and one survey of American literature (L351, L352, or L354)

Two elective courses in literature, at least one of which must be at the 300 or 400 level

Minor in Writing

The minor in writing is designed to help students develop their abilities to write for a range of purposes: personal, civic, professional, and academic. Students pursuing this minor should work with a faculty advisor in planning their courses and developing their writing portfolio.

The minor requires 16 credit hours. At least 9 hours must be at the 300-400 level, and at least 10 hours must be in the English Department. Students must have a 2.5 or higher average in the 16 hours of the minor, and a minimum grade of C in each course for the minor.

Prerequisites: English W131 and a second writing course that counts in the student's degree program, such as English W132, W231, or W290; TCM 220; or Business X204 (both with a grade of C or higher).

Electives: Choose 15 credit hours from the following:

English W210, W260, W290 (if not used as second writing course), W310, W313, W315, W331, W365, W390, W396, W400, W411, W412, E398, G204

One creative writing course, chosen from English W206, W207, W208, W301, W302, W303, W305, W401, W403, and W411 (when done with a creative writing focus). (A Creative Writing Minor is also available in the English Department.)

Technical Communications TCM 320, 350

Communication Studies R310, R350

Required: One-credit portfolio course, English W411 (until a new course number is approved). Each student doing the minor will work with a faculty advisor to develop a writing portfolio. Students should sign up for this course in the semester they complete the minor, or the following semester; students may work with the faculty advisor informally before taking the portfolio course.

Minor in Creative Writing

The minor in creative writing will be of particular interest to students who are contemplating careers in writing or the teaching of writing. It is designed to serve, in addition, the needs of those who believe that one good way to study literature is to learn to produce it. Students choose 15 credit hours from the courses listed under "Creative Writing" in this bulletin and/or the Schedule of Classes.

Minor in Business and Professional Writing

A business and professional writing minor equips students to function effectively as writers in occupations ranging from business and industry to applied sciences, education, environmental affairs, government, health fields, and law.

This minor represents cooperation among the School of Liberal Arts, the School of Engineering and Technology, the Kelley School of Business, and the School of Journalism.

English courses must make up at least 10 credit hours of the minor; students are encouraged to take 3-6 credit hours outside of English. At least 9 credit hours of the minor must be at the 300-400 level. You must have a 2.5 or higher average in the 15 credit hours of the minor and a minimum grade of C in each course for the minor. Students pursuing this minor should work with a faculty advisor in planning their courses and developing their writing portfolio.

Prerequisite: W131 with a grade of C or higher

Required: One of the following: English W132, W231, Technical Communication TCM 220, Business X204

Five elective courses: English W290, W313, W315, W331 or TCM 340, W365, W396, W411, W412, E398, G204; TCM 320, 350; Journalism J319, J320, J390, J415

One-credit portfolio course: English W411 (until a new course number is approved) Each student doing the minor will work with a faculty advisor to develop a writing portfolio. Students should sign up for this course the semester they complete the minor, or the following semester; students may work with the faculty advisor informally before taking the portfolio course.

Minor in Linguistics

The minor in linguistics is intended for students who wish to expand their knowledge of language structure and use. Courses provide a background in linguistic theory and practice.

Required: G205

English G206, G301, G302, G310, G400, G432, G434, G441, W310
Anthropology L300, L401
American Sign Language L340, L342

In consultation with an advisor, advanced students may request permission to take a graduate course in linguistics in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the minor.

Minor in Film Studies

The minor in film studies provides the skills for understanding film in its aesthetic, popular, and ideological dimensions. Students with a minor in film studies will have a knowledge of film history, theory of film, genres and authorship, interpretive approaches to films, and film as a cultural artifact.

The minor in film studies requires 15 credit hours.

Required: Film C292 Introduction to Film (3 cr.)

Film C390, C391, C392, C393, C394, C491, C493; English W260; Communication Studies M373; German G370, G371

Internship in English

An internship is an on-the-job learning opportunity designed to supplement students' course work with practical, hands-on experience. IUPUI's Department of English offers internship credit as E398.

Interested students must have junior or senior standing, maintain a grade point average of at least 2.5, and furnish writing samples or have successfully completed advanced writing courses. They must register with the Professional Practices Program (PPP) in Business/SPEA Building 2010, (317) 274-3211, and meet with Department of English internship coordinator Professor Ken Davis, (317) 274-0084, kdavis@iupui.edu.

The Department of English also offers W396, an undergraduate tutoring internship in the University Writing Center. For more information, contact Writing Center Coordinator Tere Molinder-Hogue, Cavanaugh Hall 504K, (317) 274-5650 or tmhogue@iupui.edu.

Other Activities

The English Club The department sponsors an English club, which plans programs of interest to English majors.

genesis A semiannual literary journal, genesis publishes the work of student authors and artists.

The Film Studies Club The Film Studies Club is a group of students interested in film screenings during the fall and spring semesters. Interested students should contact the faculty advisor, Professor Dennis Bingham, (317) 274-9825 or dbingham@iupui.edu.

The Rufus Reiberg Creative Reading Series Named for a former chair of the English department, the Reiberg Series brings to campus each year an array of well-known and emerging fiction writers and poets for readings. Past writers have included Maxine Hong Kingston, Edward Hirsch, Catherine Bowman, David Citino, and Calvin Forbes.

Student Readings Each semester, the Creative Writing Program sponsors a series of monthly student readings at a local coffee house. For times and venues, or to be a featured reader, contact Terry Kirts, tkirts@iupui.edu, (317) 274-8929.

Undergraduate Courses

The department offers courses in five areas: linguistics, literature, writing, creative writing, and film studies.

The 100-level courses meet general degree requirements, but do not satisfy those of the major. The 200-level courses introduce basic areas of study and provide cultural and intellectual development for the nonmajor; these courses also provide a firm foundation for students who wish to continue advanced studies in English. The 300-level courses specialize in subjects of particular interest to English and education majors; they are open to juniors and seniors (or others with consent of the instructor).

Usually conducted as seminars, the 400-level courses are intensive studies of special subjects.

Although the English department does not have prerequisites indicated for most courses, it is highly recommended that students complete W131 before taking any other English courses. In general, 100-level courses are designed for freshmen, 200-level courses for sophomores, etc.

Internship

E398 Internship in English (3-6 cr.) P: consent of instructor. A supervised internship in the use of English in a workplace. Apply during semester before desired internship.

Capstone Course

E450 Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) This senior capstone for all English majors integrates students' undergraduate study through writing and reading projects, faculty and student presentations, and creation of capstone portfolios. Students apply linguistic, literary, and rhetorical knowledge in culminating projects and learning portfolios. The course looks back at accomplishments and forward to postgraduation planning.

Linguistics

G104 Language Awareness (3 cr.) A nontechnical introduction to the study of linguistics, this course takes an interdisciplinary approach to language behavior. Particular attention is paid to cultural, social, and psychological aspects of language use. Topics vary and may include language origin, child language acquisition, gender and language, dialects, and slang, among others.

G204 Rhetorical Issues in Grammar and Usage (3 cr.) An introduction to English grammar and usage that studies the rhetorical impact of grammatical structures (such as noun phrases, prepositional phrases, different sentence patterns). This course considers language trends and issues, the role of correctness in discourse communities, and the relations between writing in context and descriptive and prescriptive grammars and usage guides.

G205 Introduction to the English Language (3 cr.) An introduction to the English language and to the principles and methods of linguistics, this course is designed to be the first course in English linguistics. The course examines the phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics of English and discusses a range of applications of these basic concepts in areas such as first- and second-language acquisition and language education.

G206 Introduction to Grammar (3 cr.) R: G205. This course examines topics such as the systematic way in which information is encoded in discourse, the various functions of speech, the structure of conversation, and the comparison of spoken and written language. Emphasis is also placed on varieties of English and how they are used and perceived in our society.

G301 History of the English Language (3 cr.) P: G205, G206, or consent of instructor. The historical and structural analysis of the English language is surveyed through the stages of its development.

Background provided in G205 would be useful in this course.

G302 Structure of Modern English (3 cr.) P: G205, G206, or consent of instructor. This course examines in some depth the syntax (i.e., the principles and rules that govern the structure of sentences) and semantics (i.e., meaning encoded in language) of the English language.

G310 Social Speech Patterns (3 cr.) P: G205, G206, or consent of instructor. This course explores the relationships among language, society, and culture. The influence of such social factors as age, sex, status, class, and education on language use are discussed within the framework of various theoretical and methodological approaches. Reasons for positive and negative evaluations of several high- and low-prestige varieties of English are investigated.

G400 Teaching English for Specific Purposes (3 cr.) P: G205. Provides learners with historical and theoretical background of English for specific purposes. Participants will study the characteristics of specific language use situations and their effect on learning and use. The course is especially useful for those interested in teaching English in the workforce.

G432 Second Language Acquisition (3 cr.) R: G205. An introduction to a broad range of issues in the field of second language acquisition, providing the student with an overview of the most important approaches to the fundamental questions of how people learn a second language. Provides students with basic knowledge of theories of second language acquisition, and an understanding of how theoretical perspectives inform practical application.

G434 TESOL Methods (3 cr.) P: G432 or consent of instructor. The course examines recent theories of teaching English as a second or foreign language. Students will get a chance to examine theories and methods and develop knowledge of linguistic resources available to new and/or practicing teachers.

G441 Materials Preparation for ESL Instruction (3 cr.) P: G205. Students learn about materials preparation, syllabus design, and test preparation by applying a variety of theories to books and other ESL (English as a Second Language) teaching devices (e.g. ESL tapes, videotapes, and software programs) in order to evaluate their usefulness. Students will learn to evaluate ESL materials for adequacy.

Literary Study

L105 Appreciation of Literature (3 cr.) Stresses the enjoyment and humane values of literature. It will provide workshop experiences and programmed exercises as well as experience in listening to and studying visual adaptations of poems, novels, and dramas.

L115 Literature for Today (3 cr.) P: W131. Poems, dramas, and narratives pertinent to concerns of our times: e.g., works concerning values of the individual and society, problems of humanism in the modern world, and conflicts of freedom and order.

L202 Literary Interpretation (3 cr.) Close analysis of representative texts (poetry, drama, fiction) designed to develop art of lively, responsible reading through class discussion and writing of papers. Attention to literary design and critical method.

L203 Introduction to Drama (3 cr.)

Representative significant plays to acquaint students with characteristics of drama as a type of literature. Readings may include plays from several ages and countries.

L204 Introduction to Fiction (3 cr.)

Representative works of fiction; structural technique in the novel, theories and kinds of fiction, and thematic scope of the novel. Readings may include novels and short stories from several ages and countries.

L205 Introduction to Poetry (3 cr.) Kinds, conventions, and elements of poetry in a selection of poems from several historical periods.

L207 Women and Literature (3 cr.) Issues and approaches to critical study of women writers in British and American literature.

L208 Topics in English and American Literature and Culture (3 cr.) Selected works of English and/or American literature in relation to a single cultural problem or theme. Topics vary from semester to semester. May be repeated once for credit.

L213-L214 Literary Masterpieces I-II (3-3 cr.) Literary masterpieces from Homer to the present. Aims at thoughtful, intensive analysis, appreciation of aesthetic values, and enjoyment of reading.

L220 Introduction to Shakespeare (3 cr.) Rapid reading of at least a dozen major plays and poems. May not be taken concurrently with L315.

L301 Critical and Historical Survey of English Literature I (3 cr.) Representative selections with emphasis on major writers from the beginnings to Swift and Pope.

L302 Critical and Historical Survey of English Literature II (3 cr.) Representative selections with emphasis on major writers from the rise of romanticism to the present.

L305 Chaucer (3 cr.) Chaucer's works with special emphasis on The Canterbury Tales.

L315 Major Plays of Shakespeare (3 cr.) A close reading of a representative selection of Shakespeare's major plays.

L348 Nineteenth-Century British Fiction (3 cr.) Forms, techniques, and theories of fiction as exemplified by such writers as Scott, Dickens, Eliot, and Hardy.

L351 Critical and Historical Study of American Literature I (3 cr.) American writers to 1865: Emerson, Hawthorne, Melville, Whitman, and two or three additional major writers.

L352 Critical and Historical Study of American Literature II (3 cr.) American writers, 1865-1914: Twain, Dickinson, James, and two or three additional major writers.

L354 Critical and Historical Study of American Literature III (3 cr.) Study of modernist and contemporary American writers in various genres, 1914 to the present, including Frost, Stein, Faulkner, O'Connor, Baldwin, Morrison, and others.

L355 American Novel: Cooper to Dreiser (3 cr.) Representative nineteenth-century American novels.

L358 Twentieth-Century American Fiction (3 cr.) Study of major trends in American fiction since 1900, including such topics as experimentalism and the development of minority literatures.

L363 American Drama (3 cr.) Main currents in American drama to the present.

L365 Modern Drama: Continental (3 cr.) Special attention to Ibsen, Strindberg, Chekhov, Hauptmann, Pirandello, Brecht, and Sartre and to the theatre of the absurd.

L366 Modern Drama: English, Irish, and American (3 cr.) Twentieth-century drama, from Bernard Shaw and Eugene O'Neill to Samuel Beckett, Harold Pinter, David Mamet, Marsha Norman, and August Wilson.

L370 Black American Writing (3 cr.) A study of the major black American writers, with special emphasis on recent writing.

L372 Contemporary American Fiction (3 cr.) Examination of representative American fiction since 1955 in its social, cultural, and historical contexts. Topics include such issues as the representation of truth in fiction, intertextuality, and the transgressions of genre boundaries.

L373-L374 Interdisciplinary Approaches to English and American Literature I-II (3-3 cr.) Social, political, and psychological studies in English and American literature. Topics may vary and include, for example, Freud and literature, responses to revolution, the literature of technology, and literature and colonialism.

L376 Literature for Adolescents (3 cr.) An examination of the nature and scope of adolescent literature. Wide reading of contemporary literature, with emphasis on the value of selections for secondary school students and appropriate modes of study.

L378 Studies in Women and Literature (3 cr.) British and American authors such as George Eliot and Gertrude Stein; groups of authors such as the Brontë sisters or recent women poets; or genres and modes such as autobiography, film, or criticism. Topics will vary by semester.

L379 American Ethnic and Minority Literature (3 cr.) Analysis of literature by and about immigrants from diverse cultures as well as ethnic literature about groups such as African Americans, Appalachians, Hispanics, and Native Americans, from a historical and thematic perspective.

L381 Recent Writing (3 cr.) Selected writers of contemporary significance. May include groups and movements (such as black writers, poets of projective verse, new regionalists, parajournalists and other experimenters in pop literature, folk writers, and distinctly ethnic writers); several recent novelists, poets, or critics; or any combination of groups. May be repeated once for credit by special arrangement with the Department of English.

L382 Fiction of the Non-Western World (3 cr.) An in-depth study of selected narratives from the fiction of the non-Western world. Focus and selections vary from year to year. May be repeated once for credit.

L385 Science Fiction (3 cr.) A survey of British and American science fiction from the nineteenth to the twentieth century with an emphasis on the latter.

L390 Children's Literature (3 cr.) Historical and modern children's books and selections from books; designed to assist future teachers, parents, librarians, or others in selecting the best in children's literature for each period of the child's life.

L406 Topics in African American Literature (3 cr.) Focuses on a particular genre, time period, or theme in African American literature. Topics may include twentieth-century African American women's novels, black male identity in African American literature, or African American autobiography. May be repeated once for credit with different focus.

L431 Topics in Literary Study (3 cr.) Study of characteristics and development of literary forms or modes (e.g., studies in narrative, studies in romanticism). Topics vary from year to year. May be repeated once for credit.

L433 Conversations with Shakespeare (3 cr.) An interdisciplinary and intertextual study of Shakespeare's work and its influence to the present day. Students will compare Shakespeare texts with latter-day novels, plays, poems, and films that allude to or incorporate some aspect of Shakespeare's art.

L440 Senior Seminar in English and American Literature (3 cr.) P: one 200-level and two 300-400-level literature courses. Detailed study of one or more major British and American writer or of one significant theme or form. Subject varies each semester. May be repeated once for credit.

L495 Individual Readings in English (1-3 cr.) P: consent of instructor and departmental chair. May be repeated once for credit.

Writing

The School of Liberal Arts requires English W131 or W140, and W132, W150, or W231 for graduation for both the A.A. and the B.A. degrees. Any entering student who does not have credit for English W131 must take the IUPUI English Placement Test before enrolling in W131 or W140. Contact the Writing Program at (317) 274-3824 or see the Web site (writing.iupui.edu) for questions about placement.

W130 Principles of Composition (3 cr.) P: placement in W130. Practice in writing papers for a variety of purposes and audiences, with attention to reading/writing connections.

W131 Elementary Composition I (3 cr.) P: W131 placement or completion of W130 (with a grade of C or higher). Fulfills the communications core requirement for all undergraduate students and provides instruction in exposition (the communication of ideas and information with clarity and brevity). The course emphasizes audience and purpose, revision, organization, development, advanced sentence structure, diction, and development within a collaborative classroom. Evaluation is based on portfolios of the student's work.

W132 Elementary Composition II (3 cr.)

P: W131 (with a grade of C or higher). Stresses argumentation and research concurrently, with a secondary emphasis on critical evaluation in both reading and writing. Evaluation is based on portfolios of the student's work.

W140 Elementary Composition/Honors (3 cr.)

P: W140 placement or permission of the instructor. Offers an introductory writing course for advanced freshmen writers. Requirements, including number and type of assignments, are parallel to W131. W140 offers greater intensity of discussion and response to writing. Evaluation is based on portfolios of the student's work. Students' eligibility for W140 is determined by the IUPUI English Placement Exam scores.

W150 Elementary Composition II/Honors (3 cr.)

P: W140 (with a grade of C or higher) or W131 and permission of the instructor. Allows an honors student to explore the investigative methods used within a chosen discipline as an introduction to academic writing. Individual projects using these various methods combine primary and secondary skills. Evaluation is based on portfolios of the student's work. Replacing W132 or W231 for honors students, this course follows W140.

W210 Literacy and Public Life (3 cr.)

An introduction to the uses of literacy in public and civic discourse, with connections made to theories of writing and professional prospects for writers; serves as the required gateway course for the Concentration in Writing and Literacy and as an exploration of this concentration for other English majors and students considering the possibility of an English major.

W231 Professional Writing Skills (3 cr.)

P: W131 (with a grade of C or higher). Focuses on expository writing for the student whose career requires preparation of reports, proposals, and analytical papers. Emphasis on clear and direct objective writing and on investigation of an original topic written in report form, including a primary research project. Evaluation is based on student projects.

W250 Writing in Context (1-3 cr.)

Offers instruction in intermediate-level expository writing. Students study a contemporary issue and write papers on that issue. Topics will vary from year to year. May be repeated once for credit.

W251 Introductory Business Writing (1 cr.)

An introduction to business writing, with an emphasis on developing an effective writing process. (Does not count toward the major in Writing and Literacy.)

W260 Film Criticism (3 cr.)

Viewing and critiquing current films, with emphasis on the quality of production and direction. Contemporary films viewed; papers serve as a basis for discussion during class. Students will be expected to pay for their movie admissions.

W290 Writing in the Arts and Sciences (3 cr.)

Studies academic writing as a means of discovery and record. Study of and practice in the procedures, conventions, and terminology of the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences.

W310 Language and the Study of Writing (3 cr.)

Designed as an introduction to the logical foundation and rhetorical framework of effective writing. May be used for linguistics credit in the English major or linguistics minor.

W313 The Art of Fact: Writing Nonfiction Prose (3 cr.)

P: at least one 200-level writing course or excellent performance in W131 and/or W132 (contact the instructor if you are unsure of your readiness for this course). Students will read and analyze professional and student work as they prepare to practice the art of fact by combining the tools of a researcher with the craft of a novelist. The final portfolio includes a stylistic analysis of the student's and others' nonfiction works as well as two illustrated nonfiction texts based on the student's primary and secondary research.

W315 Writing for the Web (3 cr.)

Introduces students to new forms of writing (beyond word processing and desktop publishing) made possible by computers—hypertext, electronic mail, and computer conferencing—and explores what impact these new forms have on literacy skills for writers and readers of such computer-delivered texts.

W331 Business and Administrative Writing (3 cr.)

Instruction and practice in writing for business, government, the professions, and the nonprofit sector. The course emphasizes principles that can be applied in a wide variety of documents.

W365 Theories and Practices of Editing (3 cr.)

Instruction and practice in the mechanical, stylistic, and substantive editing of English nonfiction prose, from a wide variety of genres and on a wide variety of subjects.

W390 Topics in Writing (3 cr.)

Topics will vary each time this course is offered, and the department will specify which area of the concentration in Writing and Literacy each offering will count toward. May be repeated once for credit.

W396 Writing Fellows Training Seminar (3 cr.)

P: W131 and permission of instructor. Internship in University Writing Center. Focuses on the writing of IUPUI students. Emphasis on questioning, strategies, problem solving, and self-analysis. Apply in spring for fall enrollment.

W400 Issues in Teaching Writing (3 cr.)

Focuses on the content of rhetoric and composition and considers fundamental theoretical and practical issues in the teaching of writing. Reviews rhetorical and compositional principles that influence writing instruction, textbook selection, and curriculum development.

W411 Directed Writing (1-3 cr.)

P: Consent of instructor and department chair. Individual projects determined in consultation with instructor. Credit varies with scope of project.

W412 Literacy and Technology (3 cr.)

Literacy and technology have multifaceted relationships with each other. This course explores the effects of technologies (ranging from clay tablets to the printing press to computers) on literate practices and the teaching of reading and writing. It prepares students to think critically about the possibilities and limitations associated with different technologies and their impact on literacy over time, the impact of technology on their own literacies, and to analyze educational uses of technology connected with literacy.

Creative Writing

W206 Introduction to Creative Writing (3 cr.)

An introduction to the techniques and principles of creative writing. Written assignments, independent work, and workshop discussions of the fundamentals of fiction, poetry, and drama. This course may be used as a prerequisite for all 300-level courses in creative writing.

W207 Introduction to Fiction Writing (3 cr.)

An introduction to the techniques and principles of fiction writing. Written assignments, workshop discussions of student work in progress, seminar study of classic and contemporary examples of the genre. This course may be used as a prerequisite for W301 or W305.

W208 Introduction to Poetry Writing (3 cr.)

W208 offers students an introduction to the craft and practice of poetry writing: how to find subjects for writing; how to create images, similes, and metaphors; how to make rhyme sound natural; how to produce both metered and free-verse poetry. Part of the class will be a workshop in which students will learn to revise their poems and those of fellow students. This course can serve as a prerequisite for W303 or W305.

W301 Writing Fiction (3 cr.)

P: W206 or W207 or submission of acceptable manuscript to instructor in advance of registration. An intermediate course in the theory and practice of fiction writing with seminar study of relevant materials and criticism of student work in class and conference. May be repeated once for credit.

W302 Screenwriting (3 cr.)

P: W206 or W207 or W208, or permission of instructor. A practical course in basic techniques of writing for film and television. Covers the essentials of dramatic structure, story development, characterization and theme, scene construction, dialogue, and, briefly, the practicalities of working as a screenwriter today.

W303 Writing Poetry (3 cr.)

P: W206 or W208 or submission of acceptable manuscripts to instructor in advance of registration. An intermediate course in the theory and practice of poetry writing with seminar study of relevant materials and criticism of student work in class and conference. May be repeated once for credit.

W305 Writing Creative Nonfiction (3 cr.)

P: W206 or submission of acceptable manuscript to instructor in advance of registration. An intermediate course in the theory and practice of creative nonfiction prose, with seminar study of relevant materials and workshop discussion of student work in progress. May be repeated once for credit.

W401 Writing Fiction (3 cr.) P: W301. Study and practice in the writing of fiction. Analysis of examples from contemporary literature accompanies class criticism and discussion. May be repeated once for credit.

W403 Advanced Poetry Writing (3 cr.) P: W303. Study and practice in the writing of poetry. Analysis of examples from contemporary poets accompanies class criticism and discussion. May be repeated once for credit.

W411 Directed Writing (1-3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. Individual projects determined in consultation with instructor. Credit varies with scope of project. May be repeated once for credit.

English as a Second Language (ESL)

International students are placed into appropriate ESL courses according to their scores on the ESL placement test. The classes are open to both undergraduate and graduate students. Except for W131, credits from these courses will not count toward a degree; however, grades awarded will be included in the student's grade point average.

The English as a Second Language sequence—G009, G010, G011, and G012—focuses on fundamental language skills. It is designed to correct pronunciation problems, to improve listening comprehension, and to improve the student's ability to participate actively and effectively in a range of communication situations, from simple conversation to seminar discussion. Although emphasis is on speaking proficiency in English, basic reading, writing, and study skills are essential components of these courses.

Students must complete all other required ESL courses before enrolling in G013 or ESL W131, with the exception of G012, which may be taken simultaneously with those two courses.

G009 Intermediate Aural/Oral Skills for ESL Students (2-4 cr.) Intensive practice of basic speaking and pronunciation skills, as well as listening comprehension skills, to develop language proficiency required for study at the university level. Students will make extensive use of the Multimedia Language Resource Center.

G010 ESL for Academic Purposes I (4 cr.) This course introduces and reviews basic English grammatical structures; presents basic reading strategies and vocabulary development; provides practice in pronunciation of English consonant and vowel sounds, stress, rhythm, and intonation; and focuses on functional language use and study skills.

G011 ESL for Academic Purposes II (4 cr.) This course provides practice in and clarification of difficult grammatical structures; improves spoken language skills, emphasizing group discussion; focuses on pronunciation skills: word stress, intonation, and difficult sounds; encourages development of reading strategy skills: skimming, scanning, and summarizing; and augments the student's understanding of American culture and functional language use.

G012 Listening and Speaking for Academic Purposes (3 cr.) This course focuses on developing speaking and listening skills that are essential to academic life, encouraging participation in group discussion, improvement in presentation strategies, and development of questioning and answering skills. It provides community involvement to help students better understand American culture and language use. Reading skills and vocabulary development for the academic context are emphasized.

G013 Reading and Writing for Academic Purposes (3 cr.) This course is designed primarily for graduate ESL students. Its purpose is to develop reading comprehension skills through the use of academic subject area materials and to teach the writing skills necessary to complete academic work. Assignments are completed using materials from the students' academic disciplines.

G015 Pronunciation Skills (1 cr.) This course focuses on American English pronunciation and stresses active learner involvement in small groups and self-tutorials. Practice in a contextualized format includes drills and multimedia listening and speaking activities. Classwork emphasizes stress and intonation patterns and vowel and consonant production. Individualized instruction focusing on specific needs is a component of the course.

G020 Communication Skills for Graduate Students and International Teaching Assistants (3 cr.) This course for graduate International Teaching Assistants provides instruction on basic teaching strategies and helps students develop the oral language skills necessary to present academic materials in English to a student audience. Pronunciation, listening comprehension, and classroom interaction skills are practiced. Regular conferences focus on individual pronunciation needs.

ESL W001 Fundamentals of English (3 cr.) This course develops fluency and amplitude in writing through in-class instruction in invention, focus, development, and revision. Grammar instruction is individualized, and students have practice in English sentence patterns, word choice, and idiomatic expressions. Evaluation is based upon a portfolio of the student's work.

ESL W131 Elementary Composition I (3 cr.) This course, which fulfills part of the communication core requirement for all undergraduate students, is designed to help students improve their English writing skills.

Film Studies

FILM C292 An Introduction to Film (3 cr.) Nature of film technique and film language; analysis of specific films; major historical, theoretical, and critical developments in film and film study from the beginnings of cinema to the present.

FILM C390 The Film and Society: Topics (3 cr.) P: C292 or consent of instructor. Film and politics; race and gender; social influences of the cinema; rise of the film industry. May be repeated once with different topic.

FILM C391 The Film: Theory and Aesthetics (3 cr.) P: C292 or consent of instructor. Film form and techniques; aesthetic and critical theories of the cinema; relationships between film movements and literary and artistic movements; relationships of word and image; analysis of significant motion pictures.

FILM C392 Genre Study in Film (3 cr.) P: C292 or consent of instructor. Problems of definition; the evolution of film genres such as criminal or social drama, comedy, the western, science fiction, horror, or documentary film; themes, subject matter, conventions, and iconography peculiar to given genres; relationship of film genres to literary genres. Focus on one specific genre each time the course is offered. May be repeated once with different topic.

FILM C393-C394 History of European and American Films I-II (3-3 cr.) P: C292 or consent of instructor. C393 is a survey of the development of cinema during the period 1895-1926 (the silent film era); C394 is a survey of European and American cinema since 1927. Particular attention paid to representative work of leading filmmakers, emergence of film movements and development of national trends, growth of film industry, and impact of television.

FILM C491 Authorship and Cinema (3 cr.) P: C292 or consent of instructor. Study of the work of one or more film artists. Attention paid to the style, themes, and methods that make the filmmaker's work unique. Filmmakers studied in the contexts of film traditions, ideologies, and industries which informed their work. May be repeated once with a different topic.

FILM C493 Film Adaptations of Literature (3 cr.) P: C292 or consent of instructor. Analysis of the processes and problems involved in turning a literary work (novel, play, or poem) into a screenplay and then into a film. Close study of literary and film techniques and short exercises in adaptation.

ENG W260 Film Criticism (3 cr.) Viewing and critiquing current films, with emphasis on the quality of production and direction. Contemporary films are viewed; papers serve as a basis for discussion during class. Students will be expected to pay for their movie admissions.

Master of Arts Degree

The graduate English program has been designed to prepare students for careers in the analysis and production of texts. The program covers issues and skills in reading and writing, in the richest sense of these words—in order to prepare students to address these issues and to teach these skills. Graduates of the program should be prepared for such careers as teaching writing and literature, teaching English as a second language, and writing for business, government, and other professions. In contrast to traditional M.A. programs, which place heavy emphasis on literary history, the IUPUI program focuses on the application of English studies to contemporary situations and problems.

Admission Requirements (1) Applicants should have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale) in the student's undergraduate major, documented by an official transcript. Applicants are expected to have been English majors, but admission also is considered for those who otherwise demonstrate the competency necessary for successful graduate work in English. (2) The Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test, normally with a minimum score of 600 in either the verbal or the quantitative section and 4.0 in analytical writing. Applicants are encouraged to take the examination by December of the year before admission. (3) Three letters of recommendation. (4) Two years of foreign language as an undergraduate with appropriate level of achievement.

Grades M.A. students must maintain a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B).

Course Requirements The M.A. in English requires 36 credit hours, including 12 credit hours of "core" courses, 12-16 credit hours of "area" courses, 4-8 credit hours of internship, and 4 credit hours of thesis work. The three core courses provide an introduction to three major areas in the discipline of English: language: G500 Introduction to the English Language; writing: W500 Teaching Composition: Theories and Applications; literature: L506 Issues and Motives of Literary Studies. These courses, which carry 4 credit hours each, should be taken at the beginning of the graduate program.

Foreign Language Requirements There is no foreign language requirement, but M.A. students going on for the Ph.D. are encouraged to validate their reading proficiency in a foreign language according to University Graduate School standards.

Graduate Courses

Graduate Internship

L590 Internship in English (4-8 cr.) A supervised internship in the uses of language in the workplace. (For prospective teachers, the workplace may be a class.) Each intern will be assigned a problem or new task and will develop the methods for solving the problem or completing the task. Interns will complete a portfolio of workplace writing and self-evaluation; they will also be visited by a faculty coordinator and evaluated in writing by their on-site supervisors.

Graduate Thesis

L699 M.A. Thesis (4 cr.)

Graduate Linguistics Courses

G500 Introduction to the English Language (4 cr.) An introduction to English linguistics, the course covers the principal areas of linguistic inquiry into the English language: sounds (phonetics and phonology), words, (morphology), sentences (syntax), and meaning (semantics).

LING L532 Second-Language Acquisition (3 cr.)

An introduction to a broad range of issues in the field of second language acquisition, providing the student with an overview of the most important approaches to the fundamental question of how people learn a second language. Provides students with basic knowledge of theories of second language acquisition, and an understanding of how theoretical perspectives inform practical application.

LING L534 Linguistic Resources for TESOL (3 cr.) The course examines recent theories of teaching English as a second or foreign language. Students will get a chance to examine theories and methods and develop knowledge of linguistic resources available to new and/or practicing teachers.

LING L535 TESOL Practicum (3 cr.) Students will be able to put into practice methods and principles of linguistics, second-language acquisition, and language teaching. Under supervision, they will teach ESL classes either at IUPUI or in a local school system.

G541 Materials Preparation for ESL Instruction (4 cr.) Students learn about materials preparation, syllabus design, and test preparation by applying a variety of theories to books and other teaching devices (e.g., tapes, videotapes, computer and software programs) in order to evaluate their usefulness and will learn to evaluate ESL materials for adequacy.

G625 Introduction to Text Linguistics/Discourse Analysis (4 cr.) This course introduces students to current approaches to text and discourse coherence, including recent theories of cognitive and interactional text modeling.

G652 English Language Sociolinguistics (4 cr.) This course investigates sociocultural aspects of language use and explores the relationships between language and society. The course provides background in various theoretical and methodological approaches to sociolinguistics. Other topics to be covered include gender and language, ethnicity and language, social factors in language acquisition, and bilingualism. Familiarity with basic issues and concepts in linguistics would be useful.

Graduate Literature Courses

L501 Professional Scholarship in Literature (4 cr.) Materials, tools, and methods of research. Includes work with standard bibliographical sources (both traditional and electronic), bibliographical search strategies, scholarly documentation, accessing special collections, preparing bibliographical descriptions of subject texts. Historical case studies reinforce coverage of professional standards of conduct, verification of sources, and thoroughness of research methodology.

L506 Issues and Motives of Literary Studies (4 cr.)

An examination of the importance of the notion of the text for contemporary literary theory.

L553 Studies in Literature (4 cr.) Primarily for secondary school and college teachers of English. Emphasis on thematic, analytic, and generic study. With consent of instructor, may be repeated once for credit.

L560 Literary Studies in England and Scotland (4 cr.)

Provides on-site opportunities in England and Scotland to explore the literary landscapes of British authors in relation to the English and Scottish school systems. Designed primarily for education majors and continuing certification credits.

L573 Interdisciplinary Approaches to English and American Literature (3 cr.) Social, political, and psychological studies in English and American literature. Topics may vary and include, for example, literature and colonialism, literature and psychoanalysis, or literature and gender. May also include other world literatures.

L606 Topics in African American Literature (4 cr.) Focuses on a particular genre, time period, or theme of African American literature. Examples: twentieth-century African American women's novels, black male identity in literature, kinship in African American literature, African American autobiography. May be repeated twice for credit with different focuses.

L625 Shakespeare (4 cr.) Critical analysis of selected tragedies, comedies, history plays, and poetry.

L645 English Fiction, 1800-1900 (4 cr.) Intensive historical and critical study of nineteenth-century prose fiction, especially the novel.

L655 American Literature since 1900 (4 cr.) Intensive historical and critical study of all genres from the time of Theodore Dreiser to the present.

L680 Special Topics in Literary Study and Theory (4 cr.) Reading in sociological, political, psychological, and other approaches to literature.

L681 Genre Studies (4 cr.) A variable-title course, Genre Studies examines the specific characteristics of individual genres. May be repeated once for credit.

L695 Individual Readings in English (1-4 cr.) Enables students to work on a reading project that they initiate, plan, and complete under the direction of an English department faculty member. Credit hours depend on scope of project.

Graduate Writing Courses

W500 Teaching Composition: Issues and Approaches (4 cr.) Considers major issues involved in the teaching of composition at elementary, secondary, and college levels, and explores the pedagogical approaches inherent in these issues.

L502 Introduction to Literacy Studies (4 cr.) Explores how and why people in our society, including children and adults, learn to read and write texts; investigates how literacy is defined, acquired, measured, and used in our society.

W510 Computers in Composition (3 cr.)

Proceeds from current theories about writing processes and surveys the use of computer programs (such as word processing) as writing tools, computer-assisted instruction as a teaching aid, and computer programs as research aids to study writing.

W511 Graduate Fiction Writing (4 cr.) A graduate-level fiction writing workshop. Seminar study of advanced techniques in the writing of fiction, both short stories and the novel. Workshop discussion of advanced student work in progress.

W513 Graduate Poetry Writing (4 cr.) W513 offers graduate students an intensive experience in reading and writing poetry. Part workshop and part seminar in poetic practice and technique, W513 provides an opportunity for graduate students to expand their poetic range and hone their craft.

W553 Theory and Practice of Exposition (4 cr.) Explores the writing and analysis of exposition,

W590 Teaching Composition: Theories and Applications (4 cr.) Explores current theories of composition inherent in current classroom practices and considers their pedagogical implications.

W600 Topics in Rhetoric and Composition (4 cr.) Topics will vary each time this course is offered.

W609 Individual Writing Projects (1-4 cr.) Enables students to work on a writing project that they initiate, plan, and complete under the direction of an English department faculty member. Credit hours depend upon scope of project.

Geography, like history, is a way of looking at the world. Whereas historians study variation through time, geographers study variation through space: how and why the earth's natural and human features vary from place to place. Underlying this spatial approach are such recurring themes as spatial diffusion of people, goods, and ideas; the significance of relative location in human interaction; the power of place in human conscience; and the interaction of physical and human processes to create characteristic landscapes. Geographers work at the intersection of social and natural sciences, using the concepts and methods of both to examine human-environmental relationships in their full complexity. This integrative approach is a hallmark of geography and one of its main attractions. Geographers can be found in a great variety of positions often not specifically identified as geographic: environmental management, urban planning, conservation, recreation and tourism, transportation planning, international affairs, and many others.

Major in Geography

The Bachelor of Arts degree in geography provides a general introduction to the philosophy, content, and methods of the discipline. The Department of Geography is also developing an applied emphasis in environmental analysis, including courses in field methods, remote sensing, cartography, and geographic information systems. Students can thus select a broad academic program or emphasize acquisition of job-related skills.

Students must complete the School of Liberal Arts graduation requirements and a minimum of 31 credit hours in geography, as detailed below. The core courses are intended to provide a foundation for more specialized upper-division courses, and thus should be taken at the beginning of the major program. Geography G309 is normally offered every fall semester and G311 every spring. The capstone experience, normally taken during the senior year, is intended to help students integrate and reflect on their undergraduate training.

Four core courses:

G107 Physical Systems of the Environment (3 cr.)

G110 Introduction to Human Geography (3 cr.)

G309 Frontiers in Geographic Thought (3 cr.)

G311 Introduction to Research Methods in Geography (3 cr.)

Two geographic techniques courses:

G300 The World of Maps (3 cr.)

G336 Introduction to Remote Sensing and Air Photo Interpretation (3 cr.)

G337 Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.)

G338 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)

G436 Advanced Remote Sensing (3 cr.)

G438 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)

G439 Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.)

G465 Field Methods in Physical Geography (6 cr.)

G488 Applied Spatial Statistics (3 cr.)

A total of three courses in environmental and human geography, to include at least one course from each area:

Environmental geography:

G303 Weather and Climate (3 cr.)

G305 Environmental Change (3 cr.)

G307 Biogeography (3 cr.)

G310 Human Impact on Environment (3 cr.)

G315 Environmental Conservation (3 cr.)

G390 Topics: Environmental Focus (3 cr.)

G404 Soils Geography (3 cr.)

G446 Cultural Biogeography (3 cr.)

G475 Climate Change (3 cr.)

Human geography:

G314 Urban Geography (3 cr.)

G331 Economic Geography (3 cr.)

G312 Gender and Geography (3 cr.)

G355 Political Geography (3 cr.)

G390 Topics: Human Geography Focus (3 cr.)

G410 Medical Geography (3 cr.)

One of the following regional geography courses:

G321 Geography of Europe (3 cr.)

G322 Geography of Russia and Adjacent Lands (3 cr.)

G323 Geography of Latin America (3 cr.)

G326 Geography of North America (3 cr.)

G327 Geography of Indiana (3 cr.)

G328 Rural Landscapes of North America (3 cr.)

G330 North American House Types (3 cr.)

G390 Topics: Variable Regional Focus (3 cr.)

G421 Environments of Tropical Lands (3 cr.)

Capstone Courses:

G491 Capstone Experience in Geography (1 cr.) or

G439 Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.)

Minor in Geography

The minor requires 15 credit hours in geography. All minors must take G107 and either G110 Introduction to Human Geography or G130 World Geography. The remaining 9 credit hours may be selected from any geography course at the 200 level or above.

Undergraduate Certificate in Geographic Information Science

Admissions Requirements

Undergraduate students who are currently enrolled at IUPUI may apply for the undergraduate certificate if they meet the following criteria:

- have earned 55 credit hours towards their degree at IUPUI
- have earned a cumulative GPA of 2.5
- have successfully passed MATH 118

Students who have not enrolled at IUPUI may be considered for this certificate if they meet the following criteria:

- apply for Undergraduate Admission to IUPUI and specify the Undergraduate Geographic Information Science Certificate as their objective (Admissions Office: (317) 274-4591 or apply@iupui.edu).
- have 55 credit hours of transferable work
- have earned a cumulative GPA of 2.5

Students who have already completed undergraduate degrees can apply for the undergraduate certificate or apply to the IU Graduate School for admission to the graduate certificate program (see below).

Course Requirements

Total requirements: 21 credit hours. The minimum grade that will be accepted in any single course is C.

Required courses (15 credits):

G335 Introduction to Remote Sensing (3 cr.)

G338 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)

G337 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.)

G336 Advanced Remote Sensing (3 cr.)

G438 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)

Electives in GIS or complementary field (6 credits):

In addition to the required courses listed above, students must take six credit hours of electives through which they will enhance their technical background in GIS-related issues or apply their expertise to a specific area. Such areas include, but are not limited to:

- Computer Aided Design
- Surveying
- Computer Science and Technology
- Graphics and Visualization
- Applications of GIS

Graduate Studies in Geographic Information Science

During the last two decades, rapid growth has occurred in the field of geographic information. Stimulated by advances in technology, both in the collection, storage and analysis of data, a new discipline has emerged: geographic information science. Geographic information science (GIS) involves research both on and with spatial technologies, including geographic information systems, remote sensing, and the global positioning system. At the core of geographic information science is the integration of these technologies and their application to problems of spatial analysis. The fundamental theory and foundational principles of GIS are based in geography. However, virtually all fields (engineering, medicine, science, management, business, social sciences, and humanities) are now embracing the technique and applying it to both theoretical and applied research problems.

The IUPUI Department of Geography offers a Graduate Certificate and Master of Science in Geographic Information Science.

Graduate Certificate in Geographic Information Science

Admission Requirements

Admission to the Graduate Certificate in Geographic Information Science requires a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution with a recommended minimum GPA of 3.0. Appropriate work experience also will be taken into account. Students are required to submit a statement of interest, three letters of recommendation, and an application for admission to the School of Graduate Studies. Students already admitted into Indiana University or Purdue University graduate programs are automatically eligible to apply to the certificate program. Such students must declare their participation in the certificate program and submit a statement of interest. Admission decisions will be made by the faculty oversight committee.

Course Requirements

Total requirements: 15 credit hours. The minimum grade that will be accepted in any single course is B.

Required courses (9 credits):

G535 Introduction to Remote Sensing (3 cr.)

G538 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)

G639 Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.)

Electives (6 credits). Any 2 of the following courses:

G536 Advanced Remote Sensing (3 cr.)

G537 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.)

G539 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)

G588 Spatial Statistics (3 cr.)

Master of Science in Geographic Information Science

Admission Requirements

Admission to the Master of Science in Geographic Information Science requires:

- A baccalaureate degree in geography or closely related discipline from an accredited four-year collegiate institution, with a GPA of at least 3.0, documented by an official transcript.
- Scores from the Graduate Records Examination (GRE) of at least 600 in one area and no less than 500 in any area.
- Proficiency in the English language. International students must submit proof of language proficiency (normally a score of 550 or above on the TOEFL exam).
- A written statement of interest outlining the reasons for pursuing the degree.
- Three detailed letters of recommendation.

Course Requirements

All students must complete a minimum of 30 credit hours as follows:

Any 3 of the following courses (9 credits):

G535 Introduction to Remote Sensing (3 cr.)

G537 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.)

G588 Spatial Statistics (3 cr.)

Two required courses (7 credits):

G639 Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.)

G560 Internship in Geographic Analysis (4 cr.)

An independent research project or a thesis (3-6 credits):

G645 Research Papers in Geography (3 cr.) or

G650 Thesis (6 cr.)

Electives in GIS or complementary field: (8-11 credits)

Lower-Division Courses

G107 Physical Systems of the Environment

(3 cr.) Physical environment as the home of humans, emphasizing the distribution and interaction of environmental variables (landforms, vegetation, soils, weather, and climate).

G108 Physical Systems of the Environment:

Laboratory (2 cr.) P or C: G107. Laboratory session to complement G107 Physical Systems of the Environment. Practical and applied aspects of meteorology, climatology, vegetation, soils, and landforms. This laboratory session is optional for students enrolling in G107.

G110 Introduction to Human Geography (3 cr.)

An introduction to the principles, concepts, and methods of analysis used in the study of human geographic systems. Examines geographic perspectives on contemporary world problems such as population growth, globalization of the economy, and human-environmental relations.

G111 Hurricanes (1 cr.)

Introduction to processes involved in the initiation and development of hurricanes, forecasting and modeling tools used to predict their effects, and impacts on the natural environment and humans.

G112 Thunderstorms and Tornadoes (1 cr.)

Introduction to the processes involved in the initiation and development of thunderstorms and tornadoes, forecasting and modeling tools to predict their spatial pattern and effects, and impacts on the natural environment and humans.

G113 The Ozone “Hole” (1 cr.) Introduction to the role and significance of the stratospheric ozone layer and the nature and extent of its depletion. Attention will focus on the development of our understanding, human intervention, and major points of controversy.

G114 The Greenhouse Effect and Global

Warning (1 cr.) Introduction to the greenhouse effect and global carbon cycle. Attention will be directed to how, when, and where humans have altered this cycle and the implications for future climates. Methods for monitoring climate change will be studied and areas of greatest uncertainty identified. Particular attention will be directed to the spatial pattern of projected effects produced by global climate models.

G123 Soil Survey (1 cr.) An introduction to soil geography. Soil development processes, USDA soil survey map interpretation, physical and mechanical soil properties, and land use analysis.

G130 World Geography (3 cr.) An analysis of the existing and emerging geographic patterns in the world and of the processes and trends producing such patterns. An examination of the global scale of human activities and interaction with the environment and the linkages tying the various regions of the world into a single, global system.

Upper-Division Courses

Upper-division courses generally presuppose that students have at least introductory course preparation in human and environmental geography (e.g., G107 and G110).

G300 The World of Maps (3 cr.) Acquaints students with the practical use and evaluation of various types of maps and charts and introduces the basic analysis and interpretation of this medium of communication. Attention to the history of maps; types, compilation, and presentation of information on maps; mapping the earth; and cognitive and thematic mapping.

G303 Weather and Climate (3 cr.) Systematic study of atmospheric processes and interrelationships, with a focus on understanding the physical basis of weather and climate. Emphasis on components of radiation and energy balances, atmospheric circulation, global weather systems, human effects on climate, and climate change.

G307 Biogeography: The Distribution of Life (3 cr.) A survey of the present and past distributions of the world's plants and animals, emphasizing ecological explanation of species distributions. Topics include evolution and distribution of major plant and animal groups, world vegetation, plant and animal domestication, introduction of plant and animal pests, destruction of natural communities, and extinction.

G309 Frontiers in Geographic Thought (3 cr.) Provides a survey of the development of philosophical frameworks and theories used in physical and human geography.

G310 Human Impact on Environment (3 cr.)

A systematic examination of how people have altered patterns of climate, hydrology, land forms, soils, and biota. Course emphasizes that understanding human impacts requires knowledge of both the sociocultural forces that drive human activity and the natural processes that determine environmental patterns.

G311 Introduction to Research Methods in Geography (3 cr.) Introduction to geographic research questions and methodologies. Focus on special characteristics of geographic problems in the realms of both physical and human geography. Study of scientific versus nonscientific methods, the nature of geographic data, methods of data analysis, interpretation, and presentation.

G314 Urban Geography (3 cr.) Study and interpretation of urban spatial structures, design, policies, and problems with an emphasis on the geographic perspective. Topics include urban housing markets, racial segregation, homelessness, and urban crime.

G315 Environmental Conservation (3 cr.) Conservation of natural resources including soil, water, wildlife, and forests as interrelated components of environmental quality.

G321 Geography of Europe (3 cr.) Geographical analysis of the physical features of the European environment and the spatial patterns and interrelationships of the cultural, economic, and political landscapes. Emphasis placed on human impact on the environment through long-term occurrence.

G322 Geography of Russia and Adjacent Lands (3 cr.) Spatial analysis of the economic, social, and political structure of Russia and the other new countries of the former Soviet Union. Examination of the physical environment and its potential for human utilization. Special emphasis on problems regarding the stability of these new states, current efforts at political and economic reform, and environmental pollution.

G323 Geography of Latin America (3 cr.) National and regional variations in terrain, climate, natural resources, and economic and social life in Mexico, Central America, the West Indies, and South America.

G324 Geography of the Caribbean (3 cr.) Geographic introduction to the Caribbean, stressing global and regional political and economic relationships, physical, and natural environments, human activities and human-environmental relationships which give coherence and identity to the diversity of Caribbean landscapes, peoples, and cultures.

G326 Geography of North America (3 cr.) Continental and regional variations in terrain, climate, and economic and social life of the United States and Canada, with emphasis on geographical principles, sources of data, and techniques of investigation.

G327 Geography of Indiana (3 cr.) A geographical analysis of the state of Indiana. Emphasis placed on the interrelationship of the state's physical and human geography.

G328 Rural Landscapes of North America (3 cr.) Rural geography of the United States and Canada, focusing on rural settlements, culture, economic activities, and land subdivision. The spatial impacts of economic and technological changes on land use are considered through an examination of relic structures and urban expansion into rural areas.

G330 North American House Types (3 cr.) Houses are a visible semipermanent record of human values, political ideas, historical settlement, and community development. This record is reflected in the types of houses built during a particular time period, by certain groups of people, or in a certain area of the country. This course examines house types for the purpose of identifying and analyzing geographic patterns that occur in North America.

G331 Economic Geography (3 cr.) An examination of the spatial dynamics and locational patterns of economic activities, behavior, and systems. The study of the spatial organization of resource utilization, agricultural production, manufacturing, business, transportation, and trade.

G336 Introduction to Remote Sensing and Air Photo Interpretation (3 cr.) Nature and interpretation of remotely sensed data collected from field, airborne, and space-borne sensors. Data from the visible, infrared, and microwave portions of the electromagnetic spectrum are discussed and analyzed from a geographic applications perspective. Visual, photogrammetric, digital image processing, and GIS interpretation approaches are presented. Lecture and laboratory.

G337 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.) Compilation, design, production, and evaluation of maps and related graphic materials. Includes cartometric procedures, symbolization, color use guidelines, map typography, photographic manipulations, computer animation, and geographic visualization techniques. Hardcopy and internet-based outputs. Lecture and laboratory.

G338 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) Overview of the principles and practices of Geographic Information Systems (GIS). The course will deal with issues of spatial data models, database design, introductory and intermediate GIS operations, and case studies of real-world GIS applications. Laboratory exercises will provide significant hands-on experience. Lecture and laboratory.

G345 Field Study in Geography (3 cr.) P: 12 credit hours in geography and consent of instructor. Faculty-supervised fieldwork in selected areas of geography. May be repeated up to a maximum of 6 credit hours.

G355 Political Geography (3 cr.) An examination of the spatial organization of political systems and the interaction of geographical area and political processes. Emphasis on the geographical characteristics of states and the geographical dimensions of international relations.

G360 Geography of Wine (3 cr.) An introduction to the spatial distribution and patterns of viticulture in the world. Emphasis is placed on understanding the complex and often subtle relationships that exist between environmental variables, such as climate, soils, and landforms, and human factors, such as viticultural practices and vinification techniques, in producing different types of wines and variations in their qualities. The geographic origins and diffusion of viticulture are examined along with an analysis of the locations, development, and characteristics of the main wine regions or landscapes of the world.

G390 Topics in Geography (1-3 cr.) An examination of selected problems and issues in geography or from a geographic perspective. Topics vary from semester to semester. Recent offerings include the Caribbean, Wine, and Italy.

G404 Soils Geography (3 cr.) Soil genesis, morphology, and classification; soil's physical, chemical, mechanical, and biological properties. Soil maps and related data in land use analysis and the planning process.

G410 Medical Geography (3 cr.) An examination of the spatial patterns of human disease and related social and environmental factors. An analysis of inequalities in the access to and use of health care.

G421 Environments of Tropical Lands (3 cr.) A geographical analysis concerned with developing countries and focusing on issues related to development and the environmental consequences. Concern for the natural environment is expressed with regard to how it is affected by population pressures, economic advancement, and urbanization. An understanding of Third World people and their cultures is presented.

G436 Advanced Remote Sensing: Digital Image Processing (3 cr.) P: G336 or consent of instructor. Advanced remote sensing theory and digital image processing techniques with an emphasis on environmental applications. Hands-on computer exercises provide significant experience in introductory digital image processing for extraction of qualitative and quantitative information about Earth's terrestrial environments. Lecture and laboratory.

G438 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) P: G338 or consent of instructor. Intermediate and advanced topics in geographic information science and spatial analysis techniques using GIS software. This advanced course is for upper-division undergraduates and graduates who seek a greater understanding of this rapidly developing field and to learn how to construct, manage, and analyze their own GIS data and models. Lecture and laboratory.

G439 Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.) P: G336, G338, and G436 or G438. Applications of geographic information science principles in the collection and analysis of spatial data. Integration of GIS, remote sensing, and/or GPS technologies. Review of current literature on techniques, theory, technology, and applications with an emphasis on environmental issues. Discussions, laboratory, and research project. May substitute for the G491 capstone course.

G446 Cultural Biogeography (3 cr.) R: G307. Examines human alterations of natural plant and animal distributions. Topics include deforestation, extinction, plant and animal domestication, and introduction of alien organisms. Seminar format.

G450 Undergraduate Readings and Research in Geography (1-3 cr.) Research in selected problems: papers are ordinarily required.

G460 Geography Internship (1-6 cr.) P: 12 credit hours of geography and departmental approval. Supervised field experience in geography, normally in conjunction with approved work at a government agency or private firm. Requires 40 hours of work per 1 hour of credit.

G465 Field Methods in Physical Geography (6 cr.) P: G311 or consent of instructor. A survey of the methods and equipment basic to field research in physical geography, including climatology, hydrology, soil geography, and biogeography. Normally taught jointly by two instructors. May include a one-week field trip.

G475 Climate Change (3 cr.) R: G303. Advanced course on the evidence for and theories of climate change over a range of time scales, focusing on the period before the instrumental record.

G488 Applied Spatial Statistics (3 cr.) Extension of traditional statistical analysis to two-dimensional Earth space. Examination of centers, dispersion, nearest neighbor analysis, quadrat methods, and contiguity analysis. Problems of analyzing areally aggregated spatially distributed data.

G491 Capstone Experience in Geography (1 cr.) An independent project for senior-level students, applying geographic theory and techniques to a topic of geographic interest beyond the limits of the regular curriculum. Open to majors or nonmajors with appropriate preparation, including G309 and G311. May be taken alone or concurrently with another course.

Graduate Courses

G535 Introduction to Remote Sensing and Air Photo Interpretation (3 cr.) Nature and interpretation of remotely sensed data collected from field, airborne, and space-borne sensors. Data from the visible, infrared, and microwave portions of the electromagnetic spectrum are discussed and analyzed from a geographic applications perspective. Visual, photogrammetric, digital image processing, and GIS interpretation approaches are presented. Lecture and laboratory.

G536 Advanced Remote Sensing: Digital Image Processing (3 cr.) P: G535 or consent of instructor. Advanced remote sensing theory and digital image processing techniques with an emphasis on environmental applications. Hands-on computer exercises provide significant experience in introductory digital image processing for extraction of qualitative and quantitative information about the Earth's terrestrial environments. Lecture and laboratory.

G537 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.) Compilation, design, production, and evaluation of maps and related graphic materials. Includes cartometric procedures, symbolization, color use guidelines, map typography, photographic manipulations, computer animation, and geographic visualization techniques. Hardcopy and Internet-based outputs. Lecture and laboratory.

G538 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) Overview of the principles and practices of Geographic Information Systems (GIS). The course will deal with issues of spatial data models, database design, introductory and intermediate GIS operations, and case studies of real-world GIS applications. Laboratory exercises will provide significant hands-on experience. Lecture and laboratory.

G539 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) P: G538 or consent of instructor. Intermediate and advanced topics in geographic information science and spatial analysis techniques using GIS software. This advanced course is for upper-division undergraduates and graduates who seek a greater understanding of this rapidly developing field and to learn how to construct, manage, and analyze their own GIS data and models. Lecture and laboratory.

G602 Graduate Seminar in Physical Geography (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. Distribution, morphology, and human significance of selected phenomena of the physical environment.

G639 Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.) P: G535, G538, and G536 or G539. Applications of geographic information science principles in the collection and analysis of spatial data. Integration of GIS, remote sensing, and/or GPS technologies. Review of current literature on techniques, theory, technology, and applications with an emphasis on environmental issues. Discussions, laboratory, and research project.

G830 Readings in Geography (12 cr. max.) P: advanced course in geography or closely related field. Supervised readings on selected topics.

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 504M, (317) 274-3811

The Department of History offers students the opportunity to better understand the human social condition through the systematic study of the human past. A variety of courses is offered, dealing with the history of the United States, Europe, Latin America, and some non-Western areas. The history major not only provides opportunities to serve the avocational interest of the liberal arts student but also provides a foundation for continued work at the graduate level. Courses in history serve the student admirably in fulfilling the tradition of a liberal education. They also provide a solid basis for professional training in such fields as law, business, environmental affairs, historic preservation, public administration, and government.

Undergraduate Major in History

Programs leading to the major in history should be carefully planned; department advisors are available, and each faculty member in the department can assist in answering student queries. Before submitting their requests for a senior audit (after 86 accumulated credit hours) to the recorder in the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs (CA 401), students must consult with one of the faculty advisors in the Department of History.

Requirements

Thirty-three credit hours of courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C in each course. Nine of the 33 credit hours of required courses must be taken in residence on the Indianapolis campus during two consecutive semesters (but not two consecutive summer sessions). Two semesters of History H108, H109, H113, H114, (but not H109-H114) must be completed to satisfy School of Liberal Arts distribution requirements, and are consequently omitted from the following department requirements:

6 credit hours: H105 and H106, United States History I and II

24 credit hours: concentration and subconcentration courses (all courses here must be 200 level or higher). Select any one of the following:

1. United States History Concentration
 - 12 credit hours U.S. History (A-prefix courses)
 - 6 credit hours European History (B-C-D-prefix courses)
 - 6 credit hours Non-U.S.–Non-European History (E-F-G-prefix courses) (Note: H-prefix courses are special topics, and their application to categories must be approved by advisors.)
2. European History Concentration
 - 12 credit hours European History
 - 6 credit hours U.S. History
 - 6 credit hours Non-U.S.–Non-European History
3. Non-U.S.–Non-European History Concentration
 - 12 credit hours Non-U.S.–Non-European History
 - 6 credit hours U.S. History
 - 6 credit hours European History
4. Thematic concentration

Thematic concentrations require 12 credit hours of courses in such fields as urban, family, science/technology/medical history, and two 6 credit hour support areas as specified in the theme description. Consult history advisors and the department office for lists of thematic concentrations currently available to majors.

3 credit hours: J495 Proseminar for History Majors

Seminar topics vary from semester to semester. Majors should plan to take the seminar during their senior year and sign up for a section that has the same focus as their concentration area.

Minor in History

Requirements

Fifteen credit hours of courses in history above the 200 level (6 credit hours completed at IUPUI), with a minimum grade of C in each course. The course work must be distributed as follows:

- 9 credit hours in either U.S. History (A-prefix courses), European History (B-C-D-prefix courses), or Non-U.S.–Non-European History (E-F-G-prefix courses). H-prefix courses are special topics, and their application to the above categories must be determined individually.
- 3 credit hours in the second of the areas not selected above.
- 3 credit hours in the third of the areas not selected above.

Secondary History Teachers

The student who seeks to teach history at the secondary level may (1) major in history and obtain the necessary certification in addition, or (2) major in social studies education through the School of Education. In either instance, the student must arrange with the School of Education for a complete program; in the first instance, history majors consult history department counselors about the major and School of Education counselors concerning certification.

H108 Perspectives on the World to 1800 and H109 Perspectives on the World since 1800 are recommended for students seeking state certification in social studies.

Master of Arts Degree

Admission

To be admitted to the Master of Arts degree program, students must have (1) a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum overall undergraduate grade point average of 3.0 (B) and a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B) in the student's undergraduate major (an undergraduate major in history is not required, but applicants without such a background may be required to take additional course work in history at the undergraduate level as a condition for acceptance into the program); (2) an appropriate level of achievement on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test; (3) three letters of recommendation; and (4) two years of foreign language as an undergraduate with appropriate level of achievement.

Grades

No grade below B– (2.7) in history courses will be counted toward this degree.

Course Requirements

Students pursuing any one of the three concentration areas must take H500 or H501. Those electing United States history must take at least one graduate colloquium and one graduate seminar in United States history and at least one course in non–United States history. Students electing European history must take a graduate colloquium and seminar in that area and at least one course outside their concentration. With the consent of their faculty advisor, students may take as many as 6 credits outside the Department of History. Six credits will be granted upon successful completion of the required master's thesis. A total of 30 credit hours is required for students concentrating in United States and in European history.

Students choosing public history as their area of concentration must take H500 or H501, H542, a colloquium and seminar in United States history, and do an internship. Four credits will be granted upon satisfactory completion of the internship project. Public history students must also take at least one course outside United States history. With the consent of their faculty advisor, they may take as many as 6 credits outside the Department of History. A minimum of 36 credit hours is required for students concentrating in public history.

Foreign Language Requirement

There are no foreign language requirements for the degree. However, if a student has not met the foreign language admission requirement, that deficiency must be removed before the thesis defense. Students planning to go on for the Ph.D. are urged to validate their reading proficiency in a foreign language according to University Graduate School standards.

Combined Master of Library Science and Master of Arts in History

Study for these two degrees can be combined for a total of 50 credit hours rather than the 66 credit hours required for the two degrees taken separately. Students take 20 credit hours in history, which must include one graduate seminar and one graduate colloquium. No thesis is required for students earning an M.A. in history who are also earning a master's degree in library science under this dual degree program. However, they must satisfy the foreign language proficiency requirement as spelled out in the University Graduate School Bulletin. No area of concentration is required, but students wishing to focus on public history for the M.A. in history must also include H542 among the required 20 credit hours of history course work. Such students may, if they wish, do a public history internship and count a maximum of 2 credit hours of H543 toward the degree. (Students may enroll in H543 only after having taken or while taking H542).

The remaining 30 credit hours of library science include SLIS L501, L507, L520, L524, L528, L586 or HIST H547 (Archives), L596, L625, plus 6 credit hours of electives in library science. Admission to each of the two master's programs is approved separately on the same basis as for other applicants not in the combined program.

Combined Master of Arts in History and Philanthropic Studies

The dual M.A. in history and philanthropic studies creates a unique opportunity to pursue critical inquiry into the historical, cultural, philosophical, and economic implications of voluntary action for the public good. Historians routinely study the role of nonprofit organizations, self-help groups, and philanthropic institutions. This dual-degree program offers an interdisciplinary focus on the past, present, and future. This degree will be attractive to students wishing to pursue (1) careers that demand the skills and talents developed by cross-training in history and philanthropy, or (2) doctoral programs that encourage new and creative approaches to the historical study of philanthropy, broadly defined.

Admission requirements for the dual-degree program are identical to those for each program separately. A separate application must be made to each of the programs. Prospective students are expected to take responsibility for learning about and meeting the different admission requirements and deadlines of each department. Students must make plans early with advisors in both programs to identify common courses and a thesis topic.

Study for these two degrees can be combined for a total of 51 credit hours (U.S. or European history concentrations) or 54 credit hours (public history) rather than the 66 or 72 credit hours that would be required if the two degrees were taken separately. For all concentrations, the required 700-level seminar for the M.A. in history may be selected as an elective to meet the philanthropic studies requirement for one of two theoretical electives. The required philanthropic studies course H509 History of Philanthropy in the West or H511 History of Philanthropy in the United States may be taken to meet a history elective.

Required course PHIL P542 Ethics and Values of Philanthropy, or PHST P512 Human and Financial Resources for Philanthropy, may be taken to meet 3 credits of the 6 credits of outside electives that may be taken in the history program. For public history students, HIST H543 Practicum meets the requirement for PHST P590 Internship for the philanthropic studies program. A common thesis meets the requirements of both departments. See the departmental director of graduate studies for more information about this dual degree.

Undergraduate Courses

History courses numbered 200 or above are usually taken by students with a background such as that provided in the 100-level courses; however, students who are mature and who have a good background in history may enroll in 200- to 400-level courses as their first courses in history. Note: There are several 300-level classes offered at Bloomington that have the same content as 400-level classes offered at IUPUI. In such cases, both classes may not be taken for credit. See individual course descriptions for further information.

H105-H106 American History I-II (3-3 cr.)

Colonial period, Revolution, Confederation and Constitution, national period to 1865. II. 1865 to present. Political history forms framework, with economic, social, cultural, and intellectual history interwoven. Introduction to historical literature, source material, and criticism.

H108 Perspectives on the World to 1800 (3 cr.)

Emergence of civilizations in the Near East, sub-Saharan Africa, pre-Columbian America. Role of revolutions, i.e., geographic, scientific, industrial, social, and political (American and French) in establishment of European hegemony in Asia and the Western Hemisphere.

H109 Perspectives on the World since 1800

(3 cr.) Rise and fall of European imperial rule in Asia, the Middle East, and Africa. Special focus on impact of World War I, Chinese, Mexican, Russian revolutions. Independence movement in India, World War II, Cold War, new nations in Asia and Africa, struggle for solidarity in Latin America.

Rise of middle class; parliamentary institutions, liberalism, political democracy; industrial revolution, capitalism, and socialist movements; nationalism, imperialism, international rivalries, world wars.

H117 Introduction to Historical Studies (3 cr.)

An "assignment-intensive" course aimed at developing critical thinking skills by stimulating an awareness of history and its uses. How history is documented, evaluated, and written is considered. Students examine historical sources, study historical methods, analyze historical writings, and confront the question of objectivity through experimenting with history writing.

H217 The Nature of History (3 cr.)

Introductory examination of what history is, types of historical interpretation, common problems in history, and the uses of history.

H220 American Military History (3 cr.) From settlement of colonies to present. European background, colonial militia. Principal foreign wars and their strategic objectives. Technological changes and effect of military on American society. Army is emphasized with some attention to other armed forces.

H221 Studies in African, Asian, or Latin

American History (3 cr.) Study and analysis of selected themes, topics, or problems in the history of Africa, Asia, or Latin America. The course will emphasize general and/or broad themes or topics; the themes or topics will vary from one semester to another. A student may register for only two courses with this number.

A301-A302 Colonial and Revolutionary

America I-II (3-3 cr.) European background of American history; discovery and exploration of New World by Spain, France, and England. Colonization: motives, causes, types. Social and intellectual developments in English colonies in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Birth of Republic, 1763-89.

A303-A304 United States, 1789-1865 I-II

(3-3 cr.) Political, economic, and social development of United States from Washington's presidency through the Civil War. Growth of political, religious, educational, and other social institutions, and contributions of Hamilton, Jefferson, Jackson, Webster, Marshall, Lincoln. Agriculture, manufacturing, commerce, labor.

A313 Origins of Modern America, 1865-1917

(3 cr.) Social, economic, cultural, and political ways in which Americans accommodated and resisted changes introduced by large-scale industrialization. Populism and progressivism receive special attention.

A314 United States History, 1917-1945 (3 cr.)

Political, demographic, economic, and intellectual transformations of 1917-1945; World War I, the twenties, the Great Depression, New Deal, World War II.

A315 United States History since World War II

(3 cr.) Political, demographic, economic, and intellectual transformations of 1945-present: Cold War, problems of contemporary America.

A317 American Social History, 1865 to Present

(3 cr.) Development of modern American intellectual and social patterns since the Civil War. Social thought, literature, science, the arts, religion, morals, education.

A321-A322 History of American Thought I-II

(3-3 cr.) Ideas that have influenced American history. I. Image of New World to challenge of Jacksonian democracy. II. Transcendentalism to New Conservatism. Term papers and reports.

A325-A326 American Constitutional History

I-II (3-3 cr.) I: 1607-1865. II: 1865-present. Changing constitutional system from seventeenth-century colonies to contemporary nations. Structure of government: federalism, division of powers, political institutions. Relationship of government to society and economy. Civil liberties and democracy. Constitutional law and politics.

A337-A338 American Frontier I-II (3-3 cr.) I. Spanish penetration into Greater Southwest; developments in Louisiana Territory and Oregon Country prior to 1850. II. Economic, political, and social developments in trans-Mississippi West, 1850 to present.

A345-A346 American Diplomatic History I-II (3-3 cr.) I. American diplomacy from 1775 to 1823; diplomacy of American continental expansion to 1898. II. America as a world power. Involvement in Far Eastern affairs after 1898, diplomacy of World Wars I and II, developments to present.

A347 American Urban History (3 cr.) Evolution of cities and urban life in the United States from colonial times to the present. Rise of cities (New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, Los Angeles, Miami, and others). Creation of modern urban districts (ghettos, suburbia), city planning, political and economic power structures, ethnic and race relations, law and order (crime, police, prisons).

A348 Civil War and Reconstruction (3 cr.) The era of the Civil War and its aftermath. Military, political, economic, and social aspects of the coming of the war, the war years, and the "reconstruction" era following the conflict.

A352 History of Latinos in the United States (3 cr.) Examines twentieth century history of immigration to the United States from Mexico, Puerto Rico, Cuba, and Central America. Compares causes of immigration and contrasts experiences of Latino immigrants in the United States.

A355-356 African-American History I-II (3-3 cr.) I. History of Africans in the United States from the colonial era to the Emancipation Proclamation. II. History of African Americans from the era of the Civil War to the present.

A363 Survey of Indiana History (3 cr.) Examination of Indiana history that focuses on significant persons, topics, and events from the earliest exploration and settlement of the state to the present day.

A364 History of Black Americans (3 cr.) A survey of black life in America: the Atlantic slave trade, slavery, Afro-American culture, racism, Civil War and Reconstruction, peonage, segregation, northern migration, urban ghettos, discrimination, Harlem Renaissance, black nationalism, civil rights, black revolt, contemporary setting.

A371-A372 History of Indiana I-II (3-3 cr.) I: The course deals with the development of a midwestern state, with emphasis on the French and British periods, the West in the American Revolution, the transition from territory to state, political, economic, and cultural patterns, and the sectional crisis. II: The period since 1865, tracing the development of a modern industrial commonwealth—agriculture, industry, politics, society, education, and the arts.

A390 Representative Americans (3 cr.) Explorations of the lives and works of selected American men and women for the purpose of better understanding the ideological and social forces at work in American history. The course will serve as both an introduction to the biographical literature of American history and as an exercise in the relevance of biography to history.

A402 Readings in American Environmental History (3 cr.) The roots of modern attitudes and actions toward the environment, focusing on major works in American environmental history and its European antecedents.

A410 American Environmental History (3 cr.) An examination of the environmental context for American history by analyzing the diverse and changing interaction between Americans and the environment in which they have lived.

A421 Topics in United States History (3 cr.) Intensive study and analysis of selected historical issues and/or problems in United States history. Topics will vary by semester.

B309-B310 Britain I-II (3-3 cr.) I: Britain before 1688. Development of Britain and its institution from Roman times to the Glorious Revolution, with special emphasis on political and constitutional change. II: Britain since 1688. Examines important modern political, economic, social, and cultural developments, including industrialization and imperialism and the emergence of ideologies like liberalism and socialism.

B341 History of Spain and Portugal (3 cr.) The Iberian, Roman, and Moorish backgrounds, with emphasis on the medieval Christian thought and institutions of the peninsula during the Reconquest; the political and cultural unity of Spain and of Portugal from the Renaissance through the Enlightenment; the nineteenth- and twentieth-century attempts to achieve political stability and economic progress.

B351 Barbarian Europe 200-1000 (3 cr.) The collapse of Roman authority in the West; the Germanic monarchies; the growth of the Western church and the development of German, Greek, and Moslem empires; the Viking invasions; feudalism and manorialism.

B352 The Age of Chivalry 1000-1500 (3 cr.) The revival of urban life in the West; the Crusading movement and the development of feudal states; the struggle between church and state, and the decay of feudal institutions.

B353 The Renaissance (3 cr.) Italian Renaissance as a political and cultural phase in the history of Western civilization. Its roots in antiquity and the Middle Ages; its characteristic expression in literature, art, learning, social transformation, manners, and customs. Expansion of Renaissance into France, Germany, and England.

B354 The Reformation (3 cr.) Economic, political, social, and religious background of Protestant Reformation; Lutheran, Reformed, Anglican, and Anabaptist movements, with reference to their political and theological trends; Catholic Reformation.

B355 Europe: Louis XIV to French Revolution (3 cr.) Absolutism to enlightened despotism; the European state and its authority in fiscal, judicial, and military affairs; sources, content, diffusion of the Enlightenment; agriculture, commerce, and industry in preindustrial economies; Old Regime France.

B356 French Revolution and Napoleon (3 cr.) P: H114 or consent of instructor. Crisis of Old Regime; middle-class and popular revolt; from constitutional monarchy to Jacobin commonwealth; the terror and revolutionary government; expansion of revolution in Europe; rise and fall of Napoleonic Empire.

B357 Modern France (3 cr.) A social, political, and cultural survey of France in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

B359-B360 Europe—Napoleon to First World War I-II (3-3 cr.) F432 Twentieth-Century Latin American Revolutions (3 cr.) Revolutionary desires and the forces for change; the Mexican, Bolivian, and Cuban revolutions; nonviolent attempts to restructure society in other Latin American states.

F444 History of Mexico (3 cr.) Brief survey of the colonial period, independence movement, and nineteenth century. Emphasis on the intellectual, political, and cultural history of the Mexican Revolution.

G451 Traditional Asia (3 cr.) This course offers a brief survey of the early civilization of Asia, which includes China, Japan, Vietnam, Korea, and India, in the traditional period.

G452 Modern Asia (3 cr.) This course offers a brief survey of the civilization of Asia that includes selected topics related to China, Japan, Vietnam, Korea, and/or India in modern times.

G467-G468 History of Japan I-II (3-3 cr.) From prehistoric times to present. Land and people, principal classes; Shintoism and divine emperor; feudalism; Tokugawa Shogunate; modern state and military expansion; population, agrarian, and industrialization problems; occupation and treaty. Students may not receive credit for G467 and G357 or for G468 and G358.

G485 Modern China (3 cr.) China from the Ch'ing period to the present. Social, political, and economic change in a largely agrarian society. International and intercultural relations as well as rebellion, war, and revolution during the unstable nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Students may receive credit for only one of G485 and G385.

H227 African Civilization (3 cr.) Survey of African history from the beginning of civilization in Egypt to the emergence of modern Africa. Using both broad themes (e.g., Islam, colonial changes) and specific cases studies (e.g., empire of Mali), the course focuses on the continuities and changes that shaped African society.

H306 Sex Roles and Society in American History (3 cr.) What has it meant to be female or male in America? Examination of sex/gender roles, stereotypes, housewifery, family life, sexual mores, work patterns, popular culture, demographic change, politics, and violence. Special emphasis on utopias, frontiers, and wars. Readings in original sources and scholarly interpretations.

H364 History of Medicine and Public Health (3 cr.) History of medicine and public health in Europe and America, including ancient and medieval background, with focus on the development of modern health sciences since 1800.

H373-H374 History of Science and Technology I-II (3-3 cr.) I. Study of the development of pure and applied science from prehistoric times to the Scientific Revolution, with emphasis on principles, technical aspects, relationships between the sciences; the evolution of major scientific disciplines and the effects on other institutions and world views. II. An in-depth study of scientific and technological developments from the Scientific Revolution to the present. Special emphasis on transportation, communication, military and medical technology, physics, biology, and astronomy and on the figures involved in key breakthroughs. Consideration of governmental involvement in science.

H375 Machines and the Age of Invention (3 cr.) The history of invention and the industrialization of Britain during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, with the economic, social, demographic, and intellectual changes that resulted.

H409 Women in History (3 cr.) P: junior or senior standing. Women in their historical and contemporary situation in Western culture; survey of prehistoric and historic myths about women; status of women during the major eras of Western civilization; exceptional women and their influence; demands for the achievement of women's rights in modern times.

H410 Introduction to Archival Practice (3 cr.) Introduction to the history, theory, and practice of archival work, with intensive study and analysis of the principal issues in the preservation and use of historical records. Particular focus is on the issues relating to the historical records of organizations and individuals engaged in philanthropic work.

H411 Historical Editing (3 cr.) Introduction to the history, theory, and practice of historical editing, with emphasis on the processes of editing historical documents and the publications of history-related organizations. Attention given to technical skills (copyediting, proofreading) as well as broader professional issues (ethics, the editor-author relationship, evolution of editorial standards).

H412 Historic Preservation (3 cr.) Introduction to the history, theory, and legal and ethical bases for preservation of the built environment. Attention will be given to architectural history, methodology (site-specific research, contextual research) as well as professional issues such as who preserves, what should be preserved, and the role of the historian in making choices.

H415 Philanthropy in the West (3 cr.) The history of the social act of philanthropy from the beginnings of the Christian era to modern times. "Philanthropy" is construed broadly to include ethical injunctions to benevolence, charitable acts of individuals and corporate bodies, high art patronage, urban planning, and state action to improve living conditions through schooling, health care, prisons, and police.

H421 Topics in African, Asian, or Latin American History (3 cr.) Intensive study and analysis of selected historical issues and/or problems in African, Asian, or Latin American history. Topics will vary from semester to semester.

H425 Topics in History (3 cr.) Intensive study and analysis of selected historical issues and problems of limited scope. Topics will vary but will ordinarily cut across fields, regions, and periods. May be repeated once for credit.

H432 Popular Cultures and African Cities (3 cr.) Focuses on the interdependence between the development of the colonial and postcolonial city and the emergence of popular cultures in Africa. Cultures such as music, fashion, and sports will be studied in their recreational aspects as well as for their social and political implications.

Special Purpose Courses

The following courses serve special purposes. Enrollments in them are not limited to history majors or minors, but others should check with the departmental chairperson or the instructor prior to registration.

J495 Proseminar for History Majors (3 cr.)

Selected topics in history. Closed to freshmen and sophomores.

K493 Reading for Honors (1-3 cr.) P: approval of departmental honors committee prior to registration. Individual readings on selected topics.

K495 Readings in History (1-3 cr.) By arrangement with instructor. Permission of departmental chairperson required.

Graduate Courses

General and Professional Skills

G585 Modern China (3 cr.) China from the Ch'ing period to the present. Social, political, and economic change in a largely agrarian society. International and intercultural relations as well as rebellion, war, and revolution during the unstable nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

H500 History of Historical Thought (4 cr.)

Approaches to the historian's craft and reflections on history as a type of scholarly thinking.

H501 Historical Methodology (4 cr.) Discussion and application of the various methods and strategies used in historical research.

H509 Special Topics in European History

(3 cr.) Study of topics in European history. May be repeated once for credit.

H511 Special Topics in American History

(3 cr.) Study of topics in American history. May be repeated once for credit.

H521 Special Topics in African, Asian, or Latin American History (3 cr.)

Intensive study and analysis of selected topics in African, Asian, or Latin American history. Topics will vary from semester to semester, e.g., Traditional Asia, Modern Asia.

H542 Public History (4 cr.) The application of history to public needs and public programs. Historic preservation, archival management, oral history, editing, public humanities programming, historical societies, etc.

H543 Practicum in Public History (1-4 cr.)

Internships in public history programs, fieldwork, or research in the historical antecedents of contemporary problems.

H546 Special Topics in History of Science, Medicine, and Technology (3 cr.)

Study of topics in the history of science, medicine, and technology. May be repeated once for credit.

H547 Special Topics in Public History (3 cr.)

Intensive study and analysis of selected topics in public history. Topics will vary from semester to semester, e.g., historic preservation, archival practice, and historical editing. May be repeated once for credit.

H575 Graduate Readings in History (cr. arr.)

Colloquia

These colloquia are of seminar size and involve oral and written study of the problems, bibliographies, interpretations, and research trends in the fields with which they respectively deal. They are the chief means by which a student becomes knowledgeable in history at a professional level. Any of them may be taken more than once, upon approval of the student's faculty advisor.

H615 Colloquium: Early Modern Western European History (4 cr.)

H620 Colloquium: Modern Western European History (4 cr.)

H630 Colloquium: British and British Imperial History (4 cr.)

H640 Colloquium: Russian History (4 cr.)

H650 Colloquium: United States History (4 cr.)

H665 Colloquium: Latin American History (4 cr.)

H699 Colloquium: Comparative History (4 cr.)

Seminars

These courses involve research at a mature level with primary sources in specialized topics and problems in the field with which they respectively deal. They train the student in historical scholarship. Any of them may be taken more than once upon the approval of the student's faculty advisor.

H715 Seminar: Early Modern European History (4 cr.)

H720 Seminar: Modern Western European History (4 cr.)

H730 Seminar in British and British Imperial History (4 cr.)

Individualized Major Program

While the needs of most students are well served by existing majors offered on campus, some students have academic interests that do not fit well into existing programs or traditional disciplinary boundaries. The Individualized Major Program (IMP) in the School of Liberal Arts meets the needs of such students. It serves disciplined and self-motivated students who may wish to major in traditional disciplines or interdisciplinary areas for which majors are not available at IUPUI, as well as those who wish to fashion unique and original interdisciplinary majors that reflect their individual experience, interests, and needs. These include students whose work and life experience suggest the need for fresh ways of organizing existing courses into meaningful new majors, as well as innovative students who wish to bring together course work in several disciplines to focus on a thematic area or make unusual yet valid connections between areas that are rarely studied together. The IMP can also serve transfer students who wish to continue work started elsewhere in areas in which IUPUI has faculty expertise but no organized majors.

Unlike other majors, which prescribe a fixed area of study, the Individualized Major provides a structure that allows such students, in consultation with faculty members, to design their own majors on various topics and fields of study. Each major course of study varies in accordance with the needs and interests of individual students. Students work closely with faculty advisors, and all individualized majors are overseen and approved by a faculty committee that ensures each student-designed major has intellectual integrity and rigor.

Admission and Academic Progress

The Individualized Major Program is administered through the School of Liberal Arts Office of Student Affairs, which supplies information and initial counseling to students who wish to consider designing an individualized major. All students seeking admission to the IMP must be admitted to the School of Liberal Arts and have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0. All liberal arts students, except those on academic probation, are eligible to apply for an Individualized Major Program. Before making formal application for admission to the Individualized Major Program, students must have completed at least 30 hours of general education requirements including English W132, Communication R110, and Mathematics M118 (or its equivalent).

Students desiring to pursue an individualized major should confer with the director of the program who will provide assistance in identifying and securing the agreement of a faculty member to serve as advisor. Under the supervision of this advisor the student will take I360, a 1-credit hour tutorial course in which he or she prepares a proposal for an individualized major. The student is accepted for admission to the major when this proposal is approved by the advisor and the faculty Individualized Major Program Committee. This committee may invite the participation of additional faculty with specific expertise to join in evaluating the plan. The major plan may subsequently be amended only in consultation with the advisor and with approval of the committee.

After gaining admission to the program, students must meet each semester with their advisors to register for courses and consider academic progress. A key component of the senior year is the variable credit capstone course I460, an independent study project in which students synthesize their work in the major. The project is approved and graded by the IMP Committee or a panel of experts appointed by the committee. The advisor and the IMP Committee certify students for graduation with the individualized major.

Requirements

The Individualized Major requires a minimum of 34 credit hours:

- 1) Two courses are required of all students (4-7 cr.):
 - I360 Individualized Major Plan (1 credit hour), a tutorial in which a student develops his or her plan for a major, including a list of courses, schedule, and rationale. This proposal must be more than a simple list of courses. Students proposing majors in traditional fields should discuss the history and nature of the discipline, describe its subfields and the methodologies it employs, and show how the proposed major fits within this framework. Those designing unique majors need to establish the intellectual unity of the proposed major and show appreciation of the different disciplinary traditions and methodologies on which it will draw. Upon approval of this plan by an advisor and the faculty Individualized Major Program Committee, the student is accepted into the Individualized Major Program.

- I460 Individualized Major Senior Project, a variable credit tutorial (3-6 cr.) normally taken over two semesters as a 6-credit hour course devoted to a capstone project that culminates and integrates the individualized major. Normally this is a major research paper with an oral presentation. Other options, such as a performance, multimedia product, work of literature, film, or work of art, may be approved if appropriate for a particular plan of study. Normally the project is presented to the Individualized Major Program Committee and defended through a seminar or colloquium. The grade for this course is recommended by the advisor and approved by the Individualized Major Program Committee; in some cases the Individualized Major Program Committee may instead appoint a committee of experts to assist the advisor in assigning the grade.
- 2) The remaining courses are selected from existing courses.
 - No lower- or upper-division courses applied to general education requirements may be included in the individualized major.
 - At least 15 credit hours in the major must be at the 300 or 400 level (in addition to I360 and I460).
 - No more than 6 credit hours of independent study may be counted in the major.
 - All courses counted in the major must be taken for letter grade; no course receiving a grade below C may be counted toward the major.

Undergraduate Courses (required for all individualized majors)

SLA I360 Individualized Major Plan (1 cr.). P: approval by advisor. A tutorial in which a student develops a plan for an individualized major. Upon approval of this plan, the student is admitted to the Individualized Major Program.

SLA I460 Individualized Major Senior Project (3-6 cr.). P: I360 (or admission to the Individualized Major Program) and approval by advisor. A variable-credit tutorial devoted to a capstone project that culminates and integrates the individualized major. Normally taken in the senior year as a two-semester, 6-credit course.

The interdependence of our world is ever more vividly illustrated in our political, economic, and civic lives. To prepare students to function effectively in that world, particularly in a profession that may not be related to international concerns, the School of Liberal Arts offers two programs: a certificate and a minor.

Certificate in International Studies

A total of 27 credit hours is required for the Certificate in International Studies; of those 27 credits, 12 must be in core requirements and 15 in elective courses. Transfer courses will be accepted on the same basis as in other liberal arts programs, but at least half of the credit must be earned on this campus. Prerequisite courses add additional credit hours not counted in the 27.

Prerequisites

Foreign Language Students must complete at least the equivalent of two years of modern language study or demonstrate competence at that level to the appropriate language department. Written notification must be provided to the director. The goal of this requirement will be for students to attain a working knowledge of a language that complements their focus of study.

Geographic Competence Not later than the first semester of enrollment in the certificate program, the student will be required to demonstrate geographic competence by one of two methods:

1. Completion of G355 Political Geography or G331 Economic Geography with a grade of B or higher.
2. Proof to the geography department by presentation of a paper, or another method to be prescribed by that department, that the student is geographically literate.

Writing Proficiency Students will be expected to have completed composition instruction or demonstrated their proficiency equivalent to English W132 prior to admission.

Requirements

Core Curriculum (12 cr.)

1. International economics: Economics E303 (3 cr.)
2. History (two semesters, 6 cr.) according to one of the following patterns:
 - a. Area courses consistent with an area emphasis, e.g., Western Europe, East Asia
 - b. U.S. diplomatic history.
3. Political Science Y219 Introduction to International Relations (3 cr.)

Elective Courses (15 cr.)

Elective courses are to be selected from an approved list, which follows this section. The remaining 15 credits should conform to the following specifications:

1. 12 credits with demonstrated focus, e.g., geographic area, comparative approach, etc.
2. At least one advanced course in each of anthropology, history, economics, and political science.

Overall Program

Half of all credit hours must be at the 300 level or above. This may include courses taken to satisfy foreign language or writing proficiency requirements.

Writing Requirement

A substantial paper, which may be in a research, analysis, report, or other format appropriate to the subject under study, is expected. This may be presented in conjunction with a course, as a part of the integrating seminar, or arise from another stimulus. Its style, focus, and extent must be approved in writing by the program director in advance.

Examples of papers that would be appropriate to present in satisfaction of this requirement might include:

- an independent study that integrates perspectives from more than one discipline on a given topic;
- a research paper prepared in conjunction with a standard course that offers a particularly broad focus;
- a report produced as a consequence of study abroad that related to some previous academic study;
- completion of a major paper—either in the context of a course or as an independent project, or in conjunction with an acceptable overseas study program.

Minor in International Studies

A total of 15 credit hours is required for the minor in international studies. In addition, a student must have completed the second year of a foreign language.

Requirements

1. Political Science Y219 Introduction to International Relations
2. 12 credit hours from at least three departments focusing either on a single topic (e.g., comparative systems) or a single geographic area (e.g., Latin America).

Note: Other relevant courses may be accepted from other schools as well.

Legal Studies Minor

Advisor Professor William Blomquist, Department of Political Science

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 503L (317) 274-7547

Law and the institutions associated with it are of great and growing importance in modern society. Law and legal institutions define relationships among individuals, shape and are shaped by public policies, and express cultural values and traditions as well as conflicts over those values and traditions.

The minor in legal studies provides students with an opportunity to study law and its relationship to society from a variety of perspectives. Whether students are interested in law as a potential career or are interested in law only as an important aspect of modern society, the courses they take to satisfy the minor may help them satisfy that interest. The minor also provides official recognition of students' pursuit of this multidisciplinary field of study.

The minor consists of 15 credit hours and has to be satisfied by taking courses from more than one department or program. Students must complete 12 credit hours of upper-level course work chosen from the list of approved courses below, and 3 credit hours in a required introductory-level course. Each course must be completed with a semester grade of C or higher in order to apply toward the minor.

Required Course

POLS Y211 Introduction to Law (3 cr.)

Additional Courses (12 credit hours from the following):

AMST A303 Topic: Law and American Culture (3 cr.)

HIST A325 American Constitutional History I (3 cr.)

HIST A326 American Constitutional History II (3 cr.)

HIST A421 Topic: American Legal History (3 cr.)

PHIL P383 Philosophy of Law (3 cr.)

POLS Y304 American Constitutional Law I (3 cr.)

POLS Y305 American Constitutional Law II (3 cr.)

POLS Y320 Judicial Politics (3 cr.)

SPEA V376 Law and Public Policy (3 cr.)

WOST W300 Topic: Women and the Law (3 cr.)

Students who have questions about the legal studies minor, or who wish to declare and pursue the minor, should contact the advisor for legal studies, Professor William Blomquist, Cavanaugh Hall 503L, (317) 274-7547.

Medical Humanities and Health Studies

Professors Kenneth Barger, Anthropology; Carol Gardner, Sociology; Eleanor Kinney, Law; Eric Meslin, Philosophy and Medicine; Gary Mitchell, Medicine; David Orentlicher, Law and Medicine; Sandra Petronio, Communication Studies; William Schneider, History and Medical Genetics; Richard Ward, Anthropology and Dentistry

Associate Professors Jeanette Dickerson-Putman, Anthropology; Margaret Gaffney, Medicine; Gregory Gramelspacher, Medicine; William Gronfein, Sociology; Richard Gunderman, Philosophy and Radiology; Kimberly Quaid, Medicine; Jane Schultz, English; Eric Wright, Sociology and Nursing

Assistant Professors Jason Eberl, Philosophy; Carrie Foote-Ardah, Sociology; Wendy Morrison, Economics and Regenstrief Institute; Stuart Schrader, Communications; Rebecca Sloan, Nursing; Kathleen Zoppi, Family Medicine

The Medical Humanities and Health Studies Program provides a unique opportunity for students in liberal arts, premedicine, allied health sciences, pre dentistry, and nursing, and for all those interested in the state of health care in America, to explore the concepts of health and illness from an interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary perspective.

Minor in Medical Humanities and Health Studies

The interdisciplinary minor in medical humanities and health studies seeks to promote an increased awareness of the humanistic, social, and cultural dimensions of health care and health care systems. It provides an exciting opportunity for students to work in close conjunction with faculty who have strong teaching and research interests in the area of health care. A survey of the relevant issues to be addressed during the course of study in the minor includes human values and ethics in decision making; the idea of preventive and holistic health and health care; patient care as an art form and scientific endeavor; the relation among ecology, economy, and health care; the relation between cultural and social systems and health and health care; the connection between health care systems and good health; the role of the provider-client relationship, especially in the areas of communications skills and the humanistic dimensions of patient care; the meanings of suffering, illness, and dying; the role of technology in improving care but creating a legacy of dehumanization of patients; and the role of the consumer in the health care system.

The minor entails successful completion of a minimum of 15 credit hours, distributed as follows:

Required Core Course

MH301 Perspectives on Health, Disease, and Healing (3 cr.) The course utilizes the perspectives of the humanities and social science disciplines to provide students with a broader understanding of the many facets of health and disease, suffering and dying, as well as the art and science of healing.

Required Exit CourseMH495 Independent Project Seminar in the Medical Humanities and Health Studies (3 cr.)

Each student pursuing a minor degree in the Medical Humanities and Health Studies Program who has completed at least 9 credit hours toward the degree will take a seminar or be given the opportunity to develop a research or applied project related to the interests of the Medical Humanities and Health Studies Committee. This seminar or project will allow the student to apply the knowledge gained from the course work taken in the Medical Humanities and Health Studies Program, serving to tie together the humanistic and social scientific bases of health care in a directed endeavor of interest to the student. The student should contact the chairperson to arrange the details of this independent project.

Museum studies provides an integration of museum history and theory with hands-on instruction in a variety of museum techniques and practices. It encompasses the scholarly exploration of museums, their history, operations, and role in society from an interdisciplinary perspective while also training students in the technical aspects of museum work such as collections care and management, administration, education, visitor studies, exhibit planning and design, and technology.

As an urban university, IUPUI is part of a community with a rich heritage of museums and cultural arts. The Museum Studies Program has developed collaborative relationships with area museums and has an extensive network of adjunct faculty and guest lecturers who bring state-of-the-art museum practice to the curriculum. The program also offers extensive opportunities for learning through the resources of the museum community with experiences such as internships; collaboration on exhibit development and design; exhibition- and collections-focused courses; access to collections; collaboration with faculty on museum research and exhibit projects; and participation in museum-sponsored seminars, lectures, and professional meetings. The integral role of Indianapolis museums in the Museum Studies curriculum fosters a critical, reflective, and scholarly discourse on museums that is applied to current practices and issues in the field.

The program offers both an undergraduate and a graduate certificate. Students who are not pursuing the certificate are welcome in the classes. An M.A. in Museum Studies is being developed. Please see the Web site for current status.

Undergraduate Certificate in Museum Studies

The Museum Studies Program offers an 18 credit hour undergraduate certificate in Museum Studies designed to complement a bachelor's degree and to prepare students for a career in museums or for further graduate study. Many of the courses take advantage of the excellent museum community in Indianapolis with behind-the-scenes tours of museums and guest lectures by experts in the field. The Museum Studies Program is interdisciplinary and draws students from the arts, humanities, and social sciences, as well as from the hard sciences.

The undergraduate core courses provide a firm introduction to the theory, methodology, and practice of museum work. A practicum in a museum provides the opportunity to apply skills, gain experience, and develop professional relationships. A range of electives are recommended to allow exploration of areas of interest, or to develop competency in a more specialized aspect of museum work.

The Undergraduate Museum Studies Certificate consists of a core of four courses (12 cr.) and a choice of two additional courses (6 cr.) from a list of Museum Studies courses. All of these courses must be passed with a grade of C or higher in order to count for the certificate. Electives must be approved by the museum studies director prior to registration. Before enrolling in the Undergraduate Museum Studies Certificate program, IUPUI students must have completed 55 credit hours of university study with a minimum GPA of 2.0 and must have declared a major field of study.

The following 18 credit hours of course work are designed to provide a firm introduction to the theory, methodology, and practice of museum work:

Museum theory (6 cr.): A403, H217

Museum methods (9 cr.): A405 and two of the following: A410, A412, A414, A416, A418 or an approved elective

Practical museum work (3 cr.): 3 credits required in a museum practicum (A408 or ANTH A412 as a museum-related project)

Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies (18 cr.)

The Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies provides students with interdisciplinary training in museum practice and a knowledge of contemporary issues in the museum field. It trains students in specialized aspects of museum practice such as education, exhibit planning and design, collections care, philanthropy, and nonprofit management by combining Museum Studies course work with curriculum in other IU schools. Students are given an introduction to the history and philosophy of museums and an opportunity to focus on particular aspects of museum practice.

The Graduate Certificate may be taken as a freestanding credential or paired with graduate work in another related discipline. Because it offers an opportunity to specialize and does not require an internship, the graduate certificate is also a suitable credential for current museum professionals who wish to enhance their professional training or develop new specialties.

The Museum Studies Graduate Certificate consists of 18 credit hours of course work, including a required museum studies core course (3 cr.), and a choice of five additional courses (15 cr.) from a list of museum studies courses and electives. All these courses must be passed with a grade of B– or above in order to count for the certificate. Electives and internships must be approved by the director of museum studies before registration.

Undergraduate Museum Studies Core (12 cr.)

HIST H217 The Nature of History (3 cr.) An introductory examination of (1) what history is, (2) types of historical interpretation, (3) common problems in history, and (4) the uses of history.

MSTD A403 Introduction to Museum Studies (3 cr.) This survey of museology introduces students to the history of museums and to debates on the philosophical nature of museums and their roles in society. The course covers the types and definitions of museums, traces the history of museums, discusses contemporary museum practice, and examines current issues in the museum profession.

MSTD A405 Museum Methods (3 cr.) This survey of museum practice introduces students to methods, skills, and resources in three areas of museum work: artifacts, interpretation, and organizational administration, as well as to the ethical ramifications of these methods.

MSTD A408 Museum Internship (1-6 cr.) P: A403 and A405, or consent of instructor; anthropology majors may register for A494 in lieu of this requirement. Authorization of the instructor required. An arranged learning experience in museum work appropriate to individual career goals focusing on an aspect of museum practice and working with a museum mentor. May be repeated.

Museum Studies Undergraduate Courses (6 cr.)

Choose two of the following courses or from a list of approved electives. See program director for a current list of approved electives.

MSTD A410 Museum Education (3 cr.) This survey of museum education introduces students to a variety of professional skills through exercises, projects, museum visitor observation, and in-museum classes. It covers education theory most central to museum practice, the duties of museum educators, and current issues in museum education.

MSTD A412 Exhibit Planning and Design (3 cr.) This course offers a survey of museum exhibit planning and design through an integration of theory and practice. The class introduces students to exhibit development, including exhibit administration, design, and evaluation, and to a variety of professional skills through hands-on exercises, exhibit critiques, museum observations, and in-museum classes.

MSTD A414 Museums and Technology (3 cr.) This course surveys the growing use of technology in museums. It examines applications for information management in collections, conservation science, and archives. It examines critically the use of technology in the service of education both in exhibit contexts and in the variety of educational programs and Web-based dissemination of knowledge.

MSTD A416 Collections Care and Management (3 cr.) A survey of techniques for the management and care of collections in museums. It covers documentation, management of collections, processes, administrative functions, risk management, and ethical and legal issues. The course also covers the physical care and conservation of objects.

Graduate Core Curriculum (3 cr.)

MSTD A503 Introduction to Museum Studies (3 cr.) This survey of museology introduces students to the history of museums and to debates on the philosophical nature of museums and their roles in society. The course covers the types and definitions of museums, traces the history of museums, discusses contemporary museum practice, and examines current issues in the museum profession.

Museum Studies Graduate Courses (15 cr.)

Choose five of the following courses or from a list of approved electives. See program director for a current list of approved electives.

MSTD A505 Museum Methods (3 cr.) P: A503 or consent of instructor. This survey of museum practice introduces students to methods, skills, and resources in three areas of museum work: artifacts, interpretation, and organizational administration, as well as to the ethical ramifications of these methods.

MSTD A508 Museum Internship (1-6 cr.) P: A503 and two other Museum Studies graduate courses, or consent of the instructor. Authorization of the instructor required. An arranged learning experience in museum work appropriate to individual career goals focusing on an aspect of museum practice and working with a museum mentor. May be repeated for a total of 6 credit hours.

MSTD A510 Museum Education (3 cr.) P: A503 or consent of the instructor. This survey of museum education introduces students to a variety of professional skills through exercises, projects, museum visitor observation, and in-museum classes. It covers education theory most central to museum practice, the duties of museum educators, and current issues in museum education.

MSTD A512 Exhibit Planning and Design (3 cr.) P: A503 or consent of the instructor. This course offers a survey of museum exhibit planning and design through an integration of theory and practice. The class introduces students to exhibit development, including exhibit administration, design, and evaluation, and to a variety of professional skills through hands-on exercises, exhibit critiques, museum observations, and in-museum classes.

MSTD A514 Museums and Technology (3 cr.) This course surveys the growing use of technology in museums. It examines applications for information management in collections, conservation science, and archives. It examines critically the use of technology in the service of education both in exhibit contexts and in the variety of educational programs and web-based dissemination of knowledge.

AADM Y525 Museum Management (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. Management of art and historical museums; the museum: its legal status, the building, management and staff, goals and objectives, fundraising and budgeting, collections and exhibition, education, and community outreach.

Paralegal Studies

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 503L, (317) 274-7547

Paralegals play an increasingly important part in the legal profession, undertaking often critical research and support work for attorneys. The Certificate in Paralegal Studies offered by the Department of Political Science is increasingly recognized as important preparation for anyone considering a career in law, and provides students with grounding in all the critical elements of the legal profession, from litigation to property law, contract law, bankruptcy law, and family law. Adding an important real-world element to the certificate, almost all the classes are taught by practicing attorneys or paralegals.

Students can combine the certificate with any other degree programs or major, or take it by itself. The credit certificate program parallels the noncredit program available through the School of Continuing Studies, and represents a partnership between the two schools.

The 27 credit hour certificate includes 9 credit hours of required course work and 18 credit hours chosen by the student from a set of elective courses listed below. Students must receive a grade of C or higher in each course they intend to apply toward the certificate.

Because of the demands of the required courses for the certificate, there are prerequisites that students must satisfy prior to undertaking the course work for the certificate: they should have college-level writing proficiency, computing proficiency, and should have completed POLS Y211 Introduction to Law.

Required Courses (9 credit hours):

PHIL P222 Legal Ethics (3 cr.)

POLS Y221 Legal Research and Writing for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y222 Litigation for Paralegal Studies I (3 cr.)

Elective Courses (18 credit hours from the following):

POLS Y223 Litigation for Paralegal Studies II (3 cr.)

POLS Y224 Property Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y225 Contract Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y226 Tort Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y228 Family Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y229 Estate Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y230 Bankruptcy Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

POLS Y231 Advanced Legal Writing for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.)

BUS L203 Commercial Law I (3 cr.)¹

BUS L303 Commercial Law II (3 cr.)¹

Students who have questions about the Certificate in Paralegal Studies, or who wish to declare and pursue the certificate, should contact the advisor for paralegal studies, Professor William Blomquist, Cavanaugh Hall 503L, (317) 274-7547.

Courses

POLS Y211 Introduction to Law (3 cr.) An introduction to law as an aspect of government and politics, and as a means for dealing with major social problems. Students will study legal reasoning, procedures, and materials, and may compare other nations' legal systems. The course usually includes a moot court or other forms of simulation.

POLS Y221 Legal Research and Writing for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211. Development of research and communication skills special to the area of law. Includes methods of organizing and conducting legal research, resources available for legal research, presentation of findings in memoranda and briefs, other forms of legal writing.

POLS Y222 Litigation for Paralegal Studies I (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This course examines the processing of a case from initial client interviews to final disposition. It includes drafting of complaints, answers, counterclaims, interrogatories and other discovery tools, gathering of evidence, and motions and judgments. Both Indiana and federal rules of evidence are emphasized.

POLS Y223 Litigation for Paralegal Studies II (3 cr.) P: Y211, Y221, and Y222. This elective course in advanced litigation focuses primarily on aspects of trial preparation not covered in depth in Y222. Topics may include jury selection, witness preparation and examination, preparation of evidence for use at trial, jury instructions, post-judgment relief.

POLS Y224 Property Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This course examines the legal rules governing various types of property and the ways in which human beings relate to property. Types of property include real and personal; relationships to property include both ownership and interest. Emphasis is placed on forms and procedures used in Indiana.

POLS Y225 Contract Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This course includes the basic elements and principles involved in the drafting, interpretation, and enforcement of contracts, including current trends in contract law in Indiana. Includes Uniform Commercial Code.

POLS Y226 Tort Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This course reviews current law and recent trends in negligence and liability. Different dimensions of liability are covered. Emphasis on conduct of a tort case from initiation through relief, and on the responsibilities of legal assistants therein.

POLS Y227 Criminal Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This in-depth review of criminal law in Indiana covers the Indiana Criminal Code—infractions, misdemeanors, and felonies. The course emphasizes real situations that legal professionals encounter throughout the process.

POLS Y228 Family Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This course examines legal rules and procedures concerning domestic relations. Topics covered include separation and divorce, adoption, child custody and support, and other areas of domestic relations in Indiana.

POLS Y229 Estate Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. This course reviews legal rules and procedures concerning the transfer of property upon the owner's demise. Provides a practical approach to the language, procedures, forms, interpretation, and administration of wills and trusts. Emphasis on current trends in Indiana and federal law.

POLS Y230 Bankruptcy Law for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. Examines the legal rules relating to bankruptcy.

POLS Y231 Advanced Legal Writing for Paralegal Studies (3 cr.) P: Y211 and Y221. Builds on Y221 by giving students the opportunity for advanced study of research and communication skills needed for paralegals.

PHIL P222 Legal Ethics (3 cr.) Introduction to ethical principles and practices in the legal profession.

BUS L203 Commercial Law I (3 cr.) Provides a broad knowledge of commercial law. Includes the nature of law, torts, contracts, the sale of goods, and the legal regulation of business competition.

BUS L303 Commercial Law II (3 cr.) Focuses on the law of ownership, forms of business organization, commercial paper, and secured transactions.

Philanthropic studies at Indiana University is interdisciplinary, interprofessional, and systemwide. The field addresses voluntary contributions of service and funds, voluntary associations, and what has been called “the social history of the moral imagination.” Areas of inquiry range from the history of philanthropy and philanthropy in literature (in the School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI) to fundraising management and legal issues (in other schools at IUPUI and IU Bloomington). Undergraduate and graduate degrees, minors, and certificates in various areas of philanthropic studies are currently available in the School of Liberal Arts and in other schools at IUPUI and IU Bloomington. For more information, visit the Center on Philanthropy Web site at www.philanthropy.iupui.edu.

Minor in Philanthropic Studies

The undergraduate minor in philanthropic studies provides students with a general knowledge of the history, culture, and values of philanthropy. The minor provides an interdisciplinary framework for School of Liberal Arts majors for whom the study of history, culture, civil society, or values overlaps their own disciplines. It also attracts students from other majors who wish to incorporate an interdisciplinary component into their professional training. Students should declare their intention to pursue the minor in a letter addressed to the chair of the philanthropic studies faculty.

Requirements for the minor include 15 credit hours. A grade of C or higher must be earned in each course counted toward the minor. Because the subject of philanthropy is inherently interdisciplinary, no more than two courses may be taken in any one department.

Students may petition the chair of the philanthropic studies faculty to replace an existing course option.

Core Courses

Students are required to include at least two of the following four courses:

ECON E414 Economics of Nonprofit Organizations
HIST H415 History of Philanthropy in the West
HIST A421 History of American Philanthropy
POLS Y378 Problems in Public Policy: Civil Society and Public Policy in the United States

Elective Courses

ENG L431 Topics in Literary Study: Philanthropy and Literature
PHIL P327 Philanthropy and Social Welfare
PHST P430 Topics in Philanthropic Studies
REL R366 Religion and Civil Society
SOC R295 Topics in Sociology: Sociology of Altruism, Voluntarism, and Pro-Social Behavior

Certificate in American Humanics

The American Humanics (AH) Certificate prepares undergraduate students to become skilled professionals and leaders in human service (nonprofit) organizations. Students develop a network of professional contacts, obtain on-the-job experience through an extensive internship and site visits, and acquire leadership skills through the AH student association. In addition, they have opportunities to explore careers, participate in community service projects, and engage in social activities. This certificate program is open to students pursuing a bachelor's degree in any major. For more information, contact the School of Public and Environmental Affairs at (317) 274-4656.

Master of Arts

The Master of Arts in Philanthropic Studies focuses on the history, culture, and values of philanthropy. Its objectives are: to enable students to gain the knowledge and skills either to pursue further graduate study in relevant fields or to pursue careers in the independent sector or in related fields; to enable students to investigate the broader theoretical issues of philanthropy and of their chosen areas of specialization from a variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives; and to utilize the interdisciplinary base to maintain a thorough critical inquiry into the historical and cultural implications of philanthropy.

Admission

Requirements include a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, a minimum grade point average of 3.0 on a scale of 4.0, and a minimum grade point average of 3.0 in the student's major field. In addition, students seeking admission to the program should demonstrate an appropriate level of achievement on the Graduate Record Examination (or comparable proficiency test), and must arrange for three letters of recommendation to be addressed to the M.A. Program Admissions Committee.

Applicants who do not meet all of the requirements listed above may be admitted to the program on a provisional basis, in which case their status will be reviewed after a fixed period of time to determine whether they may continue in the program.

Financial Aid

Fellowships, scholarships, and graduate assistantships are available. Please contact Student Services in the School of Liberal Arts for more information.

Curriculum

The M.A. in Philanthropic Studies requires a total of 36 credit hours. This includes 18 credit hours of core courses, 12 credit hours of elective courses, and 6 credit hours of thesis or additional courses. A minimum of 18 credit hours in core and elective courses combined must be in the School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI, and not more than 9 credit hours may be taken in courses numbered below 500. These 9 credit hours may come only from courses approved for Graduate School credit. In addition, the student earns 6 credit hours either for a thesis on a topic approved by the M.A. Program Advisory Committee or for graduate-level courses in a field in which future study is planned. The approval process for the thesis or its alternative normally takes place after a student has successfully completed 15 credit hours of course work.

In order to earn the M.A. in Philanthropic Studies, students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.0 on a scale of 4.0. Grades in courses counting for credit toward this degree may be no lower than C (2.0 on a scale of 4.0).

The 18 credit hours of core courses normally include Philanthropic Studies P521 The Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector; Philanthropic Studies P523 Civil Society and Philanthropy; History H509 History of Philanthropy in the West; Philosophy P542 Ethics and Values of Philanthropy; Philanthropic Studies P512 Human and Financial Resources for Philanthropy; and Philanthropic Studies P590 Internship in Philanthropic Studies. In addition, students will take one of the following: American Studies P520 Philanthropy in American Culture; Anthropology A509 Cross-Cultural Dimensions; SPEA V524 Civil Society in Comparative Perspective; or Religion R590 Religion and Philanthropy. Also, students must take either Economics E514 The Nonprofit Economy and Public Policy or Philanthropic Studies P535 Law of Nonprofit Organizations, as well as P600 M.A. Thesis in Philanthropic Studies (6 cr.).

Dual Degrees

The Philanthropic Studies program has developed dual-degree opportunities with several schools and departments. When approved, a dual degree provides a student with a program of study that leads to the M.A. in Philanthropic Studies and a master's degree in another discipline. Students must apply separately and simultaneously for a dual degree.

- Economics (M.A. in Economics)
- History (M.A. in History)
- Nursing (M.S. in Nursing Administration)
- School of Library and Information Sciences (M.L.S.)
- School of Public and Environmental Affairs (M.P.A. in Nonprofit Management)

Executive M.A. in Philanthropic Studies Program

Many students interested in the M.A. program are unable to attend on a traditional residential basis because of the distance from Indianapolis and their ongoing job responsibilities. To provide access to the M.A. in Philanthropic Studies at Indiana University for this growing constituency, the executive master's program was established in 1996. A participant in the executive master's program can finish the requirements for the degree usually in three years by completing an orientation before the first day of classes; six intense one-week sessions of residential study at IUPUI; distance education and directed off-site course work; and elective study at a qualified institution near the student's home.

Each summer course requires one week of intense on-campus study and is preceded by a prerresidential period of approximately six weeks that includes preparatory reading and assignments. Each session is followed by a postresidential period that includes evaluative experiences to be completed at home. During both the prerresidential and postresidential periods, faculty work with students by telephone, e-mail, fax, and mail.

Applicants for the executive program are not required to take the GRE. Otherwise the admission criteria are the same as for those applying for the residential program with the addition of three to five years of work experience in the nonprofit sector. Deadline dates for admission are January 1 for non-U.S. citizens and February 1 for U.S. citizens.

For more information, contact the Center on Philanthropy, (317) 684-8911, or visit the Web site at www.philanthropy.iupui.edu.

Doctor of Philosophy in Philanthropic Studies

Philanthropic studies is a field of inquiry built upon an interdisciplinary theoretical examination of philanthropy, while also providing an understanding of the individual side of philanthropic behavior and the structures that support voluntary activity. The interdisciplinary approach to philanthropic studies allows for the treatment of the distinct characteristics of philanthropy and the nonprofit sector. The methodologies of the social sciences, the humanities, and professional disciplines are applied to understanding the processes of giving and volunteering from the donor's perspective and of volunteer involvement and fundraising from the organizational perspective. Research in this field will build the knowledge base and inform the practice of fundraising; grant-making; volunteer involvement; and leadership in nonprofit, public, and private philanthropic organizations and other public service programs, which lead to a "civil society."

The primary goal of the Doctor of Philosophy in Philanthropic Studies at Indiana University is the preparation of researchers and scholars who will provide leadership in the profession of philanthropy, higher education, and nonprofit organizations.

Upon completion of the Ph.D. in Philanthropic Studies, graduates will be able to

1. Demonstrate multiple perspectives of knowing to synthesize the multidisciplinary contributions to knowledge generation in philanthropic studies
2. Evaluate the ways in which knowledge and practice in philanthropy are influenced by historical developments, philosophical thoughts, political and social-economic systems, and cultural diversity
3. Analyze, develop, and evaluate concepts and theories that contribute to the philanthropic studies field/discipline
4. Conduct and communicate original research that advances the body of scientific knowledge in philanthropic studies
5. Demonstrate expertise in research methodologies and techniques and their appropriate application in one's selected specialty within philanthropy
6. Analyze the impact of an expanded knowledge base in philanthropy and external forces on the development of philanthropy policy and practice in a just society
7. Commit to leadership roles in philanthropic studies education, research, and practice and the incorporation of research and practice ethics

Credits

A minimum of 90 credit hours is required; a maximum of 30 credit hours may be transferred from other graduate work in philanthropic studies and related areas. All courses credited toward the Ph.D. degree must have a minimum grade of B and receive written approval of the Ph.D. Program Committee or its representative.

Admission Requirements

1. Formal application to Ph.D. program
2. Official undergraduate and graduate transcripts
3. Grade of B or higher on all courses applied to requirements
4. GRE Test Scores
5. Three letters of reference
6. Current curriculum vitae

7. Three-page essay summarizing professional goals and proposed research area
8. An interview (telephone, electronic, or in person) with members of Philanthropic Studies Doctoral Committee

Admissions Deadline

Applications are required by January 15 to be eligible for nomination for a prestigious Indiana University Fellowship.

Research Opportunities

Primary areas of faculty research expertise include:

- Philanthropic history and traditions; role of philanthropy in civil society; community-based studies of philanthropy
- Management and measurement of philanthropic resources; governance issues of philanthropic institutions and nonprofit organizations
- Foundations similarities and differences; corporate philanthropy
- Forces influencing giving and volunteering in families over time
- Costs and benefits of fund raising campaigns

Course Requirements

- Four Philanthropic Studies core seminars (12 credits)
- Four External Minor courses (12 credits)
- Research Methods (9 credits)
- Open electives (6 credits)
- Dissertation (21 credits)

External Minor

All Ph.D. students complete a 12 credit hour External Minor related to their area of specialization in a department or school other than the Center on Philanthropy. This requirement enables students to link their research to the full range of academic disciplines available on both the Indianapolis and Bloomington campuses.

Advisory Committee

All students in the Ph.D. program, with the approval of the program director, will select an advisory committee of three faculty members, one of whom will represent the student's area of specialization outside the Center on Philanthropy.

Qualifying Examination

A written qualifying examination is required for admission to doctoral candidacy. The focus and scheduling are determined by the student's advisory committee.

Dissertation Requirements

After nomination to candidacy, the student, with the approval of the program director, will select a research committee of no fewer than three faculty members, including an outside member. The committee must approve the proposed dissertation topic. The dissertation involves an original piece of research and oral defense.

Full Time or Part Time

The program is available for both full- and part-time students.

Length of Study

Three to 5 and a half years, depending on full- or part-time study.

Financial Assistance

A variety of financial resources are available for Ph.D. students, including university fellowships, philanthropy scholarships, research assistantships, teaching assistantships, and loans. Information about financial resources for Ph.D. students may be obtained from the Student Services office.

Courses

P105 Giving and Volunteering in America (3 cr.) Introduction to the philanthropic tradition of giving and volunteering in the United States through interdisciplinary readings, a variety of short-term community service experiences, oral and written assignments, and group projects; provides overview of the nonprofit sector and opportunities to begin exploring issues related to philanthropic studies. (3 credit hours; in addition, course is linked to a 1-hour University College "learning community" course.)

P330 Topics in Philanthropic Studies (3 cr.) In-depth study of selected topics and issues in philanthropic studies. Specific topics vary by semester. May be repeated once for credit with a different course topic.

P430 Topics in Philanthropic Studies (3 cr.) This course offers an in-depth study of selected topics and issues in philanthropic studies. Specific topics vary by semester. Course may be repeated for credit with a different course topic.

P501 The Philanthropic Tradition (3 cr.) This interdisciplinary course examines the core values of philanthropy and the principal patterns of philanthropic behavior and organization with particular emphasis on the Western tradition and its American adaptation.

P512 Human and Financial Resources for Philanthropy (3 cr.) This course is designed to familiarize beginning graduate students with the three major areas subsumed under resources of the independent sector: volunteers, grant making, and financial resources obtained through a fundraising program. The course is divided into four parts to include the theoretical framework for the sector; government, corporate, and foundation resources; charitable donations by individuals; and volunteer management.

P521 The Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector (3 cr.) Students examine issues of why people organize, give, and donate time, theories of the sector, policy formulation in the sector, etc., with the objective of becoming "philanthropically literate."

P523 Civil Society and Philanthropy (3 cr.) The course explores the relationship of civil society to the state, how the nonprofit sector affects the state, and how the state regulates the sector. A continuing theme is how and whether the state and philanthropic institutions make civil investments in strengthening civil society.

P530 Topics in Philanthropic Studies (3 cr.) In-depth study of selected topics and issues in philanthropic studies. Specific topics vary by semester. Course may be repeated once for credit with a different course topic.

P535 Law of Nonprofit Organizations (3 cr.) This seminar examines aspects of the legal regulation of nonprofit organizations. Topics include the formation, operation, and governance of nonprofit organizations, duties and liability of officers and directors, charitable solicitation, tax-exempt status for public benefit and mutual benefit organizations, charitable contributions, political activities, foundations, membership organizations, and religious organizations.

P555 Readings in Philanthropic Studies (1-4 cr.) P: permission of director. A tutorial course involving in-depth study and analysis of a specific topic in philanthropic studies, by arrangement with instructor.

P590 Internship in Philanthropic Studies (3 cr.) A course for the advanced student of philanthropy. Students work 10 hours per week for a voluntary association, applying knowledge gained in earlier courses to practical situations. Requirements include a journal and a substantial term paper.

P600 M.A. Thesis in Philanthropic Studies (3-6 cr.)

P690 Research in Philanthropic Studies (3 cr.) P: one semester of M.A. course work. Students research specialized topics related to philanthropic studies agreed upon with the instructor from and in their chosen disciplinary perspective. In some instances team research may be carried out. The course may be repeated once with approval of the chair of philanthropic studies.

Undergraduate and graduate degrees, minors, and certificates in various areas of philanthropic studies and nonprofit management are available at IUPUI and IU Bloomington. These include American Humanities, nonprofit management, museum studies, and the philanthropic studies minor. New courses and degree programs are developing rapidly. For up-to-date information, please contact Student Services for the Philanthropic Studies Program, (317) 684-8911 or visit www.philanthropy.iupui.edu.

Philosophic inquiry aims, ultimately, at a general understanding of the whole of reality. It draws on the insights of the great historical philosophers, on what has been learned in all other major fields of study, and on the rich perspective embodied within our ordinary ways of thinking. Philosophers address a diverse array of deep, challenging, and profoundly important questions. Examples include the nature of the self and of personal identity; the existence or nonexistence of God; the nature of such phenomena as time, mind, language, and science; the sources and limits of human knowledge; the nature of the good life; the foundations of state authority; the requirements of social justice; and the nature of art, beauty, and aesthetic experience. Philosophical questions are addressed not by reference to empirical information alone, but by means of analysis, synthesis, argument, and the construction and evaluation of philosophical theories.

What attracts students to philosophy is the intrinsic interest of its subject matter. But the study of philosophy has practical benefits as well. Philosophy majors are practiced in the close reading of complex texts, in the careful analysis and evaluation of arguments, in original and creative thinking, and in the clear, precise, and persuasive communication of ideas. The skills thus acquired are not only a source of deep personal satisfaction, but a strong asset in any profession. That the study of philosophy is highly effective in enhancing academic skills is evidenced by the fact that philosophy majors receive exceptionally high scores on the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT), the Graduate Record Exam (GRE), and other standardized admissions tests.

Since philosophy examines the presuppositions and the basic concepts and methods of all other disciplines, a minor in philosophy can be an ideal complement to a major in any other field of study. In addition to the perspective it offers on other fields, a minor in philosophy sharpens intellectual skills, opens a broad intellectual vista, and affords an opportunity to consider fundamental questions of human concern.

Undergraduate Major in Philosophy

Requirements

A minimum of 24 credit hours in philosophy, including:

- (a) either a survey of philosophy (P110 Introduction to Philosophy, S110 Introduction to Philosophy—Honors) or a basic course in ethics (P120 Ethics, S120 Ethics—Honors, P237 Environmental Ethics, P326 Ethical Theory, or P393 Biomedical Ethics);
- (b) a basic course in logic (P162 Logic or P265 Introduction to Symbolic Logic);
- (c) a minimum of 9 credit hours at the 300-400 level.

To assure a properly balanced program of study, courses are to be selected in consultation with a departmental advisor.

Double Majors

Students planning to major in a discipline other than philosophy are encouraged to consider philosophy as a second major. Students planning such a double major should consult the Department of Philosophy about philosophy courses most suitable to their academic interests and career goals.

Undergraduate Minor in Philosophy

Requirements

A minimum of 15 credit hours in philosophy, including:

- (a) one course from each of at least two of these three groups of basic courses: (1) P110, S110; (2) P120, S120, P237, P326, P393; (3) P162, P265;
- (b) a minimum of 6 credit hours at the 300-400 level.

Master of Arts in Philosophy

The philosophy M.A. program includes courses in core areas of philosophy plus a concentration in either bioethics or American philosophy. For information concerning the curriculum and how to apply, visit www.iupui.edu/~philosop/graduate.htm. Questions may be addressed to either of the graduate directors: Jason Eberl (bioethics), jeberl@iupui.edu, (317) 278-9239; or Cornelis de Waal (American philosophy), cdwaal@iupui.edu, (317) 274-2171.

Admission Requirements

Applicants are expected to have a bachelor's degree from an accredited university or its equivalent, with a grade point average of at least 3.0 overall (on a 4.0 scale) and at least 3.0 in the student's major. There is no specific major requirement, but applicants must show a record of course work (or equivalent experience) demonstrating that they are sufficiently prepared to do graduate work in philosophy. For applicants interested in the bioethics track, professional training or experience involving health care ethics may be accepted in lieu of course work. Applicants must also show an appropriate level of achievement on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test.

Course Requirements

Students are required to earn a minimum of 30 credit hours, of which at least 20 credits must be in philosophy. Students must earn 6 credits in core areas of philosophy, 18 credits in concentration-specific courses, and 6 credits for a thesis or research project. The program is designed to accommodate the needs of part-time as well as full-time students.

Combined Degrees

There are plans for programs leading to combined degrees in law and philosophy (J.D./M.A.) and in medicine and philosophy (M.D./M.A.). In both cases, the M.A. in philosophy would be with a concentration in bioethics. For up-to-date information on the status of these programs, contact Jason Eberl, jeberl@iupui.edu, or visit www.iupui.edu/~philosop/graduate.htm.

Ph.D. Minor in Philosophy

To earn a doctoral minor in philosophy at IUPUI, a student outside the department must earn a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B) in 13 credit hours of graduate-level courses.

Departmental Honors Program

To provide superior students the option of advanced work in philosophy, the department offers H-Options in all 200- to 500-level courses other than P265. To graduate with honors in philosophy, a student must complete at least 24 credit hours of honors work, including at least 12 credit hours in philosophy and at least 6 credit hours outside philosophy, and must satisfy the requirements for a major in philosophy. The student must maintain a minimum overall grade point average of 3.3, with a 3.5 in philosophy and a 3.5 in honors courses. For further information, contact the department chair.

Undergraduate Courses

Honors Courses

S110 Introduction to Philosophy—Honors (3 cr.) This course is an introduction to key philosophical concepts and issues as well as major thinkers and historical periods.

S120 Ethics—Honors (3 cr.) A study of ethical values in relation to such problems as personal and societal decision making, selection and justification of lifestyle, goal orientation, conflict resolution, freedom and creativity, commitment and responsibility.

S314 Philosophy and Modern Times—Honors (3 cr.) A study of one or more philosophical concepts, themes, or developments characteristic of the modern period.

Regular Courses

P110 Introduction to Philosophy (3 cr.) An introduction to the methods and problems of philosophy and to important figures in the history of philosophy. Concerns such topics as the nature of reality, the meaning of life, and the existence of God. Readings from classical and contemporary sources, e.g., Plato, Descartes, Nietzsche, and Sartre.

P120 Ethics (3 cr.) An introductory course in ethics. Typically examines virtues, vices, and character; theories of right and wrong; visions of the good life; and contemporary moral issues.

P162 Logic (3 cr.) A study of the principles of logic. The course covers a variety of traditional topics, selected for their practical value, within formal and informal logic. Among the topics typically covered are fallacies, syllogisms, causal hypotheses, logic diagrams, argument analysis, and truth-functional reasoning.

P237 Environmental Ethics (3 cr.) Addresses moral issues concerning the relation between humans and the environment. Covers such topics as resource depletion, population growth, endangered ecosystems, deep ecology, and the land ethic.

P265 Introduction to Symbolic Logic (3 cr.) A study of the most important and widely applicable parts of modern symbolic logic: propositional logic and predicate logic.

P280 Philosophical Problems: (variable title) (3 cr.) Concentrated treatment of an important philosophical problem. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

P281 Philosophy of Religion (3 cr.) Philosophical views regarding such topics as the meaning and purpose of religion, religious experience, religious knowledge, and the existence and nature of God.

P307 Classical Philosophy (3 cr.) A study of the significant texts of ancient Greek and Roman philosophy, including the Presocratics, Plato, Aristotle, and the Hellenistic Thinkers.

P314 Modern Philosophy (3 cr.) A study of Western philosophy from the rise of modern science through the Enlightenment. Covers such philosophers as Bacon, Descartes, Berkeley, Hume, Leibniz, and Kant.

P316 Twentieth-Century Philosophy: (variable title) (3 cr.) A study of one or more twentieth-century approaches to philosophy, e.g., pragmatism, analytic philosophy, phenomenology, existentialism, postmodernism, and neo-Marxism. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

P317 Nineteenth-Century Philosophy (3 cr.) A historical survey of philosophy in the nineteenth century from Hegel to Nietzsche, including utilitarianism, positivism, and philosophies of evolution.

P322 Philosophy of Human Nature (3 cr.) Theories of human nature and their philosophical implications.

P323 Society and State in the Modern World (3 cr.) Topics, issues, and key figures in modern political philosophy—e.g., distributive justice, state authority, and the political thought of Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Mill, Marx, and Rawls.

P325 Social Philosophy: (variable title) (3 cr.) Concentrated study of one or more topics in social philosophy, e.g., human rights, political violence, civil disobedience, and legal paternalism. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

P326 Ethical Theory (3 cr.) A variable title course. Advanced consideration of one or more ethical theories or theoretical issues about the nature and status of ethics.

P331 Philosophy of Science (3 cr.) An introductory study of theories with regard to the nature, purpose, and limitations of science.

P348 Philosophy and Literature (3 cr.) A study of philosophical issues raised by and in literature. Special emphasis on reading works of literature as texts of philosophical interest.

P358 American Philosophy (3 cr.) A study of the philosophical tradition in the United States, emphasizing major thinkers such as Peirce, Royce, James, Dewey, and Whitehead.

P365 Intermediate Symbolic Logic (3 cr.) P: P265. Topics in metalogic, set theory, and modal logic.

P367 Philosophy of Art (3 cr.) A study of fundamental concepts and theories of aesthetics and a philosophical exploration of major artistic movements and genres.

P368 Philosophy of Language (3 cr.) Philosophical study of the nature and functions of language. Covers such topics as meaning and truth, theories of reference, linguistic relativity, and speech acts.

P369 Epistemology (3 cr.) Knowledge and justified belief: their nature, structure, sources, and limits.

P382 Philosophy of History (3 cr.) An analysis of some of the philosophical problems implicit in the study of history, such as the possibility of historical objectivity, and a survey of influential interpretations of history from Augustine to Heidegger.

P383 Topics in Philosophy: (variable title) (3 cr.) Advanced treatment of a special topic. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

P385 Metaphysics (3 cr.) A study of several of the principal problems of metaphysics, such as identity through time, the self, the mind-body problem, freedom and determinism, fate, causation, the problem of universals, and the existence of God.

P393 Biomedical Ethics (3 cr.) A philosophical consideration of ethical problems that arise in current biomedical practice, e.g., with regard to abortion, euthanasia, determination of death, consent to treatment, and professional responsibilities in connection with research, experimentation, and health care delivery.

P394 Feminist Philosophy (3 cr.) A study of one or more philosophical topics in feminist thought. Examples: feminist ethics; feminist critiques of science; and feminist perspectives on motherhood, sexuality, and reproductive technology.

P414 Philosophy and Culture (3 cr.) In-depth consideration of a topic involving the interrelationship between philosophy and culture. May be repeated for credit.

P418 Seminar in the History of Philosophy: (variable title) (3 cr.) Intensive study of a philosopher or philosophical school of enduring importance. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

P448 Seminar in American Philosophy (3 cr.) An intensive study of a major American thinker, such as Edwards, Royce, James, Peirce, Dewey, or Whitehead, or of a leading theme, such as community, experience, or education. May be repeated for credit.

P468 Seminar in the Philosophy of Mind (3 cr.) An in-depth study of some particular problem of current concern in one of the following: theory of meaning, conceptual analysis, information theory, theory of action, artificial intelligence. May be repeated for credit.

P488 Research in Philosophy I (1-4 cr.) P: 9 credit hours of philosophy and consent of instructor. Independent research in philosophical theory approved by and reported to any member of the department. May be repeated for credit, but no more than 6 credit hours may be counted toward the major.

P489 Research in Philosophy II (1-4 cr.) P: 9 credit hours of philosophy and consent of instructor. Independent research in applied philosophy approved by and reported to any member of the department. May be repeated for credit, but no more than 3 credit hours may be counted toward the major.

Graduate Courses

P500 Philosophy Pro-Seminar (3 cr.) An advanced survey of areas and issues addressed in philosophy. Principal objective: to familiarize the post-baccalaureate student with the range and diversity of contemporary philosophical discourse.

P503 The Semiotics of C. S. Peirce (3 cr.) A rigorous initiation to Peirce's logic of signs, including his theory of knowledge, his categoriology, his definitions and classifications of signs, the three branches of semiotics, with an applied research component.

P507 American Philosophy and the Analytic Tradition (3 cr.) An overview of the development of American philosophy during the twentieth century with a special focus on its contribution to and influence on the American analytic tradition. This course will discuss the views of people like Lewis, Morris, Carnap, Quine, Davidson, Rorty, Putnam, and Haack.

P514 Pragmatism (3 cr.) This course will examine what pragmatism stood for in its formative years and what it has become; then after studying some conflicting views of well-known pragmatists we will consider what pragmatism might become. Part of the course is devoted to the contributions of pragmatism to different areas within philosophy.

P520 Philosophy of Language (3 cr.) Advanced study of selected topics.

P522 Topics in the History of Modern Philosophy (3 cr.) Selected topics from the philosophies of one or more of the following: Continental rationalists (Descartes, Spinoza, Leibniz), British empiricists (Locke, Berkeley, Hume), and Kant. May be repeated twice with consent of instructor(s).

P525 Topics in the History of Philosophy (3 cr.) An advanced study of important themes or major figures in the history of philosophy. May be repeated for credit if topics vary.

P540 Contemporary Ethical Theories (3 cr.) Fundamental problems of ethics in contemporary analytic philosophy from G. E. Moore's Principia Ethica to present.

P542 The Ethics and Values of Philanthropy (3 cr.) An inquiry into the ethics and values of philanthropy rooted in a general understanding of philanthropy, as voluntary action for the public good, as an ethical ideal. A consideration of philanthropic activity in light of this ideal.

P543 Contemporary Social and Political Philosophy (3 cr.)

P547 Foundations of Bioethics (3 cr.) A rigorous examination of bioethical theory and practice. Stress is placed on moral and conceptual issues embedded in biomedical research, clinical practice, and social policy relating to the organization and delivery of health care.

P548 Clinical Ethics Practicum (3 cr.) This course provides learning experiences both in the classroom and in clinical settings, enabling students to fully appreciate ethical issues that face health care professionals. The course will be team-taught by IUPUI faculty and clinicians, with support from the IU Center for Bioethics.

P549 Bioethics and Pragmatism (3 cr.) This course provides a critical examination of recent contributions by American philosophers to bioethics. The course will have a strong focus on a growing group of thinkers who seek their inspiration in Dewey, James, Peirce, Royce, and Mead, while dealing with contemporary issues in medical ethics.

P553 Philosophy of Science (3 cr.) A study of theories with regard to the nature, purpose, and limitations of science. Attention will be given to the cognitive significance of theories, the scientific method (hypothesis formation, theory construction, and testing), research paradigms, reductionism, and social epistemology.

P555 Ethical and Policies Issues in International Research (3 cr.) This course examines ethical and policy issues in the design and conduct of transnational research involving human participants. Topics discussed include: economic and political factors; study design; the role of ethics review committees; individual and group recruitment/informed consent; end-of-study responsibilities; national and international guidelines.

P558 American Philosophy (3 cr.) A general overview of the most significant contributions of American philosophers, such as Emerson, Thoreau, Peirce, James, Dewey, Santayana, Mead, Jane Addams, Alain Locke.

P560 Metaphysics (3 cr.) In-depth discussion of representative contemporary theories.

P562 Theory of Knowledge (3 cr.) Advanced study of selected topics.

P590 Intensive Reading (1-4 cr.) A tutorial course involving in-depth consideration of a specific philosophical area or problem or author. May be repeated for credit.

P600 Topics in Philosophy (3 cr.) A detailed examination of a specific topic in philosophy.

P650 Topics in Semiotic Philosophy (3 cr.) An examination of various historical and theoretical issues arising from the philosophical study of semiosis—the general phenomenon of representation, objectification, signification, and interpretation—through the work of mostly American philosophers from the late nineteenth century to the present, with an emphasis on the impact of Peirce's semiotic philosophy.

P701 Peirce Seminar (3 cr.) This seminar is devoted to a critical examination of the general structure and development of Peirce's systematic philosophy with a special emphasis on those tensions in the development of his thought that led to modifications in his philosophy, and on the nature and significance of those changes.

P730 Seminar: Contemporary Philosophy (4 cr.) Selected topics on the works of twentieth-century philosophers.

P748 Seminar in American Philosophy (3 cr.) Advanced study of a principal philosopher or a set of selected topics in classical American philosophy.

P803 Master's Thesis in Philosophy (cr. Arr.)

Politics is about power: who has it and how it is used. The goal of the Department of Political Science is to provide students with a superior program of study into the many different and intriguing ways in which power is given, taken, distributed, limited, manipulated, and used, and to help them better appreciate and understand the many different forms taken by systems of government around the world.

The department offers introductory courses in all the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, public policy, political theory, comparative politics, and international relations. We also offer a wide variety of advanced courses in which students can learn more about topics as varied as Indiana state government; national politics in Washington, D.C.; the political systems of Africa, Asia, and Europe; the mechanics of voting and public opinion; and critical policy issues of our time, such as welfare, crime, war, the environment, and women in politics. Our students also gain hands-on experience through internships and multicollege political simulations.

Our majors have gone on to careers in fields as diverse as politics, business, teaching, human services, the media, and working for interest groups, and many have gone on to graduate school in politics and law. Courses in political science help majors and nonmajors alike become critical observers of—and informed participants in—politics and government at the local, national, and international levels.

Major in Political Science

In addition to the basic School of Liberal Arts requirements (listed elsewhere in this bulletin), the political science major must do the following:

1. Complete 33 credit hours in political science with at least a C grade in each course. Those 33 credit hours are part of the 122 credit hours needed for the B.A. degree in liberal arts.
2. Complete the following specific requirements:
 - 9 credit hours: Y103, Y205, and Y215
 - 3 credit hours chosen from Y217 or Y219
 - 18 credit hours, of which 15 must be from the 300 level and above (no more than six of these hours from Y480, Y481, and Y498)
 - 3 credit hours: Y490

Transfer students only: Transfer students from either another Indiana University campus or from another institution must take a minimum of 9 credit hours of 300- to 400-level (junior-senior) political science courses at IUPUI. These courses must be of regular classroom format (not readings or research); they may include a seminar, if needed.

Minor in Political Science

The political science minor consists of 15 credit hours with a concentration in one of five areas: American government, public policy, political theory, comparative politics, or international relations.

Only courses with a grade of C and higher are acceptable. Six of the 15 credit hours must be completed in residence. Students must file with the Department of Political Science their declaration of intent to complete a minor. Records are kept nowhere else.

American Government

Required are:

Y103

6 credit hours from 300-level courses in American government or Y200, as appropriate

6 credit hours of political science electives in other areas

Public Policy

Required are:

Y213

6 credit hours from 300-level courses in public policy or Y200, as appropriate

6 credit hours of political science electives in other areas

Political Theory

Required are:

Y215

6 credit hours from 300-level courses in political theory or Y200, as appropriate

6 credit hours of political science electives in other areas

Comparative Politics

Required are:

Y217

6 credit hours from 300-level courses in comparative politics or Y200, as appropriate

6 credit hours of political science electives in other areas

International Relations

Required are:

Y219

6 credit hours from 300-level courses in international relations or Y200, as appropriate

6 credit hours of political science electives in other areas

Interdisciplinary Minors and Certificates

The department offers three minor and/or certificate programs: international studies (certificate or minor), legal studies (minor), and paralegal studies (certificate). Information about these can be found on their respective pages in this bulletin.

Courses

Y101 Introduction to Political Science (3 cr.)

For any student interested in better understanding the political world in which we live. The course explains some fundamental political concepts such as power, conflict, authority, and governments. It may also include an overview of the major subfields of political science: comparative politics, international relations, political theory, and public policy.

Y103 Introduction to American Politics (3 cr.)

Introduction to the nature of government and the dynamics of American politics. Origin and nature of the American federal system and its political party base.

Y200 Contemporary Political Topics: (variable title) (1-6 cr.)

Involves an intensive analysis and discussion of selected contemporary political problems. The topics, which may vary from semester to semester, are listed in the class schedule. The course may be repeated up to a maximum of 6 credit hours. Recent topics have included problems of poverty, political protest, women in politics, citizens and the news, and problems of developing areas.

Y205 Elements of Political Analysis (3 cr.)

Introduction to the major approaches to and techniques of the systematic study of political science. Includes introduction to analysis of quantitative political data.

Y211 Introduction to Law (3 cr.)

An introduction to law as an aspect of government and politics, and as a means for dealing with major social problems. Students will study legal reasoning, procedures, and materials, and may compare other nations' legal systems. The course usually includes a moot court or other forms of simulation.

Y213 Introduction to Public Policy (3 cr.)

Studies the processes and institutions involved in the formation of public policy with particular reference to the United States. The course will identify key policy actors, analyze the process of policy making, and critically assess selected policy issues (such as foreign, defense, economic, welfare, and environmental policy).

Y215 Introduction to Political Theory (3 cr.)

An introduction to major ideas and theories in Western political thought, including theories of democracy and the analysis of conflict and cooperation. The course also addresses the attempts made by prominent political philosophers—from Aristotle and Plato to Locke, Marx, and Rawls—to understand and describe the nature of politics.

Y217 Introduction to Comparative Politics (3 cr.)

A course that introduces students to the major political systems of the world. Students will look at different system types, examine in depth particular countries as case studies such as Britain, Russia, and Mexico, and compare executives, legislatures, elections, political parties, interest groups, and key areas of public policy.

Y219 Introduction to International Relations (3 cr.)

An introduction to the global political system, and issues that shape relations among countries. The course looks at problems of conflict resolution, the role of international law and organizations, the challenges of poverty and development, and the other major policy issues over which nations cooperate, argue, or go to war.

Y301 Political Parties and Interest Groups (3 cr.)

Theories of American party activity; behavior of political parties, interest groups, and social movements; membership in groups; organization and structure; evaluation and relationship to the process of representation.

Y302 Public Bureaucracy in Modern Society (3 cr.)

Examines public bureaucracy, with special emphasis on the United States, as a political phenomenon engaging in policy making and in the definition of the terms of policy issues. Considers the role of bureaucratic instruments in promoting social change and in responding to it.

Y303 Formation of Public Policy in the United States (3 cr.)

Processes and institutions involved in the formation of public policy in American society.

Y304-Y305 American Constitutional Law I-II (3-3 cr.)

Nature and function of law and judicial process; selected Supreme Court decisions interpreting the American constitutional system.

Y306 State Politics in the United States (3 cr.)

Comparative study of politics in the American states. Special emphasis on the impact of political culture, party systems, legislatures, and bureaucracies on public policies.

Y307 Indiana State Government and Politics (3 cr.)

Constitutional foundations, political development, organizational and functional process and growth, and current problems of Indiana government. Readings, case studies, problems.

Y308 Urban Politics (3 cr.)

Political behavior in modern American communities; emphasizes the impact of municipal organization, city officials and bureaucracies, social and economic notables, political parties, interest groups, the general public, and protest organizations on urban policy outcomes.

Y310 Political Behavior (3 cr.)

P: Y205. A research course in which students design and execute their own investigations into political phenomena.

Y313 Environmental Policy (3 cr.)

Examines the causes of environmental problems and the political, economic, social, and institutional questions raised by designing and implementing effective policy responses to these problems.

Y317 Voting, Elections, and Public Opinion (3 cr.)

Determinants of voting behavior in elections. The nature of public opinion regarding major domestic and foreign policy issues; development of political ideology; other influences on the voting choices of individuals and the outcomes of elections; relationships among public opinion, elections, and the development of public policy.

Y319 The United States Congress (3 cr.)

This course offers students the opportunity to study the legislative branch of American national government. It includes the structure and processes of the Senate and House of Representatives, the role of parties, interest groups, and lobbyists, the legislative process, and the relations of Congress with the other branches of government.

Y320 Judicial Politics (3 cr.)

Examines the American judicial system in the contemporary context. Analysis of the trial and appellate courts with a focus on the United States Supreme Court. Topics include analyses of the structure of the judicial system, the participants in the system, and the policy-making processes and capabilities of the legal system. The course concludes with an assessment of the role of courts in a majoritarian democracy.

Y321 The Media and Politics (3 cr.)

Examines the contemporary relationship between the media and politics, including politicians' use of the media, media coverage of governmental activities, and media coverage of campaigns and elections. Course focuses primarily on the United States, but includes comparative perspectives.

Y322 The American Presidency (3 cr.)

This course examines the evolution of the presidency and its impact on the rest of the American political system. Students will study presidential selection, succession, and powers, the president's relationship to the rest of the government, and the legacy of presidents from George Washington to Bill Clinton.

Y324 Women and Politics (3 cr.)

Analysis of women in contemporary political systems, domestic or foreign, with emphasis on political roles, participation, and public policy. Normative or empirical examination of how political systems affect women and the impact women have on the system(s).

Y332 Russian Politics (3 cr.)

Political process and government structure in the Russian state. Political institutions inherited from tsarist empire and the Soviet state (1917-1991), history of subsequent political reform. Political problems of ethnic conflict, creating democratic institutions, and transition from socialism to market economy.

Y335 West European Politics (3 cr.)

Development, structure, and functioning of political systems, primarily in Britain, France, Italy, and Germany. Political dynamics of European integration.

Y336 Southeast Asian Political Systems (3 cr.)

Covers the governmental organization, and the political behavior and traditions, of countries in the Southeast Asian region. Addresses regional issues of political and economic development, and international issues regarding the relationship of the region to the rest of the world.

Y337 Latin American Politics (3 cr.)

Comparative analysis of political change in major Latin American countries, emphasizing alternative explanations of national and international developments; examination of impact of political parties, the military, labor and peasant movements, Catholic church, multinational corporations, regional organizations, and United States on politics; public policy processes in democratic and authoritarian regimes.

Y338 African Politics (3 cr.)

Politics in contemporary sub-Saharan Africa. Topics include processes of nation building, dependency and underdevelopment; role of political parties, leadership, ideology, and military rule; continuing relevance of colonial heritage and traditional culture and network of international relations.

Y339 Middle Eastern Politics (3 cr.)

Political culture and change in selected Middle Eastern and North African countries. Topics include political elites, traditional cultures, modern political ideology, institutions of political control, conflict management, and social reform policies.

Y346 Comparative Politics in Developing Countries (3 cr.) A course that examines the political, economic and social challenges faced by the developing countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Y351 Political Simulations (1-3 cr.) A course tied to simulations of political organizations such as the European Union, the United Nations, or the Organization of American States. May be taken alone or in conjunction with related political science courses. May be repeated for credit.

Y360 U.S. Foreign Policy (3 cr.) Analysis of institutions and processes involved in the formation and implementation of American foreign policy. Emphasis is on post-World War II policies.

Y373 American Politics through Film and Fiction (3 cr.) Recurrent themes of politics are explored in depth—by means of novels, short stories, and films. Subject matter varies by semester—check class schedule for current semester.

Y375 War and International Conflict (3 cr.) This course examines the causes and effects of war and international conflict, historically and comparatively.

Y377 Globalization (3 cr.) A course that investigates the economic, environmental, financial, political, security and technological aspects of globalization.

Y378 Problems in Public Policy: (variable title) (3 cr.) Examines various substantive problems in the formulation and conceptualization of public policy. Both the policy and its impact are considered in the context of the entire political environment in which it operates. Examples are selected from various levels of government, not always confined to the United States. May be repeated once for credit.

Y380 Selected Topics in Democratic Government: (variable title) (3 cr.) An examination of basic problems and issues in the theory and practice of democratic government. Specific topics vary by semester. May be repeated once for credit.

Y381 History of Political Theory I (3 cr.) An exposition and critical analysis of the major political philosophers and philosophical schools from Plato to Machiavelli.

Y382 History of Political Theory II (3 cr.) An exposition and critical analysis of the major philosophers and philosophical schools from Machiavelli to the present.

Y383 American Political Ideas I (3 cr.) American political ideas from the founding period to the Civil War.

Y384 American Political Ideas II (3 cr.) American political ideas from the Civil War to the present.

Y480 Undergraduate Readings in Political Science (1-6 cr.) Individual readings and research.

Y481 Field Experience in Political Science (3-6 cr.) P: certain internship experiences may require research skills. Faculty-directed study of aspects of the political process based on field experience. Directed readings, field research, research papers.

Y490 Senior Seminar (3 cr.) Open only to senior majors. Research paper required. Seminar sessions arranged to present papers for evaluation and criticism by fellow students. Subject matter varies by semester.

Y498 Readings for Honors (1-6 cr.) Open only to senior majors in the department who have at least a 3.3 grade point average within the major; approval of department is required. Course involves an intensive individual program of reading and/or research.

Y570 Introduction to the Study of Politics (3 cr.) Problems of graduate study and professional scholarship; central organizing concepts and the use of theory in political science and related disciplines; specialized areas of research and scholarship in political science; conditions of scientific inquiry and methodological problems in the study of political phenomena; central importance of theory in explanation.

Y575 Political Data Analysis I (3 cr.) Basic quantitative analysis techniques applied to political science data: principles of measurement, tables, graphs, probability distributions, nonparametric statistics, matrix algebra, Markov chains, correlations and simple regression, tests of significance. Computer processing of data and applications of bivariate statistics to problems in political science emphasized.

Professional Editing Program

Director Professor Jonathan R. Eller, English and the Peirce Edition Project

Executive Director, Institute for American Thought Nathan Houser

Graduate Certificate in Professional Editing

The Professional Editing graduate certificate program provides an interdisciplinary range of core and elective courses designed for graduate students who want to study the techniques and consequences of traditional editing procedures, learn how corrupted texts of the past can be recovered and disseminated for readers today, and explore how these procedures are evolving in reaction to the rapidly changing technical communications environment of the information age. The certificate is a stand-alone graduate professional credential, but students in the English, history and journalism graduate programs can earn the certificate by completing the Professional Editing concentration embedded in the specific discipline. An interdisciplinary M.A. in Professional and Technical Editing has been approved but is not yet funded.

Students enrolled in the graduate certificate program will be required to complete a minimum of 15 credit hours, which include completion of any one of several three-course core concentrations (9-12 credits) and one or more open electives (3-6 credits). Courses satisfying each requirement are identified below; full course descriptions are provided in the bulletin sections for the departmental graduate programs where these courses reside.

1. Core options: three courses, 9-12 credit hours. Complete one of the following field concentrations, or (with advisor approval) create a three-course concentration combining relevant courses from the five editorial fields:
 - a. Scholarly Editing I: Critical Texts (12 cr.)
 - L501 Professional Scholarship in Literature (4 cr.)
 - L680 Topics: Bibliographical and Textual Criticism (4 cr.)
 - L701 Descriptive Bibliography and Textual Problems (4 cr.)
 - b. Scholarly Editing II: Documentary Texts (11 cr.)
 - H501 Historical Methodology (4 cr.)
 - H543 Internship: Practicum in Public History (4 cr.)
 - H547 Topics: Historical Editing (3 cr.)
 - c. Technical Editing (9-10 cr.)
 - W531 Designing and Editing Visual Communication (3 cr.)
 - W532 Managing Document Quality (3 cr.)
 - W609 Directed Writing Project (3-4 cr.)

- d. Professional Editing I: Journalism (9-10 cr.)
 J520 Seminar in Visual Communication (3 cr.)
 J530 Issues in New Communication Technology (3 cr.)
 W609 Directed Writing Project (3-4 cr.)
- e. Professional Editing II: General (11-12 cr.)
 W502 Fields of Editing (4 cr.)
 W503 Technologies of Editing (4 cr.)
 W609 Directed Writing Project (3-4 cr.)
2. Open elective course(s): one or two courses, 3-6 credit hours. Chose one or two courses (depending on the number of hours required to meet the 15-hour certificate minimum after completion of the chosen core concentration). Any of the core options listed above (outside of the student's chosen field concentration) may be counted as an open elective, as well as any of the following courses:
- N501 Principles of Multimedia Technology (3 cr.)
 I501 Introduction to Informatics (3 cr.)
 I502 Information Management (3 cr.)
 J560 Topics Colloquium: Writing, Editing, and Designing for the World Wide Web; Digital Photography; Informational Graphics (3 cr.)
 J563 Computerized Publication Design I (3 cr.)
 J565 Computerized Publication Design II (3 cr.)
 L505 Organization and Representation of Knowledge and Information [SLIS] (3 cr.)
 L515 History of the Book [SLIS] (3 cr.)
 L585 Descriptive Bibliography [SLIS] (3 cr.)
 L590 Internship in English [English] (4 cr.)

Other appropriate courses in English, engineering and technology, history, informatics, library and information science, journalism, new media, and philosophy may count as an open elective if approved by the certificate program advisor.

Courses in the two Scholarly Editing concentrations are offered most frequently. These courses are taught by faculty affiliated with the Institute for American Thought and its resident scholarly editing projects: the Frederick Douglass Papers, the Peirce Edition Project, and the Santayana Edition. Experience with the teaching faculty and editing laboratories of the Institute's scholarly editions extends to the Professional and Technical Editing areas of the program through at least one editions-based core course in each concentration.

Religious Studies

Chair Associate Professor Thomas J. Davis

Professors William J. Jackson, E. Theodore Mullen Jr.,

Associate Professors Thomas J. Davis, Philip K. Goff

Assistant Professors David M. Craig, Rachel Wheeler

Acting Assistant Professor Kelly E. Hayes

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 335, (317) 274-1465

Religious studies offers students opportunities to explore the patterns and dimensions of the many different religious traditions of the world from the perspectives of the academic study of religion. The courses are designed to help students develop basic understandings of the many ways in which religions shape personal views of the world, create and sustain the communities in which we live, and interact with politics, economics, literature and the arts, and other structures of society. Through this curriculum, students are provided the skills that will allow them to understand religions as a part of the study of human history and traditional and nontraditional values. The department offers both a major and a minor, allowing students to investigate religious phenomena in depth and encouraging connections with other areas of the humanities and social sciences.

Program Planning

In the degree programs, the Department of Religious Studies pays special attention to the student's expressed hopes and plans, and the faculty counsels its majors carefully toward that end. Thus, students can construct undergraduate programs of study that meet both personal goals and the faculty's sense of what constitutes a coherent and focused concentration in religious studies. With these possibilities in mind, students are encouraged to declare their intentions to major as early as possible in their college careers.

Those students who choose to major in the department are invited first to explore courses, designated by the faculty, to introduce the wide breadth of concerns that belong to the field—religious, social, and comparative ethics; scriptures and religious traditions; South Asian and comparative studies; religion and American culture.

On the basis of these studies, students are then able to pursue more specialized courses of inquiry, depending on their personal interests and concerns. The faculty stands prepared to help in this regard by presenting more selective and rigorous options within the department, by helping to locate ties with cognate areas in other departments and schools, and by working with upper-level students in courses of independent study.

Major in Religious Studies

Requirements

Beyond the general distribution and credit hour requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree, students who choose to major in religious studies will be asked to complete 30 credit hours of course work designated by the faculty as follows: 15 credit hours will be selected from the category of Religious Traditions and 12 credit hours from Comparative and Thematic Studies; 3 credit hours in the departmental senior seminar (R433); and at least 18 credit hours to be taken at the 300 level or above. For details concerning the designated courses and the junior-level courses, students should contact the departmental chairperson.

Double Majors

Students wishing to acquire double majors in religious studies and a second subject area will need to fulfill all of the above requirements, as well as those of the second subject area; will need an academic advisor for each major; and will need to file their plans for a double major with the recorder of the School of Liberal Arts.

Minor in Religious Studies

A minor in religious studies, recorded on a student's transcript, will ordinarily require that the student fulfill 15 credit hours in courses in the department, divided as follows: 15 credit hours from the departmental curriculum approved by the departmental advisor; at least 3 of these credits must be taken at the 100 level and 6 credit hours at the 300 level. For details, students should contact the departmental chairperson.

Courses

R100 Studies in Religion (3 cr.) Select introductory issues in religion. Interdisciplinary in emphasis. May be repeated for up to 9 credit hours under different titles.

R111 The Bible (3 cr.) A critical introduction to the major periods, persons, events, and literatures that constitute the Bible; designed to provide general humanities-level instruction on this important text.

R120 Images of Jesus (3 cr.) This course is designed to introduce students to the variety of traditions about the figure of Jesus. It will acquaint students with the wide array of images of the Jesus character through a historical analysis of these images portrayed in texts, art, music, film, and TV.

R133 Introduction to Religion (3 cr.) Introduction to the diversity of traditions, values, and histories through which religion interacts with culture. Emphasis on understanding the ways the various dimensions of religion influence people's lives.

R173 American Religion (3 cr.) A consideration of American religion, with particular emphasis on the development of religious diversity and religious freedom in the context of the American social, political, and economic experience. Special attention will be directed to changes in Roman Catholicism and Judaism as well as to alterations in the nature of American Protestantism.

R180 Introduction to Christianity (3 cr.) Survey of beliefs, rituals, and practices of the Christian community with a focus on the varieties of scriptural interpretation, historical experience, doctrine, and behavior.

R200 Studies in Religion (3 cr.) Select intermediate studies in religion. Interdisciplinary studies emphasized. May be taken for up to 9 credit hours under different titles.

R212 Comparative Religions (3 cr.) Approaches to the comparison of recurrent themes, religious attitudes, and practices found in selected Eastern and Western traditions.

R223 Religion and Imagination (3 cr.) Introductory studies of the nature, function, and significance of myths, symbols, and images in religious and cultural systems, with examples drawn from various traditions and with special attention devoted to their relationships to the contemporary imagination.

R243 Introduction to the New Testament (3 cr.) An introduction to the modern critical study of the New Testament from primarily a historical perspective. The goal is to learn to view these diverse Christian writings within the context of their historical and social settings.

R283 Religions, Ethics, and Values (3 cr.) Cultural, historical, logical, psychological, and social relationships between religious and social as well as personal moral values and systems of ethics in traditional and contemporary Western culture.

R293 Ethics of World Religions (3 cr.) Key figures, literatures, movements, and changes in the world's major systems of religious ethics, with select illustrations drawn both from Asia (Hindu, Buddhist, Confucian, Taoist) and the West (Jewish, Christian, Muslim).

R300 Studies in Religion (3 cr.) Selected topics and movements in religion, seen from an interdisciplinary viewpoint. May be repeated twice under different titles.

R303 Religions in the Making (3 cr.) Examination within a broad historical and social-scientific framework of selected religions at the time of formulation and/or during periods of substantive change. Exemplary ancient and modern movements drawn both from literate and preliterate cultures and from Eastern and Western religious traditions will be considered.

R310 Prophecy in Ancient Israel (3 cr.) The prophetic movement and its relationship to religious, social, and political traditions and institutions in the ancient Near East. The thought of major prophetic figures in Israel, such as Hosea, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel.

R312 American Religious Lives (3 cr.) A study of selected persons who shaped the religious ideas and practices of the American people. The course correlates the lives, ideas, and social contexts of influential religious leaders in the United States. Figures such as Jonathan Edwards, Abraham Lincoln, Dorothy Day, Isaac M. Wise, and Martin Luther King Jr. will be included.

R313 Religion and American Ideas (3 cr.) Studies of the major figures and works of the American literary and theological traditions, with focus on the ways the literary imagination has variously expressed, explored, and challenged the religious meanings of the American experience.

R315 Hebrew Bible (3 cr.) A critical examination of the literary, political, and religious history of Israel from the period of the Patriarchs to the Restoration, with emphasis on the growth and formation of the major traditions contained in the Hebrew Bible.

R316 New Testament (3 cr.) An examination of the history, culture, and literature of the New Testament period, with special emphasis on the emergence of early Christian beliefs.

R319 Origins of Israel (3 cr.) An investigation of the problems involved in the reconstruction of early Israelite history, religion, and society. Major emphasis on the ways in which modern scholarship has attempted to interpret the biblical traditions dealing with the Patriarchs, the exodus-Sinai events, and the settlement in the land.

R320 Development of the Jesus Traditions (3 cr.) Types of traditions about Jesus: their origins, development, and functions in early Christianity, compared with similar forms of traditions in non-Christian movements.

R325 Paul and His Influence in Early Christianity (3 cr.) Life and thought of Paul, in the context of first-century Christian and non-Christian movements. Development of radical Paulinism and anti-Paulinism in the second century; their influence on the formation of Christianity.

R326 Studies in Biblical Religion (3 cr.) Examination of selected major topics in the religious traditions contained in the biblical materials. Topics such as the following will be treated: early Hebrew traditions and heroes, the kings of Israel, the development of apocalyptic literature, the period between the testaments, the development of Christology, the Johannine School, and others. May be taken twice for credit under different topics.

R329 Early Christianity (3 cr.) This course introduces the religious world of early Christianity by examining its formation and development. The course emphasizes intellectual history while placing religious ideas in historical, cultural, social, and economical contexts. It underscores diversity and explores how ideas shape religious faith, how religious practice guides religious thinking, and how culture and religion interact.

R339 Varieties of American Religion (3 cr.) Approaches to the diversity and complexity of that part of American religion that has existed outside of the mainstream of U.S. church life. Emphasis on the origin, history, organizational structures, beliefs, and devotional practices of such groups as the Quakers, Shakers, Millerites and other millenarian sects, Mormons, Christian Scientists, Pentecostals, as well as groups whose orientation is Eastern rather than Western.

R343 Religion and Contemporary Thought (3 cr.) Contemporary religious and anti-religious thinkers, with emphasis on those whose writings have significantly influenced modern thinking about human beings, God, society, history, and ethics.

R344 Reformations of the Sixteenth Century (3 cr.) This course introduces students to the religious reformations of sixteenth-century Europe. It examines the historical background to the Reformation and surveys a number of reformation movements. While intellectual history is emphasized, the ideas of religious thinkers are placed in broad historical, cultural, social, and economic contexts.

R346 Religious Women in the United States (3 cr.) The study of women's roles in several different religions. Focus on women's religious roles in the U.S. today, women's efforts to interpret and revise their religions, and ideas about women that characterize various religious traditions. Involves oral history interviewing as well as a formal regimen of scholarly study.

R352 Religion and Literature in Asia (3 cr.) The treatment of religious issues in Asian literature (Hinduism in the Epics) or the significance of the literary forms of religious texts (the genre of recorded sayings), showing how the interplay of religious realities and literary forms reveals the dynamics of religious development in India, China, or Japan.

R361 Hinduism and Buddhism (3 cr.) Examination of the origins and cultural developments of classical Hinduism and Buddhism through studies of selected lives and writings, religious practices, and symbolism in the arts through explorations of these two worldviews as reflected in historical, literary, and ritual forms.

R366 Religion and Civil Society (3 cr.) An examination of religion as a social institution that operates in civil society—that public space where people come together to promote mutual interests, voice common concerns, and even protest against ruling authorities. The focus is on the operation of, and the problems arising from, religion and civil society in different cultural settings, notably the United States and Middle East.

R383 Religions, Ethics, U.S. Society (3 cr.) An examination of current ethical debates about war, medicine, discrimination, welfare, marriage, sexuality, etc. The focus will be how diverse traditions of moral reasoning have been developed and practiced within Catholicism, Protestantism and Judaism.

R384 Religions, Ethics, and Health (3 cr.) The positions of religious ethical traditions on issues such as the control of reproduction, experimentation with human subjects, care of the dying, delivery of health care, physical and social environments, and heredity. May be repeated once for credit under different focus.

R393 Comparative Religious Ethics (3 cr.) Comparisons of ethical traditions and moral lives in the world's religions. The focus will be how formative stories, exemplary figures, central virtues, ritual practices, etc., clarify different traditions' understandings of key moral issues, rights, and roles.

R400 Studies in Religion (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor. Specialized and intensive studies in religion with an interdisciplinary emphasis. May be repeated twice under different titles.

R433 Senior Capstone Tutorial (3 cr.) An integrative and summative course of study in which majors, in cooperation with a faculty member, shall develop a hypothesis about the interaction of several dimensions of religion and about the ways in which they both mirror and shape social and cultural forms.

R590 Directed Readings in Religious Studies (3 cr.)

Sociology

Chair Associate Professor Robert Aponte

Professors David A. Ford, Carol B. Gardner, Linda Haas, John T. Liell (Emeritus), Suzanne K. Steinmetz, Robert J. White, Colin Williams

Associate Professors Robert Aponte, William Gronfein, Ain Haas, Jay Howard, David Moller, Peter Seybold, Patricia Wittberg, Eric Wright

Assistant Professors Wan-Ning Bao, Carrie Foote-Ardah

Adjunct Professors Wolfgang Bielefeld, J. Herman Blake

Adjunct Associate Professors Betsy Fife, Timothy Owens, Gail Whitchurch, James Wolf

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 303, (317) 274-8981

The Department of Sociology has a twofold mission: (1) to provide courses in sociology to all segments of the university, thereby acquainting the general student with the unique perspective and uses of sociology; and (2) to prepare sociology majors for advanced study or careers in sociology or related fields.

Sociology courses are designed to take advantage of the unique resources of an urban campus. The curriculum emphasizes the applied aspects of sociology as well as those segments of sociology necessary for advanced study. Courses in sociology serve to broaden the understanding of all students and should be of particular interest to students preparing for careers in professional social science, education, government, law, criminal justice, urban affairs, social service, medical service fields, and business. In an ever-changing environment, the Department of Sociology strives to provide students with diverse educational experiences, including traditional education and fieldwork and/or survey research experience. Undergraduate majors are encouraged to participate in internships and research projects as part of their educational experience.

Major in Sociology

Requirements

The major requires 33 credit hours of sociology course work (12 of which must be completed at IUPUI), with a grade of C (2.0) or higher:

R100 Introduction to Sociology (3 cr.)
R351 Social Science Research Methods (3 cr.)
R356 Foundations of Social Theory (3 cr.)
R357 Contemporary Sociological Theory (3 cr.)
R359 Introduction to Sociological Statistics (3 cr.)

Capstone course selected from one of the following:

R494 Internship Program in Sociology (3 cr.)
R497 Individual Readings in Sociology (3 cr.)
R493 Practicum in Sociological Fieldwork (3 cr.)
R490 Survey Research Methods (3 cr.)
R481 Evaluation Research Methods (3 cr.)

15 additional credit hours of other sociology courses

Minors in Sociology

A general minor in sociology will allow students in a variety of fields to expand their liberal arts education within an area that complements their general major or program of professional training.

Requirements

The minor requires 15 credit hours of course work (6 of which must be completed at IUPUI), with a grade of C (2.0) or higher:

R100 Introduction to Sociology (3 cr.)
R351 Social Science Research Methods or R356 Foundations of Social Theory or R357 Contemporary Social Theory (3 cr.)

9 additional credit hours of sociology courses will be required, with 6 of those credit hours at the 200-400 level.

Minor in Medical Sociology

Considering the unique resources and needs of IUPUI, the Department of Sociology offers a minor in medical sociology. This program is designed to lead to a general understanding of the social context of health, health care, and the delivery of medical services and should be of special interest to all students majoring in health-related specialties.

Requirements

The minor requires 15 credit hours of course work (6 of which must be completed at IUPUI), with a grade of C (2.0) or higher:

R100 Introduction to Sociology (3 cr.)
R381 Social Factors in Health and Illness (3 cr.)
R382 Social Organization of Health Care (3 cr.)

6 additional credit hours of sociology courses selected from the following:

R285 AIDS and Society, R320 Sexuality and Society, R321 Women and Health, R327 Sociology of Death and Dying, R415 Sociology of Disability, R485 Sociology of Mental Illness

Master of Arts Degree

The Master of Arts program is specifically designed to prepare its students for conducting applied and policy-oriented research, and to equip those already in the workforce with the critical skills necessary for assessing and applying sociological knowledge in their everyday responsibilities. Currently, the program features two formal areas of concentration—family studies and medical sociology.

Admission Requirements

Applicants must have a baccalaureate degree from an accredited U.S. institution, or a certifiable foreign equivalent, with a grade point average of 3.0 (on a scale of 4.0). Applicants should have completed five undergraduate sociology courses (or approved equivalents, with no more than two of the latter), with a grade point average of at least 3.0. Graduate Record Exam (GRE) scores at or above the 50th percentile. In addition, two samples of writing (a 500-word essay required by the IU Graduate School and a sole-authored report or term paper required by the sociology department) along with three letters of reference must accompany the application. Foreign applicants are required to score at least 550 on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Students not meeting these requirements may be admitted on probation, or they may be required to enroll in courses as a graduate nondegree student to complete the prerequisites.

Degree Requirements

36 credit hours, distributed as follows:

R551 Sociological Research Methods (3 cr.)

R556 Advanced Sociological Theory I: The Classical Tradition (3 cr.) or

R557 Advanced Sociological Theory II: The Modern Tradition (3 cr.)

R559 Sociological Statistics (3 cr.)

R593 Applied Fieldwork for Sociologists (3 cr.) or R659 Qualitative Methods in Sociology (3 cr.)

12 credits in an area of concentration (family studies, medical sociology, or other approved topic in applied sociology)

9 credits of electives

3 credit thesis

Grades

In order to earn the M.A. in sociology, students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale.

Grades in courses counting for credit toward this degree may be no lower than C (2.0 on a 4.0 scale).

Course Load

The normal course load for full-time students is 3 courses (9 credit hours) each semester. For part-time students it is 1-2 courses (3-6 cr.) each semester. Course loads may vary for students with assistantships and fellowships.

Transfer Credits

The Graduate School limits transfers from other institutions to 8 credits with a grade of B or higher and will not accept correspondence courses. Graduate work with a grade of B or higher obtained from other IU locations may be applied toward an M.A. in sociology. Requests for transfer credit from other graduate institutions will be evaluated for acceptance by the graduate committee after a student has been admitted into and completed 6 credits in the IUPUI sociology M.A. program. The department requires the last 18 credits be completed in its program.

Time Limit

Students must complete all requirements for the M.A. degree within five years.

Financial Aid

Stipends of various amounts for teaching and research assistantships are available. Please contact the Department of Sociology for more information.

Undergraduate Courses

R100 Introduction to Sociology (3 cr.) P: W131 or consent of instructor. Consideration of basic sociological concepts, including some of the substantive concerns and findings of sociology, sources of data, and the nature of the sociological perspective.

R121 Social Problems (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Selected current "problems" of American society are analyzed through the use of basic sociological data and the application of major sociological frameworks. Policy implications are discussed in light of value choices involved in various solutions.

R220 The Family (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. The family as a major social institution and how it relates to the wider society. Formation of families through courtship, marriage, and sexual behavior; maintenance of families through childrearing and family interaction; and dissolution of families by divorce or death. Social change and the emergence of new familial patterns.

R234 Social Psychology (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Sociological approach to human character, with emphasis on the psychology of the individual in social situations. Topics include socialization and the self, language and communication, interpersonal relations, attitude formation, conformity and social influence, and group processes.

R239 Alienation and Anxiety in Modern Society (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. A review of alienation as a concept of social criticism. Using classical thinking and contemporary literature, this course evaluates the sociological tradition that argues modern humans are alienated and desperate.

R240 Deviance and Social Control (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. An introduction to major sociological theories of deviance and social control. Analyzes empirical work done in such areas as drug use, unconventional sexual behavior, family violence, and mental illness. Explores both "lay" and official responses to deviance, as well as cultural variability in responses to deviance.

R285 AIDS and Society (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. This course examines the HIV/AIDS epidemic from a sociological perspective. Students will explore how social factors have shaped the course of the epidemic and the experience of HIV disease. The impact of the epidemic on health care, government, and other social institutions will also be discussed.

R295 Topics in Sociology (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Exploration of a topic in sociology not covered by the regular curriculum but of interest to faculty and students in a particular semester. Topics to be announced.

R305 Population (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Focus on study of people in terms of relative numbers, geographic distribution, and factors influencing change. Included are considerations of population theory, values related to population questions, an overview of basic techniques of analysis, and mortality, fertility, migration, and growth trends.

R312 Sociology of Religion (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Examination of religion from the sociological perspective. Religious institutions, the dimensions of religious behavior, the measurement of religious behavior, and the relationship of religion to other institutions in society are examined.

R315 Political Sociology (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Analysis of the nature and basis of political power on the macro level—the community, the national, and the international arenas. Study of formal and informal power structures and of the institutionalized and noninstitutionalized mechanisms of access to power.

R316 Society and Public Opinion (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Analysis of the formulation and operation of public opinion. Although the course may focus on all aspects of opinion and behavior (including marketing research, advertising, etc.), most semesters the course focuses on political opinion and behavior. Special attention will be given to two aspects of opinion in our society: its measurement through public opinion polls and the role of mass communication in manipulating public opinion. The distortions in the popular press's reports of the results of survey research are considered in depth.

R317 Sociology of Work (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Analysis of the meaning of work, the dynamic social processes within work organizations, and environmental constraints on organizational behavior.

R320 Sexuality and Society (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Provides a basic conceptual scheme for dealing with human sexuality in a sociological manner.

R321 Women and Health (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. A review of the relationships among cultural values, social structure, disease, and wellness, with special attention focused on the impact of gender role on symptomatology and access to health care. Selected contemporary health problem areas will be examined in depth. Alternative models of health care delivery will be identified and discussed.

R325 Gender and Society (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. A sociological examination of the roles of women and men in society, analysis of the determinants and consequences of these roles, and assessment of forces likely to bring about future change in these roles. Although focus will be on contemporary American society, cross-cultural variations in gender roles will also be noted.

R327 Sociology of Death and Dying (3 cr.) P: R100 or the consent of instructor. This course examines inevitable and salient features of the human condition. Historical evaluation of images and attitudes toward death, the medicalization of death, the human consequences of high-tech dying, the role of the family in caring for dying loved ones, the emergence and role of hospices, the social roles of funerals, grief and bereavement, euthanasia and suicide, the worlds of dying children and grieving parents, and genocide are major issues that are addressed. Two of the major themes of the course revolve around the idea that the way we die is a reflection of the way we live; and, that the study of dying and death is an important way of studying and affirming the value of life.

R329 Urban Sociology (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. The social dynamics of urbanization, urban social structure, and urban ecology. Theories of urban development; the city as a form of social organization; macroprocesses of urbanization both in the United States and other countries.

R330 Community (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Social, psychological, and structural features of community life. Topics include microphenomena such as the neighborhood, networks of friendship and oppositions, social participation, community power structure, and institutional frameworks.

R335 Sociological Perspectives on the Life Course (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor.

Focuses on the human life course as a product of social structure, culture, and history. Attention is given to life course contexts, transitions, and trajectories from youth to old age; work, family, and school influences; self-concept development, occupational attainment, and role acquisition over the life course.

R338 Comparative Social Systems (3 cr.)

P: R100 or consent of instructor. History and general theories of comparative sociology. Major focus on comparative analyses of social structure, kinship, policy and bureaucracy, economics and stratification, and institutionalized belief systems. Some attention is given to culture and personality and to cross-cultural methodology.

R344 Juvenile Delinquency and Society (3 cr.)

P: R100 or consent of instructor. Legal definition of delinquency, measurement and distribution of delinquency. Causal theories considered for empirical adequacy and policy implications. Procedures for processing juvenile offenders by police, courts, and prisons are examined.

R345 Crime and Society (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Examination of the creation, selection, and disposition of persons labeled criminal. Emphasis on crime as an expression of group conflict and interest. Critique of academic and popular theories of crime and punishment.

R346 Control of Crime (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. History, objectives, and operation of the crime control system in relation to its sociopolitical context. Critical examination of philosophies of punishment and programs of rehabilitation.

R349 Practicum in Victimology (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. The role of the victim in the criminal justice system is examined through both course work and practical experience as a volunteer with the Marion County Prosecutor's Witness-Victim Assistance Program. Recommended for students with interest in deviance, criminology, law, criminal justice, and social service.

R351 Social Science Research Methods (3 cr.)

P: R100 or consent of instructor and sophomore standing. A survey of methods and techniques used by sociologists and other social scientists for gathering and interpreting information about human social behavior.

R356 Foundations of Social Theory (3 cr.) P:

R100 or consent of instructor. Examination of the fundamental issues and perspectives in classical theories. Special focus will be on analysis of the major nineteenth-century theories that influenced later sociological thought.

R357 Contemporary Sociological Theory (3 cr.)

P: R100, R356, or consent of instructor. Emphasis on theoretical developments of the twentieth century and the relationships of current theories to classical theories.

R359 Introduction to Sociological Statistics (3 cr.) P: R100, R351, or consent of instructor.

Measures of central tendency, dispersion, standardizing and normalizing procedures, and simple index numbers. Simple notions of probability as related to statistical inference (means, proportions, binomial distribution, chi-square, simple regression).

R381 Social Factors in Health and Illness (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor.

Examines the social aspects of health and illness, including variations in the social meanings of health and illness, the social epidemiology of disease, and the social dimensions of the illness experience.

R382 Social Organization of Health Care (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor.

Surveys the nature of, and recent changes in, the health care delivery system in the United States. Patient and professional roles and the characteristics of different health care settings are explored. Current debates about the nature of the professions and professional work are emphasized.

R410 Alcohol, Drugs and Society (3 cr.) P: R100

or consent of instructor. This is a survey of the use and abuse of alcohol, including extent of use, history of use and abuse, "biology" of alcohol, alcoholism as a problem, legal actions, and treatment strategies.

R415 Sociology of Disability (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. An examination of current models of disability and of disability at the interpersonal and societal level. Topics include recent legal, social, and educational changes; the ways in which people with disabilities interact with the nondisabled; the role played by relatives and caregivers; and the image of people with disabilities in film, television, and other media. Recommended for students in nursing, education, physical and occupational therapy, and social work, as well as for the medical sociology minor. Available for graduate credit.

R420 Sociology of Education (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. A survey of sociological approaches to the study of education, covering such major topics as education as a social institution, the school in society, the school as a social system, and (d) the sociology of learning.

R425 Gender and Work (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. This course examines the changing roles that women and men play in paid and unpaid work, and how these roles are socially constructed, through socialization practices, social interaction, and actions of social institutions. The interaction of gender, race, ethnicity, and social class on individuals' involvement in work will also be explored.

R430 Families and Social Policy (3 cr.) P: R100

and R220 or consent of instructor. This seminar explores how the state and labor market currently affect family structure and the quality of family life in the United States and the role the state and labor market could play in the future. Family policies in other parts of the world will be considered for possible applicability to the United States.

R461 Race and Ethnic Relations (3 cr.) P: R100

or consent of instructor. Comparative study of racial, ethnic, and religious relations. Focus on patterns of inclusion and exclusion of minority groups by majority groups. Discussion of theories of intergroup tensions—prejudice and discrimination—and of corresponding approaches to the reduction of tensions.

R463 Inequality and Society (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Presentation of conservative and radical theories of class formation, consciousness, mobility, and class consequences. Relevance of social class to social structure and personality. Emphasis on the American class system, with some attention given to class systems in other societies.

R467 Social Change (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Basic concepts, models, and individual theories of social change; historical and contemporary analysis of the structural and psychological ramifications of major social trends.

R476 Social Movements (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Study of the origins and dynamics of contemporary social movements in American society, with some attention to crossnational movements. Coverage of progressive and regressive movements aimed at changing the social, economic, and political structure of the society. Case studies of expressive and ideological movements, including fads, cults, and revolts and revolutions.

R478 Formal Organizations (3 cr.) P: R100 or consent of instructor. Sociological inquiry into the nature, origin, and functions of bureaucratic organizations. Emphasis on bureaucratic organizations as the predominant mode of contemporary task performance and on their social-psychological consequences. Theoretical and empirical considerations in organizational studies from Weber to contemporary findings.

R480 Sociology and Social Policy (3 cr.) P:

R100 or consent of instructor. This course is a broad review of the increasing use of sociology in the formulation and implementation of social policy. Specific case studies will be examined. Recommended for students with an interest in medicine, law, education, social service, urban affairs, etc.

R481 Evaluation Research Methods (3 cr.) P:

R100, R351, R359, or consent of instructor. A comprehensive study of research techniques and practical applications in the area of the evaluation of social programs. Recommended for students with an interest in social research concerning medicine, law, education, social service, urban affairs, etc.

R485 Sociology of Mental Illness (3 cr.) P: R100

or consent of instructor. A survey of current problems in psychiatric diagnosis, the social epidemiology of mental illness, institutional and informal caregiving, family burden, homelessness, and the development and impact of current mental health policy. Crosscultural and historical materials, derived from

R490 Survey Research Methods (3 cr.) P: R100, R351, R359, or consent of instructor. In this practicum, students will design and conduct a survey, learn how to code survey results, enter data, and analyze data with the mainframe computer. A report will also be written. The advantages and disadvantages of survey methodology will be highlighted and ethical issues will be discussed.

R493 Practicum in Sociological Fieldwork (3 cr.) P: R100 and R351, senior standing, or consent of instructor. Role of systematic observation as a sociological method. Training in fieldwork techniques and the application of sociological concepts to actual social situations. The core of this course will involve a supervised fieldwork research project in some area of social life.

R494 Internship Program in Sociology (3-6 cr.) P: R100, 9 credits of sociology with a C (2.0) or higher, junior standing with consent of instructor. This course involves students working in organizations where they apply or gain practical insight into sociological concepts, theories, and knowledge. Students analyze their experiences through work logs, a paper, and regular meetings with the internship director.

R495 Topics in Sociology (3 cr.) P: variable with topic. Exploration of a topic in sociology not covered by the regular curriculum but of interest to faculty and students in a particular semester. Topics to be announced.

R497 Individual Readings in Sociology (3 cr.) P: consent of instructor and 9 credit hours of sociology courses with at least a C grade. Investigation of a topic not covered in the regular curriculum that is of special interest to the student and that the student wishes to pursue in greater detail. Normally available only to majors through arrangement with a faculty member.

Graduate Courses

S500 Proseminar in Sociology (1 cr.) P: graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Introduction to current sociological research interests and concerns through the work of departmental members.

R515 Sociology of Health and Illness (3 cr.) Surveys important areas of medical sociology, focusing on social factors influencing the distribution of disease, help-seeking, and health care. Topics covered include social epidemiology, the healthcare professions, socialization of providers, and issues of cost and cost containment.

R525 Gender and Work (3 cr.) P: graduate standing and 6 credit hours of sociology, or consent of instructor. This course critically analyzes contemporary theory and research on gender and work. It examines how women's and men's roles in paid and unpaid work are socially constructed, through socialization, social interaction and the actions of social institutions. The interaction gender, race, ethnicity, and social class will be explored.

S526 The Sociology of Human Sexuality (3 cr.) P: graduate standing and consent of instructor. This is a one-semester graduate-level course on the sociology of human sexuality. This course will provide a detailed examination of the development of sex research, a sociological perspective on and critique of this corpus, and an opportunity for students to develop research of their own.

R530 Families and Social Policy (3 cr.) P: R100, R220, and graduate standing. This seminar will explore how the government and labor market affect family structure and the quality of family life. Students will study the implications of family research for social policy and learn to develop theoretical frameworks for evaluating social policies affecting families.

S530 Introduction to Social Psychology (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. Examines the broad range of work in social psychology. Emphasis is placed on the relation between the classic and contemporary literature in the field.

R537 Gender and Society (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing or consent of the instructor. This course examines some central emphases on gender of social interactionist theory and feminist theory/methods. In addition, we will relate these approaches to the study of contemporary gender approaches in selected social spheres, which may vary according to instructor's specializations.

R551 Sociological Research Methods (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. This course surveys the major techniques for investigating current sociological problems. It emphasizes the relationship between theory and practice in understanding and conducting research. Although methods intended for rigorous hypothesis testing through quantitative analysis will be of major concern, the course will also examine issues in field research essential to a full understanding of a research problem.

R556 Advanced Sociological Theory I: The Classical Tradition (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. This is the first part of a two-semester graduate course in contemporary sociological theory and theory construction. The first semester will involve the student in detailed study and analysis of sociologists belonging to the positivist tradition in sociology. Students will be expected to comprehend contemporary sociology in terms of its historical roots and to demonstrate their understanding of theory construction.

R557 Advanced Sociological Theory II: The Modern Tradition (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. Reading and exercises will involve the student in close analysis and criticism of sociologists belonging to the idealist tradition of sociology. In this second part of a two-semester course in theory and theory construction in sociology, students will be required to demonstrate their mastery of the theorists studied, as well as to demonstrate their own abilities in theory design and construction.

R559 Intermediate Sociological Statistics (3 cr.) P: R359 or equivalent, graduate standing or consent of instructor. Basic techniques for summarizing distributions, measuring interrelationships, controlling extraneous influences, and testing hypotheses are reviewed, as students become familiar with the computer system. Complex analytical techniques commonly applied in professional literature are examined in detail, including analysis of variance, path diagrams, factor analysis, and log-linear models.

S560 Graduate Topics (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor, variable with topic. Exploration of a topic in sociology not covered by the regular curriculum but of interest to faculty and students in a particular semester. Topics to be announced.

S569 M.A. Thesis (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and consent of the graduate director.

R585 Social Aspects of Mental Health and Mental Illness (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. This is a graduate-level course on the sociology of mental illness and mental health. Provides a thorough grounding in the research issues and traditions that have characterized scholarly inquiry into mental illness in the past. Students will become familiar with public policy as it has had an impact on the treatment of mental illness and on the mentally ill themselves.

R593 Applied Fieldwork for Sociologists (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. This course will provide students with both a theoretical and methodological background in the different types of qualitative analysis used in sociological fieldwork. Students will have the opportunity to study and to evaluate representative examples of qualitative studies and to complete by themselves a project done using qualitative methods.

R610 Sociology of Health and Illness Behavior (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. This seminar explores sociological and social scientific research on health and illness behavior. Special emphasis is placed on examining how social factors and conditions shape people's responses to disease, illness, and disability.

S610 Urban Sociology (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. Historical and contemporary causes, trends, and patterns of urbanization throughout the world. Various approaches to studying the process of urbanization, including ecological, social organizational, and political perspectives. Current developments and problems in urban planning.

S612 Political Sociology (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. An analysis of the nature and operation of power in a political system. Topics may include classical theories of power, political behavior and campaigns, the role of mass media in sustaining power, the state as a social institution, and political movements.

S613 Complex Organizations (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. Theory and research in formal organizations: industry, school, church, hospital, government, military, and university.

Problems of bureaucracy and decision making in large-scale organizations. For students in the social sciences and professional schools interested in the comparative approach to problems of organization and their management.

S616 Sociology of Family Systems (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. Focus on the nature, structure, functions, and changes of family systems in modern and emerging societies, in comparative and historical perspective. Attention is given to relationships with other societal subsystems, and to interaction between role occupants within and among subsystems.

S632 Socialization (3 cr.) P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. The processes of development of the individual as a social being and societal member, focusing on childhood or socialization into adult roles.

S659 Qualitative Methods in Sociology (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing or consent of the instructor. Methods in obtaining, evaluating, and analyzing qualitative data in social research. Methods covered include field research procedures, participant observation, interviewing, and audio-video recording of social behavior in natural settings.

R697 Individual Readings in Sociology (3 cr.) P: graduate standing and consent of instructor. Investigation of a topic not covered in the regular curriculum that is of special interest to the student and that the student wishes to pursue in greater detail. Available only to sociology graduate students through arrangement with a faculty member.

Minor in Urban Studies

The minor in urban studies offers students an opportunity to develop a well-rounded and basic understanding of the components of urban life and of the forces that are shaping its future. Further, it provides students with a basic knowledge and understanding of the major factors that not only have contributed to the present but will also affect the future of the physical, internal, and social structure of our cities and metropolitan areas.

To achieve this goal, the minor in urban studies must be interdisciplinary in nature. In such a program, the student approaches the complexity of urban life from the perspective of economics, geography, history, political science, sociology, anthropology, and general urban and regional planning analysis.

To complete the minor, the student must successfully complete 15 credit hours in School of Liberal Arts urban studies courses. The student may count any combination of approved urban studies courses toward the minor as long as no more than two courses are in the same department. The following courses are acceptable as urban studies courses.

The Women's Studies Program at IUPUI provides undergraduate students the opportunity to pursue a sequence of courses in a growing academic discipline—the study of women and their changing role in society. The program is interdisciplinary because women's experiences encompass the full range of human activity and separate disciplines offer unique starting points in interpreting these experiences.

The importance of women's studies lies both in its interdisciplinary approach and in the timely opportunity it offers for the study of issues long neglected by scholarship.

Minor in Women's Studies

Completion of a women's studies minor may provide an additional basis for pursuing future training in law, psychology, history, literature, or public or business administration. For students who do not continue professional or graduate training in an academic discipline, a women's studies minor may provide a useful background in careers paying increasing attention to concerns of women, such as paralegal and probation work, secondary and elementary school counseling, journalism, and community agency service.

Requirements

The minor in women's studies requires 16 credit hours as follows:

1. W105 Introduction to Women's Studies (3 cr.);
2. at least 6 credit hours in women's studies courses (including crosslisted offerings) in the social sciences;
3. at least 6 credit hours in women's studies courses (including crosslisted offerings) in the humanities;

4. up to 6 credit hours in women's studies courses approved by the director;
5. W499 Colloquium in Women's Studies (1 cr.); and
6. at least 6 credit hours of course work must be at the 400 level.

Courses

W105 Introduction to Women's Studies (3 cr.)

This introductory course examines both the relation of women's studies to other disciplines and the multiple ways in which gender experience is understood and currently studied. Beginning with a focus on how inequalities between women and men, as well as among women, have been explained and critiqued, the course considers the impact of social structure and culture on gender. The intersections of gender, race, class, sexual orientation, and age are investigated in both national and international contexts.

W300 Topics in Women's Studies: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) An interdisciplinary study of selected themes, issues, and methodologies in women's studies. May be repeated for up to 6 credit hours.

W480 Women's Studies Practicum (3-6 cr.) P: W105 and consent of instructor and program director. Internships in the Women's Studies Program are offered to provide opportunities for students to gain work experience while serving women's needs. This experience is combined with an academic analysis of women's status and experience in organizations.

W495 Readings and Research in Women's Studies (1-3 cr., 6 cr. max.) P: W105 and consent of instructor and program director. Individual readings and research. May be repeated twice for credit with a different topic.

W499 Senior Colloquium in Women's Studies (1 cr.) P: consent of instructor. This is a culminating interdisciplinary course for advanced students who are prepared to present the results of an original major research effort on a topic in women's studies. Participants will be expected to read and evaluate the presentations of other students and participating faculty.

W500 Feminist Theory (3 cr.) An examination of contemporary feminist analyses of gender relations, how they are constituted and experienced and how social structures maintaining sexist hierarchies intersect with hierarchies of race, class, and ethnicity. Rival theories are applied to particular issues to demonstrate connections between theory and practice.

W601 Survey of Contemporary Research in Women's Studies: The Social and Behavioral Sciences (3 cr.) An exploration of feminist perspectives in the social sciences. Theoretical frameworks and research styles used by feminist social scientists are examined, as are feminist critiques of traditional social scientific frameworks and research methods. Research reports by feminist researchers in social scientific disciplines are also read and analyzed.

W602 Contemporary Research in Women's Studies: The Humanities (3 cr.) Review of literature on sex roles, psychology of women, socialization and politicization of women. Training in methodology of research on women; critique of prevailing and feminist theoretical frameworks for studying women.

W695 Graduate Readings and Research in Women's Studies (3-6 cr.) An opportunity for graduate students in various programs at IUPUI to explore specific issues within the field of women's studies, guided by faculty with particular expertise in these areas. The course is used to do readings and research that go beyond what is covered in other women's studies graduate courses offered on this campus. It also involves faculty not normally involved in the teaching of these other courses but who have skills and knowledge relevant to the issues being investigated.

W701 Graduate Topics in Women's Studies (3-4 cr.) Advanced investigation of selected research topics in women's studies. Topics to be announced.

World Languages and Cultures

(Arabic, Chinese, Classical Studies, French, German, Italian, Japanese Studies, Spanish)

Chair Professor Gabrielle Bersier

Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 405, (317) 274-0062, 502C, (317) 278-3658, www.iupui.edu/~wlac. See specific program advisors listed below.

World languages taught for credit at IUPUI include the courses offered by the three degree-granting programs of French, German, and Spanish; courses offered by Japanese Studies and Classical Studies, which offers minors and an Individualized Major; and all other world language courses for languages that have not yet developed into programs that include Arabic, Chinese, and Italian. The programs offered in Classical Studies, French, German, Japanese Studies, and Spanish can be found under those programs listed alphabetically below; other courses are listed together at the end of the World Languages and Cultures section.

The Foreign Language Placement Test

Students with previous knowledge of French, German, Japanese, Latin or Spanish are urged to take the appropriate placement test as the best means to assess their level of proficiency. They may test out of first and/or second year of course work and qualify for up to 16 credits at a reduced fee after successfully completing the course into which they are placed. The computerized test is administered by the Testing Center as a routine part of placement testing or by appointment.

The Multimedia Language Resource Center (MLRC)

The MLRC provides a variety of cutting-edge technological resources to enhance language learning: the Macintosh Computer Lab with Internet access, the Sony Listening Lab with video and audio playback, and recording consoles.

Study Abroad

Many study abroad programs are available to IUPUI students. Study or internship experience abroad dramatically improves language students' listening and conversational skills and ability to interact with people of different background, while enhancing their employment opportunities in all fields.

World Languages and Cultures (FLAC)

F200 World Cultures through Literature (3 cr.)

P: W131. This course develops intercultural awareness and understanding through comparative study of the relationship between selected texts and their specific cultural context. One theme is examined in literature and other media by a team of experts in a variety of literatures from around the world.

F350 Introduction to Translation Studies

(3 cr.) P: 300-level language competence. This course offers an overview in the history and theory of translation studies and beginning practice in translation. This course is taught in English but is designed for students who have 300-level competence in languages offered in the department.

F450 Computers in Translation (3 cr.) P: 300-level language class. This course is designed to prepare translators in computer technology as it relates to translation: translations in electronic form, accessing electronic dictionaries, researching on the World Wide Web, terminology management, machine translation, and computer-assisted translation. Taught in English, but designed for students who have competence in languages offered in the department.

Undergraduate Certificate in Translation Studies—English to/from French/German/Spanish

Program Description

The Department of World Languages and Cultures offers undergraduate Certificate in Translation Studies with an emphasis in French, German, or Spanish. The certificate requires completion of 27 credit hours focusing on grammar, professional writing skills, culture, translation history and theory, nonliterary translation from English to French/German/Spanish and French/German/Spanish to English, terminology management, and knowledge of computer applications to translation. A minimum of 15 credit hours toward the certificate must be completed at IUPUI, and no courses may be taken with the Pass-Fail option.

The certificate program is intended for advanced undergraduates or students holding a bachelor's degree or completing one, who would like to enhance their language expertise. As an undergraduate certificate program, the course work prepares students for further study in translation at the graduate level or for practical work, as well as develops basic competence for further work as professional translators. However, successful completion of the program does not indicate that a student is a "certified" translator. It is highly recommended that students who wish to be accredited as certified translators complete advanced-level course work in translation and seek accreditation through the American Translators Association.

Admission Requirements

Certificate candidates must possess fluency in their language pair. To be admitted to the certificate program, students must have sophomore standing and meet the following three criteria:

1. Academic Readiness: Students must have a minimum of a 3.0 overall GPA, and a 3.3 in their major.
2. Writing Proficiency: Students must have completed W131 and W132 or their equivalents with a grade of B or higher prior to admission as well as a 300-level composition class in French, German or Spanish with a grade of B or higher.
3. Translation Readiness: Prior to admission into the certificate program, students are required to demonstrate a minimum level of bilingual skills required to be successful in the course work required for the certificate. Students will be admitted to the certificate after receiving a B or higher in their first translation course.

Completion Requirements

Students must complete certificate-related courses with an overall GPA of 3.0 or higher before qualifying for the internship or directed study. A grade of C in more than one course will make candidates ineligible for completion of the certificate.

Translation Competence

Upon completion of the coursework for the certificate, students must demonstrate translation competence through one of two options: (1) completion of an internship in the target language, which includes a minimum of 20 pages of translated text. The student's academic language advisor will be responsible for recommending placement and mentoring in the internship program; or (2) completion of an independent translation project in the target language, which includes a minimum of 20 pages of translated text. The student's academic language advisor will be responsible for mentoring the student through this translation project. Mentors use a set of rubrics for scoring the final translation or internship project; these rubrics may be found on the departmental homepage.

Course Requirements

Because sequencing of courses is important, students should consult with the director prior to admission into the program.

Classical studies is an interdisciplinary field, examining the vanished civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome and their languages. Although the study of the Greek and Latin languages no longer holds a central place in a university curriculum, the art, literature, and intellectual traditions of the classical world remain basic to Western civilization. Today's student may encounter the classical world through the many fine translations available, the physical evidence of art and archaeology, and the study of the Greek and Latin languages themselves. Courses are offered in four areas: classical archaeology; classical civilization; and each of the classical languages, ancient Greek and Latin.

Classical Archaeology

These courses focus on the art and archaeology of Greece and Italy, as well as the nearby lands affected by their civilization from earliest times through the end of the Roman world. Advanced work in the field leads to careers in archaeological research, museums, and teaching. These interdisciplinary courses may be of special interest to students in anthropology, history, and the history of art. Courses in classical archaeology require no knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages.

Classical Civilization

These general courses in the literature, history, culture, and intellectual traditions of ancient Greece and Rome require no knowledge of Greek or Latin. Such courses provide valuable background to students in a number of fields, and may be especially attractive to those planning to teach English, history, and related areas. In addition to the courses listed below, other relevant courses include History C386 and C388 and Philosophy P307.

The Classical Languages

The study of ancient Greek or Latin, like that of any foreign language, provides the most direct means for understanding and appreciating the thought of another culture. The traditional emphasis on formal grammar and vocabulary in teaching the classical languages has long proven valuable for students wishing to improve their English language skills.

Ancient Greek

Study of ancient Greek allows students direct access to masterpieces of Greek literature, historical sources, and the New Testament, while opening up a limited number of careers in teaching, mostly at the university level. For ancient Greek literature in translation, see the listings under "Classical Civilization."

Latin

Studying Latin allows students direct access to masterpieces of Latin literature and ancient historical sources, as well as ecclesiastical and other materials of the postclassical age. Knowledge of Latin is useful for students of English, modern languages, and history, and can lead to careers in teaching at various levels. A shortage of Latin teachers at the secondary level may make this an attractive second area for students in education. For Latin literature in translation, see the listings under "Classical Civilization."

Study Abroad

Students have the opportunity to study in Greece through an arrangement between Indiana University Overseas Study and College Year at Athens (CYA). Students may receive IU credit for study in Greece at CYA for a semester, an entire academic year, or the summer. Faculty at IUPUI and Bloomington alternate offering a three-week summer course in Athens; in some years students may stay on to take a second three-week anthropology course on modern Greece taught on the island of Paros. For information, contact the IUPUI Office of Overseas Study or consult its Web page at www.indiana.edu/~overseas. Scholarships and grants are available to help students participate in these programs.

Majors

Although IUPUI does not offer a major in classical studies, students may devise a major program in the field through the School of Liberal Arts Individualized Major Program. Such a major, if properly designed, should allow good students to gain admission to graduate programs in classical studies or classical archaeology and to pursue careers in the field. Students interested in planning an individualized major in classical studies should consult the coordinator of the Classical Studies Program and the director of the Individualized Major Program as early as possible in their academic careers.

Minors in Classical Studies, Ancient Greek, and Latin

A minor in classical studies, ancient Greek, or Latin can be an attractive complement to many majors; particularly history, English, and other foreign languages.

The minor in classical studies consists of at least 15 credit hours in classical archaeology, classical civilization, ancient Greek, Latin, or related courses approved by the program coordinator. Students may wish to design concentrations in areas of particular interest (e.g., classical art and archaeology, or Greek or Roman civilization). At least 6 credit hours must be taken at the 300 level or higher; no more than 3 credit hours of ancient Greek or Latin at the 100 level may be counted. Up to 6 credit hours may be taken in related fields, including History C386, C388, and Philosophy P307.

Minors in ancient Greek or Latin should include at least 12 credit hours in the language at the 200 level or higher, and 3 credit hours in a related culture or history course. Students interested in graduate study in classical studies are encouraged to learn to read French and German prior to beginning graduate work.

Courses in Classical Archaeology

A301 Classical Archaeology (3 cr.) The material remains of the classical lands from prehistoric through Roman times and a variety of approaches by which they are understood. Archaeological theory and methods are illustrated through select sites, monuments, works of art, and other remains of cultural, artistic, and historical significance. (Equivalent to Herron H310 and IU Bloomington Classical Studies C206/Fine Arts A206; students may not receive credit for both courses.)

A418 Myth and Reality in Greek Art (3 cr.) An introduction to Greek iconography (the study of images) that explores contemporary approaches to narration and representation. The course examines the illustration of myth, history, and everyday life in Greek art in relation to ancient society. (Equivalent to Herron H418; students may not receive credit for both courses.)

C412 Art and Archaeology of the Aegean (3 cr.) Introduction to the preclassical art and archaeology of the Aegean Basin: Greece, Crete, and the Aegean islands during the Stone and Bronze Ages (to about 1000 B.C.). Topics covered include Troy, Minoan Crete, and Mycenaean Greece.

C413 The Art and Archaeology of Greece (3 cr.) Art and archaeology of Greece from about 1000 B.C. through the Hellenistic period. Special attention given to the development of Greek architecture, sculpture, and vase painting. (Equivalent to Herron H413; students may not receive credit for both courses.)

C414 The Art and Archaeology of Rome (3 cr.) Development of Roman architecture, sculpture, and painting from the beginning through the fourth century A.D. Consideration given to the major archaeological sites. Continuation of C413, but C413 is not a prerequisite. (Equivalent to Herron H414; students may not receive credit for both courses.)

Courses in Classical Civilization

C205 Classical Mythology (3 cr.) Introduction to Greek and Roman myths, legends, and tales, especially those that have an important place in the Western cultural tradition.

C209 Medical Terms from Greek and Latin (2 cr.) Basic knowledge of some 1,000 words, together with materials for formation of compounds, enables student to build a working vocabulary of several thousand words. Designed for those intending to specialize in medicine, dentistry, or microbiology. Does not count toward the foreign language requirements or the distribution requirement.

C310 Classical Drama (3 cr.) Masterpieces of ancient Greek and Roman theater studied in relation

C311 Classical Epics (3 cr.) The development of Greek and Latin epic from the rich oral tradition of Homer to the strictly literary form exemplified by Vergil's Aeneid. Epic masterpieces are read with reference to relevant historical and archaeological background.

C351 The Golden Age of Athens (3 cr.) Literary and artistic masterpieces of classical Greece viewed against the intellectual, cultural, and political background of democratic Athens.

C361 The Golden Age of Rome (3 cr.) Literary and artistic masterpieces of the Augustan age viewed in connection with the foundation of the Roman Empire.

C396 Classical Studies Abroad (1-9 cr.) P: acceptance into an approved Indiana University overseas study program. Credit for foreign study in classical languages, civilization, and archaeology when no specific equivalent is available among departmental offerings. Credit in C396 may be counted toward a minor in classical studies or classical civilization with approval of undergraduate advisor. May be repeated for a maximum of 9 credit hours.

C491 Topics in Classical Studies (3 cr.) A detailed examination of a particular aspect of classical civilization using a variety of literary and archaeological evidence.

C495 Individual Reading in Classics (1-3 cr.) P: consent of department. May be repeated to a maximum of 6 credit hours.

Courses in Ancient Greek

G131-132 Elementary Ancient Greek I-II (5-5 cr.) P: G131 or equivalent. The essentials of ancient Greek grammar, vocabulary, and syntax that will allow students to begin study of classical and Biblical texts.

G200 Greek Reading and Composition (3 cr.) P: G132 or equivalent. Readings from Greek writers such as Aesop, Xenophon, Thucydides, and Plato. Review of syntax and grammar through regular practice in prose composition.

G407 Greek Historians (3 cr.) Selections from Herodotus and Thucydides, with attention to the authors' literary style, their conception of history and the causation of events, and their portrayal of individuals and states.

G495 Individual Reading in Greek (1-3 cr.) P: consent of department. May be repeated once for credit.

Courses in Latin

L131-L132 Beginning Latin I-II (5-5 cr.) Fundamentals of the language; develops direct reading comprehension of Latin. P for L132: L131 or equivalent.

L200 Second-Year Latin I (3 cr.) P: L132 or placement. Reading from select authors, emphasizing the variety of Latin prose. Examination of the concept of genre. Grammar review and/or prose composition.

L250 Second-Year Latin II (3 cr.) P: L132 or placement. Reading from Virgil's Aeneid with examination of the epic as a whole. Prosody of dactylic hexameter and study of poetic devices. Grammar review.

L495 Individual Reading in Latin (1-3 cr.) P: consent of department. May be repeated once for credit.

- One 300- or 400-level grammar or translation course (3 cr.):
 - F330 Introduction to Translating French and English (3 cr.)
 - F402 Introduction to French Linguistics (3 cr.)
 - F421 Fourth-Year French (3 cr.)
 - F423 Craft of Translation (3 cr.)
- One 300- or 400-level oral skills course (3 cr.):
 - F331 French Pronunciation and Diction (3 cr.)
 - F380 French Conversation (3 cr.)
 - F480 French Conversation (3 cr.)
- One 300- or 400-level course in French or Francophone culture (3 cr.):
 - F307 Masterpieces of French Literature (3 cr.)
 - F326 French in the Business World (3 cr.)
 - F360 Introduction socio-culturelle à la France (3 cr.)
 - F430 Modern Short Narratives (3 cr.)
 - F450 Colloquium in French Studies (3 cr.)
 - F451 Le Français des affaires (3 cr.)
 - F452 La civilisation et littérature québécoises (3 cr.)
 - F460 French Fiction in Film (3 cr.)
 - F461 La France contemporaine (3 cr.)
- Two elective courses, including no more than 3 credit hours of F495, Individual Readings in French (1-3 cr.), for a total of 6 cr.

The Minor in French

14 credit hours: F203, F204, F328, and F300 or F360.

Teacher Certification in French Teaching Major Requirements

The teaching major in French requires the completion of a minimum of 36 credit hours beyond the 100 level, including 30 credit hours in 300 and 400 level courses. F300, F307, F328, F331, F360, and F402 are required. A year of a second foreign language is advisable. See also the requirements of the School of Education. Students working toward certification are urged to work with the School of Education's advisor as well as their department advisor.

Teaching Minor Requirements

The teaching minor in French requires the completion of a minimum of 24 credit hours beyond the 100 level, including 18 credit hours in 300- and 400-level courses. F300, F307, F328, F331, F360, and F402 are required. See also requirements of the School of Education.

Departmental Honors Program

To provide recognition to outstanding students in French, the department offers an Honors Program as well as H-Option courses. The program is open to all majors in the department who carry a minimum grade point average of 3.3 overall and 3.5 in the major. Courses above F204 that are approved by the department may be taken for honors credit or for the H-Option. For further information, contact the department.

Foreign Study

Programs abroad are open to students majoring in all academic disciplines and are not restricted to language majors. There is a year-long program at the Université d'Aix-en-Provence that is open to juniors and seniors who have had three years of college French and one-semester programs at the Université de Rennes and at the Université de Paris. For students with two years of college French, there is a summer program in Paris. Students with at least one year, or two semesters, of college-level French may participate in a summer program in Québec, Canada, or in Dakar, Senegal. Indiana University credit is granted for work that is satisfactorily completed in these programs. Students interested in studying abroad should discuss their options with the French program coordinator or with the Office of International Affairs as soon as possible.

Undergraduate Courses

The IUPUI German program trains students to achieve linguistic proficiency and intercultural competency in German. Linguistic proficiency is the ability to communicate orally and in writing about subjects of common knowledge in the target language. A step-by-step systematic progression of language courses aids students to achieve fluency in German and allows them later to concentrate on chosen areas of linguistic specialization.

To gain intercultural competency, students acquire a solid knowledge of contemporary life in the German-speaking countries and learn to compare their institutions, customs, and mentalities with contemporary U.S. culture. Students also gain intercultural competency through critical knowledge of the historical and cultural movements and personalities that have had the most impact on contemporary culture in the German-speaking countries, especially Germany.

In addition, all students in the program have the option to study in Germany or Austria for a limited or extended period of time, or to gain practical career experience in business or technology by working as an intern overseas or in a local international corporation.

Courses in German not only broaden students' cultural horizons by giving them immediate access to a key region of central Europe, but also prepare students for a variety of careers in international business communication, translation, travel, education, and technology exchange. By combining the study of another discipline with specialization in German, students can also prepare more thoroughly and adequately for interdisciplinary graduate studies.

Major in German

In addition to the area distribution requirements for the School of Liberal Arts, the major in German requires the following:

29 credit hours above the 100 level, including at least one capstone language course (G423, G431, G445, G465), one contemporary culture course (G365), at least one 400-level historical culture and literature course (G407, G408, G409, G410) and a student portfolio (G498). Other courses may also be selected on the basis of level of placement by test or course work, and/or focus of interest. They include ALL 200-, 300-, and 400-level courses, except courses taught in English.

Major Course Requirements

1. A minimum of one 400-level language course:
 - G423 The Craft of Translation (3 cr.)
 - G431 Advanced Business German (3 cr.)
 - G445 Oberstufe: Grammatik (3 cr.)
 - G465 Oberstufe: Kommunikation (3 cr.)
2. One contemporary culture course:
 - G365 Deutsche Kultur Heute (3 cr.)
3. A minimum of one 400-level historical culture and literature course:
 - G407 Knights, God, and the Devil (3 cr.)
 - G408 Love, Nature, and the Age of Romanticism (3 cr.)
 - G409 19. Jahrhundert: Kultur und Literatur (3 cr.)
 - G410 20. Jahrhundert: Kultur und Literatur (3 cr.)
4. Student portfolio:
 - G498 Individual Studies in German (1 cr.)

To help assess and showcase academic progress in German while at IUPUI, graduating majors will assemble and present a portfolio including a minimum of one written project completed for each of the major courses above the 100 level taken in residence at IUPUI.

International Study or Work Internship Option

G493 Internship in German (1-6 cr.)

G498 Individual Studies in German (1-5 cr.) 1-5 credit hours toward the major in German may be earned through individual study or international work internship abroad or locally. There is a 3-credit limit for one individual study or work project.

Minor in German

The minor in German language skills is for students who are interested in the German language as a tool of communication. Its emphasis is on competence in the skills of reading, writing, and understanding spoken German, as well as on conversational proficiency in German.

Requirements consist of 14 credit hours, to include G225 and G230 or G299, plus a minimum of 6 credit hours from courses at the 300 or 400 level taught in German.

Dual Degree in Engineering and German

Students majoring in mechanical, electrical, or computer engineering can also earn an applied German major. The dual degree program takes five years to complete and includes a one-semester internship in Germany during the fourth year of study. Students may formally enter into the program after successful completion of the freshmen engineering curriculum. For further information contact the German program coordinator and refer to the Purdue School of Engineering and Technology section of this bulletin.

Teacher Certification for Secondary School with a Major in German

The teaching major for a middle school/high school teaching license requires the completion of at least 36 credit hours, 30 credit hours at the 300 and 400 level. For a detailed description of all requirements, see the German program coordinator and refer to the School of Education Undergraduate Program Bulletin.

Secondary School with a Minor in German

The teaching minor requires the completion of at least 24 credit hours, of which 18 credit hours must be in courses at the 300 and 400 level. For a detailed description of all requirements, see the program coordinator and refer to the School of Education Undergraduate Program Bulletin.

Honors Program

Honors in German can be achieved either through an honors degree or through the H-Option in individual courses. The German program coordinator must be contacted before enrolling in honors work.

Honors Degree

Requirement A cumulative grade point average of 3.3, and a 3.5 grade point average in German courses. A total of 24 credit hours of course work must be earned with honors. At least 18 credit hours (out of the total 24) must be earned in German courses above the G119 or G132 level, and 6 credit hours must be in electives.

H-Option

Honors credit through the H-Option may be earned in (a) upper-division language courses (i.e., above G132), as well as (b) upper-division literature, film, culture, and topics courses offered for German credit.

Foreign Study

Any form of foreign study is highly recommended, and the department gives credit for such study wherever possible. Outstanding students with a substantial command of German, a minimum GPA of 3.0 and a B average in German courses may apply for the Overseas Study academic year program in Freiburg, Germany, during their junior year. Up to 30 IU credit hours may be earned through the program. Semester programs are also available in Freiburg. A summer program is offered in Graz, Austria, for students who have completed course work through G225. In addition, students who completed first-year German may earn transfer credits through an intensive three-week program in Oldenburg, Germany. Contact the German program or International Affairs.

Internship in Baden-Württemberg

Students in the Schools of Liberal Arts; Science, Engineering, and Technology; and Business may apply for a two-month summer internship with a German firm in southwestern Germany. Advanced standing, a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0, and German language skills are required. Each area of the exchange has a specific language requirement. 3 credits may be earned.

Other Activities

German Club The department sponsors a German Club, open to all interested students. Various topics are discussed and events of cultural interest are presented during the academic year.

Max Kade German-American Center In cooperation with several community organizations, the department operates a center for German-related activities in the Deutsche Haus-Athenaeum. The Center also offers two awards annually for students to study German overseas.

Undergraduate Courses

G095-G096 German for Reading Proficiency (3-3 cr.) These courses stress mastery of passive vocabulary and recognition of grammatical forms needed for reading skills. Designed for students in science, technology, the professional schools, and for those desiring sufficient proficiency in reading and translating German to enable them to work with German materials in their fields. These courses do not fulfill the foreign language requirement of the School of Liberal Arts.

G117-G118-G119 Beginning German I-II-III (3-3-4 cr.) Introductory courses for students who have not had prior training in German or who desire to study German at a pace slower than G131-G132. Three semesters are required to fulfill the 10-credit hour foreign language requirement. Credit is given only for the sequence G117-G118-G119 or the sequence G131-G132.

G131-G132 Intensive Beginning German I-II (5-5 cr.) Intensive introduction to present-day German and selected aspects of German life. Intensive drills for mastery of phonology, basic structural patterns, and functional vocabulary. Credit is given only for the sequence G131-G132 or the sequence G117-G118-G119.

G134-G135 Introductory German for Business I-II (3-3 cr.) Introductory courses for students and professionals in business and engineering, who need basic communicative skills for the workplace. In addition to the four basic language skills, intercultural communication and basic technical, business, and scientific vocabulary are introduced.

G225 Intermediate German I (4 cr.) P: G119, G132, or equivalent or placement by testing. Intensive review of grammar. Further development of oral and written use of the language. Selections from contemporary German readings and media.

G230 Intermediate German II (4 cr.) P: G225 or equivalent or placement by testing. Review of grammar. Readings of modern German with stress on discussion in German. Writing of descriptive and expository prose.

G265 German Culture in English Translation (3 cr.) A survey of the cultural history of German-speaking countries, as well as of contemporary civilization, with an emphasis on individual aspects of culture traced through several epochs.

G299 German for Advanced Credit (3 or 6 cr.) Nonnative speakers of German may receive a maximum of 6 hours of advanced credit with the grade of "S" upon completion of G300 or higher with a grade of C or higher. Native speakers of German may receive a maximum of 6 advanced credits upon completion of two German courses at the 300-400 level with the grade of C or higher. A student who skips a sequential course (e.g. G225 or G230) may receive 3 advanced credits upon successful completion of a higher-level course.

G300 Deutsch: Mittelstufe I (3 cr.) P: G230 or equivalent or placement by testing. Comprehensive review of grammatical points introduced in G117 through G230. Reading proficiency, systematic vocabulary building, composition, and discussion through the assignments of literary and nonliterary texts. Conducted in German.

G330 Deutsch: Mittelstufe II (3 cr.) P: G300 or equivalent. Advanced oral and written communication. Study of selected advanced grammatical topics. Reading of primarily nonliterary texts. Conducted in German.

G331 Business German I (3 cr.) P: third-year language proficiency or consent of instructor. Emphasis on acquisition and use of business vocabulary, idiom, and style. Translating, reading, and writing skills are developed using constructions common to business German, as well as current materials (reports, journals) in the field.

G333 German Translation Practice (3 cr.) P: third-year proficiency or consent of instructor. Introduction to the theory and practice of translation. Discussion of techniques and stylistic approaches. Emphasis on German/English translation using a variety of texts, including technical texts, business communication, and texts on current topics.

G340 Deutsch: Schreiben und Sprechen (3 cr.) P: G230 or equivalent. Further development of composition, conversation, and diction; review of grammar.

Japanese Studies

Coordinator Associate Professor Reiko Yonogi
Academic Advising Cavanaugh Hall 501K, (317) 274-8291

Japanese studies is an interdisciplinary field that includes the study of language, culture, and literature of Japan. Courses are offered in language, literature, and culture. The major objectives of the program are (1) to provide students with adequate ability to understand, speak, read, and write Japanese, and (2) to give students a general introduction to Japanese culture, literature, and society. Courses offered in English provide students who have little or no knowledge of Japanese with an introduction to various facets of Japanese studies.

Minor in Japanese

The minor in Japanese studies may be of particular interest to students in business, social sciences, and other languages and interdisciplinary subjects. It includes both language and literature and other Japanese area studies courses.

The minor in Japanese studies consists of 15 credit hours in Japanese studies or related courses approved by the program coordinator, excluding courses at the 100 level. At least 6 credit hours taken toward the minor must be at the 300 level or above. The following courses fulfill the requirements. Prerequisite: completion of first-year college Japanese or equivalent.

E231 Japan: The Living Tradition (3 cr.)
E351 Studies in East Asian Culture (3-6 cr.)
E472 Modern Japanese Fiction (3 cr.)
G467-G468 History of Japan I-II (3-3 cr.)
J201-J202 Second-Year Japanese I-II (3-3 cr.)
J301-J302 Third-Year Japanese I-II (3-3 cr.)
J393-J394 Japanese Literature in Translation I-II (3-3 cr.)
J310 Japanese Conversation (3 cr.)
J330 Business Japanese (3 cr.)
J401-J402 Fourth-Year Japanese I-II (3-3 cr.)
J498 Individual Studies in Japanese (1-3 cr.)
I360 Individualized Major in Japanese

This program provides an opportunity for students who wish to major in Japanese studies. They will construct individually a program to fit their academic interests. The program is overseen by a faculty director and monitored by the committee for the individualized major.

Study Abroad

Indiana University offers mature and motivated undergraduates direct IU credit for study for an academic year at the Center for Japanese Studies at Nanzan University in Nagoya, Japan. This program emphasizes intensive study of Japanese in combination with courses in English on various aspects of Japanese culture and society and the applied arts. This program is open to students of all majors who have completed at least fourth-semester Japanese and have attained a 3.0 GPA. In addition, students with first-year proficiency may apply to the semester program at Kanda University of International Studies in Tokyo.

Courses in Japanese Studies

J117-J118-J119 Basic Japanese I-II-III (3-3-4 cr.) Introductory courses for students who have not had prior training in Japanese or who desire to study Japanese at a pace slower than J131-J132. Three semesters are required to fulfill the 10 credit hour foreign language requirement. Credit is given only for the sequence J117-J118-J119 or the sequence J131-J132. Students are introduced to present-day Japanese with drills for mastery of phonology, basic structural patterns, and functional vocabulary.

J131-J132 Beginning Japanese I-II (5-5 cr.) Introductory language courses designed for students who have not had any prior training in Japanese. Drills for basic skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing of Japanese.

J201-J202 Second-Year Japanese I-II (3-3 cr.) P: J131-J132 or equivalent. A continuation of practice in the listening, speaking, reading, and writing of Japanese.

J301-J302 Third-Year Japanese I-II (3-3 cr.) P: J201-J202 or equivalent. Review of grammatical points acquired in the first and second year of Japanese. More advanced level of speaking, reading, writing, and listening proficiency.

J310 Japanese Conversation (3 cr.) P: J202 or equivalent. Designed to develop conversational skills through controlled linguistic patterns, reports, and group discussion. More advanced level of oral communication.

J330 Business Japanese (3 cr.) P: J202 or equivalent. Emphasis on acquisition and use of business vocabulary, idiom, and style. Oral practice is emphasized.

J393-J394 Japanese Literature in Translation I-II (3-3 cr.) Survey of the classical genres of Japanese literature. I: Ancient period to end of Momoyama. II: Tokugawa and modern periods.

J401-J402 Fourth-Year Japanese (3-3 cr.) P: J301-J302 or equivalent. Advanced level of communications skills in speaking and writing. Study of advanced grammar and reading of newspaper articles.

J498 Individual Studies in Japanese (1-3 cr.) P: consent of the program Coordinator. May be repeated up to a maximum of 6 credit hours.

E231 Japan: The Living Tradition (3 cr.) An introduction to the patterns of Japanese culture: society, history, visual arts, literary masterpieces, performing arts, and living religious traditions.

E351 Studies in East Asian Culture (3-6 cr.) Selected issues and problems of importance to the understanding of East Asian culture, taught within one of the humanistic disciplines. May be repeated once for credit.

Mission

The mission of the program in Spanish at IUPUI is to assist students in achieving proficiency in the Spanish language and to lead them to an understanding of and appreciation for the wide range of Hispanic cultural, literary, and linguistic manifestations. To meet this goal, the program in Spanish offers introductory and advanced instruction in language, linguistics, culture and civilization, literature, and applied language studies.

The introductory and intermediate sequences of courses are designed to provide nonmajors with an exploration into Spanish language and Hispanic culture as an essential component of a liberal arts education. The sequences aim to develop an interest in the language and the peoples who speak it, as well as to prepare students for a variety of careers with international dimensions.

The advanced curriculum prepares students to communicate orally and in writing on the different content areas that comprise the study of Spanish, providing them with the knowledge and skills necessary to achieve success in their future careers, to meet their academic and personal goals, and to prepare them for graduate work. The study of Spanish at IUPUI incorporates the Standards for Foreign Language Learning and gives students the ability to:

1. communicate with Spanish speakers in the United States and abroad;
2. understand better the cultural manifestations of other peoples;
3. gain greater insight into the nature of language itself as well as their own native language;
4. reinforce knowledge gained from other disciplines and connect it with the study of a second language; and
5. develop a sense of a multilingual international community of which they form an integral part

The curriculum in Spanish also incorporates most of the Principles of Undergraduate Learning and culminates in a capstone experience. For more information on the IUPUI Principles of Undergraduate Learning, see the Web site:
www.universitycollege.iupui.edu/UL/Principles.htm.

Considering the rapidly growing Spanish-speaking population in the United States, a major in Spanish is becoming increasingly desirable in the workplace. The major in Spanish can prepare students for a wide variety of careers in such fields as education, social services, international business and finance, government service, international communications and information services, and the travel and hospitality industry.

For more detailed information about the program in Spanish, visit the Department of World Languages and Cultures home page on the Web:
www.iupui.edu/~flac/SpanProg.html/

Major in Spanish

In addition to fulfilling the general distribution requirements for a B.A. degree established by the School of Liberal Arts, the Spanish major must complete 30 credit hours in courses at the 300 and 400 level (12 of which must be completed on the IUPUI campus) with a grade of C (2.0) or higher. Required courses at the 300 level are S311, S313, S320, S360, and S363. Required courses at the 400 level are one course in literature, one course in culture and civilization, one course in linguistics, one elective, and the senior capstone seminar.

Capstone Seminar

Only majors with senior standing may register for S498 Capstone Seminar in Spanish. Working with a director, students will prepare a learning portfolio that integrates their undergraduate study through writing and reading projects, discussions with their capstone director, and an oral presentation.

Minor in Spanish

The minor in Spanish requires 13 credit hours of course work (6 credit hours must be completed on the IUPUI campus), with a grade of C (2.0) or higher. Required courses are S204, S313, S317, and 3 additional credit hours from the 300-400 level.

Teacher Certification

Students who wish to obtain certification on the secondary level must complete all professional courses required by the School of Education and should work with a School of Education advisor as well as with a Spanish advisor.

Teaching Major Requirements

The teaching major in Spanish requires the completion of a minimum of 36 credit hours beyond the 100 level, including 30 credit hours in 300 and 400 level courses. The following courses are specifically required: S311, S313, S317, S320, S360, S363, S428, and S498. Native speakers may receive a waiver for S317. Please consult the coordinator of the program in Spanish.

Teaching Minor Requirements

The teaching minor in Spanish requires the completion of a minimum of 24 credit hours beyond the 100 level, including the following required 21

credit hours in 300- and 400-level courses: S311, S313, S317, S320, S360, S363, and S428.

Master of Arts in Teaching Spanish

Description

This graduate program is a collaboration between IUPUI and the University of Salamanca in Spain. It leads to the M.A.T. in Spanish, awarded by IUPUI, and to a distinctive international degree entitled Máster Interuniversitario Hispano-Norteamericano en la Lengua Española y las Culturas Hispánicas, awarded by the University of Salamanca. The University of Salamanca has a well-developed curriculum for foreign students who aspire to teach Spanish, and its Cursos para profesores enjoy a high level of academic prestige around the world.

Objectives

This international course of study has been designed specifically for teachers of Spanish. It provides graduate-level course work in the Spanish language, Hispanic cultures, teaching methodology, applied linguistics, and Hispanic art and literature. It provides for the professional development of Spanish teachers through the improvement of their language and teaching skills, and it will promote their career advancement. Graduates of the program will in turn contribute to better teaching of Spanish in area schools, improving the language skills and the cultural awareness of students in the state of Indiana.

Design

The degree program consists of 36 credits and requires two consecutive July summer programs at the University of Salamanca. The remainder of the course work must be completed in residence at IUPUI. The M.A.T. may be completed in three academic semesters and two summer sessions.

Course Work at IUPUI (to be completed during the academic year)

- S513 Introduction to Hispanic Sociolinguistics (3 cr.)
- S515 Acquisition of Spanish as a Second Language (3 cr.)
- S517 Methods of Teaching College Spanish (3 cr.)
- S518 Studies in Latino and Spanish American Culture (3 cr.)
- S519 Practicum in the Teaching of Spanish (2 cr.)
- S680 Topics in Contemporary Spanish American Literature (3 cr.)
- S686 M.A.T. Thesis (4 cr.)

Course Work at the University of Salamanca (to be completed in two July sessions)

- S521 Spanish Grammar and Linguistics for Teachers (4 cr.)
- S523 Spanish Literature, Art and Culture for Teachers (4 cr.)
- S524 Spanish Grammar and Linguistics for Teachers II (4 cr.)
- S525 Spanish Literature, Art and Culture for Teachers (4 cr.)

Admission Requirements

- 1) A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale) in the student's undergraduate major, documented by an official transcript. Applicants are expected to have a B.A. in Spanish, but admission is also considered for those who otherwise demonstrate the competency necessary for successful graduate work in Spanish. Students must have knowledge of Spanish phonetics, linguistics, and literary genres and periods. Students with deficiencies may be admitted on a conditional basis until they complete the relevant undergraduate courses in these areas.

Each of the following:

1. Personal statement in Spanish explaining why the applicant wants to pursue this degree.
 2. Tape including applicant's oral sample of 10-15 minutes of spontaneous speech in Spanish.
 3. An essay on some aspect of Spanish culture, literature, linguistics, or pedagogy.
- 2) Proficiency in the Spanish language, which may be demonstrated either by an exam score on the DELE or by providing language samples.
- a. Exam: Students may take the Basic Diploma in Spanish (DELE) issued by the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport. The official exam determining this proficiency is offered once a year at IUPUI.
- OR
- b. a tape including applicant's oral sample of 10-15 minutes of spontaneous speech in Spanish AND an essay in Spanish on some aspect of Spanish culture, literature, linguistics, or pedagogy. The essay may be in the form of a paper written for a course.
- 3) Three letters of recommendation. At least 2 of these should be from professors.
- 4) For foreign students, the university requires a minimum TOEFL score of 550. Students who do not achieve this score may be admitted to the university conditionally and may be required to take English as a Second Language courses through the Department of English. While taking these courses they will be allowed to register for a maximum of six credit hours in the M.A.T. in Spanish.
- 5) Online application. Please access the online portion of the application from this site: www.iupui.edu/~resgrad/grad/apply.htm.

This segment requires basic information such as name, address, program of study, residency status, etc. Applicants should pay careful attention to the personal statement, in which they explain their reasons for pursuing the M.A.T. in the Teaching of Spanish. The statement should be written in English. There is an application fee to be submitted by credit card at the end of the online application.

Please note: Under Educational Objectives you must choose "Master's" as your type of admission, "Spanish (IU Graduate School)" as your academic program, and "Spanish M.A.T." as your major. Please also note that if you have already submitted an online application for Graduate Non-Degree Status or for another graduate program, you must still complete a new online application for this program using a new personal identification number (PIN) and password and submitting an additional application fee.

Financial Assistance

Various sources of financial assistance are available to graduate students at IUPUI. Applicants should contact:

Study Abroad Programs

Indiana University administers or co-sponsors a variety of programs that permit students to live and study in a Spanish-speaking country as part of their normal degree programs. Students receive IU credit and grades for program participation and can apply most financial aid to program costs. These include an academic-year program in Madrid, Spain, and semester programs in the Spanish cities of Alicante, Madrid, and Seville, and in Santiago, Chile, and a spring semester program for business majors in Monterrey, Mexico. Six-week summer programs are offered in Cuernavaca, Mexico, for intermediate students; in Salamanca, Spain, for students who have completed two or more years of Spanish; and in Guanajuato, Mexico, for advanced students. In addition, IUPUI offers an exchange opportunity with the University of Costa Rica for a semester or year-long exchange (students receive transfer credits for the Costa Rica program). Graduate credit is available through the Salamanca program. Students majoring in any discipline are encouraged to study abroad. All programs require applicants to have an overall B average. Some programs require as little as one semester's previous study of Spanish, while others are appropriate for students in advanced Spanish courses.

Students interested in study opportunities in Spanish-speaking countries should visit the Office of International Affairs, Union Building 203, IUPUI, (317) 274-7000 or the Department of World Languages and Cultures office in CA405.

The Spanish Resource Center at IUPUI

The Spanish Resource Center is sponsored by the Embassy of Spain Education Office in order to assist and further Spanish education in the United States, and particularly in central Indiana. It is open for use by professors, teachers, and students of Spanish, as well as the general public. Materials and resources available to check out include books, films, magazines, slides, and cassettes. The Program in Spanish and the Spanish Resource Center also sponsor several activities throughout the academic year, such as a free conversation hour, a film series in Spanish, and an Immersion Day for teachers and students that focuses on the culture of Spanish-speaking countries. The center is located at Cavanaugh Hall 408 on the IUPUI campus, (317) 278-1210 or (317) 278-1211.

DELE Exams

IUPUI is an official testing site for the DELES, Diplomas of Spanish as a Foreign Language, issued by Spain's Ministry of Education. They offer official accreditation of mastery of the Spanish language for citizens of countries in which Spanish is not the official language. The examinations are offered at three levels (intermediate, high intermediate, and advanced), and consist of five sections: reading comprehension, written expression, listening comprehension, grammar and vocabulary, and oral expression. The diplomas are recognized by official institutions of Spanish-speaking countries, by corporations, chambers of commerce, and educational institutions in the United States. Applicants must provide proof of citizenship in a country in which Spanish is not the official language (anyone with a United States passport is eligible). Applicants for the advanced level must be sixteen years of age or older; there is no minimum age for the intermediate or the high intermediate levels. For more information, contact (317) 274-0062, or manton@iupui.edu. General information on the exams and sample test formats and prices may be found at www.cervantes.es or cvc.cervantes.es/aula/dele.

Other Activities

Sigma Delta Pi A chapter of the national Spanish honorary society, Sigma Delta Pi, was established in 1990. Students meeting the qualification requirements may be eligible for induction into the IUPUI chapter, Sigma Epsilon.

Spanish Club The Spanish program sponsors a Spanish Club, open to all interested students. Various events of cultural and academic interest are presented during the academic year.

S491 Elementary Spanish for Graduate Students (3 cr. graduate; 4 cr. undergraduate) Introduction to the structure of the language necessary for reading in graded texts of a general nature. Open with consent of instructor to undergraduates who have already completed the language requirement for the B.A. in another language.

S493 Internship Program in Spanish (3 cr.) P: junior standing with consent of instructor. Students work in businesses, organizations, or institutions applying their skills in Spanish in order to gain awareness of the uses of Spanish in the workplace. They record and analyze their experiences through logs and meetings with the internship director and write a paper.

S494 Individual Readings in Hispanic Studies (1-3 cr.) Topic to be selected by the student with the consent of the coordinator. Topic may not duplicate the content of an already existing course. May not be taken for graduate credit. Open to IUPUI students only.

S495 Hispanic Colloquium (3 cr.) Topic to be selected by the faculty member offering the course. May be taken twice for credit as long as the topic is different.

S496 Foreign Study in Spanish (3-6 cr.) P: consent of coordinator. Planning of a research project during the year preceding the summer abroad. Time spent in research abroad must amount to at least one week for each credit hour granted. Research paper must be presented by the end of the semester following foreign study.

S498 Capstone Seminar in Spanish (3 cr.)

A senior-level course for all Spanish majors that integrates students' undergraduate study. Students showcase academic progress through a portfolio, a reflective journal, discussions with the faculty capstone director, and a final presentation to students and faculty.

Courses in Literature in Translation

Literature-in-translation courses may be offered if there is sufficient demand for more Foreign Culture Option courses.

S230 Cervantes' Don Quixote in Translation

(3 cr.) Detailed textual analysis of Cervantes' masterpiece, with readings and class discussion on its relationship to the Renaissance and the development of the world novel.

S231 Spanish-American Fiction in Translation

(3 cr.) Representative prose fiction of Spanish America. Background lectures on the evolution of the short story and novel. Readings and discussions will concentrate on the fiction of the twentieth century.

S240 Modern Spanish Literature in Translation

(3 cr.) Readings from authors such as Unamuno, Cela, García Lorca, Jiménez, Pérez de Ayala, and Ortega y Gasset.

S241 Golden Age Literature in Translation

(3 cr.) Masterpieces of Spanish literature of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Representative authors will include: Lope de Vega, Cervantes, Garcilaso, Quevedo, Fray Luis de León, San Juan de la Cruz, and Góngora.

Graduate CoursesS507 Foreign Language Institute (3 cr.)

Intensive interdepartmental course involving language laboratory and audiovisual equipment and techniques, lecture, assignments in contemporary civilization (in the foreign language), and discussion of classroom use of applied linguistics. Taught only in the summer. Intended primarily for teachers. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credit hours.

S513 Introduction to Hispanic Sociolinguistics

(3 cr.) P: S320, S426, or consent of instructor. This course examines the relationship between language and society in the Spanish-speaking world. It surveys a wide range of topics relevant to Spanish: language as communication, the sociology of language, and linguistic variation. The course is conducted entirely in Spanish.

S515 The Acquisition of Spanish as a Second Language (3 cr.)

P: S426, S428, or consent of instructor. This course is an introduction to the acquisition of Spanish as a second language. We will survey a selection of studies exploring topics that range from the development of second language (Spanish) grammars, to second language production and comprehension, input processing, and the acquisition of pragmatic and sociolinguistic competence.

S517 Methods of Teaching College Spanish

(3 cr.) P: S428 or consent of instructor. This course on communicative language teaching takes as its point of departure the body of research on second language development. We extrapolate from this base principles and parameters to guide classroom instruction. We cover a full range of topics from grammar and input to spoken and written language.

S518 Studies in Latino and Spanish American Culture (3 cr.)

Advanced study of cultural phenomena produced in Latin America and among U.S. Hispanics. The course focuses on belief systems, artistic production, laws, customs, and other socially determined behaviors. Topics such as colonization, popular culture, communication, art, religious syncretism, and native indigenous cultures will be explored.

S519 Practicum in the Teaching of Spanish

(2 cr.) P: S517 or consent of instructor. Practical application of the teaching methodology explored in S517. Students will undertake teaching projects supervised by a graduate faculty member in Spanish and meet with their mentors to assess their teaching objectives, techniques, materials and outcomes.

S521 Spanish Grammar and Linguistics for Teachers I (4 cr.)

This course presents themes and issues in Spanish grammar and in Hispanic linguistics selected for their relevance to teaching Spanish to non-native students. Pedagogical implications and teaching strategies will be discussed. Content is distinct from that of S524.

S523 Spanish Literature, Art, and Culture for Teachers I (4 cr.)

This course presents authors, artists, themes, and issues in Spanish literature, visual art, and cultural life selected to enrich the teaching of Spanish to non-native students. Pedagogical implications and teaching strategies will be discussed. Content is distinct from that of S525.

This course presents authors, artists, themes, and issues in Spanish literature, visual art, and cultural life selected to enrich the teaching of Spanish to non-native students. Pedagogical implications and teaching strategies will be discussed. Content is distinct from that of S523.

S528 Translation Practice and Evaluation

(3 cr.) A graduate course in the problems and techniques of Spanish/English and English/Spanish translation. Includes the practical aspects of translation from various texts (literary, technical, scientific, commercial, social) and evaluation of professional translations. Translation theory will be studied.

S680 Topics in Contemporary Spanish American Literature (3 cr.)

Topics include poetry, drama, short story, novel, and essay.

S686 M.A.T. Thesis (4 cr.) Students will identify a research theme and develop it under the guidance of a director (IUPUI professor) and a co-director (University of Salamanca professor). The topic will be related to the teaching of Spanish language or to the teaching of an aspect of Hispanic literature or culture.

NOTE: With the exception of S493, S494, and S498, which carry undergraduate credit only, all other 400-level courses may be used for graduate credit with the approval of the Graduate Studies Committee.
