School of Liberal Arts

Welcome to the IU School of Liberal Arts!

A liberal arts education begins with the premise that one's world and one's self are at the core of the pursuit of knowledge. It leads to viewing the world from more than one perspective and learning something about its social, cultural, intellectual, and spiritual dimensions. Those different perspectives within the liberal arts encompass two major groups of academic disciplines: the humanities, which explore the history and experience of human culture, and the social sciences, which examine the social and material foundations of human life. Regardless of the perspective, the focus in the liberal arts is on knowledge itself, on both its substance and the tools for pursuing it, on what is known and what is worth knowing. Skills for acquiring and generating knowledge, as well as the preservation of knowledge, are enfolded within the School of Liberal Arts curriculum.

Liberal arts graduates are expected to read and listen effectively and to speak and write clearly and persuasively. They learn how to think critically and creatively. As perceptive analysts of what they read, see, and hear, liberal arts students are expected to be able to reason carefully and correctly and to recognize the legitimacy of intuition when reason and evidence prove insufficient. They learn to use various analytical tools, such as mathematics and statistics, to enable them to undertake quantitative analysis when such a strategy is appropriate.

Furthermore, students in the liberal arts, by developing communication skills in both English and at least one other world language, equip themselves to communicate with others within their own culture and different cultures. This ability to communicate requires insights into diverse patterns of thought and modes of expression. Such insights allow students to identify universal, as well as unique, aspects of their culture, their community, and themselves.

Students in the liberal arts spend a substantial amount of time studying local and international human communities. Students cultivate an informed sensitivity to global and environmental issues by exploring the range of social, geographic, economic, political, religious, and cultural realities influencing world events.

Liberal arts students do not limit their studies to the here and now. A liberal arts education requires the development of a historical consciousness, so that students can view the present within the context of the past, can appreciate tradition and what the preservation of knowledge implies, and can understand the critical forces that influence the way we think, feel, act, and speak.

In the midst of discussions of theoretical frameworks and appropriate methods of gathering and verifying data, liberal arts students consider social problems such as poverty, pollution, crime, racism, and sexism. Such consideration leads to an even greater appreciation of the dynamics of change and of what different perspectives have to offer.

A quality liberal arts education also includes an appreciation of literature and the arts and the cultivation of the aesthetic judgment that makes possible the enjoyment and comprehension of works of the creative imagination.

The liberal arts curriculum helps students examine ethical perspectives, so that they can formulate and understand their own values, become aware of others' values, and discern the ethical dimensions underlying many of the decisions that they must make. The issues discussed and the individuals and points of view studied help define the citizen as an informed and responsible individual.

This course of study implies that to be educated is to be tolerant, open to others and their ideas, and willing to admit the validity of alternative approaches. Interdisciplinary courses in which students are asked to consider the same subject from varied perspectives enhance that aspect of the liberal arts education.

General knowledge of the liberal arts provides a firm foundation for productive and responsible citizenship. When professional and personal decisions and actions are informed by knowledge, rationality, and compassion, they make the greatest contribution to a better world.

The broad knowledge and course of study described above as characteristic of a good liberal arts education are coupled with an in-depth exploration of at least one particular academic discipline, a major. Liberal arts students acquire a coherent, sophisticated understanding of a major body of knowledge with all its complexities, unique methodologies, power, and limitations. The major provides a foundation for additional academic study or for advancement within a chosen career. But because of the demanding general requirements, a liberal arts course of study protects students from the pitfalls of overspecialization too early in their postsecondary education.

A liberal arts education is an ideal preparation for life and profession, encouraging students to pursue subsequent specialization within a framework of intellectual breadth and creativity. More than just training for today's occupations, however, the humanities and social sciences offer students the skills and flexibility they will need as they move on to careers and occupations not yet known or imagined.

All in all, no individual, whether just out of high school or returning to college after being away for decades, can find a better course of study for the present and the future, for the personal and the professional, than one in the IU School of Liberal Arts.

Who Should Use This Bulletin

The 2018-2019 Bulletin of the IU School of Liberal Arts presents the degree requirements for all students admitted for fall semester 2018 through summer term 2019. Students admitted to the IU School of Liberal Arts must satisfy degree requirements as described herein. Students accepted to the IU School of Liberal Arts prior to fall semester 2010 and continuously enrolled since then (excluding summer sessions) either may meet the school's requirements at the time they were initially accepted as a liberal arts major or they may elect the requirements as described within this Bulletin. Students who are not continuously enrolled or who take more than eight years of enrollment to complete their degrees should confer with the Associate Dean for Student Affairs in the school to determine the requirements applicable to their degrees.

Overview

Our Mission

Creating and exchanging knowledge that promotes understanding of the human experience.

Our Vision

As one of the premier sites of liberal arts education, scholarship, professional service, and civic engagement in the state of Indiana, the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI will contribute to the social, cultural and economic development of the state, and will foster life-long learning that engenders commitment to civil society through an engaged and educated citizenry.

Our Core Values

A liberal arts education is rooted in reflection, teaching and learning, scholarship, and service to people across cultures and over time. To promote a better understanding of a complex world, the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI Arts builds on this tradition and reflects it in our core values:

- Student learning: We provide an intellectual climate and curriculum that challenges students to think critically, communicate clearly and achieve in their chosen fields.

- Diversity: Diversity encompasses the complexities of human beings and includes, but is not limited to, race, ethnicity, gender, gender identity, sexual preference, age, physical and mental differences, religious identification, and social class. We believe the educational environment is enhanced when diverse groups of people with diverse ideas come together to learn.

- Excellence: We seek excellence - quality rather than quantity - in the areas of teaching and learning, research and creative activity, and civic engagement and professional service.

- Collaboration with the community: We value civic involvement as a way of enriching the academic environment, engaging citizens and enhancing our constituent communities.

- Interdisciplinary, international and multicultural approaches: We take a broad perspective on intellectual questions, civic engagement, and the education of students in order to provide a well-rounded education.

- Stewardship: We steward the resources of the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI - and measure their impact - in the most effective, efficient, ethical, and timely manner possible.

- Collegiality: Students, staff, and faculty are joined in a collaborative partnership characterized by mutual respect to promote the vision and mission of the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI.

- Accessibility: As a public institution, we are dedicated to making a high quality education as accessible as possible for all students through flexible scheduling, loans, scholarships and other means.

General Studies Students

The General Studies program is designed to meet the needs of adult learners. In fact, nearly all General Studies students at IUPUI are 21 years old or older with significant work, previous college credits, and life experience.

Admission Requirements:

- Possess a high school diploma or GED
- Document significant work and life experience
- Desire to complete a flexible interdisciplinary degree program
- Transfer students must have a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 or have been out of college for at least one semester

How to Apply:

If you have never attended college or Indiana University

- If you have never been admitted to any campus of Indiana University and have never attended a college or university, you will submit your application through the IUPUI Undergraduate Admissions website and select Future Freshman

If you have attended another college or university, but have never been admitted to Indiana University (any campus)

- If you have never been admitted to any campus of Indiana University but have completed coursework from other colleges or universities, you will submit your application through the IUPUI Undergraduate Admission website and select Transfer Student

If you have attended an Indiana University campus, but have not attended for one or more years

- If you have a previous admission to Indiana University and have not been enrolled for one or more years, you will submit your application through the IUPUI Undergraduate Admission website and select Returning Student

If you have attended a Indiana University campus and have been out less than 2 semesters

- If you have a previous admission to IUPUI and have been out less than two semesters (with the exception of summer terms) or are returning from military leave, and are interested in pursuing the General Studies degree, contact our office (317) 278-7600.

If you have been admitted to General Studies and have been out less than 2 semesters

- If you have a previous admission to the IUPUI General Studies degree and have been out less than two semesters (with the exception of summer terms) or are returning from military leave, you will contact the General Studies degree program office (317) 278-7600.

If you have questions, call (317) 278-7600.

Admission

All students entering the IU School of Liberal Arts must be admitted officially to IUPUI as a degree-seeking student.

After students have been admitted by IUPUI, they must also be admitted by the specific school in which they intend to pursue a degree. The IU School of Liberal Arts welcomes nontraditional students and recent high school graduates if they wish to pursue a liberal arts degree and meet the school’s requirements for admission. Students must select a major within Liberal Arts before they can be admitted.

Students not eligible for direct admission to the IU School of Liberal Arts can indicate their interest in a major in the school by selecting an IU School of Liberal Arts department or program as part of their admission to University College.

Many liberal arts students are transfer students coming from another college or university, another Indiana University campus, or another division of IUPUI. Procedures for transferring into the IU School of Liberal Arts and special arrangements for transfer students are described herein.

Academic Advising

The Liberal Arts academic advising model centers on a team approach with faculty mentors and academic advisors. Each student is assigned a faculty mentor and an academic advisor. Faculty mentors focus primarily on mentoring students according to their academic and career interests. Academic advisors are responsible for general education and major advising. Academic advisors are located in the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, Cavanaugh Hall 401.

Probationary Admission

Individuals interested in transferring to IU School of Liberal Arts whose college grade point average is lower than 2.0 (C) may petition the School of Liberal Arts for probationary admission.

Petitions are available from the IU School of Liberal Arts Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976. Transfer students from other colleges or universities should attach a copy of their college transcript. Petitions are reviewed by the School of Liberal Arts Associate Dean and should be submitted by the following deadlines:

- To enroll for the fall semester: July 15
- To enroll for the spring semester: November 15
- To enroll for summer session: April 15

At the discretion of the Associate Dean, the school will ordinarily admit transfer students whose past performance, experience, or current situation show reasonable potential for successfully completing a degree. Such students are counseled through the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs or their major department and remain on probation until their cumulative grade point average is raised to at least 2.0 (C).

Transfer Students

The IU School of Liberal Arts welcomes transfer students and is committed to making their transition and transfer of credit as smooth as possible. At admission or at any time after being admitted to IUPUI, a student with a minimum grade point average of 2.0 (C) may transfer to the IU School of Liberal Arts by filing a Change of Record form available in the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, CA401. Transfer students who have questions about their previous course work will apply to their degree, or who encounter difficulties in the process of transferring credit or records, should contact the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, Cavanaugh Hall 401, (317) 274-3976.

Academic Policies

Principles of Undergraduate Learning

Graduates of the IU School of Liberal Arts should exemplify the ideals of a liberal arts education and the University’s “Principles of Undergraduate Learning.”

Students should be broadly educated across the disciplines and well trained in a particular major. They should have: (1) proficiency in reading, writing, and speaking skills; (2) competence in quantitative, language, and analytic skills; (3) a broad-based experience in the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences; and (4) a major area of study. Although faculty and advisors are available to help students acquire these proficiencies and attitudes, learning must be self-motivated. To be taught, one must first be interested in learning. A liberal arts education, therefore, is the responsibility of the individual student.

By graduation, a liberal arts education should have provided the opportunity for a student to attain the IUPUI “Principles of Undergraduate Learning,” which are:

- Core Communication and Quantitative Skills: The ability of students to express and interpret information, perform quantitative analysis, and use information resources and technology—the foundational skills necessary for all IUPUI students to succeed.
- Critical Thinking: The ability of students to engage in a process of disciplined thinking that informs beliefs and actions. Students who demonstrate critical thinking apply the process of disciplined thinking by remaining open-minded, reconsidering previous beliefs and actions, and adjusting their thinking, beliefs, and actions based on new information.
- Integration and Application of Knowledge: The ability of students to use information and concepts from studies in multiple disciplines in their intellectual, professional, and community lives.
- Intellectual Depth, Breadth, and Adaptiveness: The ability of students to examine and organize disciplinary ways of knowing and to apply them to specific issues and problems.
- Understanding Society and Culture: The ability of students to recognize their own cultural traditions and to understand and appreciate the diversity of the human experience.
Values and Ethics: The ability of students to make sound decisions with respect to individual conduct, citizenship, and aesthetics.

Dean’s List
Liberal Arts undergraduate students with high academic achievement are recognized each semester through the Dean’s List. Full-time undergraduate students enrolled in and completing 12 or more credit hours for the semester must earn a semester GPA of at least 3.3. Part-time undergraduate students enrolled in and completing 6-11.5 credit hours must earn a semester GPA of at least 3.4.

Students must be officially registered as Liberal Arts majors to be eligible. Students pursuing degrees in two schools for whom Liberal Arts appears as their second school will be considered for the Dean's List through their primary school.

Double Major/Degree
The IU School of Liberal Arts allows students to complete double majors and double degrees. Students seeking a double major must consult advisors from each of the departments in which they propose to study. Students must complete the requirements for each of the two majors as well as all other school requirements for a degree.

While most students work on a single degree at a time, a student may work on what is essentially two degrees in two different schools at IUPUI simultaneously (e.g., a B.A. from Indiana University in English and a B.S. from Purdue University in Psychology). Proposed dual degrees programs must be approved by the appropriate advisors and deans in both schools. Students must complete all requirements in the two schools for the two different degrees.

Pass/Fail (P/F) Option
Any IU School of Liberal Arts undergraduate in good standing (not on probation) may enroll in a maximum of eight elective courses to be taken with a grade of P (pass) or F (fail). The Pass/Fail option can be used for a maximum of two courses per year, including summer sessions. The course selected for Pass/Fail must be an elective. It may not be used to satisfy any of the major, minor or school distribution requirements.

Final Examinations
Final examinations or other activities in lieu of a final are to be scheduled during finals week at the time indicated in the Final Exam Schedule section of the Academic Calendar.

Students scheduled for three or more finals in a 24-hour period may have their examination schedule adjusted. They should notify the instructors involved by mid-semester and determine if any of them are willing to schedule an alternate examination. Students having problems with an instructor may consult the chair of the department or the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, in CA401, (317) 274-3976.

Forgiveness Policy
The IU School of Liberal Arts has adopted a modified version of the IUPUI forgiveness policy (http://registrar.iupui.edu/fgive.html) for students who have been out of school for three or more years. For more information about the policy, call (317) 274-3976 or visit CA401.

Petition for Grade Change
Either students or faculty members may petition for a change in course grade.

A student desiring a change of grade should first discuss the situation with the instructor. If the instructor agrees, and no more than one full semester has elapsed since the course was finished, the faculty member must file a Grade Change Authorization Form with the Associate Dean of the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs. If more than one full semester has elapsed, the faculty member still files the Grade Change Authorization Form, but the form may be sent to the IU School of Liberal Arts Academic Affairs Committee, depending on the reason given for the change of grade. Campus policy limits petitions for change of grades to five years after the course.

If the instructor and student do not agree on a change of grade, or if the instructor cannot be located, the student should discuss the matter with the chairperson, director, or coordinator of the department or program in which the course was offered. Following that, the student may petition the Academic Affairs Committee directly, using the Change of Grade Petition Form; these forms should be completed online at http://registrar.iupui.edu/fgdfrm.html. The petition must include (1) a statement of an attempted but unsuccessful interview with the faculty member and chair, and (2) supporting evidence for the petition. The decision of the Academic Affairs Committee is final and there are no additional avenues of appeal.

Self-Acquired Competency
Credit may sometimes be granted for learning experiences acquired through means other than normal college course work. Credit is available for course-specific learning or for non–course-specific learning in (1) arts and humanities, and (2) social sciences.

Faculty will evaluate the experience and determine whether credit should be awarded and the amount of credit to be granted. Students may be asked to prepare a portfolio, take examinations, or document their learning in other suitable ways so that the faculty can make such judgments. Only 12 credit hours of self-acquired competency can be applied toward a degree. A brochure providing additional information is available in the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, CA401.

Graduation
Undergraduate students must apply for graduation prior to the graduation date. Announcements will be made through the student email listserv, by postings in the building, and through academic departments. IUPUI students may apply for graduation dates of May, August, or December.

Graduate students must apply through their program director and the IU Graduate School by the dates indicated in those programs. Graduate students have monthly graduation dates.

Graduation with Distinction
Liberal Arts undergraduate students with outstanding academic achievement are recognized by IUPUI at graduation by the designations of Distinction, High Distinction and Highest Distinction. These recognitions are bestowed on the top 10% of each graduating class.

To be eligible for consideration, undergraduate students must have:

- 1) Officially applied for graduation on time (i.e. by Dec. 1 for May and August graduation; by Aug. 1 for December graduation)
- 2) Completed at least 60 credit hours toward degree from IUPUI at the time lists are prepared for the Registrar and Assistant Director of Student Records (usually that is in Jan. for May and August graduates; in September for December graduates).
- 3) Have an IU cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 or higher when the lists are prepared (usually that is in Jan. for May and August graduates; in October for December graduates).

The cutoff for 10% may raise the lowest GPA, but no one with a recorded GPA of less than 3.5 will be considered.

Students who meet the above requirements and are in the 10% will be contacted via email by the Assistant Director of Student Records with instructions for picking up honor cords prior to May commencement.

Second Bachelor’s Degree

Normally, holders of bachelor’s degrees seeking further education are encouraged to enter graduate programs; in certain cases, however, students may prefer to work toward a second bachelor’s degree. If admitted by the Dean to candidacy for a second degree, students must earn at least 26 additional credit hours in residence at IUPUI and meet the requirements of the IU School of Liberal Arts and of the department in which they are candidates.

Academic Standing

Students in Good Academic Standing

Students with declared majors in the IU School of Liberal Arts who have calculated cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher are considered to be in good academic standing.

Academic Probation

Only IU grades will be considered in determining probation and dismissal. Students are placed on academic probation when their cumulative grade point average falls below 2.0 (C), and they remain on probation until the cumulative grade point average is 2.0 (C) or higher. Students on probation are encouraged to talk with their academic advisor in the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs (Cavanaugh Hall 401), a faculty mentor or a counselor in the IUPUI Counseling and Psychological Services, (317) 274-2548, to determine how they may become more successful in their studies. Students on probation must schedule an appointment with their academic advisors before registering. To schedule an appointment, contact the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs at (317) 274-3976.

Students who have two consecutive semesters (excluding summer sessions) with semester grade point averages below 2.0 (C) may be placed on probation at the discretion of the Associate Dean for Student Affairs regardless of their cumulative grade point average, since they are failing to make progress toward a degree.

Dismissal

Students will be dismissed from the IU School of Liberal Arts when they have a cumulative grade point average lower than 2.0 (C) and a semester grade point average of lower than 2.0 (C) for two semesters of full time enrollment or 24 credits.

Dismissal decisions are made using official grades. Any subsequent grade changes, including withdrawals, will not be considered. Students eligible for dismissal will be notified in writing that they have been dismissed and that they must remain out of school at least one fall or spring semester. The letter will also inform such students that they will be withdrawn from classes for which they have registered. Once dismissed, students must petition for readmission. (See “Readmission.”) Any grade changes that have occurred since dismissal may be addressed during the readmission process.

Students who have been dismissed a second time must remain out of school for at least two semesters (fall and spring) and petition for readmission. (See “Readmission.”)

A third dismissal is final.

Readmission

Any student who has been dismissed from the IU School of Liberal Arts (or another IU campus) must petition for readmission. A Petition for Readmission form may be obtained from the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs (Cavanaugh Hall 401). Petitions for readmission must be filed by the following deadlines:

To enroll for the fall semester: July 15
To enroll for the spring semester: November 15
To enroll for summer session: April 15

Dean's List
Liberal Arts undergraduate students with high academic achievement are recognized during both fall and spring semesters through the Dean's List. Full-time undergraduate students enrolled in and completing 12 or more credit hours for the semester must earn a semester GPA of at least 3.3. Part-time undergraduate students enrolled in and completing 6-11.5 credit hours must earn a semester GPA of at least 3.4. Students must be officially registered as Liberal Arts majors to be eligible. Students seeking a double major must consult advisors from each of the departments in which they propose to study. Students must complete the requirements for each of the two majors as well as all other school requirements for a degree. Some credits may be allowed to fulfill requirements in more than one plan of study. These credits must be approved by the department and submitted through the Academic Affairs Committee, depending on the reason given for the change of degree. Campus policy limits petitions for change of grades to five years after the course.

While most students work on a single degree at a time, a student may work on what is essentially two degrees in two different schools at IUPUI simultaneously (e.g., a B.A. from Indiana University in English and a B.S. from Purdue University in Psychology). Proposed dual degrees programs must be approved by the appropriate advisors and deans in both schools. Students must complete all requirements in the two schools for the two different degrees.

Minors
The IU School of Liberal Arts encourages students to complete minors outside their first field of study. Students seeking to minor should (1) declare their intent to minor, and (2) consult advisors from each of the departments in which they propose to study. Some credits may be allowed to fulfill requirements in more than one plan of study. These credits must be approved by the department and submitted through the Office of Student Affairs. Students must complete the requirements for a minor concurrent with or prior to the completion of their major. Students must complete all minor requirements by the time they complete their major.

Pass/Fail (P/F) Option
Any IU School of Liberal Arts undergraduate in good standing (not on probation) may enroll in a maximum of eight elective courses to be taken with a grade of P (pass) or F (fail). The Pass/Fail option can be used for a maximum of two courses per year, including summer sessions. The course selected for Pass/Fail must be an elective. Graduation
Undergraduate students should apply for graduation approximately 9 months prior to the graduation date. Students who apply after the priority deadline for their anticipated graduation term are not guaranteed an audit of their coursework. Students applying within one month of their anticipated graduation date must notify the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs in writing. To be eligible to graduate students must (1) apply on time for their desired completion term, and (2) complete all degree requirements set by the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI. Participation in any IU Commencement celebration does not guarantee all graduation requirements have been satisfied. Announcements regarding graduation will be made through the student email listserv, by postings in the building, and through academic departments. IUPUI students may apply for graduation dates of May, August, or December.

Graduate students must apply through their program director and the IU Graduate School by the dates indicated in those programs. Graduate students have monthly graduation dates.

- 3) Have an IU cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 or higher when the lists are prepared (usually that is in Jan. for May and August graduates; in October for December graduates). The cutoff for 10% may raise the lowest GPA, but no one with a recorded GPA of less than 3.5 will be considered.

Students who meet the above requirements and are in the 10% will be contacted via email by the Assistant Director of Student Records with instructions for picking up honor cords prior to May commencement.

Second Bachelor’s Degree
Normally, holders of bachelor’s degrees seeking further education are encouraged to enter graduate programs; in certain cases, however, students may prefer to work toward a second bachelor’s degree. If admitted by the Dean to candidacy for a second degree, students must earn at least 26 additional credit hours in residence at IUPUI and meet the requirements of the IU School of Liberal Arts and of the department in which they are candidates.

Africana Studies

Major in Africana Studies

The Africana Studies major prepares undergraduates for productive local, national and international careers or graduate work. It grounds students in the essential theory and basic information about people of African descent that serves as a foundation of knowledge for advanced study in the discipline. Recognizing the importance of cross-cultural understanding and regional differences of the African experience, it also provides students with a trans-national perspective on the life, history and culture of people of African descent in the United States, Latin America, Canada, the Caribbean Europe, and Africa. To ensure coherence within the overall major, students must also complete one introductory course and one senior seminar capstone course.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Africana Studies (AFRO) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

Anthropology
Major in Anthropology

The anthropology curriculum at IUPUI emphasizes the practical application of anthropological concepts, theory, and methods. It contributes to student growth in three ways: Anthropology is the study of human culture, biology, and social interaction across time and place. It includes the archaeological investigation of past and present human material culture by broadening their understanding of the human experience across cultures and time; by providing a comparative perspective from which to develop an appreciation of human diversity and an understanding of different values and ethical beliefs in a complex, international world; and by providing practical learning experiences in a variety of settings, including community agencies, museums, governmental institutions, health agencies, and neighborhood associations. The anthropology program also has laboratories to assist the faculty and students with guided research in archaeology, ethnography, biological anthropology, and forensics. Frequent summer field courses, both local and international, give students additional opportunities for experiential learning.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Anthropology (ANTH) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

• completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in Anthropology,
• completion of a total of 34 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,

American Sign Language/English Interpreting

Major in American Sign Language/English Interpreting

The ASL/ English Interpreting Program introduces students to the theory and practice of interpreting. It provides a strong foundation in language, culture, interpreting, and linguistics. Students develop their abilities in ASL and English, analyze features of ASL and English, discuss ethical issues, and perform guided practice with both simultaneous and consecutive interpreting. The combination of this background with a broad liberal arts education prepares students to enter the profession of interpreting, which serves diverse populations and encompasses a wide range of subjects and settings.

Admission to the American Sign Language/English Interpreting major requires students to meet the following criteria:
• a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or higher
• second year proficiency in American Sign Language (completion of ASL-A 212 at IUPUI)
• completion of any first or second year ASL courses with a B or higher
• successful completion of a screening process including a letter of intent and interview during the spring semester prior to beginning the major requirements
The Bachelor of Science degree with a major in American Sign Language/English Interpreting (ASL) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in American Sign Language/English Interpreting
- completion of a total of 36 credit hours with a minimum grade of C in each course
- completion of a minimum of 15 credit hours in American Sign Language / English Interpreting Major at IUPUI (effective Fall 2015)

Major Requirements:

- ASL-A 219: Deaf Community History & Culture (3 cr.)
- ASL-A 221: Linguistics of American Sign Language (3 cr.)

Communication Studies

Major in Communication Studies

Communication Studies course work assists students in enhancing such competencies as critical inquiry, problem solving, media and message design, oral performance, relational interaction, and cultural communication. The Communication Studies curriculum provides a foundation for students interested in pursuing careers that apply communication principles, such as public relations, sales, marketing, video or film production, corporate media production, training and development, human resources, public affairs, consulting, and special events planning. In addition, it prepares students for graduate work in various areas, including communication, informatics, humanities, or social sciences, or in professional programs such as law, business, health, and social work.

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Communication Studies (COMM) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- completion of a total of 33 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
- at least 15 credit hours in the major must be in courses at the 300 level or above,
- at least 3 credit hours each in three of the four areas which are designated by the prefixes C, M, R, & T,
- COMM-R 110 may not count toward the major,
- no more than 12 credit hours may transfer,
- at least 21 credit hours of the major coursework must be in courses offered solely or cooperatively by the Communication Studies Department,
- a total of 9 credits of G 300: Independent Study and G 491: Internship may count toward the major.

Major Requirements:

Core Courses (9 hours)

- COMM-G 100: Introduction to Communication Studies 3 hours
- COMM-G 201: Introduction to Communication Theory 3 hours
- COMM-G 310: Introduction to Communication Research 3 hours

Capstone Experience (3 hours)

- COMM-G 480: Senior Capstone in Communication Studies 3 hours

Major Elective courses (21 hours)

The remaining 21 hours may be selected from any of the courses offered in Communication Studies, as long as departmental degree requirements are met. Students are strongly encouraged to develop their plan of study in consultation with their academic advisor and department mentor early to ensure a coherent program which meets their goals.

Communication Studies Undergraduate Honors Degree Requirements

A list of Communication Studies courses approved for H-Options is available in the Honors Program office or in the main department office. Other courses may be arranged by departmental approval. Students graduating with departmental honors will receive a certificate and a letter of acknowledgment.

Economics

Major in Economics

Economics is the study of how people and societies determine how much to work both in the marketplace and at home, how much to spend, save, and invest. A major in economics supports the liberal arts tradition of promoting students' growth in critical thinking and developing an understanding of the world around them. Economics provides insight into how markets can function in coordinating the activities of many diverse buyers and sellers. It also indicates conditions which make it difficult for markets to function well without either governmental or nonprofit sector intervention.

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics (ECON) requires satisfactory completion of the following:
Major Requirements:
• ECON-E 201: Introduction to Microeconomics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 202: Introduction to Macroeconomics (3 cr.)
  (Prerequisite for this course is E 201.)
• ECON-E 270: Introduction to Statistical Theory in Economics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 321: Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
  (3 cr.) (Prerequisite for this course is E 201.)
• ECON-E 322: Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
  (3 cr.) (Prerequisite for this course is E 202.)
• ECON-E: 406 Senior Seminar (3 cr.) (Prerequisites for this course are E 321 and E 322.)

With the exception of ECON-E 406, these classes should be completed by the end of the junior year.

Choose either the General Track or the Quantitative Track to complete a Major in Economics:

General Track – (33 credit hours): The general track requires an additional five courses, consisting of the following:
• MATH-M 118 Finite Math
• MATH-M 119 Brief Survey of Calculus

Economics electives (9 credit hours) from the following:
• ECON-E 303: Introduction to International
  Economics

• ECON-E 408: Undergraduate Readings in Economics – Arranged
• ECON-E 410: Economic History
• ECON-E 420: History of Economic
• ECON-E 470: Introduction to Econometrics

Quantitative Track – (32 credit hours): The quantitative track requires an additional four courses (or more, depending on the student’s readiness for the math sequence) consisting of the following:
• MATH 16500: Analytic Geometry and Calculus I
• MATH 16600: Analytic Geometry and Calculus II
• ECON-E 470: Introduction to Econometrics

Economics electives (3 credit hours) from the electives list above (excluding ECON-E 470).

English
Major in English

The Department of English offers introductory and advanced instruction in the methods and traditions of literary analysis, writing, and language study. Its programs are in five areas: linguistics, literature, writing, creative writing, and film studies.

Through its courses and other activities in linguistics, writing, creative writing, film, and literature, the department works to create and sustain evolving communities of learners interested in the contributions of language to what has been called the examined life—a thoughtful, morally aware, and civically and personally responsible existence.
Faculty and students aim for excellence in analyzing,

French

Major in French

The primary goal of the program in French at IUPUI is to assist students in achieving linguistic and cultural proficiency in French and Francophone settings. To support this goal, the program offers a variety of courses from the introductory to the advanced undergraduate levels in language & linguistics, culture & literature, and applied areas (translation & Business French).

Considering that French is the only language (with English) that is spoken on all five continents, and that the number of people who speak it has tripled in the last fifty years, a major in French has never been more desirable in the workplace. French is not only one of the main languages of the European Union and many other international bodies, including the Olympic Committee; it is also dominant in science, engineering, and technology. The major in French not only broaden students' cultural horizons by giving them direct access to the fields of philosophy, literature, history and music, it also prepares them for a variety of careers in international business communication, translation, tourism, education, and technology, to name a few.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in French (FREN) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- Completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in French.
- Completion of a total of 30 credit hours in courses at the 200 through 400 levels, with a minimum grade of C in each course.

- Completion of a minimum of 15 credit hours in the French major at IUPUI (effective Fall 2015).
- The required distribution of courses may NOT be waived or substituted, but equivalent courses from study abroad programs and/or transferred from other universities may be accepted with consent of the advisor.

Major Requirements:

- FREN-F 203: Second-Year French I (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 204: Second-Year French II (3 cr.)

Language course (3 cr.) Choose one:
- FREN-F 328: Advanced French Grammar and Composition (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 330: Introduction to Translation (3 cr.)

Oral Production course (3 cr.) Choose one:
- FREN-F 331: French Pronunciation and Diction (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 380: French Conversation (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 396: French Study Abroad (3 cr.)

Culture course (3 cr.) Choose one:
- FREN-F 300: Lectures et analyses littéraires (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 326: French in the Business World (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 360: Introduction socio-culturelle à la France (3 cr.)

Elective courses (12 cr.) Choose four:
- FREN-F 307: Masterpieces (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 396: French Study Abroad (3 - 6 cr.)
- FREN-F 402: Introduction to French Linguistics (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 421: Fourth-Year French (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 423: Craft of Translation (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 430: Modern Short Narratives (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 450: Colloquium in French Studies (2-3 cr.)
- FREN-F 451: Le français des affaires (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 452: Civ. & Lit. Québécoises (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 460: French Fiction in Film (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 461: La France Contemporaine (3 cr.)
- FREN-F 480: Conversation
- FREN-F 496: French Study Abroad (3 – 6 cr.)

Capstone (3 cr.)

- F497 Capstone in French (3 cr.)

Note: Courses NOT taken from the Language, Oral Production or Culture Course categories are eligible for electives in the major [e.g. a student who took FREN-F 328 may also take FREN-F 330 for his major]. One elective must be at the 400-level.

General Studies

The General Studies program is designed to meet the needs of adult learners. In fact, nearly all General Studies students at IUPUI are 21 years old or older with work, previous college credits, and life experience.

The General Studies Degree Program, extends to students the opportunity to pursue a college education regardless of work schedules, domestic responsibilities, or location. Students may fulfill degree requirements by taking on-campus courses, web, or a combination of both.

The core of each general studies degree is a broadly based education encompassing a.) the arts and humanities; b.) the social and behavioral sciences; and c.) mathematics and natural sciences. The curriculum expands students body of knowledge and awareness of major areas of human experience. A general studies education is not limited in scope; it establishes the foundation for a lifetime of learning and serves as the framework for a productive professional and personal life.

The Bachelor of General Studies (B.G.S.) provides basic preparation for many careers and graduate programs. B.G.S. graduates are employed in various professional fields, including education, law, government and social service, real estate, and private industry. Many B.G.S. recipients have gone on to graduate programs in fields such as anthropology, business, divinity studies, education, fine arts, international affairs, law, library science, management, medicine, nursing, public health, and social work. B.G.S. graduates have earned masters degrees and doctorates at Indiana University and other prestigious universities.

In addition to enrolling in regular session courses at any Indiana University campus, students may fulfill general studies degree requirements in various ways, including credit by examination, credit for educational programs in noncollegiate organizations, military service credit, and credit for courses completed at other regionally accredited institutions.

Must complete one of the following courses during last term before graduation:
• GNST-G 399 General Studies Internship OR GNST-G 400 General Studies Capstone
• Maximum 90 transfer credits accepted from colleges/universities awarding baccalaureate degrees
• Maximum 64 transfer credits accepted from two-year and community colleges

Geography

Major in Geography

Geography, like history, is a way of looking at the world. Whereas historians study variation through time, geographers study variation through space: how and why the earth’s natural and human features vary from place to place. Underlying this spatial approach are such recurring themes as spatial diffusion of people, goods, and ideas; the significance of relative location in human interaction; the power of place in human consciousness; and the interaction of physical and human processes to create characteristic landscapes. Geographers work at the intersection of social and natural sciences, using the concepts and methods of both to examine human-environmental relationships in their full complexity. This integrative approach is a hallmark of geography and one of its main attractions. Geographers can be found in a great variety of positions often not specifically identified as geographic: environmental management, urban planning, conservation, recreation and tourism, transportation planning, international affairs, and many others.

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Geography provides a general introduction to the philosophy, content, and methods of the discipline. The Department of Geography is also developing an applied emphasis in environmental analysis, including courses in field methods, remote sensing, cartography, and geographic information systems. Students can thus select a broad academic program or emphasize acquisition of job-related skills.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Geography (GEOG) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

• completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in Geography,
• completion of a total of 31 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• 12 credit hours in core courses, which should be taken at the beginning of the major program,
• 15 credits of Geography courses must be taken at IUPUI (effective Fall 2015)

Major Requirements:

Core courses (12 cr.)
• GEOG-G 107: Physical Systems of the Environment
• GEOG-G 110: Introduction to Human Geography
• GEOG-G 300: The World of Maps
• GEOG-G 303: Weather and Climate
• GEOG-G 305: Environmental Change: Nature and Impact
• GEOG-G 307: Biogeography: The Distribution of Life
• GEOG-G 310: Human Impact on Environment
• GEOG-G 315: Environmental Conservation
• GEOG-G 390: Topics in Geography- Environmental Focus

A total of three courses in environmental and human geography, to include at least one course from each group:

Environmental Geography (3 or 6 cr.)
• GEOG-G 303: Weather and Climate
• GEOG-G 305: Environmental Change: Nature and Impact
• GEOG-G 307: Biogeography: The Distribution of Life
• GEOG-G 310: Human Impact on Environment
• GEOG-G 315: Environmental Conservation
• GEOG-G 390: Topics in Geography- Environmental Focus
Human Geography (3 or 6 cr.)
- GEOG-G 302: Introduction to Transportation Analysis
- GEOG-G 314: Urban Geography
- GEOG-G 330: North American House Types
- GEOG-G 331: Economic Geography
- GEOG-G 355: Political Geography
- GEOG-G 360: Geography of Wine
- GEOG-G 390: Topics in Geography-Human Geography Focus
- GEOG-G 410: Medical Geography
- GEOG-G 418: Historical Geography

One Regional Geography course (3 cr.)
- GEOG-G 321: Geography of Europe
- GEOG-G 322: Geography of Russia and Adjacent Lands
- GEOG-G 323: Geography of Latin America
- GEOG-G 324: Geography of the Caribbean
- GEOG-G 326: Geography of North America
- GEOG-G 327: Geography of Indiana
- GEOG-G 328: Rural Landscapes of North America
- GEOG-G 330: North American House Types
- GEOG-G 334: Field Geography of North America
- GEOG-G 363: Landscapes and Cultures of the Caribbean
- GEOG-G 390: Topics in Geography- Variable Regional Focus
- GEOG-G 421: Environments of Tropical Lands
- GEOG-G 424: Geography of Africa

Capstone Course (1 or 3 cr.)
- GEOG-G 491: Capstone Experience in Geography (1 cr.) or
- GEOG-G 439: Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.)

German

Major in German
The IUPUI German program trains students to achieve linguistic proficiency and intercultural competency in German. Linguistic proficiency is the ability to communicate orally and in writing about subjects of common knowledge in the target language. A step-by-step systematic progression of language courses aids students to achieve fluency in German and allows them later to concentrate on chosen areas of linguistic specialization.

To gain intercultural competency, students acquire a solid knowledge of contemporary life in the German speaking countries and learn to compare their institutions, customs, and mentalities with contemporary U.S. culture. Students also gain intercultural competency through critical knowledge of the historical and cultural movements and personalities that have had the most impact on contemporary culture in the German-speaking countries, especially Germany.

In addition, all students in the program have the option to study in Germany or Austria for a limited or extended period of time, or to gain practical career experience in business or technology by working as an intern overseas or in a local international corporation.

Courses in German not only broaden students’ cultural horizons by giving them immediate access to a key region of central Europe, but also prepare students for a variety of careers in international business communication, translation, travel, education, and technology exchange. By combining the study of another discipline with specialization in German, students can also prepare more thoroughly and adequately for interdisciplinary graduate studies.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in German (GER) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in German.
- completion of a total of 29 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- Completion of a minimum of 15 credit hours in the German major at IUPUI (effective Fall 2015).

Major Requirements:
- GER-G 203: Second Year German I (3 cr.)
- GER-G 204: Second Year German II (3 cr.)
- GER-G 300: Third Year German I (3 cr.)—fall only

Contemporary culture course
- GER-G 365: Deutsche Kultur Heute (3 cr.)

400-level historical culture and literature course, choose the following:
- GER-G 407: Knights, God, and the Devil (3 cr.)
- GER-G 408: Love, Nature, and the Age of Romanticism (3 cr.)
- GER-G 409: German Myths, Fairy Tales, and Social Transformation (3 cr.)
- GER-G 409: Jahrhundert: Kultur und Literatur (3 cr.)
• GER-G 410: Jahrhundert: Kultur und Literatur (3 cr.)
• GER-G 490: Das deutsche Kolloquium (3 cr.)

400 level language course, choose at least of the following:
• GER-G 401: Deutsche Kultur in Amerika (3 cr.)
• GER-G 423: The Craft of Translation (3 cr.)
• GER-G 431: Advanced Business German (3 cr.)
• GER-G 445: Oberstufe: Grammatik (3 cr.)
• GER-G 465: Oberstufe: Kommunikation (3 cr.)

Capstone: Portfolio
• GER-G 498: Individual Studies in German (1-6 cr.)

Other courses may also be selected on the basis of placement level by test or course work, and/or focus of interest. They include all 200-, 300-, 400-level courses, except courses taught in English. Besides those listed previously, other courses include:
• GER-G 303: Deutsch: Mittelstufe I (3 cr.)
• GER-G 304: Deutsch: Mittelstufe II (3 cr.)
• GER-G 331: Business German I (3 cr.)
• GER-G 333: German Translation Practice (3 cr.)
• GER-G 340: Deutsch: Schreiben und Sprechen (3 cr.)
• GER-G 355: Theater Spielen (3 cr.)
• GER-G 371: Der deutsche Film (3 cr.)
• GER-G 493: Internship in German (1-6 cr.)

Program for International Engineering

Students majoring in biomedical, mechanical, electrical, or computer engineering can also earn an applied German major. German language requirements and some School of Liberal Arts requirements are modified for this major. The dual degree program takes five years to complete and includes a one-semester internship in Germany during the fourth year of study. Students may formally enter into the program after completion of the Freshmen Engineering program. For further information, contact the director of the Program in German and refer to the Purdue School of Engineering and Technology section of this bulletin.

Teacher Certification for Secondary School

Teaching certification can be required after completion of the B.A. degree with a major in German through successful completion of the Transition-to-Teaching Program in the School of Education. Please contact the School of Education regarding details and the application process.

Global and International Studies

Major in Global and International Studies

The world is becoming an ever smaller place in which to live, and the interdependence of our political, cultural and economic systems is growing by the day. Locally, the state of Indiana participates actively in the global economy. In 2008, Indiana was the 15th largest exporting state with exports that year of $26.5 billion dollars. To help students understand the international system, and to prepare them for a career in an increasingly globalized world, the School of Liberal Arts offers an interdisciplinary major and minor in International Studies. Students will learn another language, specialize in a given region of the world, study abroad for the major, focus on cultural, historical, political, and economic aspects of the international system, and develop a broad awareness of the major global forces at work in the 21st century world. They will be better equipped to understand and pursue a career or graduate study in an interdependent world.

Perhaps the most innovative feature of the major is the way that students can tailor their combination of area and thematic concentrations to meet their individual academic interests and career goals. A student interested in pursuing a career in development as part of the burgeoning nongovernmental sector could combine a thematic concentration on development or global civil society with an area concentration on Africa or Latin America and the Caribbean and study French or Spanish as their foreign language. Another student interested in working for a transnational corporation could combine a thematic concentration on international business and economics with an area concentration on Europe and study German as their foreign language. A student interested in a career in the Foreign Service could combine a thematic concentration on international relations with an area concentration on the Middle East and study Arabic as their foreign language. In short, students can tailor their area and thematic course work in a variety of ways to meet their individual interests and goals.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Global and International Studies (INTL) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

• completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in International Studies,
• completion of a total of 33 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• Completion of a minimum of 15 credit hours in the Global and International Studies major at IUPUI (effective Fall 2015),
• courses from at least four different departments or schools,
• no more than 6 credit hours of I 415: Individual Readings in International Studies (independent study credit) may be taken,
• no double counting within the major. Courses that can potentially count in two or more areas can only fulfill one requirement within the major.
• This checksheet is for students majoring in Global & International Studies

Major Requirements:

• INTL-I 100: Introduction to International Studies, interdisciplinary required introductory course (3 credits)

Windows on the World” requirement (3 credits)

Choose from one of the following four courses:
• ANTH-A 104: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (or A 304)
• GEOG-G 130: Introduction to World Geography
• HIST-H 109: Perspectives on the World Since 1800
History

Major in History

The Department of History offers students the opportunity to better understand the human social condition through the systematic study of the human past. A variety of courses is offered, dealing with the history of the United States, Europe, Latin America, and some non-Western areas. The history major not only provides opportunities to serve the avocational interest of the liberal arts student, but also provides a foundation for continued work at the graduate level. Courses in history serve the student admirably in fulfilling the tradition of a liberal education. They also provide a solid basis for professional training in fields such as law, business, environmental affairs, historic preservation, public administration, and government.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in History (HIST) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in History,
- completion of a total of 36* credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
- 18 credits must be taken at IUPUI (effective Fall 2015) during two consecutive semesters (but not two consecutive summer sessions).

Major Requirements:

It is recommended that History majors take HIST-H 108 or HIST-H 113 and HIST-H 109 or HIST-H 114 as part of the IUPUI General Education Core requirements.

Introductory Core Courses (9 credit hours):

- HIST-H 105: American History I (3 cr.) or HIST-H 108: Perspectives on the World to 1800 or HIST-H 113: History of Western Civilization I
- HIST-H 106: American History II (3 cr.) or HIST-H 114: History of Western Civilization II
- HIST-H 217: The Nature of History (3 cr.)*

Advanced Courses (24 credit hours):

Concentration and sub-concentration courses must be 200 level or higher.

Select any one of the following concentrations:

United States History Concentration (24 credit hours)

- 12 credit hours U.S. History (A-prefix courses)
- 6 credit hours European History (B-C-D prefix courses)
- 6 credit hours African/Asian/Latin American History (E-F-G prefix courses)

OR

European History Concentration (24 credit hours)

- 12 credit hours European History (B-C-D prefix courses)
- 6 credit hours U.S. History (A-prefix courses)
- 6 credit hours African/Asian/Latin American History (E-F-G prefix courses)
OR

African/ Asian/ Latin American/ Middle Eastern History Concentration (24 credit hours)

- 12 credit hours African/ Asian/ Latin American History (E-F-G prefix courses)
- 6 credit hours U.S. History (A-prefix courses)
- 6 credit hours European History (B-C-D prefix courses)

OR

Thematic Concentration (24 credit hours)

Thematic concentrations require 12 credit hours of courses in such fields as urban, family, science/technology/medical history, and two support areas (6 credit hours each) as specified in the theme description. Consult history advisors and the department office for lists of thematic concentrations currently available to majors.

Capstone (3 credit hours):

- HIST-J 495: Proseminar for History Majors (3 cr.)

Seminar topics vary from semester to semester. Majors should plan to take the seminar during their senior year and, if possible, sign up for a section that has the same focus as their concentration area.

* HIST-H 217 is a requirement for students admitted Fall semester 2013 and beyond. Students admitted Summer 2013 or earlier are not required (but are encouraged!) to complete HIST-H 217. Additionally, the major will total 33 credits.

Note: H-prefix courses are special topics, and their application to categories must be approved by advisors.

Individualized Major

Major in Individualized Major

While the needs of most students are well served by existing majors offered on campus, some students have academic interests that do not fit well into existing programs or traditional disciplinary boundaries. The Individualized Major Program (IMP) in the School of Liberal Arts meets the needs of such students. It serves disciplined and self-motivated students who may wish to major in traditional disciplines or interdisciplinary areas for which majors are not available at IUPUI, as well as those who wish to fashion unique and original interdisciplinary majors that reflect their individual experience, interests, and needs. These include students whose work and life experiences suggest the need for fresh ways of organizing existing courses into meaningful new majors, as well as innovative students who wish to bring together course work in several disciplines to focus on a thematic area or make unusual yet valid connections between areas that are rarely studied together. The IMP can also serve transfer students who wish to continue work started elsewhere in areas in which IUPUI has faculty expertise but no organized majors.

Unlike other majors which prescribe a fixed area of study, the individualized major provides a structure that allows such students, in consultation with faculty members, to design their own majors on various topics and fields of study. Each major course of study varies in accordance with the needs and interests of individual students. Students work closely with faculty advisors, and all individualized majors are overseen and approved by a faculty committee that ensures each student-designed major has intellectual integrity and rigor.

Admission Checklist

Review materials on IMP website, paying special attention to the program description.

Contact the administrative assistant via email impsla@iupui.edu for general program information.

Discuss your plans in greater detail with the Director of the Individualized Major Program who will give you a full description of the program and its requirements.

Conduct an audit of your academic record in relation to the School of Liberal Arts general education requirements with an advisor in the Office of Student Affairs.

Identify a member of the full-time faculty who is willing to serve as your faculty sponsor for the IMP. You may have more than one advisor. Please ask your faculty sponsor to contact the Director of IMP with any questions about the program.

Ask this faculty member to sign the Supervisor Agreement Form, who will return a copy to both you and the advisor and create a section of SLA-I 360.

Sign up as a prospective IMP major (Pre-Individualized Major) in the School of Liberal Arts Office of Student Affairs located in CA 401.

Register for I 360, a 1-hour variable topic course graded S/F. Your faculty sponsor will serve as the instructor for this course.

Develop a plan for your major with your faculty sponsor, including lists of courses and a timetable (use the form provided on the IMP website). Include a rationale of three or more pages that describes and justifies the major you have designed, with a discussion of how it suits your educational and professional needs better than any existing majors.

Submit the completed major plan and statement in final form to the Director of IMP by the semester deadline posted on the IMP website. The Director of IMP will submit this proposal to a faculty committee, which will meet with you and your faculty sponsor before granting final approval.

The Committee will meet to consider your proposal. When the proposal is approved, you will be officially admitted to the Individualized Major Program.

Change your major from Pre-IMP to IMP in the Office of Student Affairs located in CA 401.

From this point on you and your faculty sponsor will be responsible for your academic progress towards the BA degree with an Individualized Major. You must consult with your advisor to register for courses and keep the Director of IMP advised of your progress every semester. You should plan to take your capstone I 460 course in your last semester. You must submit a one-page proposal before the end of the previous semester for permission to register for this course. Contact Dr. Shepherd for more details.

You and your faculty sponsor will be responsible for selecting a topic for the senior capstone course, I 460, and for scheduling its defense in consultation with the Director of IMP.

Journalism and Public Relations

Major in Journalism and Public Relations

Journalism and public relations students at IUPUI learn communication skills, research and analytical techniques, technical know-how, teamwork and versatility—exactly the skills that today’s employers are looking for. Our downtown Indianapolis location provides us with a valuable pool of leading media professionals who serve as instructors and guest speakers. Internships and jobs covering many possible career paths—media, sports or health information, nonprofits, government and more—are a short walk or drive away.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Journalism (JOUR) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

Completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student began their studies at IUPUI.

- Completion of a total of 38 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- No more than 12 credit hours may transfer in the major.
- 15 credits must be completed at IUPUI.
- Journalism courses more than 10 years old must be revalidated.
- Minors and certificates outside of journalism are recommended.
- In fulfilling these requirements, a particular course may be counted in only one category.

Core Courses: (15 credits)

- JOUR-J 110 Foundations of Journalism and Mass Communications
- JOUR-J 200 Reporting, Writing, and Editing I (P: ENG-W 131)
- JOUR-J 210 Visual Communication
- JOUR-J 300 Communications Law (P: Sophomore standing)
- JOUR-J 410 Media as Social Institutions (capstone) (P: JOUR-J 300 & Junior standing or above)

Concentration Core: (12 credits)

Select one concentration and complete all four courses in that concentration.

Journalism Concentration

- JOUR-J 341 Newspaper Reporting (P: JOUR-J 200 & JOUR-J 210)

Medical Humanities and Health Studies
Major in Medical Humanities and Health Studies
The Medical Humanities and Health Studies (MHHS) Program offers an interdisciplinary curriculum to prepare undergraduates to understand the broader role and determinants of health and medicine in today’s world. Humanities courses raise questions of how human beings deal with health, medical intervention, illness and death. Social science courses provide insight into the social, economic and cultural contexts of health, illness and health care. Students benefit from the wealth of faculty in Liberal Arts and across the IUPUI campus who have strong teaching and research interests in the area of health care.

Sample topics addressed in the course of study include, among others: human values and ethics in medical decision making, patient care as an art form and scientific endeavor, the impact of geography, history and economics on the nature of and access to health care and medicine, cultural/ social definitions of health and provision of health care, global health and humanitarian intervention, technology as an improvement impediment to humanistic health care. These and other related issues are of particular importance in today’s environment of rapid medical-technological development and social change. This degree is unique, being among the first comprehensive MHHS degrees offered to undergraduates nationwide.

An academic foundation in MHHS can be valuable to students pursuing virtually any career path, including but not limited to social/ economic research, medicine, allied health professions, dentistry, health law, medical social work, nursing, public health, and public policy studies. Philosophy

Major in Philosophy

Philosophic inquiry aims, ultimately, at a general understanding of the whole of reality. It draws on the insights of the great historical philosophers, on what has been learned in all other major fields of study, and on the rich perspectives embodied within ordinary ways of thinking. Philosophers address a diverse array of deep, challenging, and profoundly important questions. Examples include the nature of the self and of personal identity; the existence or nonexistence of God; the nature of time, mind, language, and science; the sources and limits of human knowledge; the nature of the good life; the foundations of state authority; the requirements of advanced courses in which students can learn more about topics as varied as Indiana state government; the political systems around the world.

What attracts students to philosophy is the intrinsic interest of its subject matter. But the study of philosophy has practical benefits as well. Philosophy majors are practiced in the close reading of complex texts, in the careful analysis and evaluation of arguments, in original and creative thinking, and in the clear, precise, and persuasive communication of ideas. The skills thus acquired are not only a source of deep personal satisfaction, but a strong asset in any profession. That the study of philosophy is highly effective in enhancing academic skills is evidenced by the fact that philosophy majors receive exceptionally high scores on the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT), the Graduate Record Exam (GRE), and other standardized admissions tests.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Philosophy (PHIL) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in Philosophy,

- PHIL-P 280: Philosophical Problems (may be repeated for credit when topics vary)

Political Science

Major in Political Science

Politics is all about power: who has it, how it is used, and what effect it has. The goal of the Department of Political Science is to provide students with a superior program of study of the many different and intriguing ways in which power is given, taken, distributed, limited, manipulated, and used, and to help them better appreciate and understand the many different forms taken by systems of government around the world.

The department offers introductory courses in all the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, public policy, public law, political theory, comparative politics, and international relations. We also offer a wide variety of advanced courses in which students can learn more about topics as varied as Indiana state government; national politics in Washington, D.C.; the political systems
Religious Studies offers students opportunities to explore the patterns and dimensions of the many different religious traditions of the world from the perspectives of the academic study of religion. The courses are designed to help students develop basic understandings of the many ways in which religions shape personal views of the world, create and sustain the communities in which we live, and interact with politics, economics, literature and the arts, and other structures of society. Through this curriculum, students are provided the skills that will allow them to understand religions as a part of the study of human history and traditional and nontraditional values. The department offers both a major and a minor, allowing students to investigate religious phenomena in depth and encouraging connections with other areas of the humanities and social sciences.

Religious studies majors have gone into careers in a variety of fields that require critical thinking, subtle analysis, and skilled articulation. Some graduates have obtained positions in education, business, medicine, social work, journalism, the arts, politics, and the administration of nonprofit organizations. Others find employment in a variety of areas, including religious ministries, social service organizations, health and welfare agencies, and for-profit communities. Many students continue their education in graduate or professional school.

Spanish

Major in Spanish

The mission of the program in Spanish at IUPUI is to assist students in achieving proficiency in the Spanish language and to lead them to an understanding of and appreciation for the wide range of Hispanic cultural, literary, and linguistic manifestations. To meet this goal, the program in Spanish offers introductory and advanced instruction in language, linguistics, culture and civilization, literature, and translation and applied language studies.

The introductory and intermediate sequences of courses are designed to provide non-majors with an exploration into Spanish language and Hispanic culture as an essential component of a liberal arts education. The sequences aim to develop an interest in the language and the people who speak it, as well as to prepare students for a variety of careers with international dimensions.

The advanced curriculum prepares students to communicate orally and in writing on the different content areas that comprise the study of Spanish, providing them with the knowledge and skills necessary to achieve success in their future careers, to meet their academic and personal goals, and to prepare them for graduate work.

Considering the rapidly growing Spanish-speaking population in the United States, a major in Spanish is becoming increasingly desirable in the workplace. The major in Spanish can prepare students for a wide variety

American Sign Language/English Interpreting
Certificate in American Sign Language/English Interpreting

Increasing numbers of Deaf people seek the communicative access that interpreters provide, and this access is mandated by legislators, yet there is a shortage of qualified interpreters nationally and locally. IUPUI’s American Sign Language (ASL)/ English Interpreting Program prepares students to become capable and flexible participants in the rewarding profession of interpreting. The ASL/ English Interpreting Program introduces students to the theory and practice of interpreting. It provides a strong foundation in language, culture, interpreting, and linguistics. Students develop their abilities in ASL and English, discuss ethical issues, and perform guided practice with both simultaneous and consecutive interpreting. The combination of this background with a broad liberal arts education prepares students to enter the profession of interpreting, which serves diverse populations and encompasses a wide range of subjects and settings.

Admission to the Certificate program in American Sign Language/ English Interpreting (ASL) requires:

• completion of a baccalaureate degree
• third year proficiency in American Sign Language (completion of ASL-A 312 at IUPUI)

The Certificate program in American Sign Language/ English Interpreting (ASL) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

• completion of a total of 35 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• contact both the department (located in CA 502L) and the School Liberal Arts Student Affairs office (located in CA 401) to complete the necessary paperwork to officially declare the certificate

Enrollment in the interpreting classes is limited to students who have been admitted to the program or have received permission from the director. All interested students should contact the Director of the program.

At the core of geographic information science is the remote sensing, and the global positioning system technologies, including geographic information systems. Geographic information science involves the study both on and with spatial data, a new discipline has emerged: geographic information science. Geographic information science involves research both on and with spatial technologies, including geographic information systems, remote sensing, and the global positioning system. At the core of geographic information science is the integration of these technologies and their application to problems of spatial analysis. The fundamental theory and foundational principles of geographic information science are based in geography. However, virtually all fields (engineering, medicine, science, management, business, social sciences, and humanities) are now embracing the techniques in both theoretical and applied research problems.

Admission to the Certificate program in Geographic Information Science (GEOG) requires the following:

- completion of 55 credit hours towards an IUPUI degree or of transferrable work,
- a cumulative 2.5 GPA,
- successful completion of MATH-M 118: Finite Mathematics or above

Journalism Certificate in Journalism

This undergraduate Certificate is designed for students who are interested in journalism but want to major in another subject at IUPUI. The Certificate offers professional training in journalism and mass communication. In addition to developing skills in writing, reporting, storytelling and editing; visual communication; and new communications technology, students gain research techniques, analytical thinking, technical know-how, teamwork and versatility. These are exactly the skills that today’s employers are looking for.

The Certificate curriculum prepares students to be effective, ethical communicators regardless of the profession they choose. They learn to analyze and explain information to a wide variety of audiences via many kinds of ever-changing media. Students might pursue careers such as reporting, editing, photography or social media management, or decide to seek a job in public relations, government, education, advertising, business, international relations, law, social services or a related field.

Courses provide hands-on experience in “doing” journalism—through classwork, internships or other endeavors, students get to practice what they learn, adding to their skill sets, resumes and portfolios.

The Certificate program in Journalism requires satisfactory completion of the following:

• Minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0.

The Certificate in Motorsports Studies will serve student interests and community needs. The motorsports industry has a significant influence on the social and economic fabric of central Indiana, the mid-west, the United States and, indeed, the world. For those interested in increasing their understanding of motorsports, the certificate will provide that background. At the same time, various sectors of the industry need employees with a general understanding of motorsports, but who also bring training and skills in communications, business, management, and tourism, among other areas. Three tracks of the certificate will provide that focus.

By drawing on the expertise available through the curriculum offered by the IUPUI School of Engineering and Technology and their BS in Motorsports Engineering, in addition to courses offered through the School of Business, the School of Journalism and the School of Physical Education and Tourism Management, this Motorsports Studies Certificate will offer a unique opportunity to study many different facets of the motorsports industry. Special emphases (“tracks”) are available for students interested in communication and public relations, business, finance, management, and tourism management, as related to the motorsports industry. The required capstone course, which may include internships, will help place students in jobs in the motorsports industry, if they so desire.

Public Relations Certificate in Public Relations

As traditional media change, more and more organizations are assuming responsibility for their own communications — and are telling their own stories through news releases, e-newsletters and social media messages. As a result, public relations is a strong and growing profession.

The Certificate offers professional training in journalism and mass communication with a focus on public relations. In addition to developing skills of writing, reporting and editing; visual communication; and new communications technology, students gain research techniques, analytical thinking, technical know-how, teamwork and versatility. These are exactly the skills that today’s employers are looking for.

Public relations students at IUPUI take courses with expert faculty, do internships and collaborate with community members on projects outside the classroom—such as communications plans and PR campaigns. Through these opportunities, students gain experience that will set them apart in the job market. Graduates might choose to work in positions in public relations firms, corporations, government agencies, nonprofits, associations, and health and life sciences organizations. The Certificate curriculum prepares students to be effective, ethical communicators regardless of the career path they pursue.

The Certificate program in Public Relations requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- Minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0.
- Completion of a total of 25 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- to declare the certificate, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Social Justice Organizing Certificate in Social Justice Organizing

The certificate in Social Justice Organizing is an 18-credit hour program for students enrolled in a degree seeking program. The certificate combines classroom instruction with practical experience in the community. The core course, American Studies A341 (designated RISE -Experiential) engages students in service learning with a local community organization or labor union. The interdisciplinary certificate draws on courses from eight different departments. Students complete at least one internship of 150 hours and may choose to do another internship or a capstone project in partnership with a local organization. The certificate is intended to give tomorrow's community leaders the knowledge and practical skills they need to build viable democratic institutions and contribute to social and economic justice.

A certificate in Social Justice Organizing empowers students to pursue careers in non-profit management, government, education, organized labor, law, and any other field sensitive to cultural contexts and power dynamics. Students completing the certificate will be prepared to work with diverse communities and help people at the margins of society participate in civic life. The certificate is consistent with the mission of the School of Liberal Arts because it fosters the exchange of knowledge that promotes understanding of the human experience. The certificate draws upon high impact practices in liberal education by integrating methodologies from the humanities and the social sciences and involving students in applied, collaborative research experiences.

The Certificate program in Social Justice Organizing requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- Minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.7.
- Completion of a total of 25 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.

Optional Capstone Project (3 cr.)
Working with a local social-action organization, the student designs a project that meets a specific need of the organization. With the help of a sponsoring faculty member, the student draws upon coursework in the certificate to inform this service project.

Intercultural Health Certificate
The purpose of the Intercultural Health Certificate is to enhance the knowledge and clinical skills of nurses, public healthcare providers, and other health professionals by promoting an awareness of intercultural relationships. The four-semester program will provide a curriculum that incorporates language proficiency levels in tracks in Chinese (Mandarin), French, or Spanish at the 300 and 400 levels for undergraduates, combined with a focus on core nursing, public health, and other health science skills that include clinical laboratory and human patient simulation experiences in a bilingual setting.

The certificate in Intercultural Health will prepare students in health field areas to become leaders in the service of international and intercultural community members. The preparation includes cultural and linguistic skills, as well as exposure to local and global health issues. IUPUI proposes this program due to a need for such providers in order to offer optimal healthcare to the immigrant and refugee populations.

American Studies

Minor in American Studies

The field of American studies extends across a broad spectrum of disciplines to offer integrating perspectives on American experience, thought, and expression. In this respect, American studies is decidedly interdisciplinary in its approaches, but at the same time it is very much a field unto itself, generating its own lines of inquiry concerning the American cultural mosaic. The minor in American studies offers students the opportunity to understand the American experience in a broader context than is usually possible through the study of a single discipline. More specifically, it provides students with courses that focus on matters that have been traditionally at issue in the study of American civilization and culture.

A minor in American Studies (AMST) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
- completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Prerequisite for the minor is HIST-H 105 and H 106: American History I and II, or else evidence of historical knowledge of American cultures (consult the department regarding what counts as acceptable evidence).

Minor Requirements:
- AMST-A 101: Introduction to American Studies (3 cr.)
- AMST-A 301: The Question of American Identity (3 cr.)
- AMST-A 302: The Question of American Community (3 cr.)

Two additional courses at the 300 or 400 level offered under the American Studies rubric or cross-listed in American Studies (6 cr.)-- see list below
- AMST-A 499: Senior Tutorial in American Studies (3 cr.)

Anthropology

Minor in Anthropology

Anthropology is the study of human culture, biology, and social interaction across time and place. It includes the archaeological investigation of past and present human material culture; ethnographic study of contemporary cultures around the world and in the United States; research into human evolution and the origins of human physical diversity; and analysis concerning the origins, structure, and social use of language. A minor in anthropology provides basic training in three areas: an overview of anthropological inquiry, understanding of ethnic and cultural behavior, and understanding of a selected conceptual area in anthropology.

A minor in Anthropology (ANTH) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
- completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:

Introductory Anthropology courses (6 credits):
- ANTH-A 103: Human Origins and Prehistory (or ANTH-A 303) (3 cr.)
- ANTH-A 104: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (or ANTH-A 304) (3 cr.)

Three other courses in Anthropology at the 300-400 level (9 credits):

Chosen in consultation with your faculty mentor, courses that may be selected to complete the minor include:
- ANTH-A 360: Develop. of Anthropological Thought (3 cr.)
- ANTH-A 460: Topics in Anthropology (variable title) (3 cr.); recently offered: Anthropology & Social Issues, Forensic Anthropology, Global Migration, Indigenous People & Film, Issues in Cultural Heritage, Lost Tribes & Ancient Astronauts, Museums & Indigenous People
- ANTH-A 462: Truth & Reconciliation (3 cr.)
- ANTH-A 494: Practicum in Applied Anthropology (3 cr.)
- ANTH-A 495: Independent Studies in Anthropology (3 cr.)
- ANTH-B 301: Laboratory in Bioanthropology (3 cr.)
- ANTH-B 370: Human Variation (3 cr.)
- ANTH-B 371: The Anthropology of Human Nature (3 cr.)
• ANTH-B 426: Human Osteology (3 cr.)
• ANTH-B 468: Bioarchaeology (3 cr.)
• ANTH-B 474: Forensic Anthropology, Archaeology and Taphonomy (3 cr.)
• ANTH-B 480: Human Growth and Development (3 cr.)
• ANTH-E 300: Culture Areas and Ethnic Groups (variable title) (3 cr.)

• ANTH-P 405: Fieldwork in Archaeology (4-6 cr.)
• ANTH-P 406: Laboratory Methods in Archaeology (3 cr.)

Minor in Arabic and Islamic Studies

Minor in Arabic, Islamic Studies

The minor in Arabic and Islamic Studies has a double track, one for Arabic language acquisition, and one for cultural studies. The language track focuses on linguistic acquisition. The cultural track takes a global and comparative approach to the study of Islamic history and Muslim societies, emphasizing the diversity of Muslim peoples and cultures in the past and present. Students complete basic requirements in Arabic language and Islamic studies, and choose from a list of electives to complete the 15 credits required for the minor.

A minor in Arabic and Islamic Studies (NELC) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

• completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
• completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• choice of either Track 1 or Track 2,
• students cannot “double count” any courses toward the fifteen required credits,
• 6 credits must be completed at IUPUI,
• to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https:// liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:

Track 1: Arabic Language Concentration

• 12 credits in Arabic Language chosen from Category A
• 3 credits chosen from Category B

OR

Track 2: Islamic Civilization Concentration

• 6 credits in Arabic Language chosen from Category A
• 3 credits chosen from Category B
• 6 credits chosen from Category C

Category A:

• NELC-A 200: Intermediate Arabic I (3 cr.)
• NELC-A 250: Intermediate Arabic II (3 cr.)
• NELC-A 300: Advanced Arabic I (3 cr.)
• NELC-A 350: Advanced Arabic II (3 cr.)

Category B:

• REL-R 257: Introduction to Islam (3 cr.)
• REL-R 304: Islamic Beginnings (3 cr.)
• REL-R 305: Islam and Modernity (3 cr.)
• REL-R 309: Contemporary Middle East (offered as part of Jordan Study Abroad) (3 cr.)
• REL-R 370: Islam in America (3 cr.)

Category C:

• ANTH-E 300: Culture Areas and Ethnic Groups: Cultures of the Middle East (3 cr.)
• NELC-F 360: Women and Islam
• HER-H 220: Arabic Calligraphy
• HER-H 304: The Islamic City
• HIST-H 425: Topics in History: Middle East History (3 cr.)
• POLS-Y 339: Middle Eastern Politics (3 cr.)
• POLS-Y 380: Selected Topics in Democratic Government: Politics of Islam (3 cr.)
• REL-R 257: Introduction to Islam (3 cr.)
• REL-R 304: Islamic Beginnings (3 cr.)
• REL-R 305: Islam and Modernity (3 cr.)
• NELC-N302/REL-R 309: Contemporary Middle East (offered as part of Jordan Study Abroad) (3 cr.)
• REL-R 370: Islam in America (3 cr.)
• WLAC-F 400: Islam, Gender, and Conflicts (3 cr.)

Chinese Studies

Minor in Chinese Studies

The minor in Chinese Studies takes a comparative approach to the study of Chinese language and culture (or cinema, literature), history, or society, emphasizing the diversity of Chinese culture and great social changes. Students complete first-year Chinese language courses and then choose from a list of courses to complete the 15 credits required for the minor. Students also have the opportunity to apply for the IUPUI Summer Abroad in Guangzhou, China, and are encouraged to consider a major in International Studies, which offers a concentration on Asia.

A minor in Chinese Studies (EALC) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
- Completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school.
- Completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- Students cannot double count any course toward the 15 credit hours required for the minor.
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Prerequisites:
Completion of first-year Chinese language courses (EALC-C 131 & 132: Basic Chinese, 8 credits total at IUPUI) or demonstration of the same level language proficiency.

Minor Requirements:

Chinese language, at least 3 credits required, chosen from:
- EALC-C 201: Second-Year Chinese I (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 202: Second-Year Chinese II (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 301: Third-Year Chinese I (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 302: Third-Year Chinese II (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 320: Business Chinese (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 401: Fourth Year Chinese I (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 402: Fourth Year Chinese II (3 cr.)
- OVST-C 490: Study Abroad in China (4 cr.)

Chinese culture (or cinema, literature), at least 3 credits required, chosen from:
- EALC-E 331: Traditional Chinese Literature (3 cr.)
- EALC-E 333: Studies in Chinese Cinema (3 cr.)
- EALC-E 334: Contemporary Chinese Cinema (3 cr.)
- EALC-E 335: Studies in Chinese Martial Arts Culture (3 cr.)
- EALC-E 351: Studies in East Asian Culture (3 cr.)*

Chinese language, culture (or cinema, literature), history, or society, at least 9 credits requested, chosen from:
- EALC-C 201: Second-Year Chinese I (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 202: Second-Year Chinese II (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 301: Third-Year Chinese I (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 302: Third-Year Chinese II (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 320: Business Chinese (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 401: Fourth Year Chinese I (3 cr.)
- EALC-C 402: Fourth Year Chinese II (3 cr.)
- OVST-C 490: Study Abroad in China (4 cr.)
- HIST-H 421: Topics in African, Asian, or Latin American History (3 cr.)*

*Please note: EALC-E 351: Studies in East Asian Culture must focus on Chinese culture and HIST-H 421: Topics in African, Asian, or Latin American History must focus on Chinese history in order for these two courses to be counted towards the fifteen required credits.

Other courses may be acceptable with the consultation and approval by the program director of the Chinese language.

Classical Studies, Ancient Greek, and Latin

Minor in Classical Studies

A minor in Classical Studies can be an attractive complement to many majors, particularly history, English, and other foreign languages. Classical studies is an interdisciplinary field, examining the vanished civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome and their languages. Although the study of the Greek and Latin languages no longer holds a central place in a university curriculum, the art, literature, and intellectual traditions of the classical world remain basic to Western civilization. Today’s student may encounter the classical world through the many fine translations available, the physical evidence of art and archaeology, and the study of the Greek and Latin languages themselves.

The courses in Classical Archaeology focus on the art and archaeology of Greece and Italy, as well as the nearby lands affected by their civilization from earliest times through the end of the Roman world. Advanced work in the field leads to careers in archaeological research, museums, and teaching. These interdisciplinary courses may be of special interest to students in anthropology, history, and the history of art. Courses in classical archaeology require no knowledge of the Greek and Latin languages.

The courses in Classical Civilization are general courses in the literature, history, culture, and intellectual traditions of ancient Greece and Rome and require no knowledge of Greek or Latin. Such courses provide valuable background to students in a number of fields and may be especially attractive to those planning to teach English, history, or related areas.

A minor in Classical Studies (CLAS) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
- completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course, a minimum of 6 credit hours must be taken on the IUPUI campus,
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:

15 credit hours in classical archaeology, classical civilization, ancient Greek, Latin, or related courses approved by the program coordinator. Students may wish to design concentrations in areas of particular interest.
(e.g., classical art and archaeology or Greek or Roman civilization).

- at least 6 credit hours must be taken at the 300 level or higher,
- no more than 3 credit hours of ancient Greek or Latin at the 100 level may be counted,
- up to 6 credit hours may be taken in related fields (such as History and Philosophy).

Choose from the following courses:

- CLAS–A 301: Classical Archaeology (3 cr.)
- CLAS–A 418: Myth and Reality in Greek Art (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 205: Classical Mythology (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 209: Medical Terms from Greek and Latin (2-3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 210: Medical Terminology from Latin & Greek Roots (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 213: Sport and Competition in the Ancient World (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 310: Classical Drama (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 311: Classical Epics (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 351: The Golden Age of Athens (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 361: The Golden Age of Rome (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 386: Greek History (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 396: Classical Studies Abroad (1-9 cr.)
- CLAS–C 412: Art and Archaeology of the Aegean (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 413: The Art and Archaeology of Greece (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 414: The Art and Archaeology of Rome (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 491: Topics in Classical Studies (3 cr.)
- CLAS–C 495: Individual Reading in Classics (1-3 cr.)
- CLAS–L 131: Beginning Latin I (5 cr.)
- CLAS–L 132: Beginning Latin II (5 cr.)
- CLAS–L 200: Second-Year Latin I (3 cr.)
- CLAS–L 250: Second-Year Latin II (3 cr.)
- CLAS–L 495: Individual Reading in Latin (1-3 cr.)
- HIST–C 386: Greek History (3 cr.)
- HIST–C 388: Roman History (3 cr.)
- PHIL–P 307: Classical Philosophy (3 cr.)

Communication Studies

Minor in Communication Studies

The Communication Arts minor is a generalist minor for anyone wishing an acquaintance with liberal arts from a communication perspective. Communication Studies course work assists students in enhancing such competencies as critical inquiry, problem solving, media and message design, oral performance, relational interaction, and cultural communication. The Communication Studies curriculum provides a foundation for students interested in pursuing careers that apply communication principles, such as public relations, sales, marketing, video or film production, corporate media production, training and development, human resources, public affairs, consulting, and special events planning. In addition, it prepares students for graduate work in various areas, including communication, informatics, humanities, or social sciences, or in professional programs such as law, business, health, and social work.

A minor in Communication Studies (COMM) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
- completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
- 9 credits must be completed at IUPUI, 6 credits must be from the 300-level or higher,
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:

- COMM–C 180: Interpersonal Communication (3 cr.)
- COMM–M 150: Mass Media and Contemporary Society (3 cr.)

12 additional hours, which should be elected in consultation with, or approved by, a departmental academic advisor. Note the credit hours must be from at least two areas within the department curriculum (areas prefixed C, M, R, and T).

Current courses to choose from include:

- COMM–G 125: Topics in Communication Studies (1-3 cr.)
- COMM–G 201: Introduction to Communication Theory (3 cr.)
- COMM–G 300: Independent Study (1-8 cr.)
- COMM–G 310: Introduction to Communication Research (3 cr.)
- COMM–G 375: Topics in Nonverbal Communication (1-3 cr.)
- COMM–G 390: Honors (1-5 cr.)
- COMM–G 391: Seminar (1-3 cr.)
- COMM–G 491: Internship (3-6 cr.)
- COMM–G 499: Research Seminar (3 cr.)

Cultural Diversity
This minor is oriented toward two groups of students. First, it provides a comparative framework for liberal arts and science majors for whom the study of culture, race, ethnicity, or gender overlaps their own disciplines. Second, it serves students in such fields as education, nursing, social work, business, medicine, public affairs, and law who wish to build a multi-cultural perspective into their professional practice.

Courses for the minor explore the genesis and transformation of racial and ethnic categories; the relationship of culture and biology; processes of acculturation and pluralism; the evolution of scholarly thought on human diversity; and ultimately, how it is that any of us comprehends others.

Requirements for the minor are a minimum grade of C in 15 credit hours of course work as follows:
• 6 credits hours of introductory anthropology: ANTH-A 103 and ANTH-A 104.
• 6 credits hours of general courses on diversity, through two of the following courses: ANTH-B 370, ANTH-E 402, and ANTH-E 457.
• 3 credit hours of electives chosen in consultation with the minor advisor from a list of approved courses. This list is on file in the departmental office and includes courses from both anthropology and many other disciplines that concern diversity in general, or specific gender, ethnic, cultural, or other such groups.

Economics
Minor in Economics
A minor in economics is a logical supplement to programs in business, engineering, technology, health services, science, and the social sciences. A knowledge of economic theory, economic institutions, and how economic policy is formed is necessary for students preparing for careers in law, science, government, or any area that uses the scarce resources of our society.

A minor in Economics (ECON) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
• completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
• completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• nine (9) credit hours of the minor must be completed at IUPUI,
• to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:
• ECON-E 201: Introduction to Microeconomics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 202: Introduction to Macroeconomics (3 cr.)
  (Prerequisite for this course is E 201.)

Three 300- or 400-level courses (9 cr.)
• (ECON-E 270 (3 cr.) may be substituted for one of the 300- to 400-level courses.)
• ECON-E 337: Economic Development (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 375: Mathematical Economics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 387: Health Economics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 406: Senior Seminar (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 408: Undergraduate Readings in Economics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 410: Selected Topics in U.S. Economic History (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 420: History of Economic Thought (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 470: Introduction to Econometrics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 303: Survey of International Economics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 304: Survey of Labor Economics (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 305: Money and Banking (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 307: Current Economic Issues (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 321: Intermediate Microeconomic Theory (3 cr.)
• ECON-E 322: Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory (3 cr.)

English
General English Minor
The general English minor is designed for students who are not majoring in English but who want broad experience across the fields of the discipline, including creative writing, film studies, language and linguistics, literature, and writing and literacy.

A minor in English (ENG) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
• Satisfactory progress toward completion of the baccalaureate degree in the student’s home school.
• Completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
• All courses must be at the 200 level or above.
• At least 9 credit hours must be at the 300 level or above.
• to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Electives:
Choose 15 credit hours from the following:
Courses in Creative Writing (ENG-W)
Courses in Film Studies (FILM-C)
Courses in Linguistics (ENG-Z)
Courses in Literature (ENG-L)
Courses in Writing and Literacy (ENG-W)

French
Minor in French
The primary goal of the program in French at IUPUI is to assist students in achieving linguistic and cultural proficiency in French and Francophone settings. To support this goal, the program offers a variety of courses from the introductory to the advanced undergraduate levels in language & linguistics, culture & literature, and applied areas (translation & Business French).

Considering that French is the only language (with English) that is spoken on all five continents, and that the number of people who speak it has tripled in the last fifty years, a major in French has never been more desirable in the workplace. French is not only one of the main languages of the European Union and many other international bodies, including the Olympic Committee; it is also dominant in science, engineering, and technology. The French program not only broadens students’ cultural horizons by giving them direct access to the fields of philosophy, literature, history and music, it also prepares them for a variety of careers in international business communication, translation, tourism, education, and technology, to name a few.

A minor in French (FREN) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:
• completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
• completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• completion of at least 6 credits hours at IUPUI
• to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:
• FREN-F 203: Second-Year French I (3 cr.)
• FREN-F 204: Second-Year French II (3 cr.)

One Language course (3 cr.)
• FREN-F 328: Advanced French Grammar and Composition
• FREN-F 330: Introduction to Translation
• FREN-F 336: Structure of French
• FREN-F 396: French Study Abroad*
• FREN-F 402: Introduction to French Linguistics
• FREN-F 423: Craft of Translation

One Oral Production course (3 cr.)
• FREN-F 315: Conversation and Diction I
• FREN-F 316: Conversation and Diction II
• FREN-F 331: French Pronunciation and Diction
• FREN-F 380: French Conversation
• FREN-F 396: French Study Abroad*
• FREN-F 480: French Conversation

One Culture course (3 cr.)
• FREN-F 300: Lectures et analyses littéraires
• FREN-F 307: Masterpieces of French Literature
• FREN-F 326: French in the Business World
• FREN-F 334: French for the Medical and Technical World
• FREN-F 350: Topics in Francophone Culture
• FREN-F 352: Culture, Société, Langue et Littérature au Québec
• FREN-F 360: Intro. socio-culturelle à la France

Geography

Minor in Geography

Geography, like history, is a way of looking at the world. Whereas historians study variation through time, geographers study variation through space: how and why the earth’s natural and human features vary from place to place. Underlying this spatial approach are such recurring themes as spatial diffusion of people, goods, and ideas; the significance of relative location in human interaction; the power of place in human consciousness; and the interaction of physical and human processes to create characteristic landscapes. Geographers work at the intersection of social and natural sciences, using the concepts and methods of both to examine human-environmental relationships in their full complexity. This integrative approach is a hallmark of geography and one of its main attractions. Geographers can be found in a great variety of positions often not specifically identified as geographic: environmental management, urban planning, conservation, recreation and tourism, transportation planning, international affairs, and many others.

A minor in Geography (GEOG) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

• completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,
• completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course,
• to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:

• GEOG-G 107: Physical Systems of the Environment (3 cr.)

AND

• GEOG-G 110: Introduction to Human Geography (3 cr.)

OR

• GEOG-G 130: World Geography (3 cr.)

The remaining 9 credit hours may be selected from any geography course at the 300 level or above.

Select from the following (3 cr. each):

• GEOG-G 302: Introduction to Transportation Analysis
• GEOG-G 303: Weather and Climate
• GEOG-G 305: Environmental Change: Nature and Impact
• GEOG-G 307: Biogeography: The Distribution of Life
• GEOG-G 309: Frontiers in Geographic Thought
• GEOG-G 310: Human Impact on Geographic Thought
• GEOG-G 311: Introduction to Research Methods in Geography
• GEOG-G 314: Urban Geography
• GEOG-G 315: Environmental Conservation
• GEOG-G 321: Geography of Europe
• GEOG-G 323: Geography of Latin America
• GEOG-G 324: Geography of the Caribbean

German

Minor in German

German is spoken by one hundred million people in Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Luxemburg and Liechtenstein. It is one of the principal languages of the European Union and an important language for the fields of philosophy, history and music, as well as for science, engineering and technology. Courses in German not only broaden students’ cultural horizons by giving them immediate access to a key region of central Europe, but also prepare students for a variety of careers in international business communication, translation, travel, education, and technology exchange.

The minor in German is for students whose interest is in the German language as a tool of communication. Its emphasis is on competence in the skills of reading, writing, and understanding spoken German, as well as on conversational proficiency in German. The minor can be beneficial to students in the natural and social sciences, business, engineering and technology, other languages, and interdisciplinary subjects.

A minor in German (GER) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school.
- completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Global and International Studies

Minor in Global and International Studies

The world is becoming an ever smaller place in which to live, and the interdependence of our political, cultural and economic systems is growing by the day. Locally, the state of Indiana participates actively in the global economy. In 2008, Indiana was the 15th largest exporting state with exports that year of $26.5 billion dollars. To help students understand the international system, and to prepare them for a career in an increasingly globalized world, the School of Liberal Arts offers an interdisciplinary minor in International Studies.

Students will learn another language, focus on cultural, historical, political, and economic aspects of the international system, and develop a broad awareness of the major global forces at work in the 21st century world. They will be better equipped to understand and pursue a career or graduate study in an interdependent world.

A minor in Global and International Studies (INTL) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school.
- completion of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Minor Requirements:

- INTL-I 100: Introduction to International Studies (3 cr.)

“Windows on the World” requirement (3 cr.) from one of the following courses:

- ANTH-A 104: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (or A 304) (3 cr.)
- GEOG-G 110: Human Geography (3 cr.)
- GEOG-G 130: Introduction to World Geography (3 cr.)
- HIST-H 109: Perspectives on the World since 1800 (3 cr.)
- POLS-Y 219: Introduction to International Relations (3 cr.)
- REL-R 133: Introduction to Religion (3 cr.)

Foreign language competency: complete one approved 300-level course in World Language and Culture (WLAC) with at least one class taken at IUPUI.

Electives (9 cr.)

Electives are any courses selected from the approved international studies area and thematic concentrations course list as long as they come from at least two different departments. Students might wish to complete these 9 credits from one of the specific area or thematic concentrations to facilitate transferring to the major later (if interested). Completing the courses from one area or thematic concentration is not, however, required for the minor.

Latino Studies
Minor in Latino Studies

The minor in Latino Studies (LATS) will prepare students to examine the history and culture of Latinos in the United States and to connect current trends of this US population with perspectives from other schools, departments, and programs. Students will explore the challenges facing the Latino community and the ways in which the community uses its numbers and cultural capital to address these challenges. Also, this new minor will provide the opportunity to directly study the Latino culture and the dramatic demographic and cultural change currently occurring in the United States. Hispanics are now the fastest-growing minority in the country. This minor will take advantage of the influx of Latinos in central Indiana and the prominence of IUPUI as an urban university dedicated to pluralism and internationalization.

A minor in Latino Studies will allow students to examine significant issues in this field under the supervision of a group of experts and reinforce this learning with materials from one of the most impressive libraries in the country. In addition, students will broaden their perspectives through participation in community and civic engagement activities, study abroad programs in Latin America, and exposure to the cultural and artistic products of Latinos. As importantly, connections with the Center on Philanthropy, the Payton Philanthropic Studies Library, and the School of Public and Environmental Affairs will prepare the student for work in the non-profit sector.

A minor in Latino Studies (LATS) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- Completion of a total of 15 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
• Proficiency in Spanish or Portuguese (determined by receiving credit through the 204+ level coursework or by taking a placement test).
• to declare the minor, complete the School of Liberal Arts online declaration form: https://liberalarts.iupui.edu/updatemajor/

Legal Studies Minor

Minor in Legal Studies

Law and the institutions associated with it are of great and growing importance in modern society. Law and legal institutions define relationships among individuals, shape and are shaped by public policies, and express cultural values and traditions as well as conflicts over those values and traditions. The minor in legal studies provides students with an opportunity to study law and its relationship to society from a variety of perspectives. Whether students are interested in law as a potential career or are interested in law only as an important aspect of modern society, the courses they take to satisfy the minor may help them satisfy that interest. The minor also provides official recognition of students’ pursuit of this multidisciplinary field of study.
A minor in Legal Studies (POLS) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,

Medical Humanities and Health Studies

Minor in Medical Humanities and Health Studies

The interdisciplinary minor in medical humanities and health studies seeks to promote an increased awareness of the humanistic, social, and cultural dimensions of health care and health care systems. It provides an exciting opportunity for students to work in close conjunction with faculty who have strong teaching and research interests in the area of health care. A survey of the relevant issues to be addressed during the course of study in the minor includes human values and ethics in decision making; the idea of preventive and holistic health and health care; patient care as an art form and scientific endeavor; the relation among ecology, economy, and health care; the relation between cultural and social systems and health and health care; the connection between health care systems and good health; the role of the provider-client relationship, especially in the areas of communications skills and the humanistic dimensions of patient care; the meanings of suffering, illness, and dying; the role of technology in improving care but creating a legacy of dehumanization of patients; and the role of the consumer in the health care system.

Philosophy
Minor in Philosophy
Philosophic inquiry aims, ultimately, at a general understanding of the whole of reality. It draws on the insights of the great historical philosophers, on what has been learned in all other major fields of study, and on the rich perspectives embodied within ordinary ways of thinking. Philosophers address a diverse array of deep, challenging, and profoundly important questions. Examples include the nature of the self and of personal identity; the existence or nonexistence of God; the nature of time, mind, language, and science; the sources and limits of human knowledge; the nature of the good life; the foundations of state authority; the requirements of social justice; and the nature of art, beauty, and aesthetic experience. Philosophical questions are addressed not by reference to empirical information alone, but by means of analysis, synthesis, argument, and the construction and evaluation of philosophical theories.

What attracts students to philosophy is the intrinsic interest of its subject matter. But the study of philosophy has practical benefits as well. Students in philosophy are practiced in the close reading of complex texts, in the careful analysis and evaluation of arguments, in original and creative thinking, and in the clear, precise, and persuasive communication of ideas. The skills thus acquired are not only a source of deep personal satisfaction, but a strong asset in any profession.

A minor in Philosophy (PHIL) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

- completion of properly distributed credit hour requirements for the baccalaureate degree in effect when the student was admitted to their home school,

Spanish
Minor in Spanish

The mission of the program in Spanish at IUPUI is to assist students in achieving proficiency in the Spanish language and to lead them to an understanding of and appreciation for the wide range of Hispanic cultural, literary, and linguistic manifestations. To meet this goal, the program in Spanish offers introductory and advanced instruction in language, linguistics, culture and civilization, literature, and translation and applied language studies.

The introductory and intermediate sequences of courses are designed to provide non-majors with an exploration into Spanish language and Hispanic culture as an essential component of a liberal arts education. The sequences aim to develop an interest in the language and the people who speak it, as well as to prepare students for a variety of careers with international dimensions.

The advanced curriculum prepares students to communicate orally and in writing on the different content areas that comprise the study of Spanish, providing them with the knowledge and skills necessary to achieve success in their future careers, to meet their academic and personal goals, and to prepare them for graduate work.

Considering the rapidly growing Spanish-speaking population in the United States, Spanish is becoming increasingly desirable in the workplace. The minor in Spanish can be beneficial to students pursuing careers in such fields as education, social services, international business and finance, government service, international communications and information services, and the travel and hospitality industry.

Urban Studies

The minor in urban studies offers students an opportunity to develop a well-rounded and basic understanding of the components of urban life and of the forces that are shaping its future. Further, it provides students with a basic knowledge and understanding of the major factors that not only have contributed to the present but will also affect the future of the physical, internal, and social structure of our cities and metropolitan areas.

To achieve this goal, the minor in urban studies is interdisciplinary. In such a program, the student approaches the complexity of urban life from the perspective of economics, geography, history, political science, sociology, and anthropology.

To complete the minor, the student must successfully complete 15 credit hours in School of Liberal Arts urban studies courses. The student may count any combination of approved urban studies courses toward the minor as long as no more than two courses are in the same department. The following courses are acceptable as urban studies courses:

- ANTH-E 380: Urban Anthropology (3 cr.)
- ECON-E 323: Urban Economics (3 cr.)
- GEOG-G 314: Urban Geography (3 cr.)
- HIST-A 347: American Urban History (3 cr.)
- POLS-Y 308: Urban Politics (3 cr.)
- SOC-R 329: Urban Sociology (3 cr.)
- SOC-R 330: Community (3 cr.)

Other courses may be acceptable, with prior permission.

Women's Studies

Minor in Women's Studies

The Women's Studies Program at IUPUI provides undergraduate students the opportunity to pursue a sequence of courses in a growing academic discipline — the study of women and their changing role in society. The program is interdisciplinary because women's experiences encompass the full range of human activity, and separate disciplines offer unique starting points in interpreting these experiences.

The importance of women's studies lies both in its interdisciplinary approach and in the timely opportunity it offers for the study of issues long neglected by scholarship. Completion of the Women's Studies Program may provide an additional basis for pursuing future training in law, psychology, history, literature, or public or business administration in areas related to women. For students who do not continue professional or graduate training in an academic discipline, specializing in women's studies may provide a useful background in careers that focus on concerns of women, such as paralegal and probation work, secondary and elementary school counseling, journalism, and community agency service.

A minor in Women's Studies (WOST) requires satisfactory completion of the following requirements:

3. Social and Behavioral: Students compare, contrast and construct an understanding of the role social, economic, cultural and political institutions play in shaping human thought and behavior. Students are able to function as engaged members of society, who are willing and able to assume leadership roles.

General Studies Academic and Career Development

1. Academic Planning: Students assess their own knowledge, skills and abilities and develop plans of study for degree completion.

2. Career Planning: Students identify classes, minors and/or certificates that will enable them to achieve career goals upon graduation.

3. Distance Education: Students develop computing and communication technology skills in the growing open and distance learning environment.

Bachelor of Arts in Geography (B.A.)

Certificate in Geographic Information Science

The Undergraduate Certificate in Geographic Information Science prepares students for employment by developing knowledge and skills used in the analysis of spatial information. The program focuses on foundational concepts, methodological processes, and analysis of spatial phenomena using geographic technologies. Students completing the Undergraduate Certificate Program in Geographic Information Science will be able to create, manage, analyze, and communicate with spatial information using geographic information technologies.

Bachelor of Arts in Geography (B.A.)

Students completing the Geography B.A. program will achieve the following:

- Understand
  - the relevance of geographic knowledge to the interactions among natural and cultural phenomena from local to global scales.

- Demonstrate
  - effective communication skills, use of critical thinking, and application of spatial analysis methods and tools to comprehend and interpret geographic problems and phenomena.

Certificate in Geographic Information Science

The Undergraduate Certificate in Geographic Information Science prepares students for employment by developing knowledge and skills used in the analysis of spatial information. The program focuses on foundational concepts, methodological processes, and analysis of spatial phenomena using geographic technologies. Students completing the Undergraduate Certificate Program in Geographic Information Science will be able to create, manage, analyze, and communicate with spatial information using geographic information technologies.

Bachelor of Arts in German (B.A.)

Students completing the German B.A. program will achieve the following:

- Know
  - structure of German (sound system, word and sentence structure) and its differences with the English language;
  - main cultural manifestations of the language in literature, film and social practices; and
  - main differences between contemporary German social structures and institutions and their own.

Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts - Individualized Major (B.A.)
The specific learning outcomes of students graduating with an INDIVIDUALIZED MAJOR will vary according to the specific content of the courses of study they design, but all IMP students completing their Individualized B.A. program will achieve the following:

Know a coherent body of knowledge and theory in a discrete area of study they have defined.

Understand approaches to knowledge and methodologies employed in the different disciplines and sub-disciplines included in their major plans, and appreciate the value and limitations of each.
• Be able to communicate what they have learned and understood in writing, orally, or another medium of their choice.

Some may have begun to operate effectively in an appropriate professional setting connected to the major. With judicious selection of courses included in their majors and other coursework students may be able to qualify for graduate or professional programs that might not otherwise be open to them through other majors at IUPUI.

Bachelor of Arts in Journalism

The Department of Journalism and Public Relations offers a bachelor's degree in journalism with three concentrations: Journalism, Sports Journalism, and Public Relations. In addition, it offers certificates in Journalism and Public Relations, and a minor in Advertising. These are the learning outcomes for each program.

Journalism Concentration

• Apply the basic principles of journalism such as accuracy, fairness, and public service.
• Discuss the legal and ethical underpinnings of mass media in the U.S.
• Interpret and use the principles of digital, online, and print design.
• Discuss and practice the principles of communicating clearly through print, digital, and visual media.
• Explain the function and impact of journalism and mass communication.
• Classify and separate different audiences for mass communication.
• Design and execute an effective job search in journalism.
• Conduct research for news stories using a variety of sources and evaluate the accuracy of information sources.

Latino Studies

Student Learning Outcomes

• Understand the theoretical approaches to Latino Studies
• Develop the ability to relate Latino Studies to other disciplines
• Increase students’ confidence in their ability to function within Latino communities and abroad
• Develop knowledge of and respect for other cultures
• Be more competitive in a globalized job market that demands a broad skill set

A minor in Latino Studies will allow students to examine significant issues in this field under the supervision of a group of experts and also reinforce this learning with materials from the IUPUI and IU libraries. The latter being one of the most impressive libraries in the country. In addition, students will broaden their perspectives through participation in civic engagement activities, study abroad programs in Latin America, and exposure to the cultural and artistic products of Latinos. As importantly, connections with the Center on Philanthropy, the Payton Philanthropic Studies Library, and the School of Public and Environmental Affairs will prepare students for work in the non-profit sector.

Law in Liberal Arts

IUPUI Law in Liberal Arts Objectives and Student Learning Outcomes

Program Objectives and accompanying Student Learning Outcomes – Developed to coincide with the IUPUI Principles of Undergraduate Learning (PULs). More information on the IUPUI PULs is available here: http://ctl.iupui.edu/Resources/PULs

Program Objective 1: To prepare students to communicate effectively in a legal environment. This objective is demonstrated by the student’s ability to:

• Analyze legal situations;
• Use legal research tools or print electronic sources effectively;
• Write well researched and legally reasoned responses;
• Effectively communicate both orally and in writing.

Program Objective 2: To stimulate critical thinking in our students. This objective is demonstrated by the student’s ability to:

• Evaluate legal situations;
• Consider legal arguments and counter-arguments and prepare a response;
• Arrive at reasoned persuasive legal conclusions and be able to support these conclusions.

Program Objective 3: To prepare students for careers in the legal field. This objective is demonstrated by the student’s ability to:

• Behave in a professional and courteous manner;
• Develop an organizational system for accomplishing work;
• Meet strict deadlines;
• Develop General Computer and Office Skills.

Program Objective 4: To provide a foundational knowledge of legal principles. This objective is demonstrated by the student’s ability to:

• Develop an understanding of legal concepts and structures;
• Learn legal vocabulary;
• Retain knowledge about the legal system.

Program Objective 5: To prepare students to invoke an understanding of legal rules and structures to promote fairness and civility. This objective is demonstrated by the student’s ability to:

• Understand and apply procedural rules;
• Prepare effective and persuasive pleadings and other documents.

Program Objective 6: To prepare students to learn and apply rules of legal ethics. This objective is demonstrated by the student’s ability to:

• Understand the impact of rules of professional conduct;
• Apply the rules of professional conduct.
Bachelor of Arts in Medical Humanities and Health Studies (B.A.)

Students completing the Medical Humanities & Health Studies B.A. program will achieve the following:

Know
• That human experiences of physical and mental health, disease, illness and healing are defined within the context of social, cultural, economic, historical, religious, and legal contexts, and
• How these factors impact the perception, delivery and effectiveness of medicine and health care.

- Examine the treatment of social, economic, political, and legal issues in sports journalism.
- Explain factors that influence sports journalism content and their significance.

Certificate in Theatre and Performance

Certificate in Theatre and Performance

Students completing the Theatre and Performance certificate program will achieve the following:

- Create a performance which demonstrates an understanding of performance art.
- Exhibit competence in the analysis of performance.
- Work effectively with other artists and practitioners.

Bachelors Requirements

All Liberal Arts undergraduate students must complete at least 120 credit hours that count toward their bachelor’s degree with a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher. In addition, each student must complete the required courses within their major as part of their 120 hours.

All students admitted to the IU School of Liberal Arts after August 1, 2013, must fulfill the requirements described below. Students admitted before that date may elect these requirements by informing their advisor and the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs or may obtain their degree under the requirements in effect at the date they were admitted to IUPUI.

All students must meet three types of requirements: IUPUI General Education Core, baccalaureate competencies, and major requirements.

General Education Requirements

- A minimum of 120 credit hours is required for either a B.A. or a B.S. degree in the IU School of Liberal Arts.
- A minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0 (C) is required for graduation.
- A minimum of 40 credit hours must be at the 300-400 level.
- A minimum of 26 credit hours must be completed after formal admission to the IUPUI.
- Students must complete a minimum of 15 credit hours of their major course work in residence in the appropriate department in the IU School of Liberal Arts. Some departments have more restrictive residency requirements. Students should check with their major advisor.
- Courses taken using the Pass/Fail option can be applied only as electives, however they may not be used to satisfy any of the major, minor or school distribution requirements. A maximum of eight courses, with no more than two per year, may be taken as Pass/Fail.
- All candidates for degrees in May and August must file an application for the degree by December 1 of the previous year. All candidates for December degrees must file an application for the degree by September 1 of that year. Candidates for degrees in December, May, or August may participate in the May commencement.
• Credit hours from the following courses will not count toward the 120 hours needed for graduation: English G009, G010, G011, G012, G013, G015, and W001; Mathematics course lower than M118 (e.g., MATH 00100, 11000; 111000 dependent upon the date completed).
• Once a course has been applied toward one requirement, it cannot be used to satisfy a second requirement, except where explicitly stated otherwise. In addition, except in cases of variable title courses, internships, and other special courses, no course will be counted more than once toward graduation.

Degree Requirements
The requirements for IU School of Liberal Arts baccalaureate degree programs include the common general education core approved by the faculties of both the IU School of Liberal Arts and the Purdue School of Science at IUPUI, and are a curriculum based on the IUPUI Principles of Undergraduate Learning.

Candidates for the B.A. and B.S. degrees must complete the following requirements:

IUPUI General Education Core
Beginning fall 2013, all beginning first-year students at Indiana University–Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI) are required to complete 30 hours of general education course work (the IUPUI General Education Core) prior to graduation with either an associate degree or a baccalaureate degree. This course work is aligned with the Indiana Statewide Transferable General Education Core competency domains and once completed, will subsequently transfer to another Indiana state educational institution. The IUPUI General Education Core is also based on the IUPUI Principles of Undergraduate Learning, the essential ingredients of an undergraduate educational experience at IUPUI. These principles form a conceptual framework for all students’ general education but necessarily permeate the curriculum in the major field of study as well. More specific expectations for IUPUI’s graduates are determined by the faculty in a student’s major field of study. Together, these expectations speak to what graduates of IUPUI will know and what they will be able to do upon completion of their degree.

Foundational Intellectual Skills
• Core Communication (Principle of Undergraduate Learning 1): 6 credits. Note that Liberal Arts majors must complete ENG W131 (or ENG W140) with a grade of C (2.0) or higher.
• Analytical Reasoning (Principles of Undergraduate Learning 1 and 2): 6 credits
• Cultural Understanding (Principle of Undergraduate Learning 6): 3 credits
• Intellectual Breadth and Adaptiveness
• Life and Physical Sciences (Principle of Undergraduate Learning 4): 6 credits. Note that Liberal Arts majors must complete at least one credit in a laboratory science.
• Arts/Humanities and Social Sciences (Principle of Undergraduate Learning 4): 9 credits total, with at least 3 credits in each area.

Liberal Arts Baccalaureate Competencies
A. First-Year Experience (1–3 cr.)
This course introduces students to IUPUI’s culture and values; familiarizes the student with campus resources, especially academic uses of technology; provides the student with skills in dealing with life at IUPUI; and introduces the student to an overview of the humanities and the social and natural sciences. Transfer students with 18 or more credit hours are not required to take this course. First year students entering or intending to enter the IU School of Liberal Arts should enroll in: SLA S100 (2 cr.)
Students transferring from another IUPUI school may use University College: UCOL U110 (1–2 cr.)

B. Writing Proficiency (3 cr.)
Competency in English composition is required. Prerequisite of a C (2.0) or higher in ENG W131. This requirement may be satisfied in the following ways:

1. By completing ENG W231, ENG W230, ENG W270 or ENG W290 with a grade of C (2.0) or higher;
2. For transfer students, by completing course work equivalent to ENG W231, ENG W230, ENG W270, ENG W290 or GEWR UN200 with a grade of C (2.0) or higher at another campus or institution.
3. For transfer students with 80 or more transfer credits, by completing a petition for exemption from the Writing Proficiency requirement available in the Miriam Z. Langsam Office of Student Affairs, CA 401.

The IU School of Liberal Arts strongly recommends that students complete English W131 (or ENG W140) during their first semester or as soon afterward as placement test scores and course availability allow. Students should also take ENG W231, ENG W230, ENG W270, or ENG W290 as soon as possible after becoming liberal arts majors.

Note: Special English for Academic Purposes (EAP) sections of ENG W001 and ENG W131 have been designated for students whose first language is not English.

C. Computer Proficiency
Computer science and computer technology courses intended to develop the student’s problem-solving ability and promote the understanding and use of logical structures of thought. Computer courses must focus on programming or data manipulation.

D. Life and Physical Sciences Laboratory (1cr)
One laboratory science course is required, but may be part of the coursework taken in the IUPUI General Education Core. This area allows for a choice of courses treating the natural phenomena of the world according to models of scientific thought.

E. Advanced Courses
Students are required to have 40 credit hours in 300–400 level coursework including courses in their major.

F. Arts and Humanities (3cr.)
This area presents insights into aesthetics, ideas, and systems of values.
These credit hours must come from one of the areas below. Courses in one’s first major field of study cannot be used to fulfill this requirement; however, a course taken as part of a structured minor may be used to fulfill this requirement.

- Africana Studies: (AFRO)
- American Studies (AMST)
- American Sign Language (ASL) excluding World Languages courses
- Classics: (CLAS) excluding World Languages courses
- Communication Studies: (COMM-R, excluding COMM R-110, and COMM-T only)
- East Asian Languages and Cultures: (EALC) excluding World Languages courses
- English-Creative Writing or Writing and Literacy: (ENG-W), excluding courses in the Writing Proficiency area.
- English Literature: (ENG-L)
- Film Studies: (FILM)
- Folklore: (FOLK) excluding FOLK F101
- German: (GER), excluding World Languages courses

G. Social Sciences (3cr.)

This area uses procedures and information developed in the social sciences to examine the complexities of societies and human interaction.

These credit hours must come from one of the following areas. Courses in one’s first major field of study cannot be used to fulfill this requirement; however, a course taken as part of a structured minor may be used to fulfill this requirement.

- Africana Studies (AFRO)
- Anthropology (ANTH)
- Communication Studies (COMM-C and COMM-M only)
- Economics (ECON)
- English-Linguistics (ENG-Z)
- Folklore (FOLK)
- Geography (GEOG)
- Global and International Studies (INTL)
- History (HIST) excluding HIST H105, HIST H106, HIST H108, HIST H109, HIST H113, HIST H114
- Journalism and Public Relations (JOUR)
- Latino Studies (LATS)

- Political Science (POLIS)
- Psychology (PSY)
- Sociology (SOC)

- Women’s Studies (WOST)

H. World Language and Culture

Second-year competency in a single world language is required. Students may earn additional language credit by taking a placement test and completing an advanced course. This requirement may be satisfied in one of the following ways:

- By passing the full second-year sequence of courses in a single language;
- By completing a third or fourth-year course¹.

This requirement may also be met with second-year proficiency in American Sign Language.

Placement Test: Students with previous experience in French, German, or Spanish should take the World Language Placement Test at the Testing Center to assess their level of language proficiency.

Students who complete the course into which they were placed with a grade of C or higher are eligible for special credit at a reduced fee for the appropriate lower-division course(s) that precede the course taken. Language special credits can only be awarded for languages taught in the World Languages and Cultures department at IUPUI. Special credits count toward graduation and toward the world language requirements.

Non-native English Speakers: Students for whom English is not a first language may be exempted from the language requirement, without credit, by completion of ENG W131 and either ENG W231, ENG W270, ENG W250 or ENG W290 with the required grade of C or higher.

Students whose native language is not English may demonstrate proficiency in their native language and earn 3 to 6 hours of 298/299 special credits by successfully completing a specific 300-level course. They may not, however, receive credit for taking first- and second-year courses in their native language. Students are also considered “native speakers of another language” if they have completed secondary (high) school in that language. For additional questions, consult the Department of World Languages and Cultures (WLAC).

Transfer Credits: Students with transfer work from other universities may have some of their work counted toward the distribution requirements even if their courses, when transferred in, were not designated as matching the courses listed previously. The Associate Dean for Student Affairs and the departments, when appropriate, will determine whether transfer courses satisfy the distribution requirements.

Major Requirements

The requirements for each major in the IU School of Liberal Arts are described, along with course descriptions, in the Liberal Arts section of the bulletin entitled “Departments, Programs and Centers.” A minimum of 29 credit hours must be taken in the major subject area. Any course in which the student receives a grade below C (2.0) may not be used to fulfill the major area requirement (thus a C– does not qualify). However, courses in which the student receives below C, but above an F, will count toward the 120 credit hour total provided that the student does not repeat the course.

Electives
Candidates for a degree in the IU School of Liberal Arts must complete the IUPUI General Education Core requirements, the baccalaureate competencies and the requirements of their major department. Usually, students will still need to complete additional hours in order to reach the graduation requirement of 120 credit hours. These remaining credit hours are known as electives.

Minors and Certificate Programs
IU School of Liberal Arts students may complete one or more minors and/or certificate programs. Minors will not appear on the student’s transcript until graduation. Students in other schools at IUPUI may complete minors in the IU School of Liberal Arts.

Only courses in which students receive a C (2.0) or higher can be applied to minors and certificates. Specific requirements are described in the section of this bulletin entitled “Departments, Programs and Centers.” Courses required for minors and certificates may also be used in fulfilling other requirements, including IUPUI General Education Core requirements, the baccalaureate competencies requirements if listed.

Students must receive departmental or program approval for the courses to be used for minors as well as approval for courses not taken at IUPUI that they wish to count in a minor. Special credit may be applied to minor requirements with departmental approval.

IU School of Liberal Arts minors are presently offered in many areas; as additional minors are being developed and approved, they will be added to the electronic version of the Bulletin. Students must receive departmental or program approval for the courses to be used for minors as well as approval for courses not taken at IUPUI that they wish to count in a minor. Special credit may be applied to minor requirements with departmental approval.

Other Options
The IU School of Liberal Arts allows students to complete double majors and double degrees. Students seeking a double major must consult advisors from each of the departments in which they propose to study. Students must complete the requirements for each of the two majors as well as all other school requirements for a degree.

While most students work on a single degree at a time, a student may work on what is essentially two degrees in two different schools at IUPUI simultaneously (e.g., a B.A. from Indiana University in English and a B.S. from Purdue University in Psychology). Proposed dual degrees programs must be approved by the appropriate advisors and deans in both schools. Students must complete all requirements in the two schools for the two different degrees.

1 Students interested in receiving credit for lower-division language courses, see the section “Special Credit for Foreign Language Study.”

Undergraduate Programs
The IU School of Liberal Arts offers a four-year Bachelor of Arts degree in a number of disciplines, a Bachelor of Science in American Sign Language degree, and a variety of structured minors and certificate programs for students pursuing Liberal Arts or other degrees. Anthropology

There are no specific prerequisites, majors, or courses required. You do not have to have majored in Anthropology as an undergraduate to apply to our program but you do need to have a BA or BS from an accredited university and to have a reasonable background in the Social Sciences. If you are not sure whether you are ready to make a commitment to an MA program in Anthropology, you are welcomed to take up to 9 credits (3 courses) in our department as a non-degree student. If you are subsequently accepted into our... program, those credits will be retroactively counted toward completion of your MA.

Application Requirements

To apply for the M.A. in Applied Anthropology, you must submit an application, personal statement, three letters of reference, GRE scores, and transcripts from all of the institutions you have attended as an undergraduate or graduate student.

1. An on-line application including a personal statement. The personal statement should address the following two items. Please follow the directions below and use the question headings to label each item of your response:
   - Statement of purpose (600 words): In your statement of purpose, specifically discuss the academic and professional experiences that helped shape your decision to pursue graduate work in Applied Anthropology. Explain your educational and career objectives and how these relate to the IUPUI program. Please examine our departmental Web site to familiarize yourself with our faculty's areas of expertise before you submit your application. One of our primary criteria for evaluating applicants is to make sure your interests are a good match with our department’s strengths.
   - Personal endorsement (150 words): Briefly explain why you think we should admit you to the program. What assets will you bring? What are you capable of? How will you make a difference in the program? You might consider describing your personal/professional work ethic, values, or other orientations that drive your work.

2. Three (3) letters of reference. At least one of which should be from a person who can speak to your academic record (such as a faculty member). Letters from supervisors who can address professional or internship experiences are also relevant. Make sure your referees can speak to your strengths and abilities as a future graduate student. We prefer that letters of reference be submitted electronically through the Apply Yourself system but if necessary, they can also be sent directly to the Anthropology Department mailing address below.

3. All official transcripts. Please request official transcripts from all previous colleges and universities you have attended. Note: We do not require a transcript from IUPUI or IU Bloomington since we can access them electronically. You must have at least one official transcript demonstrating a bachelor’s degree from an accredited university. If you are in your senior year, submit your most recent transcript with your application. If admitted, you will be asked for an official transcript documenting your completed degree and it must be received before you will be allowed to register for your second semester of classes. The recommended minimum cumulative GPA is 3.0 (on a scale of 4.0) both overall and in your major field. If you feel that your GPA does not reflect fully your academic abilities because of special circumstances, please address those in your personal statement or a separate note in your application.

4. Your Graduate Record Exam (GRE) scores. GRE scores from the general exam (i.e. no specific subject is required) are required without exception, regardless of previous degrees earned or enrollment in other programs. The scores must be reported before your application will be reviewed. Scores may be reported electronically (specify school code #1325) by the testing service. If you are taking the GREs close to the application deadline, you may send or fax a copy of your report since test takers often receive their reports before the electronic report is available.

Because this question is often asked, the IU Graduate School guidelines recommend an average of at least 550 with one score above 600, but the Anthropology admissions committee considers test scores within the context of the entire application, including evidence of an applicant’s abilities as assessed through undergraduate records, references, professional experience, and the personal statement.

Other Application Information

Please note that to be eligible for nomination for a University Fellowship, your application much be postmarked by January 15. Please see the Office of Student Financial Services for further information and deadlines for filing FAFSA forms in order to request need-based financial aid. As a Department, we are able to nominate 4 candidates for consideration for University Fellowships but we do not make the final decisions.

We will review a second round of applications submitted by March 15. These applicants will not be eligible to be nominated for university fellowships, though there may be other forms of support that are available (such as Research or Teaching Assistantships).

If you are interested in also pursuing an additional degree or certificate in a related program such as Museum Studies, Public History, or Geography, you must apply separately to those departments. Please check for information in this bulletin in the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI section.

Please note that while the Museum Studies program is based in the Anthropology Department and many of the courses are cross-listed with Anthropology, if you wish to pursue either a joint degree or a Museum Studies Graduate Certificate, you must apply separately to that program.

IMPORTANT NOTE: All candidates must complete the form online. Paper applications are no longer accepted and will be returned to you. If you have additional materials that must be submitted in hard copy, such as transcripts or letters of recommendation, please have these documents mailed to the following address:

Graduate Admission Committee
Department of Anthropology, IUPUI

Indianapolis, IN 46202

For further information, contact the Graduate Program Director, MA in Applied Anthropology.

Applied Communication

Admission Requirements

Applicants should have the following:
1. A bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum GPA of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale)
2. Official transcripts from all Universities and Colleges attended (mail to CA 425 University Blvd, CA 309A, Indianapolis, IN 46202)
3. Three letters of recommendation (completed online or mail to CA 425 University Blvd, CA 309A, Indianapolis, IN 46202)
4. A 2-3 page personal statement explaining both how prior education and experience make the applicant a good candidate for graduate study in communication, and how the candidate plans to apply this degree to future career and academic goals. In addition, evidence of strong analytical and writing skills, a background in research methods, and experience in the analysis of communication phenomena are highly recommended. (completed online) You should also address why the M.A. in Applied Communication program is a good fit for you.
5. If you are applying as an international student, the Office of International Affairs (OIA) will finalize your admission and assist you with obtaining a visa, if necessary. OIA will conduct a final review of your application to determine that all institutional and USCIS (U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service) requirements have been met. OIA may contact you for additional information. In the meantime, please visit their web site at http://www.international.iupui.edu/ to be sure that you have satisfied all admission requirements for international students. Please do not apply for your visa or make travel plans until you receive a formal confirmation of admission from OIA and your Certificate of Eligibility (I-20 or DS2019). If you have any visa-related questions, please direct your questions to the OIA office at 317-274-7000 or oia@iupui.edu. Registration for international students takes place during the new student orientation sponsored by OIA just before the beginning of the term.

Graduate Record Examination: The Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test with satisfactory scores in the three areas is required for applicants who wish to be considered for University fellowships, but not required for admission to the program.

Applicants should submit the following:
1. Completed online application for Indiana University Graduate School. To apply, go to http://graduate.iupui.edu/admissions/index.shtml
2. Application fee of $60.00 USD, $65.00 USD for international students. This fee is subject to change. Payment is made online with a credit card.
3. GRE scores are not required for admission to the program; however GRE scores may be submitted if an applicant feels the scores will enhance his/her application.
4. An applicant wishing to be considered for scholarships or fellowship support should note that strong scores on the GRE General Test ARE REQUIRED and may have a positive impact on his/her application.
5. International students must submit TOEFL scores. Information about TOEFL can be obtained from the IUPUI Office of International Affairs 902 W. New York St. Education and Social Work building, Rm. 2126 Indianapolis, IN 46202 USA
Phone: 317-274-7000. E-mail: oia@iupui.edu

Fellowships
- Incoming students with the highest qualifications may be nominated by the Graduate Committee for University Fellowships. These fellowships offer full-time students one year of financial support. All the graduate programs on the IUPUI campus compete for these fellowships, and programs are allowed up to four fellows per year depending on situational constraints such as budget. In addition to this campus-wide program of financial support, the Department of Communication Studies may offer a limited number of research assistantships and teaching opportunities. Students must apply to the department in early spring by the published deadline before the assistantship year.
- Students working on the applied learning project or the thesis may apply for Grants-in-Aid of Research through IUPUI. These grants are intended to cover expenses incurred in the research required for the project or thesis, including travel to libraries and archive holding materials not otherwise available. Go to http://www.indiana.edu/~gradgrnt/search-our-databases/ to find out more about grant opportunities.

Economics
Master of Arts in Economics
Students with good credentials in any discipline may apply to the program, but successful applicants usually demonstrate an ability in economics or similar area with significant training in mathematics and statistics. Applicants should have completed a bachelor’s degree from an accredited institution. Ordinarily, applicants should have a minimum grade point average of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale in their undergraduate course work and in their previous economics courses. Before undertaking graduate study in economics, a student should have knowledge of intermediate-level undergraduate economic theory (ECON E321 and ECON E322), statistics (ECON E270), multivariate differential and integral calculus (the IUPUI equivalent MATH M 16500 offered by the mathematics department, and finite mathematics (MATH M118). Students with deficiencies in economics and/or mathematics may be admitted on a conditional basis.

The verbal, quantitative, and analytical writing portions of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) are required and applicants are urged to complete the examination by December of the year before admission.

Three letters of recommendation are required. For students with English as a second language, a minimum TOEFL score of 79 or a minimum IELTS score of 6.5 is required. Higher scores are recommended.

Applicants must submit:

1. an application form,
2. official transcripts of all relevant academic work,
3. three (3) letters of recommendation from people capable of assessing the student's potential for graduate study (at least two are normally from former instructors),
4. scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), and
5. a personal statement indicating why they wish to earn an advanced degree in economics.
6. for most international students, TOEFL or IELTS scores

Graduate study in Economics also requires knowledge of intermediate-level undergraduate economic theory, differential and integral calculus, and statistics. An applicant whose academic record does not meet the standard in a particular area may be admitted if his or her record is outstanding in other respects.

International Applicants

Students from those countries in which English in not an official language are required to take either the TOEFL or the IELTS tests of English proficiency. The minimum acceptable score on the TOEFL is 79 and the minimum acceptable score on the IELTS is 6.5. Students from abroad whose TOEFL score is less than 100 or whose IELTS is less than 7.5 will be required to participate in the English for Academic Purposes (EAP) program at IUPUI. This may require additional coursework. We also accept successful completion of ELS 112 in lieu of a TOEFL or IELTS score for admission.

To apply online please Click Here.

Students typically enter the program in August. Applications for admission may be submitted up through June 15.

PhD in Economics

Pre-requisites:

Course sequence in univariate and multivariate calculus (equivalent to MATH M16500, MATH M16600, and MATH M26100 at IUPUI).

Linear algebra (equivalent to MATH M35100 at IUPUI).

Either a calculus-based undergraduate level course in probability or statistics or any undergraduate statistics course plus a course in introductory econometrics (equivalent to ECON E270 and ECON E470 at IUPUI).

Intermediate Microeconomic Theory (equivalent to ECON E321 at IUPUI).

Recommended Coursework includes the course sequence in Mathematical Analysis (equivalent to MATH M44100 and MATH M44200 at IUPUI). Additional courses in Economics will also be useful.

Required Testing

Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test (Quantitative, Verbal and Analytical Writing). Successful candidates typically have quantitative scores at the 700 level and above and scores below 650 are typically not sufficient for admission. Analytical Writing and Verbal scores can be somewhat lower.

For non-native English speakers who did not attend college in the U.S.: Either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or the International English Language Testing System (IELTS). Successful candidates must achieve a minimum TOEFL score of 570 (or 230 on the computer version of the test or 88 on the internet version, iBT). Typically successful candidate have scores of 600 or better (250 or better - computer version; 100 iBT). The minimum acceptable IELTS score is 6.5; in practice, we look for an IELTS of 7 or more. It is required that applicants take the academic reading and writing modules, the general training reading and writing modules.

Undergraduate Record

Requirements include a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, a minimum 3.0 grade point average on a scale of 4, and a minimum 3.0 average in the major field. In unusual circumstances, if the minimum GPA requirement is not met, a conditional admittance could be considered.

Applications will be viewed in their entirety wherein a candidate's outstanding qualifications in one area can be balanced against more marginal qualifications in another dimension. However, admission is competitive and financial support even more competitive. Most of the students admitted and supported will exceed the minimal requirements.

For a complete application you will need to submit:

- online application
- personal statement
- 3 letters of recommendation
- GRE and TOEFL (for International students) scores
- college transcripts
- there may also be supplemental questions required by the department

Submit materials to the following address:

IUPUI Department of Economics
425 University Boulevard, CA516
Indianapolis, IN 46202-5140

Information Science requires:

Admission to the Master of Science in Geographic Information Science requires:

- Admission to the Master of Science in Geographic Information Science
- A baccalaureate degree in geography or closely related discipline from an accredited four-year institution, with a GPA of at least 3.0, documented by an official transcript.
- Satisfactory scores on the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) with a minimum of 160 in either the verbal or the quantitative section and 4.0 in analytical writing.
- Three letters of recommendation from academic or professional references.
- Statement of interest written by the student outlining reasons for wishing to pursue the MS GIS degree.
- Proficiency in the English language.
- Three years of foreign language as an undergraduate with appropriate level of achievement.
- Follow the IUPUI application procedure.

Note: If you have already submitted an application for a graduate or certificate program in English at IUPUI, you will need to use a new pin and password. If this is the case, please contact the English Graduate Assistant in CA502L so they can waive the application fee.

Grades

M.A. students must maintain a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B).

Geographic Information Science

Admission Requirements

Admission to the Master of Science in Geographic Information Science requires:

- A baccalaureate degree in geography or closely related discipline from an accredited four-year institution, with a GPA of at least 3.0, documented by an official transcript.
- Satisfactory scores on the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE)
  - Either the verbal or quantitative score should be above 160, with the other score above 150.
- Proficiency in the English language.
  - International students from non-English speaking countries must take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) examination and score above 79 on the iBT version of the test in order to qualify for graduate study at IUPUI. The Office for International Affairs offers further information on TOEFL requirements on its website.

Application Process

Applicants to the MS GIS program must submit applications online through the Indiana University Graduate School at IUPUI.

A complete application includes:

- Completed application form
- Three letters of recommendation - letters should be requested from individuals familiar with academic abilities and potential
- Official transcripts documenting all college and university work including courses, grades, and degrees awarded
- Official report of scores for the Graduate Record Exam
- An application essay (2-4 pages suggested length)
- Payment of Graduate School application fee

The online application can be started, put on hold, and completed as time permits. This will allow you to gather needed information and to compose your application in installments if necessary.

History

Degrees Offered

Master of Arts, dual Master of Arts and Master of Library Science, dual Master of Arts in History and Philanthropic Studies.

The M.A. program in History on the Indianapolis campus offers three areas of concentration: United States history, European history, and public history. United States and European history are traditional areas of concentration and will serve the needs of persons intending to pursue a doctoral program, those seeking a collateral degree to complement such other fields as education or library science, and individuals seeking personal fulfillment. Public history is designed to prepare persons interested in pursuing careers as historians in such settings as historical societies, museums, historic preservation organizations and historic parks, governmental agencies, and business corporations. With its proximity to a large number of such institutions, the Indianapolis campus is an ideal location at which to pursue a degree in public history.

Special Departmental Requirements

(See also general University Graduate School requirements.)

Master of Arts Degree

Admission Requirements

1. Bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university, with an overall undergraduate grade point average of at least 3.0 (B) and a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B) in the student’s undergraduate major (an undergraduate major in... history is not required, but applicants without such a background may be required to take additional course work in history at the undergraduate level as a condition for acceptance into the program);
2. Appropriate level of achievement on the Graduate Record Examination General Test (applicants with a post-graduate degree are not required to submit GRE scores); and
3. Three letters of recommendation.

Foreign Language

There is no foreign language requirement for the degree per se. However, those students who will incorporate foreign language documents in their graduate work (especially those concentrating on European history) will be expected to translate non-English sources. They must thus demonstrate an appropriate level of competence in the relevant language before they begin work on their thesis. The Director of Graduate Studies and the student’s advisor may require the student to take additional coursework.

All students concentrating in European history should expect to demonstrate competence in a foreign language, ideally upon application to the program. (Competence is defined as two years of undergraduate coursework with a grade of B or better in the final semester, or demonstration of an equivalent reading proficiency in an approved foreign language exam.). Students considering the possibility of going on for a Ph.D. should recognize that competence in at least one and sometimes two foreign languages is often a requirement in history doctoral programs.

Grades

No grade below B– (2.7) in history courses will be counted toward this degree.

Admissions

- American Studies
- Anthropology
- Applied Communication
- Economics
- English
- Geographic Information Science
- History
- Journalism

Journalism

M.A. in Sports Journalism

Regardless of your undergraduate degree, you may apply at any time for admission to the School of Journalism at IUPUI master’s program.

Application Deadlines

- Fall admission: July 15
- Spring admission: October 15
- Summer admission: April 1

Prerequisites

Within the first year of the program, if not previously taken or accounted for by professional experience, the student must have completed:

- JOUR-J 345 Sports Writing (3 cr.)
- JOUR-J 300 Communications Law (3 cr.)

Application Materials

1. IUPUI Online Graduate Application
2. Statement of Purpose (approximately 750 words)
3. Three (3) letters of recommendation from qualified professionals and/or professors
4. Official undergraduate transcript and verification of a bachelor’s degree from an accredited institution
5. Graduate Record Examination score (within the last 5 years)

Museum Studies

Application Deadlines

Fall Semester: January 15 (to be eligible for a University Fellowship) and March 1 for General Admission

August 15 through October 15 and January 15 through April 15 rolling admission to the Museum Studies Graduate Certificate for Master’s students enrolled in other IUPUI degree programs.

There are no specific prerequisites, majors, or courses required. To apply for the M.A. or the Graduate Certificate you must submit an application, personal statement, three letters of reference, GRE scores, and transcripts:

1. The (also called "eApp") is filled out on-line. You may save a draft and return to it until you are ready to submit it. The application fee must be paid by credit card before it can be submitted.
2. On-line application personal statement. In your personal statement you should address the following three items. Please use the headings with each item of your response:
   - Statement of purpose (400 words): Explain your educational and career objectives and how this relates specifically to the IUPUI program; what do you intend to study here and why? Why is this the right program for you?
   - Purpose of museums (250 words): Please respond to the following quotation: "Museums can no longer confine themselves simply to preservation, scholarship, and exhibition independent of the social context in which they exist" (American Association of Museums, Excellence and Equity (1992), p. 8). As a prospective museum professional, how do you see your role in promoting this idea?
   - Personal endorsement (250 words): Briefly describe why you think we should admit you to the program. Why are you the right fit for IUPUI? What experiences (museum and non-museum) have shaped your perspectives? Where do you find inspiration? What unique talents or skills do you bring to the program? What words describe your greatest traits?
What are your passions, your strengths, or your hidden talents? Feel free to be creative in your format and response.

3. Three letters of reference at least one of which should be from a person who can speak to your academic record (such as a faculty member). Letters from supervisors who can address professional or internship experience in museums are also relevant. Letters may be done electronically in the application or sent directly to the mailing address below.

4. Transcripts Please request official transcripts from all previous colleges and universities you have attended. Note: We do not require a transcript from IUPUI or IU Bloomington since we can access them electronically. You must have at least one official transcript demonstrating a bachelor’s degree from an accredited university. If you are in your senior year, submit your most recent transcript with your application. If admitted, you will be asked for an official transcript documenting your completed degree and it must be received before you will be allowed to register for your second semester. The recommended minimum cumulative GPA is 3.0 (on a scale of 4.0) both overall and in your major field. If you feel that your GPA does not reflect fully your academic abilities because of special circumstances, please address those in your personal statement or a separate note in your application.

5. Graduate Record Exam (GRE) scores GRE scores from the general exam (i.e. no specific subject is required) are required without exception, regardless of previous degrees earned or enrollment in other programs. The scores must be reported before your application will be reviewed. Scores may be reported electronically (specify school code #1325) by the testing service. If you are taking the GREs close to the application deadline, you may send or fax a copy of your report since test takers often receive their reports before the electronic report is available. GRE scores are valid for five years. GRE scores reported from a test taken more than five years ago may be petitioned to be accepted as valid for admission provided the applicant has successfully completed graduate coursework within the last five years.*

6. Current CV or Resume You may upload your CV along with your personal statement via the eApplication.

*Because the question is often asked, the IU Graduate School guidelines recommend an average of at least 152, but the Museum Studies admissions committee considers test scores within the context of the entire application (the demonstration of an applicant’s abilities through undergraduate records, references, museum or related experience, and the personal statement). You may download the Graduate Admissions Rubric for further information on how your application is evaluated.

Please note that to be eligible for nomination for a university fellowship, you must apply by January 15. Please see our Funding page for further details about fellowships, scholarships, and other funding opportunities. Please see the Office of Student Financial Aid Services for further information and deadlines for filing FAFSA forms in order to request need-based financial aid.

Please send hard copy application materials, such as your transcript and letters of reference that are not being completed on-line to this address:

ATTN: Graduate Admissions Committee
IUPUI Museum Studies Program
CA419, 425 University Blvd.
Indianapolis IN 46202

International Applicants
If you are an international student, we also require the following:

A completed International Graduate Student Admission Form.
Applicants who are not U.S. citizens will be reviewed for admission in the same manner as U.S. citizens.
Foreign applicants, however, must possess an adequate mastery of the English language for acceptance into the program. Working in cooperation with the Office of International Affairs, an applicant’s language proficiency will be assessed using both GRE and TOEFL scores, letters of exchange, and interviews. For more information on this matter, please visit: IUPUI Office of International Affairs.

Requests for international applications should be directed to:
Office of International Affairs
IUPUI
902 West New York Street, Room 2126
Indianapolis IN 46202-5167
Phone: (317) 274-7294
Email: oia@iupui.edu
Web: www.iupui.edu/~oia/

Philosophy
Applicants are expected to have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited university, or its equivalent, with a grade point average of at least 3.0 overall (on a scale of 4) and at least 3.0 in the student’s major. There is no specific major requirement, but applicants must show a record of coursework (or equivalent experience) demonstrating that they are sufficiently prepared to do graduate work in philosophy. Acceptable coursework includes an undergraduate degree in philosophy. For applicants interested in the Bioethics or International Research Ethics concentrations, professional training or experience that involved health care ethics could be accepted in lieu of coursework. Applicants must also show an appropriate level of achievement on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test.

Foreign applicants are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). They must also take the IUPUI English (ESL) examination prior to their first semester of coursework and may be required to take additional classes in English as a second language.

Students not seeking a degree, and students not qualified for full admission, may be admitted as Graduate Non-Degree students. In some cases, degree-seeking students who do not meet all admissions requirements will be admitted on condition that specified deficiencies be remedied within a certain time.
Application Deadlines
Deadlines for receipt of completed applications are as follows:

- January 15 – For applicants who wish to be considered for a University Fellowship.
- March 1 – For applicants seeking admission in the summer or fall semesters.
- October 15 – For applicants seeking admission for the spring semester.

If you wish to apply after any of these deadlines, please contact the graduate director.

Application Materials
1. Graduate School Application form with Application Fee: http://www.iupui.edu/~gradoff/admissions
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. Statement of Purpose
4. GRE Scores*
5. TOEFL Scores (non-native English speakers only)
6. Official Transcripts (required from all institutions attended or currently attending)
7. Writing Sample

* LSAT or MCAT scores may be accepted in lieu of GRE scores for students applying for the Bioethics or International Research Ethics concentrations. No test scores are required for applicants who already hold an advanced degree.

Please send directly to: Graduate Director
Department of Philosophy
CA 331, 425 University Blvd.
Indianapolis, IN 46202

NOTE: A writing sample may not be required for applicants to either the Bioethics or International Research Ethics concentrations if they are, or have been, professionally employed in a relevant field. In such cases, a resume may be submitted in lieu of a writing sample.

Public Relations
M.A. in Public Relations

Regardless of your undergraduate degree, you may apply at any time for admission to the Department of Journalism and Public Relations at IUPUI master's program.

Application Deadlines
- Fall admission: July 15
- Spring admission: October 15
- Summer admission: April 1

Application Materials
1. IUPUI Online Graduate Application
2. Statement of Purpose (approximately 750 words)
3. Three (3) letters of recommendation from qualified professionals and/or professors
4. Official undergraduate transcripts and verification of a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution
5. Graduate Record Examination score (within the last 5 years)*

*Those who have achieved Accredited in Public Relations from the Public Relations Society of America or Accredited in Business Communication from the International Association of Business Communicators are not required to submit a GRE score.

Sociology

Deadlines
The following deadlines must be observed in order to receive consideration for admission:

- February 1 - priority consideration for fall semester and to be considered for financial support
- April 15 - for fall admission

Applications received after the deadline will be held and included for consideration at the next deadline. (They will be considered at an earlier date only at the discretion of the committee.) Applicants who wish to begin coursework prior to their admission to the Graduate School may do so through the Graduate Non-Degree (GND) program. Please note: Taking Non-Degree credits does not ensure future admittance into the program.

Admission Requirements
Applicants must have a baccalaureate degree from an accredited U.S. institution, or a certifiable foreign equivalent with a total grade point average of 3.0 (on a scale of 4.0). Applicants should have completed five undergraduate sociology courses (or approved equivalents, with no more than two of the latter) with a GPA of at least 3.0. Applicants must also submit two samples of writing (a 750-word essay required by the IU Graduate School and a sole-authored report or term paper required by the Sociology Department, official transcripts and three letters of reference. Foreign applicants are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL).

Note: The GRE general test is not required, but is strongly recommended for admission to the program. In addition, some funding opportunities require strong scores on the GRE general test.

Financial Aid:
Stipends of various amounts for teaching and research assistantships are available from the School of Liberal Arts. The Graduate School also provides stipends. All are on a competitive basis, and applications must be received by February 1. For information on Work Study and Student Loans, contact the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid, Cavanaugh Hall, Room 103, IUPUI, 425 University Boulevard, Indianapolis, IN 46202, Ph: 317-278-4723.

Application:
The Indiana University Graduate School strongly encourages the submission of on-line applications. However, if a student is unable to use the on-line application, a paper application package for the Graduate Program may be requested from the Department of Sociology at the address below or call 317-274-8981.

Link to on-line application
For your convenience, the on-line application to the Graduate Program can be started, put on hold, and completed on a different day. This will allow you to gather needed information and to compose your Personal Statement in installments.
CHECKLIST FOR A COMPLETE APPLICATION MUST INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:
1. Completed on-line application
2. Three letters of recommendation and IU Recommendation for Admission forms (available on line or from the department). These documents should be from individuals familiar with your academic abilities and potential.
3. Copy of official transcript(s) of all previous college and university work, documenting each course taken, grades received, and all degrees awarded.
4. Personal Statement - a 750 word essay (as required by the Graduate School) on “Why I want to enter the Master’s Degree program in Sociology.”
5. 2nd writing sample: a sole-authored writing sample (a recent term paper or report analyzing a social science topic).
6. The application fee should be paid (online) by MasterCard, Visa or American Express.

Additional information on the MA in Sociology can be obtained at the IUPUI Sociology department, by calling the Sociology Office Coordinator at 317-274-8981, by e-mail: sociolog@iupui.edu, or by writing to the address below.

Master of Arts in the Teaching of Spanish (M.A.T.)

Admission Requirements:
1) A bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale) in the student's undergraduate major, documented by an official transcript. Applicants are expected to have an undergraduate degree in Spanish, but admission is also considered for those who otherwise demonstrate the competency necessary for successful graduate work in Spanish. Students must have knowledge of Spanish phonetics, linguistics, and literary genres and periods. Students with deficiencies may be admitted on a conditional basis until they complete the relevant undergraduate courses in these areas.

2) Proficiency in the Spanish language; There are two options:
   a. Exam: Students may take the Diploma in Spanish (DELE) issued by the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport. The official exam determining this proficiency is offered once a year at IUPUI. Students must attain a passing score at the Nivel Intermedio (B2).
   OR   b. A tape including applicant's oral sample of 10-15 minutes of spontaneous speech in Spanish and an essay in Spanish on some aspect of Spanish culture, literature, linguistics, or pedagogy. The essay may be in the form of a paper written for a course.

3) Three letters of recommendation. At least two of these should be from professors.
4) For international students, the university requires a minimum TOEFL score of 550 on the paper version, or 213 on the computer-based test. Send scores to Institution Code 1325, Department Code 2608.

Students who do not achieve this score may be admitted to the university conditionally and may be required to take English as a Second Language courses through the Department of English. While taking these courses they will be allowed to register for a maximum of six credit hours in the MAT in Spanish. If admitted, International students will also be required to take IUPUI's ESL Placement test before registering for the first semester.

PLEASE NOTE: While the GRE is not necessary for admission to the Master of Arts for Teachers Program in Spanish, it is required for application to certain financial aid programs. (See "Financial Assistance" below.)

5) Online application. Please access the online portion of the application from the following link: http://www.iupui.edu/~gradoff/admissions/apply.html

This segment requires basic information such as your name, address, program of study, residency status, etc. Please pay careful attention to the personal statement, in which you explain your reasons for pursuing the M.A.T. in Spanish. The statement should be written in English. The application fee may be submitted by credit card at the end of the online application. Please check with the Graduate Office for the current amount of the application fee.

Please note: Under Educational Objectives you must choose "Master's" as your type of admission, "Spanish (IU Graduate School)" as your academic program, and "Spanish M.A.T." as your major. Please also note that if you have already submitted an online application for Graduate Non-Degree Status or for another graduate program, you must still complete a new online application for this program using a new personal identification number (PIN) and password and submit an additional application fee.

Financial Assistance
Various sources of financial assistance are available to graduate students at IUPUI. Applicants should contact:

IUPUI Office of Student Financial Services
Campus Center (CE) 250
420 University Boulevard
Indianapolis, IN 46202-5140

Medical Humanities and Health Studies

Admission Requirements:
• Undergraduate degree from an accredited institution
• Minimum GPA of 3.0
• Personal statement
• Two letters of recommendation

TESOL

The graduate English program has been designed to prepare students for careers in the analysis and production of texts. The program covers issues and skills in reading and writing, in the richest sense of these words—in order to prepare students to address these issues and to teach these skills. Graduates of the program should be prepared for such careers as teaching writing and literature; teaching English as a second language; and writing for business, government, and other professions. In contrast to traditional M.A. programs, which place heavy emphasis on literary history, the IUPUI program focuses on the application of English studies to contemporary situations and problems.

Admission Requirements

Applications for the M.A. in TESOL degree are accepted on a rolling-basis and should meet all applicable requirements as described below. Final admission is based upon the approval of the admissions committee, which is comprised of the English Department’s Director of Graduate Studies, the Director of the M.A. in TESOL, program faculty members, and departmental administrative staff.

Undergraduate Degree

Applicants should have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum GPA of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale), or the equivalent, in the student’s undergraduate major, documented by an official transcript.

Graduate Record Examination (GRE)

GRE General Test official scores are required and must be reported directly to IUPUI by ETS (no Subject Test required). Register to take the exam or request score reports at ETS.

The IUPUI Institution Code for ETS is: #1325

TOEFL or IELTS

TOEFL or IELTS official scores are required for nonnative speaking applicants only and must be reported directly to IUPUI. Test scores are not required if the applicant has earned (or will earn) a bachelor’s or master’s degree from a country where English is the official language (please refer to the Office of International Affairs website.) The department will only consider applications once the required minimum score is met and does not offer admission to applicants not meeting the required minimum scores.

- The IUPUI Institution Code for ETS is: #1325
- Recommended minimum scores for applicants who are nonnative speakers of English: 100 TOEFL iBT; 7.0 IELTS.

Additional information about international admissions can be obtained from the Office of International Affairs.

Letters of Recommendation

Applicants must submit three letters of recommendation using the electronic letter of recommendation option in the online application system. These letters should be from persons qualified to comment on your preparation for graduate study in TESOL.

Personal Statement

Applicants must submit a 500-750 word personal statement in the following format:

- Paragraph 1: Reasons for Applying to Our Program.

Describe your reasons for applying to graduate school in general and our program in particular. What aspects of our program do you see as being a good fit for you and your objectives?

- Paragraph 2: Education and Other Experiences.

What has prepared and/or motivated you to do graduate work in TESOL? These might include academic, work or other experiences, study or travel abroad, research or writing projects, etc.

- Paragraph 3: Goals in the Program.

Beyond the core coursework of 16 credit hours, is there a specific area of TESOL in which you want to gain experience? Do you plan to study full or part-time? Do you see yourself writing a thesis, and if so, on what topic?

- Paragraph 4: Career Objectives.

What are your long-term career and/or personal goals, and how do you see your M.A. in TESOL degree helping you to achieve those goals?

- Paragraph 5 (Optional): Program Opportunities and Funding.

Describe any specific opportunities you want to be considered for, including fellowships, assistantships, study abroad opportunities, etc.

Application Instructions

Follow the IUPUI application process as defined by the IUPUI Graduate Office. More information may be found here.

Online Application and Fee

The on-line graduate school application can be found at “Apply Now.”

There is an application fee required by the IUPUI Graduate Office to be paid when the application is submitted, unless a previous application has been submitted (see below). The fee is $60 for domestic USA students and $65 for international students.

Even if you have already submitted an application for a graduate or certificate program in English at IUPUI, you will need to create a new pin and password. If this is the case, please contact the IUPUI Graduate Office so that your application fee can be waived.

Deadlines

- Applications for fall semester financial aid (including university fellowships) are due January 29 of the same year.
- Applications for the fall semester are due April 15 of the same year.
- Applications for the spring semester are due October 15 of the preceding year.
- Applications for any summer session are due February 15 of the same year.

Translation Studies

Admission to the program requires:

- Undergraduate degree requirement: baccalaureate degree in second language (Spanish, French, German) from an accredited institution; or B. A. degree in English with native proficiency in a second language; or B.A. or B.S. degree related to intended field of translation with native proficiency in a second language.

(GPA requirement: 3.0 or higher; 3.3 in major)

- Standardized Test Scores: official GRE scores are required if undergraduate GPA is below 3.0; non-native English speakers must provide evidence of English proficiency from either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or International English Language Testing System (IELTS) examinations, unless they have completed their undergraduate degree in the US. (Minimum score on the TOEFL is 550.)

- Narrative statement: Applicants will submit a narrative statement of 400-500 words in both English and Spanish, French or German outlining relevant background and their reasons for pursuing a graduate certificate in Translation Studies.

- Three letters of recommendation, one which can attest to the applicant’s oral and written language proficiency in both English and the second language.

- Sample translation:. Applicants will be asked to write a sample translation into their primary language to submit with their application.

Applicants who have not completed any formal educational language training at the undergraduate level may be granted provisional admission based on completion of undergraduate coursework in English or the second language as deemed necessary by the admission committee.

Follow these simple steps to apply:

Go here: http://graduate.iupui.edu/admissions/apply.shtml

1. And in red, just above the box, it should say “Begin your application for graduate or professional school at IUPUI” – click on that link.

2. A new page should open where you are asked to logon with your network ID as a current student in the IU system, you don’t want to create a guest account as if you are new to IU

3. Once you logon, you should see a gray box saying “Begin New Application” – click on that.

4. Answer the questions about citizenship (this is so they know whether or not to route your application through International Affairs).

5. On that same page, click on “To apply to a degree (Master’s, PhD, professional) or graduate certificate program”.

6. From there, you should see the actual application with 5 tabs at the top ... fill them all out, and when it comes to the Application Information tab, the first question should be a drop-down menu for “What type of degree do you intend to pursue?” – here, select “Graduate Certificate”.

7. Then, under the “Academic Program” drop-down, select “World Languages and Cultures”.

8. Then, under the “Academic Plan” drop-down, select “Translation Studies”.

American Studies PhD

IUPUI believes one way to advance doctoral education is to build an interdisciplinary program through an academic field, rather than in a department or research center. The home for this integrated program is American Studies—a field with a track record of drawing on the social sciences as well as the humanities and a program at IUPUI with a legacy of bringing departments together. Moreover, it is time for a much stronger and conscientious effort to move beyond training Ph.D.s solely for academic positions. Michael Bérubé of Penn State University recently pinpointed what is often missing from the discussion of doctoral training: “We need to remake our programs from the ground up to produce teachers and researchers and something elses, but since it is not clear what those something elses might be, we haven’t begun to rethink the graduate curriculum accordingly.”[1] Transforming doctoral education requires building new models that actively develop leadership potential beyond the academy with the same motivation and intentionality that, in the past, cultivated future faculty.

The Ph.D. American Studies at IUPUI does not tweak the traditional model, but builds an infrastructure for a collaborative and applied graduate school experience that closes the distance between academia and the world surrounding it. Internships will serve as the centerpiece of the program and replace the role teaching assistantships typically play. Internship sites will inform student research for dissertations and provide the foundation for future employment. Directors at these sites will assist faculty mentors in determining the coursework and skills students acquire through the academic side of the program— IUPUI serves as an academic laboratory for applied projects. The coursework and internships will often operate simultaneously, thus allowing students to work on problems and issues encountered during their internships in the courses they take. Moreover, faculty mentors and internship site directors will collaborate before, during, and after student internships, much as researchers interact with their partners when working on externally funded projects.

Admission Requirements

Recruitment of candidates for this program will present opportunities that are somewhat atypical for doctoral programs in the liberal arts. Traditionally, doctoral programs attract students who wish to work with specific faculty members within specific disciplines in order to build expertise and future careers in that discipline. The program proposed here seeks to attract students who believe contemporary problems require understanding and analysis that a research degree anchored in the liberal arts provides. Rather than recruit students to become future academics, this program uses academic training to develop expertise that can be applied primarily outside of classrooms. To that end, the recruitment of students will depend on establishing clear connections between external partners for internships, research centers at IUPUI, and faculty who will mentor students by helping them build programs that prepare them for fields in which they will intern.

Candidates are not required to hold advanced degrees in any particular discipline but this program will most likely attract students holding either a B.A. or M.A. in liberal arts disciplines or related degrees. Candidates should have a GPA of 3.5 or higher and are required to take the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test (Quantitative, Verbal, and Analytical Writing). While we do not expect to institute a fixed minimum requirement, students shall be advised that successful candidates typically have scores above the 70th percentile in the verbal, quantitative, and analytic writing sections.

For those applicants whose native language is not English, IUPUI requires a 79 on the Internet-based TOEFL or 550 on the paper-based TOEFL or a 6.5 on the IELTS or a G011 or higher on the IUPUI EAP Placement Exam taken from within the last two years. However, because of the importance of writing skills on a program with a dissertation requirement applicants should typically score above the 70th percentile (i.e., 94 on the Internet-based TOEFL). Final decisions on admission shall be made by the American Studies Advisory Committee.

Beyond these measures for admission, the applicants shall submit a written statement of purpose for entering the Ph.D. program, three letters of recommendation from individuals in professional positions able to judge success (at least one from a tenured or tenure-track faculty), original transcripts, and a curriculum vitae.

Museum Studies

The Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies (18 credit hours) provides students with interdisciplinary training in museum practice and knowledge of contemporary issues in the museum field. It trains students in specialized aspects of museum practice such as education, exhibit planning and design, collections care, curatorial practices, philanthropy, and nonprofit management by combining Museum Studies course work with curriculum in other IU schools (e.g., Public History, Philanthropic Studies, Education, SPEA, Library Science). Students are given an introduction to the history and philosophy of museums and an opportunity to focus on particular aspects of museum practice.

Graduate Certificate requirements (18 cr.)

The Museum Studies Graduate Certificate consists of 18 credit hours of course work, including an introductory course MSTD-A 503 (3 cr.), an internship MSTD-A 508 (3 cr.), four core courses from list of approved core courses (6 cr.), and a choice of elective courses from list of approved elective courses (6 cr.) from the Museum Studies electives or approved courses from outside the program including those in Public History, Anthropology, Education, Sociology, Public Relations, Philanthropic Studies, Non-Profit Administration (SPEA) and Herron School of Art and Design. All these courses must be passed with a grade of B– or above in order to count for the certificate. Internships must be approved by a faculty advisor prior to registration. Certificates are only awarded in the months of May, August and December.

For students in the Museum Studies Graduate Certificate program and M.A. History program who choose public history as their area of concentration (18 cr.):

In order to complete the certificate while simultaneously completing the M.A. in History (Public History concentration), students must apply and be admitted to both the History MA program and Museum Studies Graduate Certificate program and complete the requirements for both the degree and the certificate. Students should consult with advisors in both programs to establish their program plan to follow the approved course of study within both programs. The certificate must be awarded before or at the same time as the master’s degree in History. Certificates are only awarded in the months of May, August and December.

The following courses fulfill requirements in both programs:
- Taking HIST-H 543: Internship: Practicum in Public History when focused on museums (4 cr.) counts as an equivalent for MSTD-A 508
- Taking HIST-H 548: Historic Administration/Museum Administration (3 cr.) counts as an equivalent for MSTD-A 548
- Taking HIST-H 542: Public History (4 cr.) may count as an equivalent for MSTD-A 503
- Any HIST-H 547: Special Topics in Public History (3 cr.) classes are approved electives for the museum studies graduate certificate curriculum
- History MA (Public History concentration) students may use up to two museum studies courses to count as the “6 credits outside the department of History” requirement.

American Philosophy and Bioethics

The Department of Philosophy offers graduate certificates in either American Philosophy or Bioethics. We invite you to review the information on this page. We also invite you to contact the Graduate Director, Chad Carmichael
American Philosophy Certificate

The certificate in American philosophy gives students the opportunity to study in a one-year program at one of the world’s premier places for studying American philosophy and especially the thought of Charles Sanders Peirce. IUPUI is home of the Institute for American Thought, which contains the Peirce Edition Project, the Santayana Edition, the Josiah Royce Papers, and the Max H. Fisch Library. Because of the Peirce Edition Project, the Santayana Edition, and the Josiah Royce Papers, three large-scale scholarly ventures to publish the writings of an important American philosopher, IUPUI has extensive resources in American philosophy and a substantial contingent of faculty specializing in this area. The Max H. Fisch Library is a non-lending library specializing in American philosophy and other resources essential for a better understanding of this chapter in philosophy. It attracts a number of scholars each year, as well as graduate students from other institutions who are working on their thesis or Ph.D. dissertation. The Institute for American Thought also houses the Frederick Douglass Papers and the Center for Ray Bradbury Studies.

Bioethics Certificate

The certificate in bioethics offers a one-year program of study in a rapidly growing field that requires educated and trained theorists and practitioners. IUPUI is home to one of the nation's largest health-profession complexes, with the nation’s second largest school of medicine and largest multi-purpose school of nursing. In addition, the Indiana University Center for Bioethics provides a forum for interdisciplinary research and public outreach.

Students who pursue the graduate certificate in bioethics will have a number of employment opportunities. Some may choose to continue on to a terminal degree (M.A. or Ph.D.) program in philosophy or bioethics, after which they can be expected to compete for research or faculty positions. Others may choose to complete the certificate in concert with a professional degree in medicine, science, nursing, health sciences, or law. Professionals already employed in health-related fields can expect that the certificate will enhance their professional credentials. A graduate certificate in bioethics will be useful to those responsible for policy analysis and development (e.g., on ethics committees), compliance (e.g., in risk management or institutional review-board positions), or teaching and education (e.g., in continuing education programs). This certificate will also be useful to professionals working in legislative or other policy positions.

Student Consumer Information for the Bioethics Certificate. For more information about our graduation rates, the median debt of students who completed the program, and other important information, please visit our website at, http://apps.uiss.iu.edu/disclosures/?plan=IN04.51.3201.

Prospective Students

The graduate certificate program is designed to accommodate a wide variety of students, including:

- International students with an interest in American philosophy or bioethics who have recently completed their M.A. in their home country and are exploring their academic options, like a Ph.D. in philosophy.
- International students who want to do a one-year abroad program at the graduate level. The certificate program can be completed concurrently with research for an M.A. thesis or dissertation.
- Graduate students from other universities who are willing to take a year off from their regular program or who have reached the A.B.D. stage. Most Ph.D. programs have only one specialist in American philosophy or bioethics, making a certificate in either specialty an attractive option for students busy writing their Ph.D. dissertation.
- Students who have completed undergraduate degree and do not yet want to commit themselves to a degree program in philosophy or who want to increase their chances of being admitted into the IUPUI philosophy M.A. or a first-tier graduate program elsewhere.
- People who seek to broaden their philosophical horizon without aiming for a full-fledged graduate degree. A certificate gives graduate non-degree students a well-defined focus of study.
- Students who are enrolled in other graduate programs or post-baccalaureate professional programs at Indiana University and have an interest in philosophy.
- Students in programs that have an (international) exchange program with the IUPUI Philosophy Department or the Institute for American Thought.

The certificate in bioethics also provides a continuing education opportunity for individuals who are already gainfully employed and may have no real need for a full M.A. For example, nurses wishing to move into administrative positions on a hospital ethics committee or institutional review board.

Students enrolled in the IUPUI Philosophy M.A. program are automatically eligible to enroll in either of the graduate certificate programs, thus combining their M.A. degree with a certificate.

Admissions Requirements and Procedures

Applicants are expected to have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited university or its equivalent, with a grade point average of at least 3.0 overall (on a scale of 4) and at least 3.0 in the student’s major. There is no specific major requirement, but applicants must show a record of coursework (or equivalent experience) demonstrating that they are sufficiently prepared to do graduate work in philosophy. Acceptable coursework includes an undergraduate degree in philosophy. For their application, students are required to submit in addition to the Graduate School application form: official transcripts, at least one letter of recommendation, and a statement of purpose. Documents not included with the online application form can be sent directly to the Philosophy Department: CA 331, 425 University Blvd., Indianapolis, IN 46202.

Foreign applicants are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). They must also take the IUPUI English (ESL) examination prior to their first semester of coursework and may be required to take additional classes in English as a second language.

Deadlines for receipt of completed applications are as follows:

March 1 – For applicants seeking admission for the summer or fall semesters.

October 15 – For applicants seeking admission for the spring semester.

If you wish to apply after either deadline, please contact the graduate director.

Completion Requirements and Procedures for Certification

To complete the certificate, students should take fifteen (15) credit hours in the IU system, at least nine (9) of which must be taken at the IUPUI campus and at least nine (9) of which must be offered by the IUPUI Philosophy Department. Unless otherwise stated all courses must be at the 500-level or higher and be completed with a grade B or higher. Students taking the bioethics certificate are required to take P547; students taking the American philosophy certificate are required to take P558. Both are offered each academic year. In addition, students should take nine (9) credit hours in concentration specific courses, while taking the remaining three credit hours either in concentration specific courses or in courses that fall within the M.A. core. Courses taken more than five years prior to completion of the certificate must be retaken or reevaluated.

Sample Curricula

American Philosophy

Fall semester
PHIL-P 558: American Philosophy (3 cr.)
PHIL-P 560: Metaphysics (3 cr.)
PHIL-P 701: Peirce Seminar (3 cr.)

Spring semester
PHIL-P 507: American Philosophy and the Analytic Tradition (3 cr.)
PHIL-P 748: Josiah Royce Seminar (3 cr.)

Bioethics

Fall semester
PHIL-P 547: Foundations of Bioethics (3 cr.)
PHIL-P 540: Contemporary Ethical Theories (3 cr.)
PHIL-M 504: Introduction to Research Ethics (3 cr.)

Spring semester
PHIL-P 555: Ethical and Policy Issues in International Research (3 cr.)
PHIL-P 696: Topics in Biomedical Ethics: Genethics (3 cr.)

Professional Editing

The 15 credit hour graduate Certificate in Professional Editing, an interdisciplinary program administered for the School of Liberal Arts by the Institute for American Thought, can be taken as a standalone certificate or in conjunction with the M.A. in English or History. The program offers editing concentrations in English and History, i.e., critical editing and documentary editing.

Twelve credit hours of English courses comprise the Critical Editing core:

- ENG-L 501: Professional Scholarship in Literature (4 cr.)
- ENG-L 680: Topics: Textual Theory and Textual Criticism (4 cr.)
- ENG-L 701: Descriptive Bibliography and Textual Problems (4 cr.).

Eleven credit hours of History courses comprise the Documentary Editing core:

- HIST-H 501: Historical Methodology (4 cr.)
- HIST-H 543: Internship: Practicum in Public History (4 cr.)
- HIST-H 547: Topics in Public History. Specific topic in Historical Editing (3 cr.)

The final 3-4 credit hours required to complete the certificate are elective. For the Critical Editing track, they may take the form of a ENG-W 609: Directed Writing Project or an ENG-L 590: Internship supervised by the faculty editors of the Institute’s resident scholarly editions or a project course or internship approved by the student’s certificate advisor; for the Documentary Editing track, they may take the form of HIST-H 542: Public History, HIST-H 547: Archives, or HIST-H 575: Graduate Readings in History. Other appropriate courses in English, American Studies, History, and Library and Information Science may count as an open elective if approved by the certificate program director.

For the core of the Technical Editing concentration, students take:

- ENG-W 531: Designing and Editing Visual Technical Communication (4 cr.)
- ENG-W 532: Managing Document Quality (4 cr.)
- ENG-W 609: Directed Writing Project.

For the final course, it is recommended that students take ENG-W 525: Research Approaches for Technical and Professional Communication (4 cr.), but other relevant electives are available.

All of these courses will double-count for both the editing certificate and the English M.A. or History M.A. (Electives outside English and History are also available, but these will not normally double-count.) GRE scores are not required for admission to the certificate program, but foreign students are required to take TOEFL and receive a score of 550 or above. Students already admitted to the English or History graduate program can follow a more streamlined admission process.

Due to the unique nature of this program you must contact the program director for an interview before completing the Graduate Online Application. There is an application fee involved; so we do not want you to apply unless you qualify.

TESOL
The graduate Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) is offered to students who have a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution and who would like to be trained in teaching English to non-native speakers of English. Students will become familiar with the major theoretical foundations of teaching English as a foreign and second language and acquire experience through practice teaching in authentic ESL classrooms. The student who completes the TESOL certificate will be able to teach ESL and EFL to adult and post-secondary learners in the U.S.A. and overseas.

Optional emphasis in English for Specific Purposes (ESP) students may choose to add the optional English for Specific Purposes (ESP) emphasis. ESP focuses on the teaching of English as a second language for academic, occupational, and professional purposes.

Admission Requirements
1. Students should have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited institution, with a minimum undergraduate GPA of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale) or equivalent, documented by an official transcript.
2. Students who are non-native speakers of English must have a TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) score of at least 600 (paper), 250 (computer), or 100 (Internet).
3. Students should provide a personal statement describing their interest and goals in the program.

For more information about our graduation rates, the median debt of students who completed the program, and other important information, please visit our website at, http://apps.ussi.iu.edu/disclosures/?plan=IN04.13.1401.

Course Requirements
The TESOL certificate requires 21 credit hours, including 17 hours of “core” courses and 4 hours of electives. The core courses are:

- ENG-G 500: Introduction to the English Language
- LING-L 532: Second-Language Acquisition
- LING-L 534: Linguistic Resources for TESOL
- ENG-G 541: Materials Preparation for ESL Instruction
- LING-L 535: TESOL Practicum

Students wishing to earn the TESOL certificate with ESP emphasis must take LING-T 600 as their elective course and complete their TESOL Practicum LING-L 535 in an ESP setting.

Literature
The graduate Certificate in Teaching Literature is a structured, 20-hour program designed for licensed middle school and high school teachers, current M.A. students, and university and college faculty in literature and other subject areas who wish to enhance their professional teaching careers. Credits earned toward the certificate can be applied to an MA in English upon acceptance into that degree program.

The certificate offers students an opportunity to explore the theories and best practices that promote learning and strengthen professional mentorship of area teachers. The certificate requires completion of five graduate courses, including two core courses and three electives.

Admission Requirements
Admission to the certificate program requires only one of the following:
1. State certification in middle school or high school teaching;
2. Current enrollment as a graduate student at IUPUI;
3. Successful completion of an M.A. degree or higher at an accredited university;
4. Successful completion of a B.A. with a minimum GPA of 3.0 (on a scale of 4.0) or the equivalent from an accredited institution.

An online application with instructions is available via the English Department’s website. For more information on how to apply, see the contact information.

Program Requirements
Students will earn the certificate by satisfactorily completing five graduate courses, or a minimum of 20 credit hours. The five courses consist of two core course and three elective courses. Major topics include instructional issues in language learning; socio-psycholinguistic applications for reading instruction, theories of literary analysis, methods of literary research and study, surveys of American and British literature, additional surveys of adolescent and children’s literature, multicultural literature, colonial and postcolonial literature, and women’s literature.

Curriculum
Core course (8 credit hours/2 courses)
- ENG-L 503: Teaching of Literature
- ENG-L 508: Practicum of Teaching Literature

Elective courses (12 credit hours total, up to 6 credits of which may be School of Education courses)
English electives (4 credits each):
- ENG-L 506: Introduction to Methods of Criticism and Research
- ENG-L 606: Topics in African American Literature
- ENG-L 625: Readings in Shakespeare
- ENG-L 635: Readings in American Ethnic Literature and Culture
- ENG-L 641: Studies in British Literature before 1900
- ENG-L 643: Readings in Colonial and Post-Colonial Literature
- ENG-L 649: Studies in British Literature since 1900
- ENG-L 650: Studies in American Literature before 1900
- ENG-L 655: Studies in American Literature since 1900
- ENG-L 657: Readings in Literary and Critical Theory
- ENG-L 666: Survey of Children’s Literature
• ENG-L 673: Studies in Women and Literature
• ENG-L 680: Special Topics in Literary Study and Theory

Variable credit hour courses (1-4 credits):
• ENG-L 695: Individual Readings in Literature

School of Education electives (3 credits each, up to 6 credits total)
• EDUC-L 500: Instructional Issues in Language Learning
• EDUC-L 502: Socio-Psycholinguistic Applications for Reading Instruction
• EDUC-L 535: Teaching Adolescent Literature

Other graduate courses in literature or related fields as approved by certificate director.

For more information, please contact the English Department Graduate Certificate Coordinator.

Teaching Writing
The graduate Certificate in Teaching Writing is a 20-hour program of study for certified middle school or high school teachers, part-time university writing faculty and lecturers in other disciplines, and M.A. students interested in earning a certificate in writing to enhance their professional teaching careers.

Major topics include theories and methods of teaching writing; understanding linguistic diversity; uses of technology in writing; social aspects of writing development; non-fiction writing; writing assessment; and teacher research. The certificate requires completion of five graduate courses consisting of one core course and four elective courses.

Graduate credits earned can be applied toward the M.A. in English upon acceptance into the M.A. For further information, please contact Professor Kim Brian Lovejoy (274-2120).

Admission Requirements
• Successful completion of a B.A. with a minimum GPA of 3.0 (out of 4.0) or the equivalent from an accredited institution; or
• Current enrollment as a Graduate student at IUPUI; or • Successful completion of an M.A. degree or higher at an accredited institution; or
• State certification in middle school or high school teaching.

Instructions for applying to the Certificate in Teaching Writing can be found on the English Department's website.

Curriculum Requirements
Core course (4 cr.):
• ENG-W 509: Introduction to Writing and Literacy Studies (4 cr.)

Elective courses: (16 cr.)
• ENG-W 500: Teaching Writing: Issues and Approaches (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 508: Graduate Creative Writing for Teachers (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 510: Computers in Composition (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 531: Designing and Editing Visual Technical Communication (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 590: Teaching Composition: Theory and Practice (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 600: Variable Topics in Rhetoric and Composition (4 cr.)
  • Assessing Writing
  • Qualitative Research
  • Basic Writing Pedagogy
  • Written Englishes: Living Cultural Realities
  • Teaching Technical and Professional Writing
• ENG-W 605: The Writing Project Summer Institute (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 609: Individual Writing Projects (1-4 cr.)
• ENG-W 615: Graduate Creative Non-fiction Writing (4 cr.)
• ENG-W 697: Independent Study in Writing (1-3 cr.)

Translation Studies
Globalization of business, law and trade relations and the changing US demographics have increased demand for translation skills in many fields especially: educational, medical, legal and technical. The current demand for skilled translators far outweighs the supply available.

The Graduate Certificate in Translation Studies builds on a set of successfully implemented undergraduate translation courses by a cadre of faculty experts in the field in a context of increased demand for higher credentialed professionals and academic specialists.

The Graduate Certificate in Translation Studies offers coursework leading to a Graduate Certificate in Translation Studies. Additional coursework in Interpreting is also offered.

Completion requirements
This is an, 18 credit-hour graduate certificate program, or a total of six courses, distributed among two core courses in the history and theory of translation, and the application of computer-assisted translation technologies, followed by two language-specific translation courses in Spanish, French or German, a linguistics course and a final internship or individual project. Courses are offered on a rotational basis, so students in the program need to make an advising appointment as soon as possible to plan their coursework to assure they are progressing towards completion of the degree. Twelve credit hours of coursework must be completed at IUPUI.

Admission Requirements
Admission to the program requires:
• Fall admission only

• Undergraduate degree requirement: baccalaureate degree in second language (Spanish, French, German) from an accredited institution; or B. A. degree in English with native proficiency in a second language; or B.A. or B.S. degree related to intended field of translation with native proficiency in a second language.

(GPA requirement: 3.0 or higher; 3.3 in major)

• Standardized Test Scores: official GRE scores are required if undergraduate GPA is below 3.0; non-native English speakers must provide evidence of English proficiency from either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or International English Language Testing System (IELTS) examinations, unless they have completed their undergraduate degree in the US. (Minimum score on the TOEFL is 79 and minimum score on the IELTS is 6.5.)

• Narrative statement: Applicants will submit a narrative statement of 400-500 words in both English and Spanish, French or German outlining relevant background and their reasons for pursuing a graduate certificate in Translation Studies

• Three letters of recommendation, one which can attest to the applicant’s oral and written language proficiency in both English and the second language.

• Sample translation:. Applicants will be asked to write a sample translation into their primary language to submit with their application.

Applicants who have not completed any formal educational language training at the undergraduate level may be granted provisional admission based on completion of undergraduate coursework in English or the second language as deemed necessary by the admission committee.

• Not for students on international student visas.

Medical Humanities and Health Studies
The Graduate Certificate in Medical Humanities offers an interdisciplinary course of study drawn from the social science and humanities disciplines of Liberal Arts, as well as courses and participation of faculty from other schools. The field of Medical Humanities provides students with the qualitative humanistic and socio-cultural perspectives on health care. Many factors affect the outcome of health practice, which in turn, affect patients, families and the greater public. The graduate certificate in Medical Humanities permits graduate students to study more comprehensively and in depth, the social, cultural, and humanistic determinants and consequences of human health, illness and care.

Required Courses in Medical Humanities Graduate Certificate (15 credit hours)

Core Courses (6 cr. hrs.):
• MHHS-M 501: The Human Condition, 3 cr.
• MHHS-M 595: Clinical Practicum in Medical Humanities, 3 cr.

Elective Courses (9 cr. hrs.):
• MHHS-M 504: Intro to Res Ethics
• MHHS-M 592: Topics in Medical Humanities & Health Studies [Note: cannot be repeated if taken on the same topic as an undergraduate]
• MHHS-M 598: Readings in Medical Humanities and Health Studies
• PHIL-P 547: Foundations of Bioethics
• PHIL-P 696: Topics in Biomedical Ethics
• PHIL-P 555: Ethical and Policy Issues in International Research
• COMM-C 592: Advanced Health Communication
• COMM-C 510: Health Provider-Consumer Communication
• COMM-C 521: Family Communication in Health Contexts
• COMM-C 591: Variable Topics in Health Communication
• COMM-C 695: Seminar in Communication and Healthcare
• SOC-R 585: Social Aspects Mental Health/Mental Illness
• SOC-R 515: Sociology of Health and Illness
• SOC-S 610: Sociology of Health and Illness Behavior
• SOC-S 526: Sociology of Human Sexuality
• SOC-R 560: Topics in Medical Sociology [Note: cannot be repeated if taken on the same topic as an undergraduate]
• ANTH-A 560: Topics in Medical Anthropology [Note: cannot be repeated if taken on the same topic as an undergraduate]
• ENGL 592: Literature and Medicine [Note: cannot be repeated if taken as an undergraduate]
• HIST H546 History of Science, Medicine and Technology, [Note: cannot be repeated if taken on the same topic as an undergraduate]

Admission Requirements
• Undergraduate degree from an accredited institution required.
• Minimum GPA of 3.0 required
• Personal statement
• Two letters of recommendation

Anthropology
The Master of Arts in Applied Anthropology offers students the opportunity to use anthropological theories and methods toward the goals of solving real world problems. The program is constructed around a set of core courses together with independent research and internships. The degree takes advantage of our long-standing departmental strengths in Public Archaeology, Urban Anthropology, International Development, Globalization, Medical Anthropology and Museum Studies.

Students may choose to follow a targeted curriculum, focusing on a particular aspect of the discipline; all students will also be well-trained in a broad range of anthropological approaches. This integration of three of the four sub-fields in Anthropology (Anthropology, Biological Anthropology and Cultural Anthropology) makes this program distinctive among graduate programs in Applied Anthropology. Another notable feature of the program is its emphasis on civic engagement and community collaboration in student and faculty research.

Specifically, the program will:
1. Offer residents of central Indiana the opportunity to undertake graduate work in applied anthropology at an urban, public university;
2. Provide additional skills and expertise to those employed in such areas as social work, urban planning, community organizing, public health, community nursing and cultural resource management;
3. Provide a foundation for students who wish to pursue a PhD in Anthropology from another institution.

Program Requirements
The MA in Applied Anthropology will require 36 hours, including a core curriculum consisting of 6 credits of Required Core Courses (Fundamentals of Applied Anthropology; Anthropological Thought); 3 credits of a Methods Course in the students’ sub-disciplinary area; 21 credits of Elective Courses and 6 internship or thesis credits. Course electives may be chosen both from within and outside of Anthropology including appropriate cognate courses from programs that are already well-developed at IUPUI including Museum Studies; Urban Policy (SPEA); Urban Education; Geographic Information Systems (GIS); Community Nursing and Public History.

Required Core Courses (6 cr.)
• ANTH E501 Fundamentals of Applied Anthropology
• ANTH A565 Anthropological Thought

Methods Courses (3 cr. choose at least one of the following)
• Field Methods in Ethnography
• Theory and Method in Biological Anthropology
• Archaeological Method and Theory or participation in a summer archaeological field school

Electives (21 cr. select seven of the following)*
Archaeology Courses
• Community Archaeology (3 credits)
• Prehistory of North America (3 credits)
• Ancient Civilizations of Mesoamerica (3 credits)
• The Rise of Civilization (3 credits)
• Historical Archaeology (3 credits)
• Modern Material Culture (3 credits)

Biological Anthropology Courses
• Human Variation (3 credits)
• The Anthropology of Human Nature (3 credits)
• Osteology (3 credits)
• Human Growth and Development (3 credits)
• Medical Anthropology (3 credits)
• Paleoanthropology (3 credits)
• Bioarchaeology (3 credits)
• Anthropology of Human Nature (3 credits)

Cultural Anthropology Courses
• Cultural Areas and Ethnic Groups (variable title) (3 credits)
• Indians of North America (3 credits)
• Urban Anthropology (3 credits)
• African Diaspora (3 credits)
• Women in Developing Countries (3 credits)
• Wealth, Exchange, and Power in Anthropological Perspective (3 credits)
• The Anthropology of Aging (3 credits)
• Ethnic Identity (3 credits)
• Gender and Cross-Cultural Perspective (3 credits)

*Two cognate classes can be also taken outside the department with the advisor's approval, as long as they are at the 500 level or above.

Thesis or Internship (6 cr.)
For completion of the MA, the student will be required to complete either an internship, which involves writing a report for the organization or agency, or completing a more traditional MA thesis (see below). A third option, consisting of writing an article eligible for publication in a peer-reviewed journal, can also be completed in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the MA degree.

Internship Option

For this option, a student will be placed with a non-governmental organization, a city or county agency, a museum or other Cultural Resource Management organization, or a community-based organization and will arrange with the sponsoring organization to complete an applied project that will be mutually agreed upon by the Graduate Committee of the Anthropology Department and by the organization.

NOTE: The internship may be taken for variable credits depending on the amount of contact hours with the equivalence of 50 hours per credit hour unless constructed as a graduate assistantship in accordance with Anthropology department policy in which case the contact hours may be greater.

Thesis Option

For this option, a student will develop and write a thesis supervised by a three-member committee of full-time faculty. This thesis will explore a research question related to some aspect of the urban setting of Indianapolis or the regional setting of Central Indiana, and will demonstrate the ability of a student to work independently on that topic, and to apply both theoretical insight and methodological skills to a substantive issue. A student would be required to successfully defend the thesis before his/her committee.

Evidence of Publishable and Professional Research

Rather than producing a traditional MA thesis, in accordance with the student’s advisor, students will be allowed to write a research paper that is assessed to be publishable in a refereed journal. Alternatively, for students primarily interested in a focus on Museums or in Cultural Resource Management, the advisor might suggest that the student develop and produce a public exhibit in Indianapolis or Central Indiana; lastly, students may be permitted to produce a report that contributes significantly to a policy issue in Indianapolis or Central Indiana.

Communication Studies

The Department of Communication Studies offers a PhD in Health Communication and an M.A. in Applied Communication with optional concentrations in corporate communication, health communication, media criticism or public communication, a PhD minor in Health Communication and a graduate minor in Communicating Science.

These programs are unique applied programs that provides students with theoretical understanding of communication processes as well as with the competencies and skills necessary to address specific communication issues and problems by applying discipline-specific knowledge. The program readies the advanced student for professional career paths and future academic pursuits.

M.A in Applied Communication Program Goals

The overarching goal of this unique program in applied communication is to provide students with the competencies and skills necessary to address specific communication issues and problems that are socially relevant and to suggest or implement change. The primary intellectual goal of the program is to increase our students’ understanding of the theoretical implications of discipline-specific knowledge and to enhance their ability to understand and predict human interaction relative to realistic, applied outcomes associated with contemporary social problems. A practical goal of the program is to train a cohort of the population who will satisfy society’s increased need for professionals who grasp the complexities of communication problems and who are able to develop and execute strategies and programs to address such issues.

Requirements for Admission

Degree Requirements

Completion of 36 credit hours, including:

- 12 credit hours of core requirements. These include:
  - COMM-C 500: Advanced Communication Theory
  - COMM-C 501: Advanced Communication Research
  - One of COMM-C 502, COMM-C 530 or COMM-C 531
  - COMM-C 503: Applied Learning Project, OR
  - COMM-C 597: Thesis
- 24 credits of electives Students may take as many as 6 credit hours of approved coursework at the graduate level from outside the Department of Communication Studies

The student must maintain a B+ average (3.3) or higher in order to graduate. In addition, the student must pass the comprehensive examination and complete either a thesis or an applied learning project in order to complete the degree requirements.

Ph.D. in Health Communication

The Ph.D. program in health communication includes the following main program objectives. Students will:

- Obtain competency for teaching and research in areas that include: health and interpersonal relationships, intercultural health, and mediated communication in healthcare contexts including health campaign development. Ethical questions regarding each of these health communication contexts will be explored as well.
- Initiate, participate, and develop competency in research on health and medical communication issues.
- Gain skills in understanding clinical problems affected by communication.
- Develop the capabilities necessary to translate research on clinical problems impacted by communication into practice.
- Receive training for academic jobs and healthcare professional positions.

Requirements for Admission
Overall, the requirements include:

- Have at least a Master's degree (minimum of 30 credit hours) in a related social science or health discipline, completed with a GPA of 3.5 or higher (on a 4.0 scale). Preference will be given to those students with degrees from communication studies programs.
- Take the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test (Quantitative, Verbal, and Analytical Writing).
- Submit a written statement of purpose for entering this Ph.D. program.
- Provide three letters of recommendation from individuals in professional positions able to judge success.
- Submit a curriculum vitae.
- Provide graduate and undergraduate transcripts.
- Submit a writing sample demonstrating academic writing ability.
- Non-native English speakers who did not complete a degree at a college or university in the U.S. must also take an English competency test, either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or International English Language Testing System (IELTS).

Degree Requirements

IU requires a minimum of 90 credit hours of approved graduate coursework beyond the Bachelor’s degree. A maximum of 30 credit hours of approved graduate work completed with a grade of B or better may be transferred with the approval of the advisory committee and the Dean of the University Graduate School. All coursework taken for the Ph.D. must be completed within seven years prior to the passing of qualifying exams, including any transfer courses.

Overall, the requirements include:

- Core Courses (15 credit hours)
  - COMM-C 500: Advanced Communication Theory (3)
  - COMM-C 592: Advanced Health Communication (3)
  - COMM-C 680: Doctoral Qualitative/Rhetorical Methods (3)
  - COMM-C 690: Doctoral Quantitative Methods (3)
  - COMM-C 695: Seminar in Communication and Healthcare (3)

- Seminars in Content Areas (at least 15 credit hours)
  - Students may select from the courses offered within Communication Studies. In addition, other cross-listed seminars from affiliated faculty in departments or programs such as the Indiana Center for Intercultural Communication (ICIC), Medical Humanities, Medical Sociology, and other health-related areas may count toward the student’s degree with approval from the student’s advisor.

- Minor (9-12 credit hours) – All students must complete a minor in an area related to their primary health communication focus. Minor areas of Ph.D. study might include public health, health informatics, philanthropic studies, law & health, industrial organizational psychology, bioethics, nursing, bioinformatics, clinical psychology, medical sociology, marketing, social work, health economics, science, or any area in the health and life sciences disciplines or the Liberal Arts disciplines connected to the student’s area of primary focus. An interdisciplinary minor can be developed in consultation with the student’s advisor and advisory committee as well as a minor in research methods/tools. The minor area of emphasis must be approved by the student’s advisor and advisory committee and contain a minimum of three graduate level courses (9 credit hours) in accordance with the department or unit in which the minor is housed. Some departments require a 12 credit hour minor.
- Field Work/Research (6-9 credit hours) – All students are required to complete 6-9 credit hours of fieldwork and/or additional coursework in research methods selected in consultation with the advisor.
- Dissertation (12 credit hours).

In addition, all students must take written examinations that cover both broad knowledge of the health communication field as well as specialized knowledge of a chosen area of health communication. Comprehensive exams are taken after the student has completed a minimum of 39 credit hours (beyond the Master’s) including the required core, seminars, and minor coursework.

PhD Minor in Health Communication

The Department of Communication Studies is excited to offer a new PhD minor in Health Communication! Health communication is a rapidly growing field that contributes to the knowledge of and improvement in delivery of healthcare. Important work focuses on areas such as patient advocacy, empowerment, and activation; patient-provider communication; shared decision-making; patient-caregiver communication; successful transfers of care among clinicians; communicative approaches to reducing healthcare disparities; and addressing clinician burnout. The work of health communication scholarship adds unique and important dimensions to the study of healthcare and its delivery in a variety of fields, including public health, nursing, psychology, biomedical informatics, rehabilitation science, and other disciplines.

COURSES

The PhD Minor in Health Communication consists of 12 hours of courses.

Two courses are required: COMM-C 592: Advanced Health Communication, and COMM-C 500: Advanced Communication Theory.

Students select two electives including:

- COMM-C 695: Communication and Healthcare
- COMM-C 650: Health Communication Media
- COMM-C 510: Health Provider-Consumer Communication
- COMM-C 591: Topics/Seminar in Applied Communication (rotating seminar topics)
Graduate Minor in Communicating Science

The minor in communicating science is designed for masters and doctoral students in the sciences and health professions to develop audience-centered communication, distill scientific concepts into meaningful narratives, and connect effectively with collaborators and funders. The program brings together communication and rhetorical theory with the techniques of applied improvisation to enhance students’ career prospects, help them secure funding, and serve as effective teachers.

Students are required to take two semesters of 3, one-credit hour co-requisite courses.

Co-Requisite Block 1 (3 cr hrs): COMM-C 534: Distilling Your Message: Communicating Science (1 cr) COMM-C 533: Improvisation for Scientists: Communicating Science (1 cr) ENGL-W 533: Science Writing for Public Readers: Communicating Science (1 cr)

Co-Requisite Block 2 (3 cr hrs): COMM-C 535: Using Electronic Media: Communicating Science (1 cr) ENGL-W 535: Science Writing for Public Readers II: Communicating Science (1 cr) COMM-C 536: Connecting with the Community: Communicating Science (1 cr, Program Capstone)

Students will choose two courses (6 credit hours) from the following list:

- COMM-C 510: Health Provider-Consumer Communication (3 cr.)
- COMM-C 521: Family Communication in Health Contexts (3 cr.)
- COMM-C 591: Topics in Applied Communication (3 cr.) with relevant topics in science/health
- COMM-C 592: Advanced Health Communication (3 cr.)
- COMM-C 650: Health Communication in Mediated Contexts (3 cr.)
- COMM-C 695: Seminar in Communication and Healthcare (3 cr.)
- ENGL-W 600: Topics in Rhetoric and Composition (3 cr.), with relevant topics in science/health
- HIST-H 546: History of Science, Medicine, and Technology
- IBMG-G 655: Research Communications (3 cr.)
- JOUR-J 528: Public Relations Management (3 cr.)
- JOUR-J 560: Public Relations Research and Evaluation (3 cr.), with topics in Public Relations in the Life Sciences and Integrating Marketing Communication in Health Care
- PBHL-H 612: Marketing for Health Services Delivery (3 cr.)
- PBHL-S 625: Applied Public Health Campaigns and Social Marketing Strategies (3 cr.)
- PBHL-S 622: Coaching for Health Behavior Change (3 cr.)
- PBHL-E 606: Grant Writing: From Befuddled to Brilliance (3 cr.)

Note: The Communicating Science minor is not open to Health Communication PhD students or Applied Communication MA students.

Economics

The Master of Arts program has a twofold objective: (1) to provide students with analytical capabilities and research skills for careers in business, government, and the nonprofit sector; and (2) to prepare those who wish to pursue the Ph.D. at IUPUI, Indiana University Bloomington, or another university. The program has four different specialties: General Econometrics, Health Economics, PhD Preparation, and Monetary and Financial Economics. There is substantial overlap in the courses required for graduation under the four curricula. Nevertheless, the incoming student should have selected his or her area of specialization prior to entering the program.

Course Requirements

Students must complete a minimum of 30 credit hours of graduate course work. Twelve (12) credit hours are devoted to the following required core courses:

- ECON-E 520: Mathematics of Optimization
- ECON-E 521: Theory of Prices and Markets
- ECON-E 522: Theory of Income and Employment
- ECON-E 520: Mathematics of Optimization

These core courses serve as prerequisites for 500-level field courses. The student must also complete six (6) credits of outside field classes in the mathematics and statistics department, at the graduate level. Consult the department’s graduate study guide for a list of acceptable outside courses.

Grades

The student must receive at least a C (2.0) in each course and must average at least a B (3.0 on a 4.0 scale) for all courses taken.

Ph.D. Program

The Ph.D. program is designed to (i) advance knowledge concerning Health Economics and Philanthropy/Nonprofit Economics; (ii) develop the skills essential for our graduates to conduct independent research in these two areas. The two fields for our Ph.D. program are Health Economics and Philanthropy/Nonprofits Economics.

English

The graduate English program has been designed to prepare students for careers in the analysis and production of texts. The program covers issues and skills in reading and writing, in the richest sense of these words—in order to prepare students to address these issues and to teach these skills. Graduates of the program should be prepared for such careers as teaching writing and literature; teaching English as a second language; and writing for business, government, and other professions. In contrast to traditional M.A. programs, which place heavy emphasis on literary history, the IUPUI program focuses on the application of English studies to contemporary situations and problems.
Grades
M.A. students must maintain a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B).

Course Requirements
The M.A. in English has two options: thesis and non-thesis.

Thesis Option (36 cr.)
Core Courses (8 cr.)
Choose two:
• ENG-G 500: Introduction to the English Language
• ENG-W 509: Introduction to Writing and Literacy Studies
• ENG-L 506: Introduction to Methods of Criticism and Researching

Electives (24 cr.)
Choose at least six courses in consultation with a faculty advisor for a total of 24 credit hours. These 24 hours may include a third core course and up to 8 credit hours of Internship.

Thesis Credits (4 cr.)
• ENG-L 699: Thesis Credits (4 cr.)

Non-Thesis Option (40 cr.)
Core Courses (8 cr.)
Choose two:
• ENG-G 500: Introduction to the English Language
• ENG-W 509: Introduction to Writing and Literacy Studies
• ENG-L 506: Introduction to Methods of Criticism and Researching

Electives (32 cr.)
Choose at least eight courses in consultation with a faculty advisor for a total of 32 credit hours. These 32 hours may include a third core course and up to 8 credit hours of Internship.

Foreign Language Requirements
There is no foreign language requirement, but M.A. students going on for the Ph.D. are encouraged to validate their reading proficiency in a foreign language according to University Graduate School standards.

Geographic Information Science
Master of Science in Geographic Information Science
Course Requirements
All students must complete a minimum of 30 credit hours as follows:

Any 3 of the following courses (9 credits):
• GEOG-G 535: Introduction to Remote Sensing (3 cr.)
• GEOG-G 537: Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.)
• GEOG-G 538: Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)
• GEOG-G 588: Spatial Statistics (3 cr.)

Two required courses (7 credits):
• GEOG-G 639: Seminar in Geographic Information Science (3 cr.)
• GEOG-G 560: Internship in Geographic Analysis (4 cr.)

An independent research project or a thesis (3-6 credits):
• GEOG-G 645: Research Papers in Geography (3 cr.) or
• GEOG-G 850: Masters Thesis (6 cr.)

Electives in GIS or complementary field (8-11 credits)

History
Master of Arts, dual Master of Arts and Master of Library Science, dual Master of Arts in History and Philanthropic Studies.

The M.A. program in History on the Indianapolis campus offers three areas of concentration: United States history, European history, and public history. United States and European history are traditional areas of concentration and will serve the needs of persons intending to pursue a doctoral program, those seeking a collateral degree to complement such other fields as education or library science, and individuals seeking personal fulfillment. Public history is designed to prepare persons interested in pursuing careers as historians in such settings as historical societies, museums, historic preservation organizations and historic parks, governmental agencies, and business corporations. With its proximity to a large number of such institutions, the Indianapolis campus is an ideal location at which to pursue a degree in public history.

Special Departmental Requirements
(See also general University Graduate School requirements.)

Master of Arts Degree
Course Requirements
Students pursuing any one of the three concentration areas must take HIST H500 or HIST H501. Those electing United States history must take at least one graduate colloquium and one graduate seminar in United States history and at least one course in non-United States history. Students electing European history must take a graduate colloquium and seminar in that area and at least one course outside their concentration. With the consent of their faculty advisor, students may take as many as 6 credits outside the Department of History. Six (6) credits will be granted upon successful completion of the required master’s thesis. A total of 30 credit hours is required for students concentrating in United States and in European history.
Students choosing public history as their area of concentration must take (1) HIST-H 500 or HIST-H 501, (2) HIST-H 542, and (3) a colloquium and seminar in United States history, and (4) do an internship. Four (4) hours of credit will be granted upon satisfactory completion of the internship project. Public history students must also take at least one course outside United States history. With the consent of their faculty advisor, they may take as many as 6 credits outside the Department of History. Two (2) credits will be granted upon successful completion of the required master's thesis. A minimum of 36 credit hours is required for students concentrating in public history. Students admitted to the program after completing courses “graduate non-degree” will be allowed, at the department's discretion, to transfer up to nine (9) credit hours toward their degree requirements.

Dual Degree: Master of Library Science and Master of Arts in History
Study for these two degrees can be combined for a total of 53 credit hours rather than the 66 credit hours required for the two degrees if taken separately. Students take 23 credit hours in history, which must include HIST-H 547 (Archives), one graduate seminar and one graduate colloquium. No thesis is required for students earning an M.A. degree in history who are also earning a Master of Library Science (M.L.S.) under this dual degree program. No area of concentration is required, but students wishing to focus on public history for the M.A. in history must also include HIST-H 542 among the required 23 credits of history course work. Such students may, if they wish, do a public history internship and count a maximum of 2 credit hours of HIST-H 543 toward the degree. (Students may enroll in HIST-H 543 only after having taken or while taking HIST-H 542.)

The remaining 30 credit hours are taken in the Department of Library and Information Science (IUPUI).

For more information on those requirements, go to http://soic.iupui.edu/lis/

Dual Degree: Master of Arts in History and Master of Arts in Philanthropic Studies
The dual M.A. in History and M.A. in Philanthropic Studies creates a unique opportunity to pursue critical inquiry into the historical, cultural, philosophical, and economic implications of voluntary action for the public good. Historians routinely study the role of nonprofit organizations, self-help groups, and philanthropic institutions. This dual degree program offers an interdisciplinary focus on the past, present, and future. This degree will be attractive to students wishing to pursue (1) careers that demand the skills and talents developed by cross-training in history and philanthropy; or (2) doctoral programs that encourage new and creative approaches to the historical study of philanthropy, broadly defined.

Admission requirements for the dual degree program are identical to those for each program separately. A separate application must be made to each of the programs. Prospective students are expected to take responsibility for learning about and meeting the different admission requirements and deadlines of each department. Students must make plans early with advisors in both programs to identify (1) common courses and (2) a thesis topic.

Study for these two degrees can be combined for a total of 51 credit hours (U.S. or European history concentrations) or 54 credit hours (public history) rather than the 66 or 72 credit hours that would be required if the two degrees were taken separately. For all concentrations, the required 700-level seminar for the M.A. in history may be selected as an elective to meet the philanthropic studies requirement for one of two theoretical electives. The required history courses with philanthropic studies topics HIST H509 (History of Philanthropy in the West) or HIST H516 (History of American Philanthropy) may be taken to meet the history requirement for a history elective. Required courses PHIL P542 Ethics and Values of Philanthropy, or PHST P512 Human and Financial Resources for Philanthropy, may be taken to meet 3 credits of the 6 credits of outside electives that may be taken in the history program. For public history students, HIST H543 Practicum meets the requirement for PHST P590 Internship for the Philanthropic Studies program. A common thesis meets the requirements of both departments.

Students in other departments may minor in history by completing, with a grade point average no lower than B (3.0), at least 12 credit hours of course work in history. A minimum of 6 credit hours must be taken on the Indianapolis campus. This course work shall include:

- HIST-H 501: Historical Methodology (4 cr.)
- Either a 600-level colloquium (e.g., HIST-H 620, HIST-H 650) (4 cr.) or a 700-level seminar (e.g., HIST-H 730, HIST-H 750) (4 cr.)
- At least 4 additional credit hours (which may include a maximum of 3 credits of HIST-H 575: Graduate Readings in History)

Certificate in Professional Editing

- TESOL (Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages)
The Master of Arts in Sports Journalism is a program of 30 credit hours of courses designed to produce highly qualified and educated graduates to fill positions with traditional mass media corporations as well as new-media outlets locally, nationally and internationally.

The degree has core courses to which specialized course work will be added. In addition, the program includes courses taken in other departments designed to provide graduates with a basic understanding of the general role of sports and journalism in society.

The program, ideal for graduating seniors and professionals with a few years of experience, focuses on the converging worlds of print journalism, electronic media, public relations, advertising, documentary and emerging technologies as expressed in the new commercial reality of sport.

Courses are offered in the evenings on IUPUI’s downtown Indianapolis campus, which is within easy walking distance of major sporting venues and a short drive of the state’s major newspaper, television and radio headquarters. No thesis is required and the program can be completed within two years.

Degree Requirements for the M.A. in Sports Journalism

Completion of 30 credit hours including:

Fall Semester

Grades

No grade below B- (2.7) will be counted toward this degree.

Museum Studies

The Museum Studies Program provides an integration of museum history and theory with hands-on instruction in museum techniques and practices. It encompasses the scholarly exploration of museums, including their history, operations, ethics and role in society from interdisciplinary perspectives, while also training students in the technical aspects of museum work such as collections care and management, administration, education, exhibit planning and design, curatorial practices, visitor studies and technology. The program offers a master’s degree and a graduate certificate. Students considering application to the certificate or degree program are welcome to take classes prior to formal admission. Students admitted to the graduate program may apply to count 8 or 9 credits earned as a non-degree student toward their M.A. in Museum Studies.

The Museum Studies M.A. curriculum (36 credit hours) consists of a required introductory course, a set of integrated core courses which provide a broad-based interdisciplinary training in museum practice, a choice of elective courses that allow the student to develop a particular specialty, and a capstone colloquium course preparing students for entry into the museum workforce. The course work is complemented by an internship that provides an opportunity for an intensive applied learning experience in a museum. The interdisciplinary curriculum and flexible structure allow students to achieve either a generalist breadth suitable for those working in smaller museums or to focus on a particular area of museum practice appropriate for a specialist on the staff of a larger museum.

M.A. requirements (36 cr.)

The Master’s degree program consists of 36 credit hours of course work.

Philosophy

Master of Arts in Philosophy (M.A.)

The philosophy M.A. program includes courses in core areas of philosophy plus concentrations in either bioethics or international research ethics. For information concerning the curriculum and how to apply, visit www.iupui.edu/~philosophy/ma.htm. Questions may be addressed to the graduate director.

TOTAL HOURS REQUIRED

Students must complete a minimum of thirty (30) credit hours, of which at least eighteen (18) must be in philosophy.

GRADE REQUIREMENTS

No course with a grade lower than a B (3.0) will count toward this degree.
RESIDENCY REQUIREMENT
Students must attend and complete the courses at IUPUI, excepting those courses accepted for transfer. At least fifteen (15) credit hours must be taken at IUPUI.

TRANSFER CREDITS
Candidates may transfer up to eight (8) hours of graduate credit for courses taken at other accredited institutions, provided the grades received were B (3.0) or higher and the courses were completed within the time limit prescribed by the Graduate School. The transfer is not automatic and must be approved in writing by the Director of Graduate Studies and the Dean of the Graduate School. For time restrictions on transfer credits, see the section on time limits below. In addition to these eight (8) hours, graduate courses taken at other Indiana University campuses may be counted toward the M.A. if pre-approved in writing by the director.

TIME LIMITS FOR COMPLETION OF DEGREE
The normal course load each semester for full-time students is a minimum of eight (8) credit hours. Part-time students take only one or two courses per semester. The minimum full-time equivalency for students holding an assistantship or internship is six (6) credit hours per semester. International students must take at least eight (8) credit hours each fall and spring semester to meet visa requirements. Students who carry a full academic load can complete the program in two calendar years.

The requirements for the degree must be completed within five consecutive years. Transfer credits also fall within this five-year limit.

Any courses that have been completed more than five (5) years before the degree is completed must be revalidated if they are to count toward the M.A. Revalidation requires the administration of an oral exam.

Students in the combined/dual degrees programs (J.D./M.A., M.D./M.A., M.P.H./M.A.) must complete both degrees within six (6) consecutive years and both degrees must be awarded simultaneously.

Curriculum
Module 1 – Philosophy Core (15 cr.)

- PHIL-P 562: Theory of Knowledge (3 cr.)

Module 2 – Electives (15 cr.)
- PHIL-P 503: Semiotics of C.S. Peirce (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 520: Philosophy of Language (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 525: Topics in the History of Philosophy (3 cr.) E.g., Niccolò Machiavelli, Francis Bacon, Thomas Aquinas
- PHIL-P 542: Ethics and Values of Philanthropy (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 545: Legal Philosophy (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 552: Philosophy of Logic (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 561: Philosophy of Mind (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 572: Philosophy of Religion (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 600: Topics in Philosophy (3 cr.) E.g., Philosophy of Text, Philosophy of Literature, Philosophy of Medicine, Philosophy of Biology, Feminism and Art, Persons and Personal Identity, Scientific Inference and Scientific Realism
- PHIL-P 701: Peirce Seminar (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 730: Seminar in Contemporary Philosophy (3 cr.)
- PHIL-P 748: Seminar in American Philosophy (3 cr.) E.g., Josiah Royce, John Dewey, George Santayana, William James on Religious Experience

Plus any PHIL course offered in the Bioethics concentration.

Thesis option: Students may petition to write a thesis (P803, 6 cr.) under certain circumstances. They must secure permission from their graduate director and three faculty members who are willing to constitute a thesis committee. Students who receive permission to write a thesis need only take 9 cr. of coursework in Module 2.

Public Relations
The program is designed to prepare students for public relations management positions in a wide variety of industries. The degree is ideal for those with professional experience who are ready to advance their careers and for professionals from allied disciplines who wish to transition to public relations or further enhance their knowledge and skills.

This is a professional graduate program with all coursework offered at night and on IUPUI’s downtown Indianapolis campus in modern, state-of-the-art facilities. The program is specifically designed for working professionals with three to seven years of experience. The degree requires 34 credit hours and selected coursework is online. No thesis is required, although it is optional. The degree may be completed in two or three years.

This interdisciplinary graduate degree requires courses from the IU Department of Journalism.

Graduates are prepared for management positions in public relations firms, corporations, government agencies, nonprofit organizations, associations, and health and life sciences organizations.

Students may specialize in three different areas of management:
- General Public Relations Management
- This focused area of study prepares graduates for public relations positions that require an increased amount of managerial knowledge and ability. The courses in this area of study are designed to focus on general management skills and experience, paired with an advanced public relations curriculum.

- Public Relations in Health Care and Life Sciences - This unique area of study prepares graduates for positions in today’s rapidly growing fields of health care and life sciences. This is a vital and growing business sector in Indiana with multiple organizations in the health care, life sciences and biotechnology, major hospitals and pharmaceutical industries. This track of study includes an advanced curriculum in public relations and business courses, with distinctive coursework concentrated in health care and life sciences public relations.

- Sports Public Relations Management - This focused area of study prepares graduates for public relations positions in sports organizations both professional and amateur ranging from sports teams to sports leagues and sports federations nationwide. Specific courses focus on various unique aspects of sports public relations at all levels.

Prerequisites
Within the first year of the program, if not previously taken or accounted for by professional experience, the student must have completed:

- JOUR-J 219: Introduction to Public Relations (3 cr.)
- JOUR-J 390: Public Relations Writing (3 cr.)
- JOUR-J 300: Communications Law (3 cr.)

Degree Requirements for the M.A. in Public Relations
Completion of 30 credit hours including:

Core Courses: (5 courses)

- JOUR-J 560: Public Relations Research and Evaluation (3 credits)
- JOUR-J 560: Public Relations Planning (3 credits)
- JOUR-J 529: Public Relations Campaigns (3 credits)
- JOUR-J 528: Public Relations Management (3 credits)
- JOUR-J 560: Public Relations Theory (3 credits)

Electives: (5 courses)

- PR Management Track - In addition to the core, students take five general electives in Journalism and Public Relations or Communication Studies.
- PR Sports Track - In addition to the general core, students take three core sports courses (JOUR-J 543, JOUR-J 540, and JOUR-J 542) and two electives in Journalism and Public Relations or Communication Studies.
- PR Healthcare and Life Sciences Track - In addition to the general core, students take two core topics courses (public relations in the life sciences and integrated marketing communication in healthcare) and three electives in Journalism and Public Relations or Communication Studies.

Grades

No grade below B- (2.7) will be counted toward this degree.

Sociology

Admission Requirements

Offered by the Department of Sociology at IUPUI and granted by the Indiana University Graduate School, the Master of Arts degree is designed to prepare students for conducting applied, policy-oriented, and basic research; to provide thorough training in the discipline’s basics for those who wish to pursue a doctoral degree elsewhere; and to equip those already in the workforce with the critical skills necessary for assessing and applying sociological knowledge in their everyday responsibilities.

Currently, the program features a general sociology degree with the option to focus one’s studies in one of three formal areas of concentration—Family/Gender Studies, Medical Sociology, and Work/Organizations. For those interested in Family/Gender Studies, there are links to the IUPUI Women's Studies program, the School of Social Work, and many public and private social service agencies. For Medical Sociology, the local resources include the Indiana University Schools of Medicine, Nursing, and Public Health, the Medical Humanities & Health Studies program, several hospitals, and many public health clinics and agencies. Those in the Work/Organizations track have opportunities on campus with the Schools of Business and of Public & Environmental Affairs, while the metropolis has many corporate headquarters and factories, labor union offices and government agencies.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS Students complete 36 credit hours of coursework. Core courses include Theory, Quantitative and Qualitative Research Methods and Sociological Statistics. The program of study culminates in either an internship or thesis experience.

Transfer Credits

The Graduate School limits transfers from other institutions to 8 credits with a grade of B or higher. Graduate work with a grade of B or higher obtained from other IU locations may be applied toward an M.A. in sociology. Requests for transfer credit from other graduate institutions will be evaluated for acceptance by the graduate committee after a student has been admitted into and completed 6 credits in the IUPUI sociology M.A. program. The department requires the last 18 credits be completed in its program.

Time Limit

Students must complete all requirements for the M.A. degree within five years.

Financial Aid

A small number of renewable teaching and research assistantships as well as first-year fellowships are available to graduate students on a competitive basis. Some include stipends or hourly pay plus tuition remission. Information is available from the department and the IUPUI Graduate Office. Students may also apply for loans or work study through the Office of Financial Aid.

Master of Arts in the Teaching of Spanish (M.A.T.)

General Description

The graduate program in Spanish has been designed specifically for teachers or future teachers of Spanish.
It offers graduate-level course work in the Spanish language, Hispanic cultures, teaching methodology, applied linguistics and Hispanic art and literature. It provides for the professional development of Spanish teachers through the improvement of their language and teaching skills, and it aims toward career advancement. Graduates of the program will in turn contribute to better teaching of Spanish in schools, improving the language skills and the cultural awareness of students who study Spanish.

Main Objectives

The course of study for the program is intended to equip students with knowledge of theories of second language acquisition and effective methods of teaching, as well as the main cultural manifestations of the language in literature. Students will understand the relationship between language and society in the Spanish-speaking world and the connections between language studies (language, literature, culture and translation/interpreting) with other disciplines, and they will be able to apply the knowledge of the language system and culture to function effectively as teaching professionals.

Design

The degree program consists of 36 credit hours of which 30 must be completed in residence at IUPUI. The Master of Arts in the Teaching of Spanish may be completed in four semesters at IUPUI or three semesters and two summer sessions. M.A. students must maintain a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (B). Only students taking advantage of the summer program in Salamanca (Summer Institute for Teachers of Spanish) can complete and transfer up to 12 credit hours (6 credits per summer) towards the degree. Any other students interested in transferring credits (6 maximum) from other institutions should keep in mind that this is acceptable as long as the contents of those courses are equivalent to any of the courses offered in the MAT, and prior approval by the Graduate Studies Committee.

Core Required Courses (9 cr.)

- SPAN-S 515: Acquisition of Spanish as a Second Language (3 cr.)
- SPAN-S 517: Methods of Teaching College Spanish (3 cr.)
- SPAN-S 519: Practicum in the Teaching of Spanish (3 cr.)

Elective Coursework (27 cr.)

Choose at least 27 credits in consultation with a faculty advisor. See list of courses here.

Students may select from the following options for the course of study:

Thesis Option: Includes 30 hours of coursework plus a Master's Thesis (6 credit hours).

Coursework Option: Requires 36 credit hours of coursework.

Study Abroad Option: Students may complete one or two summers at the University of Salamanca, Spain. Students who complete a summer study in Salamanca receive a Certificate from the University of Salamanca attesting to their completion of the summer program(s) in residence there. The University of Salamanca has a well-developed curriculum for foreign students who aspire to teach Spanish, and its Cursos para Profesores receives a high level of academic prestige internationally. Other study abroad credit must be approved by the graduate director.

Teacher Certificate Option: This option combines the M.A.T. with teacher certification through the IU School of Education and their "T2T" ("Transition to Teaching") Program. Students enrolled in this option develop a professional teaching portfolio and prepare for a career as a teacher in Indiana public schools. It consists of 47 graduate credit hours including additional courses and field work.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale) in the student's undergraduate major. Undergraduate degree in Spanish is expected, but related degrees are also considered (additional undergraduate courses may be required).

2. Official transcript.

3. Proficiency in the Spanish language. There are two options:
   1. Nivel Intermedio (B2) in the Diploma in Spanish (DELE) issued by the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport.
   2. OR applicant's oral sample of 10-15 minutes of spontaneous speech in Spanish AND an essay in Spanish on some aspect of Spanish culture, literature, linguistics, or pedagogy.

4. Three letters of recommendation. At least two of these should be from professors.

5. For international students, the university requires a minimum TOEFL score of 550 on the paper version, or 213 on the computer-based test. Send scores to Institution Code 1325, Department Code 2608. Students who do not achieve this score may be admitted to the university conditionally and may be required to take English as a Second Language courses through the Department of English. While taking these courses they will be allowed to register for a maximum of six credit hours in the Master of Arts for Teachers of Spanish. If admitted, international students will also be required to take IUPUI's ESL Placement exam before registering for the first semester.

6. Online application. Please access the online portion of the application.

   • Please note: While the GRE is not necessary for admission to the Master of Arts for Teachers Program in Spanish, it is required for application to certain financial aid programs. (See “Financial Assistance” below.)

6. Online application. Please access the online portion of the application.

   • Please note: Under Educational Objectives you must choose "Master's" as your type of admission, "Spanish (IU Graduate School)" as your academic program, and "Spanish M.A.T." as your major. Please also note that if you have already submitted an online application for Graduate Non-Degree status or for another graduate program, you must still complete a new online application for this program using a new personal identification number (PIN) and password and submit an additional application fee.

American Studies PhD
Curriculum (90 total hours; 60 hours beyond a M.A.)

The program’s curriculum is designed to maximize the capacity of IUPUI’s faculty to study America from a variety of disciplines and through a diversity of analytical tools and theories. In this program, a doctoral internship of at least a year will help students not only gain practical experience for post-graduate careers, but will also help structure their curricular choices and provide the foundation for dissertation work. The basic purpose of this program’s curriculum is to keep choices flexible so that students can take courses calibrated to the project crafted through their internship and dissertation. The proposed curriculum below outlines requirements and suggests potential doctoral paths of study for students. Students should leave this program being able to analyze theoretically, measure quantitatively or qualitatively, and present or demonstrate their work digitally.

Core courses (6 hours)

• AMST-A 601: American Studies in Theory
• AMST-A 602: American Studies in Practice AMST
• Doctoral Workshop (Skills workshop for students)

Methods courses (18 hours)

Most departments consistently teach methods courses as part of their graduate programs. As proposed here, such courses will comprise the foundation for the doctoral program in American Studies. The courses are distributed across three categories: analytical, digital, and quantitative/qualitative. Consultation between a student, the chair of the student’s committee, and, if possible, input from the internship director will help determine which courses necessary.

Minor Concentration (12 credits)

Every student will have at least one minor concentration, the list below covers those areas in which minors either already exist or can be easily created. Students also have the option of creating, in consultation with their committee, a minor that brings together courses from a few disciplines.

Existing Ph.D. Minors

• PhD Minor in Women’s Studies, IUPUI School of Liberal Arts
• PhD Minor in History, IUPUI School of Liberal Arts
• PhD Minor in Applied Anthropology, IUPUI School of Liberal Arts
• PhD Minor in Health Communication, IUPUI School of Liberal Arts
• PhD Minor in Sociology, IUPUI School of Liberal Arts
• PhD Minor in Philosophy, IUPUI School of Liberal Arts
• PhD Minor in Philanthropic Studies, IUPUI School of Philanthropy
• PhD Minor in Urban Education Studies, IUPUI School of Education
• PhD Minor in Human-Computer Interaction, IUPUI School of Informatics and Computing

Potential Ph.D. Minor Concentrations

• Urban Development and Sustainable Development
• Health, Illness, and Medicine in the United States
• Religious Pluralism and Community
• Crime, Community, and Justice• Ethnic Migration and Education• Urban-Suburban Transportation and the Fiscal Health of Cities• The Financial Nexus of High School, Collegiate, and Professional Sports in American Cities

Electives (24 credit hours)

Because of the interdisciplinary nature of this Ph.D., the student will choose elective courses that compliment this applied doctoral program. The student will work with her/his faculty committee to identify those courses that best complement the research questions of the Ph.D. concentration and that supplement the theories and areas of cultural study within American Studies. Electives can also be satisfied by coursework already completed prior to acceptance in the doctoral program such as a Masters degree or other applicable graduate level work.

International Coursework

Ideally, each student will be strongly encouraged to have at least 6-9 hours in coursework from a foreign university. Such coursework can involve a minor field, methods courses or elective credits.

Qualifying Exam—Written

All students shall take a written qualifying examination that aims to assess the student knowledge and readiness to carry out successful research. This exam will be completed by the semester prior to the start of the student’s internship.

Internship and Applied Dissertation (30 credit hours)

Internship

Among the chief aims of the program is to provide doctoral students in the humanities and social sciences with opportunities to train for careers outside of academia. The doctoral internship required of this program places interns in non-profit, for-profit, and government agencies where they participate full-time in the substantive work of an organization. The AMST program works with the external organization to cover costs associated with graduate training, including health insurance and monthly stipends. The doctoral internship serves as part of the research for student dissertations and therefore must be guided by the student’s research committee.

Dissertation

The American Studies doctoral program encourages a student to investigate problems connected with the internship; therefore, the final product will be an applied dissertation. The applied dissertation will contribute to the literature in a student’s concentration area. The dissertation must be an original contribution to knowledge and of high scholarly merit. The candidate’s research must reveal critical ability and powers of imagination and synthesis. The dissertation is written under the supervision of a research director and a research committee and cannot be a collection of unrelated published papers. There must be a logical connection between all components of the dissertation, and these must be integrated in a rational and coherent fashion. It is the responsibility of the student’s research committee to determine the kind and amount of published material that may be included in a dissertation.
Master of Arts in the Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL)

The 31-credit hour M.A. in TESOL is a professional degree that prepares graduate students to become effective teachers of English to adult learners who speak other native languages, both in the U.S. and abroad. Far more than just a program for “teaching grammar,” the M.A. in TESOL degree provides both a strong theoretical foundation as well as hands-on practical experiences.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Students must select one of the two program options:

Thesis Option:

- Required Courses: Students must take the five core courses for a total of 16 credit hours, as well as ENG-Z 690: Advanced Reading in TESOL (1-4 credits) and ENG-Z 699 M.A. Thesis (3 credits)• Electives: Students choose at least three courses (at least 8-11 credits)• Total: 31 credit hours

Internship Option:

- Required Courses: Students must take the five core courses for a total of 16 credit hours, as well as ENG-Z 598: TESOL Internship (3 credits)• Electives: Students choose at least four courses (at least 12 credits)• Total: 31 credit hours

CURRICULUM

Core courses (16 credit hours/5 courses)

- ENG-G 500: Introduction to the English Language (4 credits)• ENG-Z 520: Second Language Development (3 credits)• ENG-Z 523: TESOL Methods (3 credits)• ENG-Z 541: English for Specific Purposes (ESP) and Materials Development (3 credits)• ENG-Z 545: TESOL Pracicum (3 credits)

Elective courses (At least 15 credit hours/5 courses)

Other graduate courses in literature, writing, and literacy, or related fields as approved by the director. No more than six credits may be transferred from or taken outside the department.

Anthropology

Students who are candidates for the Ph.D. degree in other program or departments may obtain a minor in Anthropology at IUPUI. The intent of the minor is to develop interdisciplinary skills, exposing students to theories and methods outside of their major department. The Ph.D. minor in Anthropology has an unstructured curriculum that can provide students with a foundation in basic areas in Anthropology and the opportunity to study advanced anthropological theory and research methods.

Requirements for the Ph.D. minor in Anthropology

- ANTH-E 501: Fundamentals of Applied Anthropology
- An additional three courses at the 500 level or above
- An average grade of B (3.0 on a 4.0 scale) or above in all courses.
- All of these courses must be taken in the Anthropology Department on the IUPUI campus.

Students wanting a minor in Anthropology should initially meet with an advisor in their home department and should then contact the Director of Graduate Studies in Anthropology. For more information, please visit our departmental web page.

History

Students in other departments may minor in history by completing, with a grade point average no lower than B (3.0), at least 12 credit hours of course work in history. A minimum of 6 credit hours must be taken on the Indianapolis campus. This course work shall include:

- HIST-H 501: Historical Methodology (4 cr.)
- Either a 600-level colloquium (e.g., HIST-H 620, HIST-H 650) (4 cr.) or a 700-level seminar (e.g., HIST-H 730, HIST-H 750) (4 cr.)
- At least 4 additional credit hours (which may include a maximum of 3 credits of HIST H575 Graduate Readings in History)

Graduate Minors

- Anthropology and Health
- Communication Studies - Communicating Science
- History
- Medical Humanities and Health Studies
- Philosophy
- Sociology
- Women’s Studies

Philosophy

Although IUPUI does not offer a doctoral major in philosophy, it offers a doctoral minor in philosophy to students pursuing doctoral degrees in other fields. The requirements for a doctoral minor in philosophy include: 12 credit hours of graduate courses in philosophy, with a grade point average of at least 3.0 (B), including 6 credit hours in courses selected from the Philosophy Core. The Philosophy Core consists of these six 3 cr. courses:

- PHIL-P 525: Topics in the History of Philosophy
- PHIL-P 540: Contemporary Ethical Theories
- PHIL-P 543: Contemporary Social and Political Philosophy
- PHIL-P 553: Philosophy of Science
- PHIL-P 560: Metaphysics
- PHIL-P 562: Theory of Knowledge

Sociology

Students who are candidates for the Ph.D. degree in other departments may obtain a minor in Sociology at IUPUI. The intent of the minor is to develop multidisciplinary skills, exposing students to theories and methods outside their major department. The Ph.D. minor in Sociology has an unstructured curriculum that can provide students a foundation in basic areas in Sociology and the opportunity to study advanced sociological theory, qualitative and quantitative research methods, and statistics.

Requirements for the Ph.D. minor in Sociology:

• Four Sociology courses at the 500-level or above, totaling twelve credits.
• An average grade of B (3.0 on a 4.0 scale) or above in these courses.
• No more than one individual readings course.
• At least half of these courses must be taken at the IUPUI campus.

Students wanting to minor in Sociology should initially meet with an advisor in their home department, and then contact the Director of Graduate Studies in Sociology.

Women's Studies

Requirements for a graduate minor (12 Cr.):

• One of the following introductory Women's Studies courses:
  WOST-W 601: (3 credits)
  WOST-W 602: (3 credits)

• One of the following supplemental Women's Studies courses:
  WOST-W 500: (3 credits)
  WOST-W 695: (3 credits)
  WOST-W 701: (3 credits)

-And-

At least 6 credit hours in women's studies courses (including cross-listed courses) approved by the Women's Studies program.

Communicating Science

Rationale

• The graduate minor in communicating science addresses two primary problems.
• First, scientists and health professionals today need to connect to and engage with the lay public, policy makers, funders, students, and professionals from other disciplines. Therefore, they increasingly need to tailor their communication for a variety of audiences who are not (or not yet) scientific experts or researchers.
• Second, instead of assuming traditional PI roles and post-docs, many PhD-level scientists and health professionals are turning frequently to careers in business and industry, public policy, science reporting, and other fields. These emerging roles require the ability to communicate specific scientific knowledge to broad audiences (Funk & Rainie, 2015).
• In both cases, current graduate programs in the sciences provide limited preparation for these communication expectations. As a result, this minor seeks to fill that educational gap for future scientists and health professionals.

About the Minor

The minor in communicating science is designed for masters and doctoral students in the sciences and health professions to develop audience-centered communication, distill scientific concepts into meaningful narratives, and connect effectively with collaborators and funders.

The program brings together communication and rhetorical theory with the techniques of applied improvisation to enhance students' career prospects, help them secure funding, and serve as effective teachers.

Graduate Minor in Communicating Science

Required Courses (Total 12 credit hours)

Students are required to take two semesters of 3, one-credit hour co-requisite courses.

Co-Requisite Block 1 (3 cr hrs):

• COMM-C 534: Distilling Your Message: Communicating Science (1 cr)
• COMM-C 533: Improvisation for Scientists: Communicating Science (1 cr)
• ENGL-W 533: Science Writing for Public Readers: Communicating Science (1 cr)

Co-Requisite Block 2 (3 cr hrs):

• COMM-C 535: Using Electronic Media: Communicating Science (1 cr)
• ENGL-W 535: Science Writing for Public Readers II: Communicating Science (1 cr)
• COMM-C 536: Connecting with the Community: Communicating Science (1 cr, Program Capstone)

Students will chose two courses (6 credit hours) from the following list:

• COMM-C 510: Health Provider-Consumer Communication (3 cr.)
• COMM-C 521: Family Communication in Health Contexts (3 cr.)
• COMM-C 591: Topics in Applied Communication (3 cr.) with relevant topics in science/health
• COMM-C 592: Advanced Health Communication (3 cr.)
• COMM-C 650: Health Communication in Mediated Contexts (3 cr.)
• COMM-C 695: Seminar in Communication and Healthcare (3 cr.)
• ENG-W 600: Topics in Rhetoric and Composition (3 cr.), with relevant topics in science/health
• HIST-H 546: History of Science, Medicine, and Technology (3 cr.)
• IBMG-G 655: Research Communications (3 cr.)
• JOUR-J 528: Public Relations Management (3 cr.)
• JOUR-J 560: Public Relations Research and Evaluation (3 cr.), with topics in Public Relations in the Life Sciences and Integrating Marketing Communication in Health Care
• PBHL-H 612: Marketing for Health Services Delivery (3 cr.)
• PBHL-S 625: Applied Public Health Campaigns and Social Marketing Strategies (3 cr.)
• PBHL-S 622: Coaching for Health Behavior Change (3 cr.)
• PBHL-E 606: Grant Writing: From Befuddlement to Brilliance (3 cr.)

Note:
The Communicating Science minor is not open to Health Communication PhD students or Applied Communication MA students.

Medical Humanities and Health Studies

The PhD Minor in Medical Humanities and Health Studies offers an interdisciplinary course of study drawn from the social science and humanities disciplines of liberal arts, as well as courses and participation of faculty from other schools. The field of Medical Humanities and Health Studies provides students with the qualitative humanistic and socio-cultural perspectives on medicine and health care, in contrast to the clinical/objective approach traditionally taken in biomedicine.

Required Course (students will take one required course):
- MHHS-M 501: The Human Condition (3 cr. hrs.)

Elective Courses (students will choose three elective courses):
- MHHS-M 504: Intro to Res Ethics
- MHHS-M 520: Culture of Mental Illness
- MHHS-M 592: Topics in Medical Humanities & Health Studies
- MHHS-M 598: Readings in Medical Humanities and Health Studies
- PHIL-P 547: Foundations of Bioethics
- PHIL-P 696: Topics in Biomedical Ethics
- PHIL-P 555: Ethical and Policy Issues in International Research
- COMM-C 592: Advanced Health Communication
- COMM-C 510: Health Provider-Consumer Communication
- COMM-C 521: Family Communication in Health Contexts
- COMM-C 591: Variable Topics in Health Communication
- COMM-C 695: Seminar in Communication and Healthcare
- SOC-R 585: Social Aspects Mental Health/Mental Illness
- SOC-R 515: Sociology of Health and Illness
- SOC-S 610: Sociology of Health and Illness Behavior
- SOC-S 526: Sociology of Human Sexuality
- SOC-S 560: Topics in Medical Sociology
- ANTH-A 560: Topics in Medical Anthropology
- ENG-L 592: Literature and Medicine
- HIST-H 546: History of Science, Medicine and Technology

Graduate Certificate - American Philosophy

Students completing the Philosophy graduate certificate curriculum will:
- Know and understand important figures, theories, and arguments related to the certificate subject area: bioethics or American philosophy.
- Comprehend interpret, analyze, and evaluate complex philosophical concepts, claims, and arguments.
- Write and speak clearly and competently on philosophical topics related to the certificate subject area.

Master of Arts in Anthropology (M.A.)

Students completing the Anthropology Master’s program will demonstrate the following outcomes:
- Knowledge Base of Anthropology: All students are required to demonstrate knowledge of the history of the discipline of Anthropology and of the key theoretical models that have informed the field.
- Research Methods in Anthropology: The student will be required to demonstrate their mastery of basic anthropological research methods.
- Ability to Design a Research Proposal: Students will identify a key question for investigation, define its anthropological dimensions, link it to anthropological scholarly trends, and design an appropriate methodology with which to execute that research.
- Ability to Carry Out Applied Research: Students will design and carry out approved research in collaboration with an agency or organization.
- Diversity: Students will have an understanding of human diversity in culture based on cross-cultural comparison.
- Civic Engagement: Students will be expected to work collaboratively with a number of community-based organizations in collaborative relationships; students will be expected to produce work that, in addition to its scholarly merit, serves the interests and needs of a range of communities.
• Writing Skills: Students are expected to write at a scholarly level appropriate for publication in a peer-reviewed journal.
• Speaking Skills: Students are expected to be able to present their work in a range of scholarly settings including academic conferences, symposia and other fora.
• Technology: Students are expected to be able to use computers for a range of purposes including: statistical calculations (when appropriate), creation of academic posters, use of software for transcription of interviews, qualitative analysis of data.
• Human Subjects Protection: All students working with human subjects will take and pass the human subjects CITI test for Social/Behavioral Researchers (Stage 1) and have their individual research projects approved by the appropriate IRB body.

Master of Arts in Applied Communication (M.A.)
The Department of Communication Studies offers an M.A. in Applied Communication with concentrations in corporate communication, health communication, media criticism or public communication. This unique applied program provides students with theoretical understanding of communication processes as well as with the competencies and skills necessary to address specific communication issues and problems by applying discipline-specific knowledge. The program readies the advanced student for professional career paths and future academic pursuits. Students completing the Applied Communications M.A. curriculum will:

• Design and execute communication strategies and create programs to address contemporary communication problems.
• Apply communication theories to specific communication issues and problems in the workplace and the community and communication-specific theory to predict human interaction.
• Demonstrate an advanced theoretical knowledge in preparation for Ph.D studies.

Graduate Certificate - Bioethics
Students completing the Philosophy graduate certificate curriculum will:

• Know and understand important figures, theories, and arguments related to the certificate subject area: bioethics or American philosophy.
• Comprehend interpret, analyze, and evaluate complex philosophical concepts, claims, and arguments.
• Write and speak clearly and competently on philosophical topics related to the certificate subject area.

Graduate Certificate - Museum Studies
Students completing the Museum Studies certificate will:

• Develop their abilities as critical thinkers by questioning the role of museums in society and think critically and creatively to evaluate and improve that role.
• Engage in hands-on learning in an area of the museum field through an internship experience.
• Become familiar with and develop basic competency in the core areas of museum practice including collections, education, exhibit development, and administration.

Master of Arts in Economics (M.A.)
The Master of Arts program has a twofold objective: (1) to provide students with analytical capabilities and research skills for careers in business, government, and the nonprofit sector; and (2) to prepare those who wish to pursue the Ph.D. at IUPUI, Indiana University Bloomington, or another university. Students completing the Economics M.A. curriculum will:

• Know a wide variety of economic issues.
• Understand the current state of economic thought with regard to these issues
• Be able to use mathematical and/or statistical models based on economic theory—including models that are computable—to help understand and address important economic issues.
• Be able to understand the limitations of statistical data analysis, particularly in regard to detecting causal relationships between economic variables and be familiar with techniques for addressing these limitations.
• Be familiar with computer programs for manipulating large data sets and for conducting statistical analysis using these data sets.

Master of Arts in English (M.A.)
The graduate English program has been designed to prepare students for careers in the analysis and production of texts. The program covers issues and skills in reading and writing, in the richest sense of these words—in order to prepare students to address these issues and to teach these skills. Graduates of the program should be prepared for such careers as teaching writing and literature; teaching English as a second language; and writing for business, government, and other professions. In contrast to traditional M.A. programs, which place heavy emphasis on literary history, the IUPUI program focuses on the application of English studies to contemporary situations and problems. Students completing the English M.A. curriculum will be able to:

• Identify and define fundamental concepts, terms, and theories in two areas of graduate-level English studies (writing, creative writing, literature, linguistics).
• Critically read, write about, and evaluate issues in English Studies.
• Demonstrate advanced skills in reading, writing, and evaluating issues in the discipline of English Studies.
• Apply various critical perspectives to a wide range of texts, including historical, theoretical, and literary material.
• Demonstrate a working knowledge of the cultural diversity of language and literatures.
• Plan and present coherent, persuasive, and original oral and written arguments.
• Design and conduct independent research.
• Produce through a reflective writing process manuscripts suitable for publication.

Master of Science in Geographic Information Science (M.S.)
The Master of Science in Geographic Information Science prepares students for professional careers or advanced graduate studies in the field through seminars, lectures, laboratory, internship, and faculty-supervised research. Students completing the Geographic Information Science M.S. curriculum will:
• Understand key foundational concepts, methodological processes, and analytical skills in Geographic information science.
• Be able to demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the literature in at least one subfield or application area of geographic information science.
• Be able to develop a research proposal and carry out a research project under faculty supervision.
• Be able to demonstrate the ability to professionally communicate research findings in oral, written and graphic forms.

Graduate Certificate - Geographic Information Science
The Graduate Certificate in Geographic Information Science prepares students for employment in positions where the creation, management, analysis, and presentation of spatial information are crucial. Students completing the Geographical Information Science certification will:
• Understand key foundational concepts, methodological processes, and analytical skills in geographic information science.
• Understand the principles underlying the use of spatial information technologies in theoretical and applied settings.
• Be able to demonstrate the creation, management, analysis, and presentation of spatial information.
• Be able to demonstrate the ability to design, analyze, and interpret spatial analytical problems.

Ph.D. in Health Communication
Students completing the Ph.D. in Health Communication will be able to:
• Analyze and synthesize a breadth of theoretical constructs in communication studies
• Design and conduct independent health communication research that contributes to ongoing scholarly discussions in a specialized area of health communication
• Select and evaluate appropriate methodologies for conducting health communication research
• Communicate both orally and in writing for professional and academic audiences
• Demonstrate professional socialization into the communication studies discipline

Doctor of Philosophy in Economics (Ph.D.)
The Ph.D. program is designed to advance knowledge concerning Health Economics. Develop the skills essential for our graduates to conduct independent research in this area. The students completing Ph.D. program will:
• Demonstrate a high level of understanding of economic theory, and of statistical theory especially relevant for economics.
• Demonstrate a thorough understanding of the state of knowledge in their fields of specialization within economics, including theoretical models, research methodologies, and empirical results.
• Demonstrate the ability to critically assess economic issues, and to integrate economic theory and statistical/econometric analysis in order to evaluate these issues.
• Demonstrate the ability to assemble, organize and analyze economic data, in order to conduct advanced econometric analysis ability to conduct independent, original research in economics.

Master of Arts in History (M.A.)
Students completing the History M.A. curriculum will:
• Know the importance and critical perspective of historical knowledge for understanding contemporary society.
• Demonstrate an advanced level of factual knowledge in their field of historical study (U.S., European, Public).
• Demonstrate mastery of the historiography of their field of historical study.
• Demonstrate competence in the methodologies commonly employed in the discipline.
• Demonstrate a high level of clarity, accuracy, and sophistication in written and oral communication.
• Carry out a research project (M.A. thesis) that employs both primary and secondary sources, is completed in conformity with the conventions and standards of the discipline, and makes a significant contribution to knowledge.

• Communicating Science

Master of Arts in Sports Journalism (M.A.)

Upon completion of this program, graduates will be able to:

• Demonstrate excellent oral and written communication skills using print, broadcast, digital, and social media.
• Appraise and apply journalistic values and ethical standards and their use in both traditional news media and the evolving field of digital sports media.
• Analyze and write about sports in a larger social context involving economic, legal, social, and political issues.
• Evaluate the symbiotic relationship between sports and the media from historical and contemporary perspectives.
• Assess the strategic differences used in communicating with news audiences on print, broadcast, and digital platforms.
• Manage and implement new forms of sports journalism online, including blogging, tweeting, and streaming audio and video.

Master of Arts in Museum Studies (M.A.)

Students completing the Museum Studies M.A. curriculum will:

• Develop their abilities as critical thinkers by questioning the role of museums in society and think critically and creatively to evaluate and improve that role.
• Engage in hands-on learning in an area of the museum field through an internship experience.
• Become familiar with and develop basic competency in the core areas of museum practice including collections, education, exhibit development, and administration.

Graduate Certificate in Museum Studies

Students completing the Museum Studies certificate will:

• Develop their abilities as critical thinkers by questioning the role of museums in society and think critically and creatively to evaluate and improve that role.
• Engage in hands-on learning in an area of the museum field through an internship experience.

Doctor of Philosophy in Economics (Ph.D.)

The Ph.D. program is designed to advance knowledge concerning Philanthropy/Nonprofit Economics. It will develop the skills essential for our graduates to conduct independent research in this area. Students completing the Economics Ph.D curriculum will:

• Demonstrate a high level of understanding of economic theory, and of statistical theory especially relevant for economics.
• Demonstrate a thorough understanding of the state of knowledge in their fields of specialization within economics, including theoretical models, research methodologies, and empirical results.
• Demonstrate the ability to critically assess economic issues, and to integrate economic theory and statistical/econometric analysis in order to evaluate these issues.
• Demonstrate the ability to assemble, organize and analyze economic data, in order to conduct advanced econometric analysis ability to conduct independent, original research in economics.

Master of Arts in Philosophy (M.A.)

Students completing the Philosophy M.A. curriculum will:

• Know and understand important figures, theories, and arguments in core areas of classical and contemporary philosophy.
• Know and understand important figures, theories, and arguments related to a specific subject area:
American philosophy, bioethics, or international research ethics.

- Comprehend interpret, analyze, and evaluate complex philosophical concepts, claims, and arguments.
- Conduct mentored philosophical research leading to competent, well-researched, in-depth argumentative essays on specific topics.
- Develop and deliver clear, accurate, informative research presentations for academic or professional audiences.

Certificate in Professional Editing
Students completing the Professional Editing certificate will:

- Know the techniques and consequences of traditional editing procedures, learn how corrupted texts of the past can be recovered and disseminated for readers today, and explore how these procedures are evolving in reaction to the rapidly changing technical communications environment of the information age.
- Understand that editing is an historical discipline.
- Be able to examine how texts have been edited in the past;
- Be able to recognize the steps involved in editorial procedures, analyze and categorize the various types of errors that are the result of hand press and machine press printing;
- Be able to demonstrate their understanding of book production by writing analytical and descriptive bibliographies, reconstruct textual genealogies of the transmission of a work, evaluate current editions of the same work; and
- Be able to discern what paradigms of editing held sway in different historical periods, analyze and respond to arguments about the best ways to present to the modern reader both public and private documents of historical significance, and design ways to present and preserve document quality in electronic environments

Master of Arts in Public Relations (M.A.)
The public relations degree has three tracks: General Public Relations management, Public Relations in Health Care and Life Sciences, and Sports Public Relations Management. These are the learning outcomes for each program.

M.A. in Public Relations - Management Concentration
Upon completion of this program, graduates will be able to:

- Apply formative and evaluative research in public attitudes and behaviors.
- Design and develop strategic goals and objectives for public relations.
- Apply the underlying theories of communication to public relations programs and campaigns.
- Apply basic business accounting and finance principles to the management of public relations programs and campaigns.
- Apply basic marketing techniques practiced by businesses.
- Explain and describe business marketing activities, economics, business law, and global business practices.
- Effectively evaluate public relations campaigns and programs.
- Summarize management theory and practice in public relations.

M.A. in Public Relations - Health Care and Life Sciences Concentration
In addition to the learning outcomes for the Public Relations Management Concentration, graduates will be able to:

- Describe and explain the operation of health care systems and communication as it relates to those systems.
- Demonstrate and plan public relations in the regulated communications environment of life sciences companies and organizations.

M.A. in Public Relations - Sports Concentration
In addition to the learning outcomes for the Public Relations Management Concentration, graduates will be able to:

• Be able to identify and implement effective pedagogical practices.
• Be able to identify appropriate teaching objectives, techniques, materials and outcomes.
• Be able to contribute to the improved teaching of Spanish in schools by fostering strong language skills and deep cultural awareness among their students.
• Be able to apply the knowledge of the language system and culture to function effectively as teaching professionals, and in intercultural settings at home and abroad.
• Be able to interact within multilingual international communities here and abroad in ethically and culturally sensitive ways.
• Be able to reflect on their teaching practice and seek professional development opportunities.

Graduate Certificate - Teaching Literature

Students completing the certificate in teaching literature will able to:

• Recognize and define major theories and historical perspectives in the teaching of literature.
• Analyze the complexities of literature and its application in personal, public, and professional contexts.
• Create, design, and produce effective evaluations of literature assignments and supporting activities.
• Demonstrate knowledge of a reflective, research-based approach to major issues in the teaching of literature.
• Articulate an informed, practical pedagogy for the teaching of literature.
• Write a clear and persuasive research-based argument that adheres to conventions of documentation.
• Evaluate the impact of culture, gender, race, and history on the writing, reception, and teaching of literature.
• Demonstrate an ability to accept and offer critical feedback to and from peers.

Graduate Certificate - Teaching Writing

Students completing the certificate in teaching writing will able to:

• Recognize and define major theories and historical perspectives in the teaching of writing.
• Analyze the complexities of writing and its uses in personal, public, and professional contexts.
• Create, design, and produce effective evaluations of writing assignments and supporting activities.
• Demonstrate knowledge of a reflective, research-based approach to major issues in the teaching of writing.
• Articulate an informed, practical pedagogy for the teaching of writing.
• Write a clear and persuasive research-based argument that adheres to conventions of documentation.
• Evaluate the impact of culture, gender, race, and history on texts and ideas as well as language use and structure.
• Demonstrate an ability to accept and offer critical feedback to and from peers.

Graduate Certificate - Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL)

Students completing the TESOL certificate will able to:
• Describe the features of both second language and first language discourse.
• Explain the theoretical principles of second language learning from linguistic, psychological, and social perspectives.
• Explain the principles, strategies, and features of second language teaching in a variety of contexts.
• Describe how learning a second language differs from learning one’s first language.
• Exemplify the theory-to-praxis connection in second language teaching in a variety of contexts, modes, and genres.
• Devise and use instruments for adequately and appropriately assessing language learners’ educational needs and language development in diverse contexts.
• Design and implement pedagogically-sound lesson plans, teaching materials, courses, and curricula for second language learners in a variety of contexts with respect to reading, writing, listening, speaking, and culture.
• Evaluate and refine (one’s own) teaching practices on the basis of second language learning research and specific students’ learning outcomes using the tools of self-reflection and classroom observation.

Graduate Certificate in Translation Studies
Students completing the Translation Studies certificate will:

• Know the basic premises of translation and work within a framework that assists them in effectively conveying a written text from one language into another.
• Know the basic theoretical concepts supporting translation studies and be able to apply those theories to the practice of translation.
• Understand the complexities of the task of translation, as well as the role it plays in the dissemination of ideas and cultures.
• Understand the differences between translation and interpretation and the different skill sets required for.
• Understand the ethical responsibilities that go along with the profession and practice of translation.
• Be able to effectively translate a variety of texts into both Spanish and English, taking into consideration the specific circumstances related to both the source and target languages and cultures.
• Be able to demonstrate the necessary skills to effectively translate a variety of discourse typologies such as commercial, legal, technical, medical and literary.
• Be able to appropriately use the fundamental tools for translation such as dictionaries (monolingual, bilingual, terminology specific, glossaries and Internet resources) and Computer Assisted Translation programs.

• Be able to demonstrate superior proofreading and editing skills for crafting and evaluating translations.
• Be able to discuss translation and interpretation in a professional and academic manner.
• Be able to continue to graduate work for those who intend to pursue research in translation studies.

Comunicating Science
1. Select and create appropriate forms of communication to connect ethically with non-scientific audiences using narrative, explanatory, and persuasive modes (PGPL 1, 3, 4)
2. Transform scientific communication from formal research reports into publicly accessible forms in face-to-face, electronic, and print contexts (PGPL 3, 4)
3. Evaluate, modify, and continually adjust the length and complexity of a concept for a given rhetorical situation (PGPL 4)
4. Measure and modify the effectiveness of communication in given rhetorical situations (PGPL 3)

American Studies PhD
Students completing the American Studies PhD curriculum will:

Graduate Programs
The anthropology, communication studies, economics, english, geography, history, journalism, medical humanities and health studies, museum studies, philosophy, sociology, and spanish programs presently offer master's degrees.

Students will not receive graduate credit without the written approval of a graduate advisor and the instructor of the course. Acceptable performance in the courses is also a condition for receiving graduate credit. In addition, other departments offer graduate course work. In addition, several departments and programs offer graduate certificate programs and minors.

Core Communication

COMM-C 104 Voice and Diction (3 cr.) Directed primarily toward the improvement of normal speech patterns, with emphasis on normal production, resonance, and articulation. PUL=1A

COMM-C 108 Listening (3 cr.) This course will provide a theory-based understanding of the process of listening, introduce the unique characteristics/challenges of listening within a variety of contexts (i.e., organizational listening, listening in health care, relational listening), and increase proficiency as a listener. PUL=1A

COMM-C 180 Introduction to Interpersonal Communication (3 cr.) The study of human dyadic interaction. Perception processes, verbal/nonverbal communication, models of communication, conflict, and interpersonal communication in relationships. Applications of interpersonal communication theory/research to communication competence. PUL=5

COMM-C 223 Business and Professional Communication (3 cr.) P: R110 or equivalent. Introductory survey of organizational communication processes; preparation and presentation of interviews, speeches, and oral reports appropriate to business and professional organizations; group discussion and decision-making. This is an intermediate skills course with survey characteristics. PUL=1A

COMM-C 228 Discussion and Group Methods (3 cr.) Theory of and practice in effective participation in and leadership of group, committee, conference, and public discussion; application to information-sharing and problem-solving situations. PUL=1C

COMM-C 322 Advanced Interpersonal Communication (3 cr.) P: C180 or permission of instructor. Covers core components of the study of interpersonal communication: perception, systems, exchange theoretical approaches; methods of research in interpersonal communication; content (topic) areas such as intimate relationships and friendships. Includes applications of interpersonal communication theory/research. PUL=5

COMM-C 325 Interviewing Principles and Practices (3 cr.) P: COMM-R 110 or equivalent. Emphasizes verbal and nonverbal communication in pre-interview background research preparation, interview schedule design, question construction, and post-interview self-analysis in several interviewing contexts. Course includes significant assignments designed to help the student enhance oral performance competencies. PUL=1A

COMM-C 328 Advanced Topics in Small Group Communication (3 cr.) P: COMM-C 228 or permission of instructor. Theories of small group communication processes. Explores group communication across cultures, groups in organizations, group decision making, conflict management in groups, and assessing competence in group communication. PUL=1A

COMM-C 380 Organizational Communication (3 cr.) The application of communication theory and research to the study of communication in various types of organizations. Explores reciprocal influence between communication and organizational structures and between communication and managerial styles. Discusses communication designs, superior/subordinate communication, conflict, information management, networks; communication vis-a-vis employee motivation, satisfaction, and productivity; and communication effectiveness in organizations. PUL=1A

COMM-C 392 Health Communication (3 cr.) P: 3 credit hours of communication or consent of instructor. Survey of theory and research in Health Communication.

Focuses on interpersonal communication between patients and providers, mass communication of health-related messages, and communication within health care organizations. PUL=2;

COMM-C 393 Family Communication (3 cr.) P: COMM-C 180 or permission of instructor. Theory/research on the role of communication in creating and maintaining marriages and families. Topics include communication and family life cycles, different family forms, family race/ethnicity, power, and conflict. Covers applications of family communication theory/research, but this is not a skills course. PUL=2

COMM-C 394 Communication and Conflict (3 cr.) Analyzes conflict as a form of interaction. Examines approaches/perspectives to the study of conflict, the nature of power, face saving, and contentious behaviors. Specific contexts include relational, marital, group, and organizational. Special attention to bargaining and mediation. PUL=1A

COMM-C 401 Speech Communication of Technical Information (3 cr.) P: COMM-R 110 or equivalent. Organization and presentation of information of a practical, technical nature. Emphasis is placed on the study, preparation, and use of audiovisual materials. For nonmajors only. PUL=1C

COMM-C 402 Interview and Discussion for Business and Professions (3 cr.) For nonmajors only. Principles of communication as related to the information-gathering interview, the employment interview, and problem-solving discussion; practice in using these principles. PUL=1A

COMM-C 481 Current Issues in Organizational Communication (3 cr.) P: COMM-C 380 or permission of instructor. In-depth exploration of topics and issues at the forefront of research and theory in organizational communication. Topics may include gender issues in organizational communication, sexual harassment, crisis management, organizational culture. Seminar format with research papers and class discussion/presentations. PUL=2; RISE=R

COMM-C 482 Intercultural Communication (3 cr.) P: COMM-C 180 or permission of instructor. Explores the relationships between communication and culture, with special emphasis on cultural differences in communication in a variety of contexts (i.e., health, education, business). Focuses on developing intercultural communication competencies. PUL=5

Specific topics include healing communication basics, family, couple, group (e.g. support groups) and community healing (restorative justice; peace building). There is a strong focus on research theory and practice. Some assignments involve community participation. PUL=1A (major), 2 (moderate), and 6 (minor)

COMM-C 400 Health Provider-Consumer Communication (3 cr.) This course is designed to provide an in depth focus on the communication skills and practices related to the interpersonal dialogue between health care providers and patients, with a special concern for its impact on satisfaction and health outcomes. PUL=4

COMM-C 375 Nonverbal Communication (1-3 cr.) Course examines the influences of nonverbal communication cues: interpersonal dynamics, media, environmental dimensions, and rhetorical strategies. Cross-cultural and gender differences in nonverbal codes will also be explored. PUL=2

COMM-C 299 Communicating Queer Identity (3 cr.) Discuss queer sexual identity, implications of the controversies surrounding the intersection between LGBT and contextual factors such as age, gender, race, ethnicity, etc. Communicative and behavioral lives of sexual minorities come into focus by employing a critical perspective as we explore self-concept, coming-out, heteronormativity, socio-cultural norms, hate rhetoric, and homophobia PUL=1A, 5, 3

COMM-C 382 Dialogue Facilitator Training (3 cr.) P: COMM C290 or permission of the instructor; This course is designed to provide students with both a theoretical and practical foundation in the knowledge, understanding, and skills to effectively facilitate intergroup dialogues. Students will be trained to facilitate intergroup dialogues in a number of campus and community settings. PUL=5

COMM-C 282 Experienceing Intergroup Dialogue (3 cr.) In this intergroup dialogue, students will participate in semi-structured face-to-face meetings across social identity groups. Students will discuss relevant reading material related to social identity, groups, and group discussion and dialogue. Students will participate in exercises that will be explored in class and in weekly journals. Students will learn about pertinent issues facing the participating groups on campus and in society. The goal is to create a setting in which students engage in open and constructive dialogue, learning, and exploration concerning issues of intergroup relations, conflict, and community. Dialogue sessions will take place during class sessions. Under the direction of the faculty, two advanced student facilitators with previous dialogue experience will facilitate the classroom dialogues. PUL=5,1C

COMM-C 383 Women and Leadership Communication (3 cr.) This course is an advanced seminar. In this course you will focus on the theories and research about leadership and women. Seminal and contemporary theories of leadership are surveyed along with research on and about female leadersPUL=1A,3

General Communication
COMM-G 100 Introduction to Communication Studies (3 cr.) Survey course of history, theory, and practice in each of six major areas: rhetoric and public address, theatre arts, interpersonal/organizational communication, small group dynamics, public communication, and media studies. For each of the areas examined, students will apply theory to practice, thereby learning to become more effective communicators. PUL=1A

COMM-G 125 Topics in Communication Studies (1-3 cr.) Select introductory theory and practice in specialized or consolidated areas of communication and theatre not directly covered by current curricular offerings. Topics will vary from one semester to another. A student may register for a total of no more than 6 credit hours under this course number. PUL=1A

COMM-G 201 Introduction to Communication Theory (3 cr.) A survey of theories in the field of human communication. Consideration is given to theories that explain communication behavior between pairs of people, within groups, in organizations, and in societies. PUL=2

COMM-G 300 Independent Study (1-8 cr.) 45 clock hours = 1 credit hour, no more than 9 credit hours of COMM G300 and COMM G491 together Research or practical experience in various departmental areas as selected by the student prior to registration, outlined in consultation with the instructor, and approved by the department. PUL=4

COMM-G 310 Introduction to Communication Research (3 cr.) Methodologies and types of data analyses for investigating communication phenomena. Students will acquire knowledge and competencies that will allow them to understand and address the process of communication research and relevant communication research issues. PUL=1B

COMM-G 390 Honors (1-5 cr.) P: Junior standing and departmental approval. Individualized readings and/or project work devised by the student; regular meetings with faculty supervisor. PUL=2

COMM-G 391 Advanced Topics in Communication Studies (1-6-8 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. Topic announced in prior semester; oriented to current topics in communication and/or theatre. PUL=3

COMM-G 491 Internship (3-6 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. For seniors and majors only. Internship in rhetoric and public address, theatre arts, interpersonal/organizational communication, media studies permitted under the auspices of a qualified cooperating organization. Periodic meetings with faculty advisors and term paper detailing intern's professional activities and reactions. Apply during semester prior to desired internship. Total credit applicable to graduation shall not exceed 9 credit hours of COMM-G 300 and COMM-G 491. PUL=3

COMM-G 499 Research Seminar (3 cr.) P: Upper-division standing or permission of instructor. A survey of the methods used by communication researchers for gathering and interpreting information emphasizing the relationship between theory and research, the seminar will explore important issues such as ethics and naturalistic vs. laboratory approaches. PUL=1B

COMM-G 480 Senior Capstone in Communication Studies (3 cr.) As your capstone course, this class is designed to help you reflect back on and synthesize your training as a Communication Studies major at IUPUI and to explore ways in which a communication perspective might inform your career after graduation. All Communication Studies majors are required to complete this class, which will address questions such as: What does it mean to approach problems from a communication perspective? What skills and competencies have you acquired through your training as a Communication Studies major? How can you communicate what you have learned and what you can do to future employers? PUL=3

Communication Studies

- General Communication
- Core Communication

- Theatre
- Master's in Applied Communication

Master of Arts in Applied Communication

COMM-C 500 Advanced Communication Theory (3 cr.) Students explore how scholars from various traditions have described and explained the universal human experience of communication. Students develop an understanding of a variety of communication theories to more completely interpret events in more flexible, useful, and discriminating ways.

COMM-C 501 Applied Quantitative Research Methods in Communication (3 cr.) The course is designed to offer an opportunity to examine, assess, and conduct quantitative research that employs communication theory and qualitative research methods as a means to test theory in applied settings and/or as a means to applied ends (i.e. problem-solving policy analysis).

COMM-C 503 Applied Learning Project (3 cr.) An applied learning project that provides students with a culminating educational experience. The project gives students the opportunity to apply their knowledge of communicative processes to real-life organizational problems, and provides the opportunity to produce a body of work reflecting their abilities.

COMM-C 510 Health Provider-Consumer Communication (3 cr.) Designed to teach communication skills and practices related to health care talk by examining transactional communication within health care contexts. Topics covered in this course focus directly upon interpersonal dialogue between health care providers and patients.

COMM-C 520 Advanced Public Communication (3 cr.) Critical analysis and employment of rhetorical strategies in forms and types of professional discourses incorporating current technologies.

COMM-C 526 Effective Media Strategies (3 cr.) This course specifically focuses on the effective use of media as a means of persuasion. This course explains how ideas are expressed through techniques unique to the language of radio, television, film, and the Internet.
COMM-C 528 Group Communication and Organizations (3 cr.) This seminar-format course examines the ways in which informal groups and communication networks facilitate a variety of organizational processes (i.e., socialization, diffusion of innovation). Emphasis is placed on developing theoretical understanding of informal groups in organizations as well as on methodological issues involved in studying communication networks in organizations.

COMM-C 530 Communication Criticism (3 cr.) This course will introduce students to criticism as a method of studying persuasive messages in speeches, fiction, mass media, musical lyrics, political campaign literature, art, and other modes of communication in contemporary culture.

COMM-C 531 Media Theory and Criticism (3 cr.) A course organized primarily around theories and critical strategies commonly considered within the broad category of contemporary criticism. The course utilizes primary theoretical texts to introduce students to a variety of methodologies employed in analyzing media messages, and emphasizes the application of theoretical frameworks on the analysis of specific media texts.

COMM-C 544 Advanced Relational Communication (3 cr.) Applications of communication theory/research in such areas as relational culture and relationship development. Includes a scholarly project on a real relationship, and applications of research to areas such as pedagogy and couple/family therapy.

COMM-C 580 Advanced Organizational Communication (3 cr.) The course provides a solid foundation of concepts for understanding and discussing human organizations. Students will analyze, evaluate, and apply the theories and practices related to organizational issues. Through case studies, readings, and practical applications, this course combines a theory-based understanding of communication in organizations with real-world applications.

COMM-C 582 Advanced Intercultural Communication (3 cr.) Exploration of issues related to the intercultural communication process. Consideration of the role of social, cultural, and historical contexts in intercultural interactions. Examination of the relationship between culture and communication from the socio-psychological, interpretive, and critical perspectives.

COMM-C 591 Topics/Seminar in Applied Communication (3 cr.) This is a revolving topics course. The changing nature of the topic allows graduate students to explore, synthesize, and integrate knowledge of the field of communication and the particular discipline of applied communication while focusing on a single topic not otherwise addressed in the course of study. May be repeated for credit.

COMM-C 592 Advanced Health Communication (3 cr.) A course designed to teach communication skills and practices related to health care by examining health care communication theory. Topics range across communication levels (interpersonal, intrapersonal, group, organization, mass media, and mediated communication) within a variety of health care contexts.

COMM-C 593 Advanced Family Communication (3 cr.) Applications of theory and research on the role of communication in creating and maintaining marriages/committed couples and families. Includes a scholarly term paper on a real couple or family’s communication.

COMM-C 594 Communication and Conflict Management in Organizations (3 cr.) This seminar-format course examines the communication exchanges that facilitate conflict management within organizational contexts. Specific attention is focused on negotiation and mediation; however, the communication of alternative means of conflict and dispute resolution are also discussed. In addition, students will be introduced to methods for assessing conflict interaction in organizations.

COMM-C 597 Thesis (3 cr.) Applied communication students who choose the thesis option will identify a research topic and develop it under the guidance of the student’s thesis director (IUPUI professor). The thesis topic will be related to the field of applied communication in its foci and method.

COMM-C 598 Internship (1-3 cr.) This course integrates applied communication theory and practice in a practice setting. Students will apply theoretical concepts and research tools, conduct projects, and interact with communication professionals in the designated setting. In concert with the student’s chosen area of concentration, he or she will address issues of importance to that particular organization.

COMM-C 599 Independent Study (1-6 cr.) This course provides students with the opportunity to synthesize and apply knowledge acquired through course work and professional experience into a completed research project in applied communication. Students will work independently on a topic/issue of choice under the guidance of graduate faculty.

COMM-C 620 Computer-Mediated Communication (3 cr.) An overview of practical and scholarly approaches to computer mediated communication. The readings address mass communication, discourse, community, gender, intercultural understanding, ethics, interpersonal relationships, identity, organizational communication, and education.

COMM-C 621 Persuasion (3 cr.) Takes a rhetorical/critical approach to persuasion in its broadest sense, how it affects our lives everyday and how we can find evidence of persuasive tactics in unexpected places. We will look broadly at theories of persuasion and their application across contexts and fields.

COMM-C 644 Political Communication (3 cr.) Examines the public communication involved in various political contexts. We will consider the communication involved in political campaigns, advertising, and oratory: social media, technology, and popular culture; the news, framing, and political media; citizenship, public deliberation, and decision making in what some argue is a divided political culture. We will read and discuss state of the art research in political communication and meet individuals who are currently working in a communication capacity in public political campaigns.

COMM-C 650 Health Communication in Mediated Contexts (3 cr.) Focus on the effect of media on health behavior. Theories of health behavior change and media effects examined; applications of theory to health campaigns evaluated. Examples of mediated health campaigns and effectiveness discussed. Considerations include: interplay among theory, research, practice; how theory informs practice; how research aids in theory construction/refinement.

COMM-C 680 Qualitative Research Methods (3 cr.) An introduction to qualitative research methods in communication studies, with an emphasis on health communication research. Provides an overview of several techniques for gathering and analyzing qualitative data.

COMM-C 690 Doctoral Quantitative Methods (3 cr.) Course focuses on the principles and theory of descriptive and inferential statistics within the context of health communication research. Topics include: test, ANOVA, MANOVA, ANCOVA, correlation, multiple regression, and SEM. Students will gain proficiency using SPSS to analyze novel data sets, and will conduct their own health communication research projects and report the results.

COMM-C 695 Seminar in Communication and Healthcare (3 cr.) This seminar offers an interface between learning from practicing providers and experts in medical care specialties and becoming enmeshed in health communication research. The course is structured so that the student gains insights from experts in the medical field while also gaining an overview of research issues through reading and engaging in health communication research.

COMM-C 700 Fieldwork/Research (1 - 9 cr.) This course is designed to allow PhD students to complete independent research projects prior to enrollment in the dissertation course. Students can enroll in 1-9 credit hours in any given semester, depending on the nature of the project. The fieldwork/research course is designed to focus the student's research interests and to serve as a springboard for dissertation work. Students must have ample preparation in some theoretical area and in one or more research methods prior to registration for the course. The course will allow students to initiate or conduct a research study, including the collection and examination of data (broadly defined), to answer a question or to test a hypothesis related to communication theory. May be repeated for credit.

COMM-C 810 Dissertation (1 - 12 cr.) This course is eligible for a deferred grade.

COMM-C 533 Improvisation for Scientist (1 cr.) Students will learn to communicate effectively and responsively through a series of exercises drawn from the methods of improvisational theater. Students will practice connecting to an audience, paying dynamic attention to others, reading nonverbal cues, and responding appropriately.

COMM-C 534 Distilling Your Message (1 cr.) Students learn to communicate clearly and vividly about complex scientific research and why it matters, in terms non-scientists can understand. Students practice finding common ground with lay audiences and adjusting levels of message complexity for different audiences.

COMM-C 535 Using Electronic Media (1 cr.) Given the significant gaps in understanding between the public and scientists, this course trains students in the sciences and health professions to format and structure formatted and structured complex, scientific information for a variety of new, electronic communication platforms including social media. Students will collate, synthesize, and translate scientific evidence into information that a non-expert audience can access, understand, and act on.

COMM-C 536 Connecting with the Community (1 cr.) Students will theorize and develop techniques for shared meaning-making with community partners. They test methods to develop common ground between experts and community members including the lay public and policy makers. Activities focus on developing trust, open communication, and sharing expertise that values and respects lived experiences of community members.

Media

COMM-M 150 Mass Media and Contemporary Society (3 cr.) A critical overview of the role of electronic mass media in contemporary society. AMST-A 341 Organizing for Social Action (3 cr.) In this course we will study the social movements of the past and meet the activists who are working for social justice today. We will learn about the history of American protest from pre-Revolutionary days to the present in order to understand how mass organizations are created and how they can be used to realize the American ideals of liberty, equality, justice, peace, and opportunity for all. Emphasis throughout is on bridging the academic perspective of the classroom with the practical concerns of different communities. This will be a traveling seminar, moving between the classroom and the world outside. Our class may meet at the site of a labor, senior, or other community organization, hosted by a representative of that organization. Other weeks, the organizers will come to us. Students have the option of participating in a service-learning project and reflecting on the connections between assigned readings and the practice of organizing. Our central question will be: what can the social-action organizations of the past and present teach us about the possibilities for progressive social change in our world today? PUL=5; RISE=E

AMST-A 353 Music and Decorative Arts in American Studies (3 cr.) Examines music and the decorative arts in American history from pre-Colonial Times to after World War II. PUL=5

AMST-A 354 Literature of Rock 'N Roll (3 cr.) What constitutes the literature of rock music? Some would say that a three-paragraph review of the latest CD in Rolling Stone is the best and perhaps only example. But what about the countless books, essays, articles and other extended works that have been written about this music? How (and why?) is it possible, for example, to use rock music as the framework for a written discourse on American history (and in such discourse, suggest a logical, relevant connection between Abraham Lincoln and Elvis Presley?) How could an extended review of a rock ‘n roll album transform itself (logically and correctly) into first-rate political and social commentary? All of these questions and many more will be addressed in this course, as we explore the “written word of rock ‘n roll” in all its wonderfully complex and fascinating permutations. PUL = 5

AMST-A 355 Beat Generation (3 cr.) Get hip and be cool with “The Beat Generation”. Explore a uniquely American literary and cultural movement that sought to defy societal rules in an explosive mixture of music, literature and art. Setting precedents the hippies of the 1960's would later follow, the “Beats” were the original American rebels. Go “on the road” as you take a semester-length virtual road trip across America, a mind-expanding journey into emotion, sensation, music, art and the philosophy of experience. Dig it! PUL = 5

AMST-A 356 American Supernatural (3 cr.) Belief in the supernatural has been an important component of American culture since the founding of the country. From the Salem Witch Trials to The Amityville Horror and from the stories of Edgar Allen Poe to the television series Lost, there seems to be no limit to Americans appetite for myths and legends that deal with the fantastic, otherworldly or otherwise unbelievable. This course will examine several aspects of this cultural fascination with the supernatural, from the mystery of “Area 51” to the legends of the delta blues singers. Along the we’ll examine larger questions, such as: Why is belief in the supernatural of continuing relevance to American culture? How does the popular and new media (especially the Internet) perpetuate this belief, and is there a danger in doing so? To what extent are the American character and its definition of identity shaped by the belief in the supernatural? PUL = 5

AMST-A 363 American Cyber Identity (3 cr.) This course examines the blurred lines between not just the physical and virtual world, but our physical and virtual self-identification. It considers challenging questions-and intriguing possibilities-about how we define ourselves when the physical, spatial and temporal limitations of “the real world” are lifted. It will look at the processes or strategies we use to define ourselves as we spend more time online by means of increasingly sophisticated technology, what level of importance are we giving to our sense of American self-identity in the online world (from a historical, social and cultural perspective)? Is it possible to interpret the Constitution to help adjudicate virtual “property disputes”? Are the rights of avatars “self-evident”? And, when we “jack in” (to borrow a term from Gibson’s Neuromancer) to the Internet, how much of our American history and culture do we take with us? PUL = 5

AMST-A 391 Theories and Methods of American Studies (3 cr.) P: AMST-A 103. The course clarifies the nature of American studies as a field of inquiry and helps students develop skills in cultural interpretation, interdisciplinary inquiry, and clear and effective written communication. The course examines the concept of culture and processes through which cultures form, change, and propagate. The course also considers the ideas of cultural pluralism, subculture, and multiculturalism. The course considers historical and contemporary methods of inquiry in American studies, providing students opportunities to apply these methods in research projects. PUL=5

AMST-A 497 Overseas Study, Derby, UK (1-4 cr.) Students participating in the exchange program with the University of Derby, UK, must register for sections of this course to receive credit for their work at the partner institution. The title of the course taken at Derby will appear on the student's transcript under this course number. Consent of instructor required. PUL=5; RISE=I

AMST-A 499 Senior Tutorial in American Studies (3 cr.) This course provides students with the opportunity to pursue particular interests in American studies on topics of their choices and to work in a tutorial relationship with an American studies faculty member. In this course of directed study, students will be required to produce research projects for filing in the library. PUL=5

AMST-A 601 American Studies in Theory (3 cr.) This course examines theoretical approaches to the meaning of America by asking students to master theories in the field of American Studies, including: post-structuralism, queer studies, and post-colonialism as well as race, gender, sexuality, class, and religion. Students will apply them to a particular question or problem of academic interest.

AMST-A 602 American Studies in Practice (3 cr.) P: AMST A601 The courses examines case studies in three different contexts local (Indianapolis), national (Detroit), and international (Copenhagen) to illustrate different types of urban development. Students will combine American Studies theories with the practical methods derived from case studies to distinguish characteristics and conditions dependent on geographic and cultural differences.

AMST-B 497 Overseas Study, Newcastle, UK (1-5 cr.) Students participating in the exchange program with the Newcastle University, UK, must register for sections of this course to receive credit for their work at the partner institution. The title of the course taken at Newcastle will appear on the student's transcript under this course number. Consent of instructor required. PUL=5; RISE=I

AMST-G 753 Independent Study (3 cr.) Authorization required.

AMST-A 102 Asian-American Studies (3 cr.) This course seeks to foster an understanding of issues related to race in general and to Asians Americans in particular. Contributing to this understanding will be discussions of American history, stereotypes, racism and oppression, refugees, racial identity development, and diversity within the Asian communities of the U.S. Discussions of the varied, lived experiences of Asians in the U.S. will be utilized to gain insights into how Asian Americans fit into the racial narrative of American culture. PUL=5

Advanced Undergraduate Courses

ANTH-A 360 The Development of Anthropological Thought (3 cr.) An overview of the major theoretical developments within anthropology, as the discipline has attempted to produce a universal and unified view of human life based on knowledge of evolution and prehistoric and contemporary cultures. PUL=4

ANTH-A 395 Field Experiences in Anthropology (1-3 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. A supervised field experience in a selected area of anthropology. PUL=3 May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-A 401 Cultural Resource Management (3 cr.) The concept of cultural resource management as a theoretical and functional tool to effect the conservation and protection of archaeological resources. Law, project review, site registration, and preservation strategies will be addressed. PUL=2,3,6

ANTH-A 412 Anthropology Senior Capstone (3-6 cr.) P: Consent of instructor. Only anthropology seniors may enroll. This is a capstone course required of all anthropology majors that is designed to allow students to reflect back on their training as an anthropologist at IUPUI and to explore the ways in which an anthropological perspective might inform their future careers after graduation. Students will learn how to search and apply for jobs in the public and private sectors that draw on the training and expertise received during their undergraduate careers. PUL=3; RISE=R,E

ANTH-A 413 Senior Seminar (1 cr.) This course covers strategies for career development and issues involved in using and applying anthropology following graduation. It is designed to be taken by Anthropology majors following completion of ANTH-A 412. Registration is by instructor authorization. PUL=3

ANTH-A 454 Human Ecology (3 cr.) A survey of the biological and cultural means by which humans adapt to their environment. This course emphasizes the unique nature of human adaptation, focusing on specific human groups and on the general processes of adaptation. PUL=5

ANTH-A 460 Topics in Anthropology: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) A conceptual examination of selected topics in the field of anthropology. PUL varies with topic. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-A 462 Truth & Reconciliation (3 cr.) This course provides students with the opportunity to review and analyze novel truth and reconciliation trends from around the world, in particular: apologies and other symbolic gestures; reparations and compensation; memorials and museums; truth commissions; treaties and peace accords; musical, sporting, and artistic performances. PUL=2,5,6

ANTH-A 485 Topics in Applied Anthropology: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) An examination of a selected topic where the concepts, principles, and methods in anthropology are utilized to address a particular community or social issue. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-A 494 Practicum in Applied Anthropology (1-4 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. An arranged experience in applied anthropology, appropriate to individual career goals. The student will work with an approved community group or organization in a specific project that facilitates the integration of previous course work and experience in a practical application. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-A 495 Independent Studies in Anthropology (2-4 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. A supervised, in-depth examination through individual research on a particular topic selected and conducted by the student in consultation with an anthropology faculty member. PUL=3

ANTH-B 301 Laboratory in Bioanthropology (3 cr.) Laboratory investigations of human skeletal biology, including age and sex determinations, bone pathologies, and forensic identification, human paleontological and primate observations. Variability in living populations, including anthropometry, blood grouping, and dermatoglyphics. Emphasis on a biocultural perspective in applying methods and techniques of bioanthropology. PUL=1B,2

ANTH-B 370 Human Variation (3 cr.) Variation within and between human populations in morphology, gene frequencies, and behavior. Biological concepts of race, race classification, along with other taxonomic considerations, and evolutionary processes acting on humans in the past, present, and future. PUL=2

ANTH-B 371 The Anthropology of Human Nature (3 cr.) An examination of the foundations of human behavior as viewed from the biocultural and evolutionary perspective of anthropology. This course strives to provide the student with a rational middle ground in the nature/nurture debate by demonstrating that human behavior is innately plastic. PUL=2

ANTH-B 426 Human Osteology (3 cr.) This course explores the types of information that can be recovered from bones, including age, sex, size, pathology, diet, and demography as well as how this information can be utilized to obtain and integrated picture of an individual. The skills learned are applicable to forensic anthropology, archaeology, human evolution and anatomy. PUL=2,3

ANTH-B 466 The Primates (3 cr.) The study of our closest living relatives, the prosimians, monkeys, and apes, from the perspective of evolutionary and environmental influences on morphology and complex social behavior. PUL=2,4

ANTH-B 468 Bioarchaeology (3 cr.) Bioarchaeology introduces students to the interdisciplinary field that asks- what can we learn from the analysis of human skeletal remains from archaeological sites? As such, bioarchaeology is the contextual analysis of human remains. Skeletal and dental tissues are often overlooked as being innate and unchanging, when in fact they respond to the external environment and stressors like soft tissues that exist within and around them. The natural and built environments can have a profound impact on human biological variation. As a result, bioarchaeological research emphasizes biocultural interactions and the impact of culture on the human condition (and vice versa). Topics covered in this class include demography, health, growth and development, diet, infectious and non-infectious diseases, occupational markers of stress, migration, and population affinity. The course starts with a historical survey of the field, moves into a discussion of ethics in bioarchaeological research, and introduces important theoretical considerations that influence practice in the subdiscipline. Two subsequent weeks will be spent reviewing basic human osteology, age and sex estimation, and taphonomic factors that can influence and, ultimately, bias research findings. Weeks 6 through 16 will be spent surveying the core areas of investigation in contemporary bioarchaeological research. The lectures and discussions will be supplemented with time in the laboratory, during which students will have the opportunity to examine, describe, score, and analyze human remains, as well as interpret bioarchaeological data. In addition, students are expected to produce an annotated bibliography on a bioarchaeological topic of their choice. PUL=2

ANTH-B 480 Human Growth and Development (3 cr.) Characteristics of normal growth and development from birth to maturity, establishment of constitutional qualities, aging. Anthropology of individual considered from standpoint of causal factors, patterns of expression, and methods of assessment. PUL=3

ANTH-B 474 Forensic Anthropology (3 cr.) P: junior/ senior standing required Forensic Anthropology introduces students to the sub-discipline of Biological Anthropology that addresses human skeletal remains recovered during medico-legal investigations. Forensic Anthropology is an inherently applied field within Anthropology and compliments the focus of IUPUI’s Department of Anthropology. Forensic anthropologists are often consulted in investigations when a visual identification of human remains cannot be made by a medical examiner or law enforcement. The goals of a forensic anthropologist's involvement in medico- investigations often includes excavation and recovery (i.e., forensic archaeology), estimation of the post-mortem interval, the construction of a biological profile (e.g., age-at-death, sex, stature, etc.), positive identification, and providing conclusions and an opinion about the cause and manner of death. Practitioners routinely find themselves working in a variety of contexts from local cases of missing persons to mass disasters and international human rights projects involving the exhumation of mass graves. PUL=2

ANTH-E 300 Culture Areas and Ethnic Groups: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) An ethnographic survey of a selected culture area or ethnic group. PUL=5 May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-E 316 Prehistory of North America (3 cr.) This course will introduce students to the cultural variety and complexity of prehistoric native North Americans. The course focuses on the various environmental adaptations, lifeways, social systems, and material culture that have been revealed through archaeological research. PUL=5,6

ANTH-E 320 Indians of North America (3 cr.) Ethnographic survey of culture areas from the Arctic to Panama plus cross-cultural analysis of interrelations of culture, geographical environment, and language families. PUL=5

ANTH-E 335 Ancient Civilizations of Mesoamerica (3 cr.) Historical ethnography of the major pre-Columbian civilizations including the Olmec, Mayan and Aztec. Emphasis on the social life, cultural achievements, religion, worldview and political systems to illustrate the diversity and richness of Amerindian life before the Spanish conquest. PUL=5

ANTH-E 354 Popular Culture (3 cr.) This course studies how traditional anthropological insight can analyze social and political complexities of contemporary popular cultural phenomena. Focuses on how anthropological subjects such as class, racism, and regionalism lurk within popular cultural phenomena including post-1950 music subcultures, civil religion, and consumer culture. PUL=2,3,5

ANTH-E 380 Urban Anthropology (3 cr.) Urban social organization in cross-cultural perspective. Theoretical perspectives on urbanism and urbanization. Problems focused on include kinship and social networks, politico-economic factors, and cultural pluralism. Strategies of anthropological research in urban settings. PUL=5

ANTH-E 384 The African Diaspora (3 cr.) This course examines the cultural formation of the African Diaspora in the Americas. The course focuses specifically on the development of the African diasporic populations in the Caribbean, Central America and South America in comparative perspective. Students will develop a critical understanding of the African Diaspora as a geographical displacement, as an assemblage of cultural groups, and as a process of political identification. PUL=2,5

ANTH-E 391 Women in Developing Countries (3 cr.) This course explores the nature of women's roles in developing countries. Particular emphasis is placed on examining how development and cultural change have affected the lives of women. PUL=1C

ANTH-E 402 Gender in Cross-Cultural Perspective (3 cr.) This course considers the meaning and social implications of gender in human society. Cultural definitions of "male" and "female" gender categories as well as associated behavioral and structural differentiation of gender roles will be analyzed using current anthropological concepts and theories. PUL=2,5

ANTH-E 403 Women of Color in the US (3 cr.) This course examines the concepts of race, and gender as inextricably tied analytical categories, and how they have structured the lives of African American, Latina, Native American and Asian American women, both US born and immigrant. Themes of oppression, identities and activism figure prominently throughout the course. PUL=2,5

ANTH-E 404 Field Methods in Ethnography (3 cr.) Introduction to the methods and techniques anthropologists use in ethnographic research. Preparation of a research proposal, interviewing, and the use of the life histories and case studies. PUL=3

ANTH-E 411 Wealth, Exchange, and Power in Anthropological Perspective (3 cr.) The course will examine cultural patterns in technology and economic behavior, with an emphasis on non-Western societies and how these patterns influence economic development in the Third World. PUL=1C
ANTH-E 421 The Anthropology of Aging (3 cr.) This course explores age and the aging process cross-culturally by looking at the specific cultural context in which individuals age and by analyzing similarities and differences across cultures. PUL=1C

ANTH-E 445 Medical Anthropology (3 cr.) This advanced seminar in medical anthropology focuses on theoretical approaches to understanding the body and notions of health, illness, and diseases across cultures. Concentrates on interpretive and critical (political economy) approaches to issues of health, and includes critical study of Western biomedicine. PUL=3,4,5

ANTH-E 455 Anthropology of Religion (3 cr.) Critical evaluation of current approaches to the analysis of religious myth, ritual, and symbolism. Problems in understanding religious beliefs of other cultures. Modern development of anthropology of religion. PUL=2,3,5

ANTH-E 457 Ethnic Identity (3 cr.) Nature of ethnic groups and identity viewed in cross-cultural perspective: effects of colonialism and nationalism on ethnic groups; sue of identity as an adaptive strategy; stereotypes and stereotyping; symbols and styles of ethnic identity; and retention and elaboration of local styles. PUL=2,5

ANTH-L 300 Language and Culture (3 cr.) This course explores the relationships between language and culture, focusing on research methodology and surveying various theoretical frameworks. Topics to be discussed include linguistic relativity (the Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis), ethnographies of communication, interview techniques, and methods of data collection and analysis. PUL=3,4,5

ANTH-L 401 Language, Power, and Gender (3 cr.) This course investigates sociocultural aspects of language use, focusing on the interaction of power and gender with language. Topics include differences in men's and women's language use, discourse patterns and power relationships, and identity and language use. To what extent does the language we speak sustain the dominance of certain groups in our society? PUL=2,3,5

ANTH-P 330 Historical Archaeology (3 cr.) We will examine the ways in which historical archaeologists investigate Colonial and American cultures and lifeways in various regions of North America throughout time. Special attention will be given to understanding the long and complex history of Native American/European interactions. North American social systems, interaction with and exploitation of the environment, technologies, and material culture. The theory and methods used by historical archaeologists will also be emphasized. PUL=3,4,5

ANTH-P 340 Modern Material Culture (3 cr.) This course examines how contemporary social experience is impacted by material culture ranging from toys to theme parks. Focuses on how consumers perceive themselves and others in modern consumer culture through the medium of commodities and examines systems of inequality that are reproduced and subverted through consumption. PUL=2,4,5

ANTH-P 396 The Rise of Civilization (3 cr.) Covers the development of complex societies in several regions of the world. The material is approached from an anthropological perspective, with emphasis on archaeological methods of data collection and analysis. Early civilizations in India, Egypt, Rome, China, Peru, and Central America will be discussed. PUL=2,5

ANTH-P 402 Archaeological Method and Theory (3 cr.) This class is concerned with how archaeologists know what they know about the past. Methods of data collection are reviewed and theoretical interpretations are discussed. The focus of the course is on evaluation of archaeological research and explanation, with special emphasis on critical thinking. PUL=2,4

ANTH-P 405 Fieldwork in Archaeology (3-6 cr.) Archaeological work directed toward field techniques: excavation and preservation of materials, surveying, photography, cataloging. One credit hour per full week of fieldwork. PUL=3; RISE=R,E

ANTH-P 406 LABORATORY MTHD IN ARCHAELOGY (1-6 cr.) Specialized training in laboratory procedures and analysis of archaeological materials. Major categories of material culture to be studied include lithics, ceramics, faunal and floral remains. Emphasis is on processing, sorting, identifying, and analyzing material recovered from the previous Field School in Archaeology (ANTH-P 405). PUL=3

Introductory Undergraduate Courses

ANTH-A 103 Human Origins and Prehistory (3 cr.) A survey of human biological and cultural evolution from early pre-Pleistocene hominids through the development of urbanized state societies, with the goal of better understanding our human heritage. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 303.) PUL=2

ANTH-A 104 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (3 cr.) A survey of cultural and social processes that influence human behavior, using comparative examples from different ethnic groups around the world, with the goal of better understanding the broad range of human behavioral potentials and those influences that shape the different expressions of these potentials. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 304.) PUL=5

ANTH-A 201 Survey of Applied Anthropology (3 cr.) P: ANTH-A 104 or ANTH-A 304, and ANTH-A 103 or ANTH-A 303, or permission of the instructor. A survey of such issues in applied anthropology as cultural resource management, community development, cross-cultural communication, Third World development, museum studies, archaeological ethics, and the impact of human diversity on health care, education, and social programs. PUL=3,6

ANTH-A 303 Evolution and Prehistory (3 cr.) P: Junior standing. An advanced survey of human biological and cultural evolution from pre-Pleistocene hominids through the development of urbanized state societies. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 103.) PUL=2

ANTH-A 304 Social and Cultural Behavior (3 cr.) P: Junior standing. An advanced survey of cultural and social processes that influence human behavior, with comparative examples from different ethnic groups around the world. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 104.) PUL=5

Graduate Courses

ANTH-A 565 Anthropological Thought (3 cr.) An overview of the major theoretical developments within anthropology, as the discipline has attempted to produce a universal and unified view of human life based on knowledge of evolution and prehistoric and contemporary cultures.

ANTH-A 594 Independent Learning in Applied Anthropology (1-6 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. Independent research/training using anthropological perspectives/methods in addressing social issues. The project must be a discrete activity with a concrete product, conducted in conjunction with the student's anthropology advisor and a member of the organization where she or he will be located. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-P 501 Community Archaeology (3 cr.) Community archaeology implies direct collaboration between a community and archaeologists. Collaboration implies substantial adjustment in archaeological methods and epistemologies incorporating community members in setting research agendas, working on excavations, and interpreting results. This course examines a wide range of issues and looks at both successful and unsuccessful projects to arrive at an assessment of best practices.

ANTH-A 699 Master's Project in Applied Anthropology (1-6 cr.) P: Permission of Graduate Advisor. The completion of a scholarly applied project is an essential element of the MA in Applied Anthropology. This project will be carried out and completed under the direction of the students graduate advisor.

ANTH-B 526 Human Osteology (3 cr.) Descriptive and functional morphology of the human skeleton with emphasis on the identification of fragmentary remains. Determination of age, sex, and stature; craniology; and research methods in skeletal biology. Guided research project in the identification of skeletal material required.

ANTH-E 501 Fundamentals of Applied Anthropology (3 cr.) This course is required of all incoming M.A. level students in the Anthropology Department. It will introduce MA students both to the history of applied anthropology as a distinctive sub-discipline as well as the contemporary issues regarding the application of anthropological knowledge to social concerns.

ANTH-E 507 Popular Culture (3 cr.) This course studies how traditional anthropological insight can analyze social and political complexities of contemporary popular cultural phenomena. Focuses on how anthropological subjects such as class, racism, and regionalism lurk within popular cultural phenomena including post-1950 music subcultures, civil religion, and consumer culture.

ANTH-E 509 Modern Material Culture (3 cr.) This course examines how contemporary social experience is impacted by material culture ranging from toys to theme parks. Focuses on how consumers perceive themselves and others in modern consumer culture through the medium of commodities and examines systems of inequality that are reproduced and subverted through consumption.

ANTH-E 521 Indians in North America (3 cr.) Assesses the complexities of the academic study of the Indigenous peoples of North America, emphasizing the diversity of Native cultures, representations of them by the public and by scholars, and examining cultural adaptations from Pre-Contact to Contemporary.

ANTH-E 606 Research Methods in Cultural Anthropology (3 cr.) This course provides an introduction to the use of ethnographic field work methods, including participant-observation, semi-structured interviewing, and use of mapping, among others. Every year this course will focus on a community-based research project.

ANTH-A 560 Variable Topics-Anthropology (3 cr.) A conceptual examination of selected topics in the field of anthropology.

Folklore (FOLK)
FOLK-F 101 Introduction to Folklore (3 cr.) A view of the main forms and varieties of folklore and folk expression in tales, ballads, gestures, beliefs, games, proverbs, riddles, and traditional arts and crafts. The role of folklore in the life of human beings. PUL=5
FOLK-F 252 Folklore and the Humanities (3 cr.) Basic theoretical approaches to the study of folklore, emphasizing the relationship to other humanistic disciplines such as literary and religious studies and history. PUL=5

Economics (ECON)

Honors Courses
ECON-S 201 Introduction to Microeconomics: Honors (3 cr.) Designed for students of superior ability. Covers the same core materials as E201. PUL=5
ECON-S 202 Introduction to Macroeconomics: Honors (3 cr.) Designed for students of superior ability. Covers the same core materials as E202. PUL=5
ECON-S 270 Introduction to Statistical Theory in Economics and Business: Honors (3 cr.) P: MATH M118 or MATH M119 or MATH 15900 or C: MATH M119 or MATH 15900 Covers the same core materials as E270 but with more involved applications in economics. PUL=1

Non-Honors Courses
ECON-E 101 Survey of Current Economic Issues and Problems (3 cr.) For nonmajors only. A combined course in macroeconomics and microeconomics for non-majors only. Explains macroeconomic concepts such as economic growth, unemployment, inflation, and GDP. Explains microeconomic concepts such as demand/supply and market structures. Will cover personal finance and applied topics such as international, labor markets, health care, pollution. PUL=5
ECON-E 111 Topics in the Economic History of Western Civilization I (3 cr.) Selected topics in the economic history of Western civilization, including the growth of the market organization, industrialization, institutional growth and change, imperialism, and labor. PUL=5
ECON-E 112 Topics in the Economic History of Western Civilization II (3 cr.) Selected topics in the economic history of Western civilization, including the growth of the market organization, industrialization, institutional growth and change, imperialism, and labor. PUL=5 ECON-E 201 Introduction to Microeconomics (3 cr.) P: Sophomore standing. An analysis of evolution of market structure using the analytical concepts of supply and demand, opportunity cost, and marginal analysis. Applications include a variety of concurrent microeconomic issues. PUL=5

ECON-E 202 Introduction to Macroeconomics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201. An introduction to macroeconomics that studies the economy as a whole; the levels of output, prices, and employment; how they are measured and how they can be changed; money and banking; international trade; and economic growth. PUL=5

ECON-E 270 Introduction to Statistical Theory in Economics (3 cr.)
P: MATH-M 118. Review of basic probability concepts, sampling, inference and testing statistical hypotheses. Applications of regression and correlation theory, analysis of variance and elementary decision theory. PUL=1

ECON-E 303 Survey of International Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202. Survey of international economics. Basis for and effects of international trade, commercial policy and effects of trade restrictions, balance of payments and exchange rate adjustment, international monetary systems, and fixed vs. flexible exchange rates. Students who have taken ECON-E 430 may not enroll in ECON-E 303 for credit. PUL=5

ECON-E 304 Survey of Labor Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201. Economics problems of the wage earner in modern society; structure, policies, and problems of labor organizations; employer and governmental labor relationships. PUL=5

ECON-E 305 Money and Banking (3 cr.)

ECON-E 307 Current Economic Issues (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. A survey of twentieth century economic writers who have discussed such questions as "Can Capitalism Survive?", "What is the Proper Role for Government in a Modern Market Economy?", and "How Can Individual Values be Expressed in Modern Economic Systems?". Students will be required to read selected works of Joseph Schumpeter, Milton Friedman, John Kenneth Galbraith, and R.H. Tawney. Other authors discussed will include E.F. Schumacher, Fredrich von Hayek, John Maynard Keynes, Kenneth Boulding and Wilhem Ropke.PUL=5

ECON-E 308 Survey of Public Finance (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202. Analysis of government expenditures and revenue sources, taxation and capital formation, public debt and inflation, growth in government spending, and intergovernmental fiscal relations. PUL=5

ECON-E 321 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202. MATH-M 119. The economics of consumer choice. The economics of production, cost minimization and profit maximization for business firms in the short run and long run under various market structures. Competition and adjustment to market equilibrium. Introduction to game theory, strategic interaction, and noncooperative equilibria. PUL=5

ECON-E 322 Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory (3 cr.)

ECON-E 323 Urban Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202. Introduction to basic concepts and techniques of urban economic analysis to facilitate understanding of urban problems; urban growth and structure, poverty, housing, transportation, and public provision of urban services. PUL=5

ECON-E 325 Comparative Economic Systems (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202. Essential economic theories and features of economic systems, including private enterprise, authoritarian socialism, and liberal socialism. PUL=5

ECON-E 326 Applied Research in Urban Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202 or permission of instructor. Field research in urban economics. Topics to be selected by students, covering such areas as human resource problems, transportation and housing surveys, demographic shifts, and income distribution issues. PUL=5

ECON-E 335 Introduction to Mathematical Methods in Economics (4 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202, MATH-M 118-M119. Introduction to quantitative techniques used in economics, and instruction in the application of these techniques to the analysis of economics problems. PUL=1

ECON-E 337 Economic Development (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201, ECON-E 202, and junior standing or consent of instructor. Characteristics of economically underdeveloped countries. Obstacles to sustained growth; planning and other policies for stimulating growth; examination of development problems and experience in particular countries. PUL=5

ECON-E 355 Monetary Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 305 or ECON-E 322 or equivalents. Supply and demand functions for money in the context of models of the U.S. economy. Formulation of Federal Reserve policy decisions and effects on interest rates, prices, output, and employment. Current problems in monetary policy and theory. PUL=5

ECON-E 363 Environmental and Natural Resource Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201-E202. Basic theory and policy of such topics as pollution, resource depletion, environmental risk, and resource conservation. Issues covered include limits to growth, quality of life, and the appropriate roles for the private market and federal control. Credit not given for both ECON-E 363 and ECON-E 463. PUL=5

ECON-E 380 Law and Economics (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. The application of economic method to legal institutions and legal issues. Examples would be the optimum use of resources to prevent crime, the economic value of a human life, the economic consequences of regulating the business firm, the economics of property rights, torts, and contracts. PUL=5

ECON-E 385 Economics of Industry (3 cr.)
P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. A theoretical and empirical analysis of the structure, conduct, and performance of major American industries. Emphasized is the degree of competition in various markets, how markets operate under conditions of competition or monopoly, and competition as a dynamic process over time. PUL=5

ECON-E 387 Health Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201. This course applies economic theory to the study of policy issues in health economics. Specific issues included are: determinants of demand for medical services and insurance; training and pricing behavior of physicians; pricing behavior and costs of hospitals; market and regulative approaches. PUL=5

ECON-E 406 Senior Seminar (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 321 and ECON-E 322 or permission of instructor. Assessment of the current state of economic knowledge and discussion of how economics is applied to study the problems facing modern society. PUL=5

ECON-E 408 Undergraduate Readings in Economics (3 cr. maximum cr.) P: Permission of instructor. ECON majors only. Individual readings and research. PUL=5,1

ECON-E 410 Selected Topics in U.S. Economic History (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Analysis of selected topics, including transportation developments, government intervention, systems of property rights, slavery, economic growth, income distribution, economic stability, technical change, and others. PUL=5

ECON-E 414 Economics of the Nonprofit Sector (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201. The role of nonprofit organizations (universities, churches, hospitals, orchestras, charities, day care, research, nursing homes) in mixed economics. Public policy controversies such as regulation of fundraising, antitrust against universities, "unfair" competition with for-profit firms, and the tax treatment of donations. PUL=5

ECON-E 420 History of Economic Thought (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Examination of main theoretical developments since the beginning of the systematic study of economics. Theoretical propositions and structures of the earlier writers will be interpreted and evaluated in terms of modern economic analysis. PUL=5

ECON-E 430 Introduction to International Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Forces determining international trade, finance, and commercial policy under changing world conditions; theory of international trade; structure of world trade; tariff and trade control policies; the balance of payments problem; evolution of international economic institutions; and monetary relations. PUL=5

ECON-E 441 Economics of Labor Markets (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201, ECON-E 321, and ECON-E 270 or equivalent. Analysis of the functioning of labor markets with theoretical, empirical, and policy applications in determination of employment and wages in the U.S. economy. PUL=5

ECON-E 450 Business Conditions Analysis and Forecasting (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. This course examines sources of instability in industrialized economies. Various theories of the business cycle are examined and critiqued. In addition, the empirical determinant of aggregate demand, prices, and interest rates are discussed. Alternative forecasting techniques are considered and the use of these techniques is demonstrated. PUL=1

ECON-E 470 Introduction to Econometrics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 270, MATH-M 119. Application of regression analysis to economic and business data. Estimation and hypothesis testing of classical regression model. Heteroscedasticity, collinearity, errors in observation, functional forms, and autoregressive models. Estimation of simultaneous equation models. Credit will not be given for both ECON-E 470 and ECON-E 472. PUL=1

ECON-E 485 Economic and Social Control of Industry (Antitrust) (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. This course is a study of the economic reasoning behind and consequences of the application of antitrust laws aimed at altering the structure, conduct, and performance of the American economy. Specific legal cases that have been brought under the Sherman Act, the Clayton Act, as amended, and the Federal Trade Commission Act are analyzed. PUL=5

ECON-E 502 Economics of Personal Finance (3 cr.) Shows how the state of the economy, prices, and interest rates should guide personal decisions about spending, saving, credit, investments, and insurance. Intended for non-business students. PUL=5

ECON-E 504 Mathematics for Economists (3 cr.) Applications of mathematical concepts to equilibrium and optimization. Applications of matrix theory to input-output analysis, activity analysis, and models of capital accumulation.

Graduate Courses

ECON-E 504 Mathematics for Economists (3 cr.) Topics in mathematics that are particularly useful in the application of microeconomic theory, macroeconomic theory, and econometrics. Topics covered include: matrix algebra, comparative-static analysis, constrained optimization, difference equations in discrete time, game theory, and set theory as applied to general equilibrium analysis.

ECON-E 513 Special Topics in Economic History (3 cr.) Explicit methodology and economic analysis applied to major issues in American and European economic history.

ECON-E 514 The Nonprofit Economy and Public Policy (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201. The role of nonprofit organizations (universities, churches, hospitals, orchestras, charities, day care, research, nursing homes) in mixed economies. Public policy controversies such as regulation of fundraising, antitrust against universities, “unfair” competition with for-profit firms, and the tax treatment of donations. (This course may not be taken for credit by anyone who has received credit for ECON-E 414.)

ECON-E 519 Regional Economics (3 cr.) Regional economics is the study of economic behavior in space. The course examines the internal and interregional determinants of growth and decline of a region from supply and demand perspectives. Public policies to influence these determinants are considered.

ECON-E 521 Theory of Prices and Markets (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 504 or consent of instructor. Develops the methodology of economic analysis and teaches the tools and language of price theory. Fundamental elements of consumer theory, producer theory and economics of uncertainty. Emphasis on comparative statics and the duality theory. Topics on welfare analysis, the theory of price indices, quality of goods, revealed preferences, the theory of derived demand, expected utility theory, attitudes toward risk, and various measures of riskiness.

ECON-E 522 Macroeconomic Theory 1 (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 520. Introductory course on macroeconomic dynamics; covers growth models and asset pricing theories, endogenous growth theories, optimal growth problems, and competitive dynamic equilibrium models. Dynamic programming tools introduced as needed. All models are cast in discrete time setup; presents deterministic and stochastic theories.

ECON-E 528 Economic Analysis of Health Care (3 cr.) A graduate introduction to health economics. Applications of economic theory to problems in various areas in health care. Applications of econometric techniques to the same. Topics include how physicians, institutions, and consumers respond to economic incentives and what policies contribute maximally to efficiency and welfare.

ECON-E 545 Applied Labor Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521 or ECON-E 470 or equivalents. Discussion of wage rates and working conditions, searches by workers or firms, investment in training, quits and layoffs, shirking, discrimination, the division of household labor, retirement, and implicit contracts. The course also examines the impact of institutions such as unions and the government on the efficiency of the labor market.

ECON-E 568 Public Finance I (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 308 and ECON-E 470. Partial equilibrium, microeconomic analysis of how tax and subsidy policies affect various types of individual and firm behavior. Theoretical models are introduced to assess and develop quantitative studies of fiscal policy. Summaries of the empirical impact of policy will be formed for the purpose of becoming an "input" in the complete general equilibrium analysis conducted in Public Finance II.

ECON-E 569 Public Finance II (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 568. Empirical examination of the general equilibrium effects of major tax and subsidy programs, such as personal income taxation, corporate profit taxation, income maintenance, social security, and government provision of education. In addition, proposed reforms to these programs will be analyzed using empirically based simulation models.

ECON-E 570 Fundamentals of Statistics and Econometrics (3 cr.) Mathematical overview of statistics and econometrics at graduate level. Topics covered include probability and probability distributions, sampling distributions, tests of hypotheses, estimation, simple regression, multiple regression, generalized linear model and its applications, simultaneous equation system.

ECON-E 574 Applied Econometrics and Forecasting (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 570. An overview of techniques employed in economic model building, estimation, and usage. Topics covered include single and multi-equation system estimation, limited dependent variable regression techniques, hypothesis testing, policy analysis, and forecasting. Various forecasting techniques are discussed, including smoothing and decomposition methods and time series analysis. A number of projects are assigned throughout the semester in order to give the student hands-on experience with the different techniques.

ECON-E 581 Topics in Applied Microeconomics I (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521. This course is a graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in one or more areas of microeconomics. We will demonstrate how economic concepts can be usefully applied to understanding problems in the subdiscipline under study and discuss and apply estimation techniques appropriate for problems in the area.

ECON-E 582 Topics in Applied Microeconomics II (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521 and ECON-E 570 or consent of the instructor. This course is a second graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of microeconomics. We will demonstrate how economic concepts can be usefully applied to understanding problems in the subdiscipline under study, and discuss and apply estimation techniques appropriate for problems in the area.

ECON-E 583 Introduction to Applied Macroeconomics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 522 and ECON-E 570 or equivalents and consent of the instructor. This course is a graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of macroeconomics. We will demonstrate how economic theories can be usefully applied to understanding problems in the subdiscipline under study and discuss and apply estimation and calibration techniques appropriate for problems in the area.

ECON-E 600 Research in Economics (arr. cr.) Individual readings and research.

ECON-E 808 Thesis (M.A.) (arr. cr.)

ECON-E 515 Institutional Setting for Health Economics in the U.S. (3 cr.) P: or C: ECON-E 521 and ECON-E 571. Overview of the structure of the U.S. health care system including health care financing, health care delivery, and government programs. Private and public financing mechanisms as well as government regulation. Comparison of the U.S. system to the health care systems of other countries.

ECON-E 516 Institutional Setting for Nonprofit/Philanthropic Economics (3 cr.) P: or C: ECON-E 521 and ECON-E 571. This course provides a broad overview of nonprofit institutions and philanthropic practices, along with a discussion of available data sources on each. We discuss the size and scope of nonprofit organizations, revenues, governance, regulation and taxation, intersectoral relations, patterns of philanthropy, and public policies that affect giving behaviors.

ECON-E 571 Econometrics I-Statistical Foundations (3 cr.) P: Calculus and Linear Algebra. The probability bases for statistical estimation and testing are introduced in the context of issues, theories, and data found in economics. The classical linear regression model is presented as the starting point for multivariate analyses in econometrics. Students work with various computer programs in and out of the scheduled class periods.

ECON-E 577 Computer Methods and Data Analysis (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 570 or ECON-E 573. The first of a two-semester sequence in computer methods and data analysis. ECON-E 577 teaches students to use large datasets in an econometric analysis to answer a research question, to program in Stata, and to organize a complicated data project. The course also will complete students’ introduction to the Stata programming language. The course prepares students to carry out their own large-scale research project and/or efficiently work within an organization that uses large data files to achieve its objectives.

ECON-E 578 Advanced Computer Methods and Complex Datasets (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 577. In ECON-E 578 students learn to conduct empirical research with advanced computer methods and complex datasets. In the first half of the course students will learn the process by which empirical research is conducted by critiquing several published research articles and replicating the research from a previously published journal article. The replication will involve critical assessment of the research question, specific aims, innovation, significance, methodological approach, as well as learning the computer methods and datasets necessary to replicate the results. In the second half of the course students will use their acquired knowledge of research process to write a detailed proposal for an original research project. The course culminates with an oral presentation of the proposal, followed by critical peer assessment of the project’s research question, aims, innovation, significance, and methods. In addition to learning the process of research, students will acquire advanced Stata programming skills (e.g., ado-file programming, Mata, maximum-likelihood programming), and be introduced to several complex data sets that are important in health economics research. At the culmination of the course, students will be prepared to execute their first original research project. That execution will commence during the summer following completion of E578.

ECON-E 611 Information Economics and Theories of Incentives and Contracts (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521. The course covers topics in the theories of incentives and contracts that study situations in which there are explicit or implicit contractual obligations. It explores the role and influence of asymmetric information in determining outcomes with special emphases on moral hazard and adverse selection.

ECON-E 621 Theories of Prices and Market (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 520. Analysis of equilibrium, first- and second-order conditions; statistical derivation of demand and cost curves; activity analysis; general equilibrium; welfare economics; microeconomics of capital theory; pure oligopoly and gave theory.

ECON-E 643 Health Economics I (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 515, ECON-E 573, and ECON-E 611. E643 will provide students with the theoretical knowledge and make them familiar with current research on key issues in health economics, including the production of and demand for health, determinants of health and health disparities, change in health technology, and the economic evaluation of health and health care.

ECON-E 644 Health Economics II (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 515, ECON-E 573, and ECON-E 611. This course builds on the core theory, econometrics and health economics courses to provide an in depth knowledge of key issues related to markets and market failure in the supply of health care services, the impact of insurance on the demand for health care services, response of consumers to insurers’ financial incentives, the role of government in health care markets, the labor market behavior of physicians; hospital ownership, competition, and reimbursement. In addition to introducing theoretical concepts the course aims at familiarizing students to current research on these topics by means of review of seminal journal articles. It will provide a foundation for understanding key dimensions in health care markets, appreciate contributions of past literature on the subject and initiate constructive critical thought on the existing work and future directions of research in the field.

ECON-E 670 Econometrics 3-System and Panel Econometric Models (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 573 or equivalent. Simultaneous equation models (2SLS, 3SLS), time series concepts for panel data analysis and serial correlation, pooled cross-section methods, linear panel data models [First Differences, Fixed Effects (FE) and Random Effects (RE)], nonlinear panel data models (ML and GMM).

ECON-E 673 Econometrics 4-Microeconometrics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 573 or equivalent. Microeconometrics with applications to labor, health, and public economics. Extensive coverage of limited dependent variable and panel data models. Empirical implementation is an essential component of the course.

ECON-E 744 Seminar/Workshop in Health Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 644. The Seminar in Health Economics introduces students to current working papers in health economics by leading scholars who present their work in a seminar format at IUPUI. It also provides the opportunity for PhD students to present their own work to faculty and peers.

ECON-E 800 Research in Economics (arr. cr.)

ECON-E 809 Thesis (PhD) (arr. cr.)

English (ENG)

Concentrations

Creative Writing

ENG-W 206 Introduction to Creative Writing (3 cr.) Provides students with the opportunity to develop their creative writing skills, and gives them a working knowledge of the basic principles of fiction, poetry and drama. PUL=1A

ENG-W 207 Introduction to Fiction Writing (3 cr.) An introduction to the techniques and principles of fiction writing. Written assignments, workshop discussions of student work in progress, seminar study of classic and temporary examples of the genre. This course may be used as a prerequisite for ENG W301, ENG W302, or ENG W305. This course is recommended for English majors pursuing a concentration in creative writing. PUL=1A

ENG-W 208 Introduction to Poetry Writing (3 cr.)
One of three introductory creative writing courses, the course focuses on the fundamentals of poetry writing exclusively, including the image, the line, metaphor, sound play, and poetic meter. Students will practice a variety of techniques, will engage in weekly reading and writing, and will learn to revise their own poems and to help edit their classmates’ work. PUL=1A

ENG-W 280 Literary Editing and Publishing (3 cr.)
P: Any literature course; ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, or ENG-W 208. Principles of editing and publishing literary writing. Kinds of journals, varieties of formats (including print and e-zine), introduction to editing and production processes. Possible focus on genre publishing (fiction, poetry, non-fiction prose), grant writing, Web publishing,
etc. PUL=2

ENG-W 301 Writing Fiction (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206 or ENG-W 207 or permission of the instructor. Further exploration in the art of fiction writing. PUL=1A May be repeated once for credit.

ENG-W 302 Screenwriting (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206 or ENG-W 207, or permission of instructor. A practical course in basic techniques of writing for film and television. Covers the essentials of dramatic structure, story development, characterization and theme, scene construction, dialogue, and, briefly, the practicalities of working as a screenwriter today. PUL=1A; Rise-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 303 Writing Poetry (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206 or ENG-W 208 or permission of the instructor. Further exploration in the art of poetry writing. PUL=1A

ENG-W 408 Creative Writing for Teachers (3 cr.)
P: ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, or ENG-W 208. Offers current and future teachers insights into the creative writing process, teaches them to think as writers do, suggests strategies for critiquing creative work, and provides guidance in developing creative writing curriculum. PUL=1A

ENG-W 305 Writing Creative Nonfiction (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, ENG-W 208, or permission of the instructor. An intermediate course in the theory and practice of creative nonfiction prose, with seminar study of relevant materials and workshop discussion of student work in progress. PUL=1A

ENG-W 401 Writing Fiction (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 301. Study and practice in the writing of fiction. Analysis of examples from contemporary literature accompanies class criticism and discussion. PUL=1A; RISE-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 403 Advanced Poetry Writing (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 303. Study and practice in the writing of poetry. Analysis of examples from contemporary poets accompanies class criticism and discussion. PUL=1A; RISE-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 411 Directed Writing (1-3 cr.) P: Consent of instructor. Individual projects determined in consultation with instructor. Credit varies with scope of project.
PUL=1A. May be repeated once for credit.

ENG-W 407 Advanced Creative Nonfiction Writing
(3 cr.) P: ENG-W 305. An advanced workshop in the craft of creative nonfiction, with special attention given to defining the genre and its craft. PUL=1A RISE-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 313 Writing Nonfiction Prose (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, ENG-W 208, or permission of the instructor. Students will read and analyze professional and student work as they prepare to practice the art of fact by combining the tools of a researcher with the craft of a novelist. The final portfolio includes a stylistic analysis of the student's and others' nonfiction works as well as two illustrated nonfiction texts based on the student's primary and secondary research. PUL=1A

ENG-W 315 Writing for the Web (3 cr.) Introduces students to new forms of writing (beyond word processing and desktop publishing) made possible by computers - hypertext, electronic mail, and computer conferencing
- and explores what impact these new forms have on literacy skills for writers and readers of such computer-delivered texts. PUL=1A

ENG-W 318 Finding your E-Voice (3 cr.) This course helps students understand and negotiate the creation of a successful e-voice with academic, personal, and professional applications. Reading, exploration, discussions, activities and practice help students transition from an academic to an "e-voice." Designing and producing a multimedia project meets RISE criteria and further refines developing e-voices. PUL=1A

Film Studies (FILM)
FILM-C 292 An Introduction to Film (3 cr.) Nature of film technique and film language; analysis of specific films; major historical, theoretical, and critical developments in film and film study from the beginnings of cinema to the present. PUL=3

FILM-C 390 The Film and Society: Topics (3 cr.) Film and politics; race and gender; social influences of the cinema; rise of the film industry. May be repeated once with different topic. PUL=4

FILM-C 391 The Film: Theory and Aesthetics (3 cr.)
Film form and techniques; aesthetic and critical theories of the cinema; relationships between film movements and literary and artistic movements; relationships of word and image; analysis of significant motion pictures. PUL=4

FILM-C 392 Genre Study in Film (3 cr.) Problems of definition; the evolution of film genres such as criminal or social drama, comedy, the western, science fiction, horror, or documentary film; themes, subject matter, conventions, and iconography peculiar to given genres; relationship of film genres to literary genres. Focus on one specific genre each time the course is offered. PUL=3 May be repeated once with different topic.

FILM-C 393 History of European and American Films
I (3 cr.) FILM-C 393 is a survey of the development of cinema during the period 1895-1926 (the silent film era).
PUL=3
FILM-C 394 History of European and American Films II (3 cr.) FILM-C 394 is a survey of European and American cinema since 1927. Particular attention paid to representative work of leading filmmakers, emergence of film movements and development of national trends, growth of film industry, and impact of television. PUL=1

FILM-C 491 Authorship and Cinema (3 cr.) Study of the work of one or more film artists. Attention paid to the style, themes, and methods that make the filmmaker's work unique. Filmmakers studied in the contexts of film traditions, ideologies, and industries that informed their work. PUL=4 May be repeated once with a different topic.

FILM-C 493 Film Adaptations of Literature (3 cr.) Analysis of the processes and problems involved in turning a literary work (novel, play, or poem) into a screenplay and then into a film. Close study of literary and film techniques and short exercises in adaptation. PUL=2

ENG-W 260 Writing of Film Criticism (3 cr.) Viewing and critiquing currently playing films, with emphasis on genre, authorship, and cinematic and narrative values. Attention to cultural, historical, and ideological contexts. Students view contemporary films. This is a writing course, which teaches the writing of film criticism; students produce first drafts, present them to classmates for peer reviewing, and complete a final draft for grading. Essays spanning film history serve as models for review writing. PUL=2

FILM-C 350 Film Noir (3 cr.) Film noir is a term originating with the French to describe certain Hollywood films from the 1940s and 1950s that seem to express a dark vision of American culture. These films often share certain characteristics such as: private detectives; femmes fatales; and dark, shadowy, ambiguous worlds of crime. The term film noir, however, is as shadowy, as amorphous, as the films themselves. Is film noir a genre, a category, or a style of filmmaking? Film scholars and critics don't always agree on a definition. However we describe them, films noir continue to intrigue and provoke us. This course will look at the historical and cultural use of the term, and some of the detective and pulp fiction that influenced film noir. We will read what several important critics say about noir. We will watch several of the most influential Hollywood films noir made after 1941, including The Maltese Falcon, Double Indemnity, Laura, Kiss Me Deadly, and Touch of Evil. In addition, we will look at neo noirs, such as Chinatown, Blade Runner, Pulp Fiction, and Devil in a Blue Dress. Finally, we will think about film noir as a discourse, as a set of ideas circulating around these films, which might tell us something about American culture. PUL=3

FILM-C 352 Biopics (3 cr.) We will study one of the richest, but most underappreciated of film genres, the biopic. You will learn to discuss biography as a genre; to assess mythmaking in the telling of lives; to analyze the ways that biographical films work cinematically; and to see how, as a dynamic form, the biopic continues to produce portraits of what it means to distinguish oneself in the world. PUL=3

FILM-C 361 Hollywood Studio Era 1930-1949 (3 cr.) This class deals with a vitally important period in film history as related to American history during the Great Depression, World War II, and the immediate postwar years. We will learn the various elements of filmmaking as practiced in a self-contained production system under which each cinematic component—from camerawork to acting to costuming to editing—had a department dedicated to it. We will learn about audiences and moviegoing during a time when movies were the national pastime in America and in many other countries. We will learn how to identify studio style, genre, to analyze the significance of stars and acting codes. We will study the roles of the actor, the writer, the producer, and the director in this system in which talents were signed to long-term contracts and were essentially owned by the companies. In writing, oral discussions, and exams, you should be able to analyze films of the Studio Era on several levels: What do they have to say as products of an American entertainment industry during two turbulent periods in America? What is the "classical cinema" and how does it combine what Richard B. Jewell calls "some standardization" with "a certain amount of freshness, of innovation, of novelty" demanded by the public? How do we recognize house style, individual authorship, and the differences between them? What is genre? And how do we write about and discuss these elements? PUL=4

FILM-C 362 Hollywood in the 1950s (3 cr.) This course, the second in a series on the history of the sound film, concerns one of the most critical periods of change both in American life and in the American film as art and entertainment. The late forties and early fifties in America brought the end of two decades of depression and world war and the coming of prosperity, suburbs, the baby boom, the Cold War, television, and the first stirrings of the Civil Rights movement. For Hollywood, the era forced the end of the unified mass audience and with it the breakup of the old powerful studios. Now came the (first) age of the blockbuster, of widescreen and stereophonic sound, of youth films, and Method acting, of a measure of psychological realism, and a new division, however, artificial, between art and entertainment films. The fifties are a fascinating period of reinvention and transition. Television, the blacklist, widescreen, Method acting, psychological realism, the decline of the Production Code, the influence of art cinema; iconic films from “Sunset Blvd.” to “Some Like It Hot,” “Singin’ in the Rain” to “The Searchers,” “Rebel Without a Cause” to “On the Waterfront.” PUL=1C

FILM-C 380 French Cinema (3 cr.) This course will provide students with a broad introduction to the history of French cinema. France has arguably the most avid, energetic, and versatile film culture of any single nation in the world, including our own. The academic discipline of Film Studies would simply not exist without the French; critics such as André Bazin, the “auteur” critics of Cahiers du Cinéma and Positif in the 1950s, and later scholars such as Christian Metz, Raymond Bellour, and Jean-Louis Baudry, who brought semiotics and psychoanalysis in the field were advocates and analysts of the possibilities of film and its meanings in the modern world. Cinema got its formal start in France. The first public film screening anywhere was presented by Pierre and Auguste Lumière in Paris on December 28, 1895. Among other French contributions to film culture were the first science fiction/fantasy films (of Georges Méliès), the wide-screen lens, the idea of film noir, the Auteur Theory, and the Nouvelle Vague (New Wave), which revolutionized film style around the world in the 1960s. Students will learn the important styles, periods, and directors of French cinema. They will develop an appreciation for the philosophical and aesthetic ideas informing French film, the cultural and political cultures out of which the films are produced, and the unique cross-pollination between the French and American cinemas. PUL=2.

Language and Linguistics

ENG-Z 206 Introduction to Language Use (3 cr.) An introduction to how we use language in our lives. This course explores how and why language varies between different groups and places, as well as the role of context in language meaning and interpretation. Insights are applied to understanding the impact of literature, film, writing, and other disciplines. PUL=4

ENG-Z 301 History of the English Language (3 cr.) P: ENG-Z 205 is recommended. A study of the origins of the English language, focusing on how and why English has changed over time. Topics include: the process of language standardization and its impact on education and literacy, relationships between language and literature, and the changing role of English around the world. PUL=3

ENG-Z 302 Understanding Language Structure: Syntax (3 cr.) R: ENG-Z 205 is recommended. An introduction to how language is organized at the sentence level, focusing on what it means to know how to produce and understand grammatical sentences. The acquisition of syntax by children learning their first language and non-native speakers learning a second language will be studied. PUL=2

ENG-Z 432 Second Language Acquisition (3 cr.) P: ENG-Z 205. An introduction to a broad range of issues in the field of second language acquisition, providing the student with an overview of the most important approaches to the fundamental questions of how people learn a second language. Provides students with basic knowledge of theories of second language acquisition and an understanding of how theoretical perspectives inform practical application. PUL=2

ENG-Z 441 Materials Preparation for ESL Instruction (3 cr.) P: ENG-Z 205. Students learn about materials preparation, syllabus design, and test preparation by applying a variety of theories to books and other ESL (English as a Second Language) teaching devices (e.g., ESL tapes, videotapes, and software programs) in order to evaluate their usefulness. Students will learn to evaluate ESL materials for adequacy. PUL=4; RISE=Experiential Learning

ENG-Z 104 Language in Our World (3 cr.) This course explores the power and importance of language in our everyday lives and looks at how language unites and separates us culturally, politically, socially, and psychologically. PUL=5

ENG-Z 204 Rhetorical Issues in Grammar and Usage (3 cr.) An introduction to English grammar and usage that studies the rhetorical impact of grammatical structures (such as noun phrases, prepositional phrases, and different sentence patterns). This course considers language trends and issues, the role of correctness in discourse communities, and the relations between writing in context and descriptive and prescriptive grammars and usage guides. PUL=3

Writing and Literacy
ENG-W 210 Literacy and Public Life (3 cr.) An introduction to the uses of literacy in public and civic discourse, with connections made to theories of writing and professional prospects for writers; serves as the required gateway course for the Concentration in Writing and Literacy and as an exploration of this concentration for other English majors and students considering the possibility of an English major. PUL=4

ENG-W 260 Writing for Film Criticism (3 cr.) Viewing and critiquing currently playing films, with emphasis on genre, authorship, and cinematic and narrative values. Attention to cultural, historical, and ideological contexts. Students view contemporary films. This is a writing course, which teaches the writing of film criticism; students produce first drafts, present them to classmates for peer reviewing, and complete a final draft for grading.
Essays spanning film history serve as models for review writing. PUL=1A

ENG-W 310 Language and the Study of Writing (3 cr.) An introduction to the logical foundation and rhetorical framework of effective writing. PUL=4

ENG-W 313 The Art of Fact: Writing Nonfiction Prose (3 cr.) P: At least one 200-level writing course or excellent performance in ENG-W 131 and/or ENG-W 132 (contact the instructor if you are unsure of your readiness for this course). Students will read and analyze professional and student work as they prepare to practice the art of fact by combining the tools of a researcher with the craft of a novelist. The final portfolio includes a stylistic analysis of the student's and others' nonfiction works as well as two illustrated nonfiction texts based on the student's primary and secondary research. PUL=4

ENG-W 315 Writing for the Web (3 cr.) Introduces students to new forms of writing (beyond word processing and desktop publishing) made possible by computers - hypertext, electronic mail, and computer conferencing - and explores what impact these new forms have on literacy skills for writers and readers of such computer-delivered texts. PUL=1A

ENG-W 331 Business and Administrative Writing (3 cr.) Emphasis on proposals, presentations, collaborative and individual reports needed within a business, administrative, or organizational setting. Students discover how the process and products of writing shape organizational culture by studying documents organizations use, from hiring to setting ethical standards, as they communicate both internally and globally. PUL=1A

ENG-W 365 Theories and Practices of Editing (3 cr.) Students will examine textual and literary approaches to editing given particular rhetorical contexts. Emphasis will be placed on how to make editorial judgments that promote editorial standards without violating authorial intent. PUL=3

ENG-W 366 Written Englishes and Cultures (3 cr.) Is standard written English fixed and immutable or a living language variety? This course explores the definition, history, and politics of standard written English, the influence of home and community languages, and the uses and representation of linguistic diversity in both fiction and nonfiction texts. PUL=5

ENG-W 390 Topics in Writing and Literacy (3 cr.) Various topics in writing and literacy studies. Each offering will specify how the course counts in the major in writing and literacy. PUL=3 May be repeated once for credit.

ENG-W 400 Issues in Teaching Writing (3 cr.) Focuses on the content of rhetoric and composition and considers fundamental theoretical and practical issues in the teaching of writing. Reviews rhetorical and compositional principles that influence writing instruction, textbook selection, and curriculum development. PUL=3

ENG-W 411 Directed Writing (1-3 cr.) P: Consent of instructor and department chair. Individual critical or creative project worked out in collaboration with a member of the staff who agrees before registration to serve as a consultant. Credit varies with scope of project. PUL=1A

ENG-W 412 Literacy and Technology (3 cr.) Literacy and technology have multifaceted relationships with each other. This course explores the effects of technologies (ranging from clay tablets to the printing press to computers) on literate practices and the teaching of reading and writing. It prepares students to think critically about the possibilities and limitations associated with different technologies and their impact on literacy over time, and to analyze educational uses of technology connected with literacy. PUL=4

ENG-W 426 Writing for Popular and Professional Publication (3 cr.) Offers experienced writers near the end of their academic careers the opportunity to apply their skills to the public writing of the workplace. Students in this Honors course will integrate and apply academic writing skills gained from their previous academic work. They will compose documents appropriate for business and organizational purposes and explore the marketing process for freelance writing. Application of this "real-life" writing comes when ENG-W 426 students receive assignments from university units such as the University College and the School of Liberal Arts and fulfill them for inclusion in university publications. PUL=3

ENG-W 490 Writing Seminar (3 cr.) A writing seminar for English writing concentration majors that meets the capstone requirement. The seminar focuses on a specialized topic in writing studies; students will produce a major research-based or applied project.

ENG-W 491 Writing for Popular and Professional Publication (3 cr.) Offers experienced writers near the end of their academic careers the opportunity to apply their skills to the public writing of the workplace. Students in this Honors course will integrate and apply academic writing skills gained from their previous academic work. They will compose documents appropriate for business and organizational purposes and explore the marketing process for freelance writing. Application of this "real-life" writing comes when ENG-W 426 students receive assignments from university units such as the University College and the School of Liberal Arts and fulfill them for inclusion in university publications. PUL=3

ENG-W 492 Internship in Writing (1-3 cr.) For students who have completed ENG-W 131 and permission of instructor. Internship in the University Writing Center. PUL=1A

ENG-W 493 Internship in Writing (1-3 cr.) For students who have completed ENG-W 131 and permission of instructor. Internship in the University Writing Center. PUL=1A

ENG-W 496 Writing Fellows Training Seminar (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 131 and permission of instructor. Internship in University Writing Center. ENG-W 496 is an internship that prepares undergraduates to tutor in the University Writing Center. PUL=3

ENG-W 318 Finding your E-Voice (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 131. This course helps students understand and negotiate the creation of a successful e-voice with academic, personal, and professional applications. Reading, exploration, discussions, activities and practice help students transition from an academic to an "e-voice." Designing and producing a multimedia project meets RISE criteria and further refines developing e-voices.

ENG-W 312 Writing Biography (3 cr.) Students will learn to write about other peoples' lives, conducting primary and secondary research. Genres produced may include obituary and profile, and students may have the opportunity to work in archives and write for publication.

ENG-W 377 Writing for Social Change (3 cr.) This course examines how writing is used to promote social change, particularly in the United States. Students apply theoretical perspectives learned in the course to analyze the rhetorical nature of texts associated with organizing and social action and to create their own texts, including texts directed to public officials, the media and organizational texts.

ENG-W 230 Science Writing (3 cr.) Instruction in preparing scientific reports, proposals, visuals, and research projects with instruction in CBE documentation and style.

ENG-W 326 Nonfiction Writing (3 cr.) This course will introduce students to nonfiction writing genres, including feature writing, profiles, reviews, speechwriting, memoir, opinion, blogs, travel writing, and more. Assigned readings will represent multiple genres; students will identify and analyze rhetorical strategies present in those genres. This course will prepare students for W426 and for writing nonfiction in real world settings. PUL=3

ENG-W 367 Writing for Multiple Media (3 cr.) Introduces principles and practices of multimedia design and implementation, with emphasis on writing in multimedia contexts. Students will consider ways that new media affect the production and reception of writing and its relationship to other forms of communication. PUL=5

ENG-W 396 Writing Fellows Training Seminar (3 cr.) Course prepares experienced undergraduate writers to peer tutor in the Writing Center. PUL=3

ENG-W 397 Writing Center Theory and Practice (3 cr.) This course will introduce student tutors to research and theory on the writing process, revision, and writing centers, which assumed an important place in composition studies, as writing centers have been an entry point into the field for many scholars/teachers. Areas of focus are scholarship and pedagogy, politics of literacy education and development of reflective tutoring practices. PUL=3

Capstone
ENG-E 450 Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) This senior capstone integrates students' undergraduate study through writing and reading projects, faculty and student presentations, and creation of capstone portfolios. Students apply linguistic, literary, and rhetorical knowledge in culminating projects and learning portfolios. The course looks back at accomplishments and forward to postgraduation planning. PUL=3

Internship
ENG-E 398 Internship in English (3-6 cr.) P: Consent of instructor. A supervised internship in the use of English in a workplace. Apply during semester before desired internship. PUL=3

Programs

English for Academic Purposes (EAP)
ENG-G 109 Intermediate Aural/Oral Skills for EAP Students (3 cr.) C: G010 Intensive practice of basic speaking and pronunciation skills, as well as listening comprehension skills, to develop language proficiency required for study at the university level. PUL=1C

ENG-G 15 Pronunciation Skills (1 cr.) This course focuses on American English pronunciation and stresses active learner involvement in small groups and self-tutorials. Practice in a contextualized format includes drills and multimedia listening and speaking activities. Classwork emphasizes stress and intonation patterns and vowel and consonant production. Individualized instruction focusing on specific needs is a component of the course. PUL=1C

ENG-G 101 Special Topics in EAP (3 cr.) Designed for EAP students, this course provides an introduction to English for Academic Purposes. The students will study the grammatical structures of the English language, EAP vocabulary, and their use in EAP speaking, listening, and reading.

ENG-G 110 Intermediate EAP: Reading, Writing, and Grammar (3 cr.) C: ENG G109 This course introduces and reviews basic English grammatical structures; presents basic reading strategies and vocabulary development; and focuses on functional language use and study skills. PUL=1C

ENG-G 111 Academic English Reading: Perspectives on Culture/Society (3 cr.) In this course, non-native English speaking students will develop their academic reading, (cross)cultural understanding, and critical thinking skills through indepth reading. Students will read academic texts about current socio-cultural issues and explore their meaning in U.S. and global context. The students will learn how to critically analyze, interpret, and synthesize texts they read. They will demonstrate their reading and cultural analysis skills in discussions, oral presentations, and written responses and analyses of academic readings. Vocabulary building for college-level communication is integrated into the instruction. PUL=1B

ENG-G 112 Listening and Speaking Skills for Academic Purposes (3 cr.) This course focuses on developing speaking and listening skills that are essential to academic life, encouraging participation in group discussion, improvement in presentation strategies, and development of questioning and answering skills. It provides community involvement to help students better understand American culture and language use. Reading skills, vocabulary development, oral communication and presentation skills for the academic context are emphasized. PUL=1B

ENG-G 114 EAP Grammar (1 cr.) C: ENG G111 This course introduces and reviews English grammatical structures for EAP students. As a co-requisite of G111 (Academic English Reading), the course provides practice in and clarification of grammatical structures in academic texts at high-intermediate levels of EAP. Students from other EAP courses may be identified as needing additional EAP grammar support based on an instructor-led evaluation and can, therefore, be required to complete the course, as well. The class is conducted as a lab in which students will meet face to face with an instructor part of the time and then complete work on assigned grammar units outside of class. In class additional instruction and practice will be given, and students will complete assessments (quizzes and exams) focused on EAP grammar. PUL=1A

ENG-G 410 Introduction to Legal English (1 cr.) An intensive, integrated academic language skills course addressing the linguistic demands of legal study in the U.S. Focuses on reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills. PUL=1A

ENG-G 411 Legal English I (3 cr.) A language skills course focusing on (1) grammatical structures and reading strategies required to understand legal texts and material, and (2) listening skills needed for the law school classroom. Instruction in fundamental organizational patterns in writing is provided as needed. PUL=1A

ENG-G 412 Legal English II (3 cr.) An integrated language skills course that focuses primarily on the advanced study of academic legal writing, including editing skills. PUL=1A

ENG-G 513 Academic Writing Graduate Students
(3 cr.) Designed to meet the academic writing needs of ESL graduate students from multiple disciplines, this course focuses on a variety of academic writing styles and disciplinary approaches to producing research papers and professional documents. Students practice paraphrasing, summarizing, critiquing discipline-related articles, as well as writing research proposals and a comprehensive research paper. PUL=1A

ENG-G 520 Communication Skills for Graduate Students and International Teaching Assistants (3 cr.)
Designed for graduate students who are non-native speakers of English, this course provides instruction on oral communication skills, academic presentation skills and basic teaching strategies for the U.S. classroom.
The primary focus is on oral language skills necessary to present academic materials in English to an American audience. Language skills, teaching skills, and knowledge about the U.S. classroom culture will be developed through discussions and classroom observations/simulations.
Presentations, teaching practice and regular conferences will focus on individual needs. PUL=1C

ENG-W 131 Reading, Writing, And Inquiry (3 cr.)
An introduction to the English language: its nature, structure, and development. PUL=1A

ENG-G 500 Introduction to the English Language
(3 cr.) An introduction to the English language: its nature, structure, and development. PUL=1A

ENG-W 140 (with a grade of C or higher). Topics vary but course will focus on writing in various civic, cultural, and academic contexts. Course will fulfill second-year writing requirement for some programs. PUL=2

ENG-W 140 Elementary Composition/Honors (3 cr.)
Offers an introductory writing course for advanced first-year writers. Like W131, W140 teaches skills of critical reading, thinking, and writing to help students meaningfully engage artifacts, events, and issues in our world. The course builds students' abilities to read written and cultural texts critically; to analyze those texts in ways that engage both students' own experiences and the perspectives of others; and to write about those texts for a range of audiences and purposes as a means of participating in broader conversations. Assignments emphasize the analysis and synthesis of sources in making and developing claims. PUL=2

ENG-W 231 Professional Writing Skills (3 cr.) P: ENG-
W 131 (with a grade of C or higher). To develop research and writing skills requisite for most academic and professional activities. Emphasis on methods of research, organization, and writing techniques useful in preparing reviews, critical bibliographies, research and technical reports, proposals and papers. PUL=2; RISE=E

ENG-W 270 Argumentative Writing (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 131 or ENG-W 140 (with a grade of C or higher). Offers instruction and practice in writing argumentative essays about complicated and controversial issues. The course focuses on strategies for identifying issues, assessing claims, locating evidence, deciding on a position, and writing papers with clear assertions and convincing arguments. PUL=2
ENG-W 150 Research in the Disciplines/Honors (3 cr.)
An introduction to academic inquiry, this course allows the honors student to explore the investigative methods used within a discipline of his choice. Individual projects using these various methods combine primary and secondary skills. PUL=1A

Graduate

Masters Degree and Certificate Courses

ENG-L 501 Professional Scholarship in Literature (4 cr.) Instruction in the materials, tools, and methods of research. The course is especially designed to familiarize beginning graduate students with the research expectations associated with graduate study in literature.

ENG-L 590 Internship in English (1-4 cr.) A supervised internship in the uses of language in the workplace. (For prospective teachers, the workplace may be a class.) Each intern will be assigned a problem or new task and will develop the methods for solving the problem or completing the task. Interns will complete a portfolio of workplace writing and self-evaluation; they will also be visited by a faculty coordinator and evaluated in writing by their on-site supervisors.

ENG-L 509 Introduction to the English Language (4 cr.) An introduction to the English language: its nature, structure, and development.

Offered in two formats: as a practicum in course and syllabus design for a future undergraduate course; or as a practicum for AIs running concurrently with the related undergraduate course.

ENG-L 641 English Literature 1790-1900 (4 cr.) The course will explore the nexus between English literature, history, and print culture from the late sixteenth- to the early seventeenth century, using as our starting point England's unexpected (yet, perhaps, divinely inspired!) victory over the Spanish Armada in 1588 - the event that established England as a naval, military, and commercial power on par with continental Europe. From this triumphant moment, we will follow the nation through several succession crises, religious controversies, economic turmoil, struggles over theatrical and print censorship, and violently contested debates about the nature of Kingship itself, all of which led to a Civil War, the closing of the public theaters, the beheading of Charles I, and the eventual Restoration of the monarchy after an uncomfortable period of Parliamentarian and Protectorate rule.

ENG-L 643 Readings in Colonial and Postcolonial Literatures (4 cr.) Study of literature within the historical, cultural and political context of European colonialism and anti- or post-colonial resistance. Topics might include the role of literature in the formation of nations and national consciousness, literatures of particular nations, or postcolonial theory.

ENG-L 657 Readings in Literature and Critical Thinking (4 cr.) Study of major movements, figures, or topics in literary and/or critical theory.
ENG-L 666 Survey of Children’s Literature (3-4 cr.) A survey of literature written for children and adolescents from the medieval period to the present.

ENG-Z 536 Pedagogical Grammar (3 cr.) The focus of this course is on understanding the functions that grammar fulfills in oral and written communication, analyzing those aspects of grammar most problematic for English language learners, and exploring approaches to helping learners understand and use those structures in meaningful communicative contexts. The course combines theoretical discussion about various aspects of grammar with consideration of how to prepare effective lessons for teaching grammar to learners of different ages, proficiency levels and needs.

ENG-Z 570 Second Language Writing (3 cr.) This course explores theories and practices in the teaching and evaluation of second language writing (SLW) as well as connections between first and second language writing, literacy, and culture. Students learn how to identify writing needs, design tasks, and assess writing, and form a philosophy of teaching SLW.

ENG-Z 575 Second Language Learning and Technology (3 cr.) Explores the theory, use, and issues of using technology in second language instruction, focusing specifically on the acquisition of intercultural competence, culture, and pragmatics.

ENG-Z 598 TESOL Internship (3 cr.) P: Completion of ENG-Z 520 and ENG-Z 523, or instructor’s approval, and placement by TESOL Program into an approved internship site. The TESOL Internship is designed to provide students with a supervised internship experience in a professional ESL or EFL context. Interns will gain practical, hands-on experience in TESOL, including teaching, research, and/or program administration.

ENG-W 533 Science Writing (1 cr.) C: COMM-C 533; COMM-C 534. With an emphasis on shorter forms of writing, students discover voices, messages, and forms appropriate for bringing scientific expertise to non-science readers. They practice processes of response, revision, and editing to shape presentations for various readers, contexts, and paths of publication.

ENG-W 535 Advanced Science Writing (1 cr.) Each student identifies a complex project that includes long-forms and/or multi-genres of writing to deliver scientific expertise to non-science readers in a specific community or context. Collaborating through peer-critique and role-playing relevant readerships, students adjust their messages and modes of delivery.

ENG-G 513 Academic Writing Graduate Students (3 cr.) Designed to meet the academic writing needs of ESL graduate students from multiple disciplines, this course focuses on a variety of academic writing styles and disciplinary approaches to producing research papers and professional documents. Students practice paraphrasing, summarizing, critiquing discipline-related articles, as well as writing research proposals and a comprehensive research paper.

ENG-G 520 Communication Skills for Graduate Students and Internationals (3 cr.) Designed for graduate students who are non-native speakers of English, this course provides instruction on oral communication skills, academic presentation skills and basic teaching strategies for the U.S. classroom. The primary focus is on oral language skills necessary to present academic materials in English to an American audience. Language skills, teaching skills, and knowledge about the U.S. classroom culture will be developed through discussions and classroom observations/simulations. Presentations, teaching practice and regular conferences will focus on individual needs.

ENG-G 541 Materials Preparation for ESL (4 cr.)

ENG-L 635 Readings in American Ethnic Literature and Culture (4 cr.) In-depth or comparative study of African-American, Asian American, Latino/a, Native American, and/or other American ethnic literature and culture.

ENG-L 701 DESC BIBLIOGRAPHY/TEXTUAL PROB (4 cr.)

ENG-W 597 Writing Center: Theory and Practice (4 cr.) Writing Center Theory & Practice is designed to examine the techniques of consulting with writers, as well as the various theories that guide and inform consulting. The course will focus on the practical components of writing center work and how writing center and composition theories can be applied to a variety of settings, including but not limited to college, middle school, high school, professional, and other community settings. In particular, this course will train students to consult with writers in the IUPUI University Writing Center. Specific topics will include writing process, collaborative learning, approaches to consulting, consultant roles, consulting strategies for multiple populations of students (including but not limited to multilingual writers, first-generation students, returning students), cultural divides in writing centers, the use of technology and multimodal composing in writing centers, online consulting, assessment and research in writing centers, and composition and learning theories that influence writing center work and resource development.

Geography (GEOG)

Lower-Division Courses
GEOG-G 107 Physical Systems of the Environment (3 cr.) Explores the physical processes of the Earth--its weather, climate, landforms, oceans and ecosystems--and analyzes a range of environmental issues. PUL=3

GEOG-G 108 Physical Systems of the Environment: Laboratory (2 cr.) P or C: GEOG-G107. Laboratory to complement G107. Practical and applied aspects of Meterology, Climatology, Vegetation, Soils and Landforms. PUL=3

GEOG-G 110 Human Geography in Changing World (3 cr.) How do languages, religions, customs, and politics change from local to global scales? Learn how humans shape geographic patterns of migration, agriculture, industry, and urbanization. PUL=5

GEOG-G 111 Hurricanes (1 cr.) Introduction to processes involved in the initiation and development of hurricanes, forecasting and modeling tools used to predict... their effects, and impacts on the natural environment and humans. PUL=3

GEOG-G 112 Thunderstorms and Tornadoes (1 cr.)
Introduction to the processes involved in the initiation and development of thunderstorms and tornadoes, forecasting and modeling tools to predict their spatial pattern and effects, and impacts on the natural environment and humans. PUL=3

GEOG-G 113 The Ozone “Hole” (1 cr.)
Introduction to the role and significance of the stratospheric ozone layer and the nature and extent of its depletion. Attention will focus on the development of our understanding, human intervention, and major points of controversy. PUL=3

GEOG-G 114 The Greenhouse Effect and Global Warming (1 cr.)
Introduction to the greenhouse effect and global carbon cycle. Attention will be directed to how, when, and where humans have altered this cycle and the implications for future climates. Methods for monitoring climate change will be studied and areas of greatest uncertainty identified. Particular attention will be directed to the spatial pattern of projected effects produced by global climate models. PUL=3

GEOG-G 123 Soil Survey (1 cr.)
An introduction to soils geography. Soil development processes, USDA soil survey map interpretation, physical and mechanical soil properties, and land use analysis. PUL=3

GEOG-G 130 World Geography (1 cr.)
An analysis of the existing and emerging geographic patterns in the world and of the processes and trends producing such patterns. An examination of the global scale of human activities and interaction with the environment and the linkages tying the various regions of the world into a single, global system. PUL=5

Upper-Division Courses

GEOG-G 303 Weather and Climate (3 cr.)
Systematic study of atmospheric processes and interrelationships, with a focus on understanding the physical basis of weather and climate. Emphasis on components of radiation and energy balances, atmospheric circulation, global weather systems, human effects on climate, and climate change. PUL=3

GEOG-G 305 Environmental Change: Nature and Impact (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 107 or consent of instructor. An integrated study of the causes and effects of environmental change. Areas covered include: climate variability (short and long term), environmental chemistry (ozone layer, greenhouse gases, and pollution), and anthropogenic impact that leads to environmental change. PUL=3

GEOG-G 307 Biogeography: The Distribution of Life (3 cr.)
A survey of the present and past distributions of the world’s plants and animals, emphasizing ecological explanation of species distributions. Topics include evolution and distribution of major plant and animal groups, world vegetation, plant and animal domestication, introduction of plant and animal pests, destruction of natural communities, and extinction. PUL=3

GEOG-G 309 Frontiers in Geographic Thought (3 cr.)
Provides a survey of the development of philosophical frameworks and theories used in physical and human geography. PUL=1

GEOG-G 310 Human Impact on Environment (3 cr.)
A systematic examination of how people have altered patterns of climate, hydrology, land forms, soils, and biota. Course emphasizes that understanding human impacts requires knowledge of both the sociocultural forces that drive human activity and the natural processes that determine environmental patterns. PUL=3

GEOG-G 311 Introduction to Research Methods in Geography (3 cr.)
Introduction to geographic research questions and methodologies. Focus on special characteristics of geographic problems in the realms of both physical and human geography. Study of scientific versus nonscientific methods, the nature of geographic data, methods of data analysis, interpretation, and presentation. PUL=3

GEOG-G 314 Urban Geography (3 cr.)
Study and interpretation of urban spatial structures, design, policies, and problems with an emphasis on the geographic perspective. Topics include urban housing markets, racial segregation, homelessness, and urban crime. PUL=5

GEOG-G 315 Environmental Conservation (3 cr.)
Conservation of natural resources including soil, water, wildlife, and forests as interrelated components of environmental quality. PUL=3

GEOG-G 321 Geography of Europe (3 cr.)
Geographical analysis of the physical features of the European environment and the spatial patterns and inter-relationships of the cultural, economic, and political landscapes. Emphasis placed on human impact on the environment through long-term occupancy. PUL=5

GEOG-G 323 Geography of Latin America (3 cr.)
A geographic introduction to Latin America: the Caribbean, Mexico, Central America, South America. Focus is on elements that give coherence and identity to geographic space in Latin America. Topics include the natural environment, settlement, the agrarian sphere, urbanization and industrialization, regional development issues and geopolitical themes. PUL=5

GEOG-G 324 Geography of the Caribbean (3 cr.)
Geographic introduction to the Caribbean, stressing global and regional political and economic relationships, physical, and natural environments, human activities and human-environmental relationships which give coherence and identity to the diversity of Caribbean landscapes, peoples, and cultures. PUL=5

GEOG-G 326 Geography of North America (3 cr.)
Continental and regional variations in terrain, climate, and economic and social life of the United States and Canada, with emphasis on geographical principles, sources of data, and techniques of investigation. PUL=5

GEOG-G 327 Geography of Indiana (3 cr.)
A geographical analysis of the state of Indiana. Emphasis placed on the interrelationship of the state’s physical and human geography. PUL=5

GEOG-G 328 Rural Landscapes of North America (3 cr.)
Rural geography of the United States and Canada, focusing on rural settlements, culture, economic activities, and land subdivision. The spatial impacts of economic and and landforms, and human factors, such as viticultural between environmental variables, such as climate, soils, the complex and often subtle relationships that exists
the spatial distribution and patterns of viniculture
An introduction
GEOG-G 360 Geography of Wine (3 cr.)
An introduction to the spatial distribution and patterns of viniculture in the world. Emphasis is placed on understanding the complex and often subtle relationships that exists between environmental variables, such as climate, soils, and landforms, and human factors, such as viticultural practices and vinification techniques, in producing different types of wines and variations in their qualities. The geographic origins and diffusion of viniculture are examined along with an analysis of the locations, development, and characteristics of the main wine regions or landscapes of the world. PUL=5

GEOG-G 330 North American House Types (3 cr.)
Houses are a visible semipermanent record of human values, political ideas, historical settlement, and community development. This record is reflected in the types of houses built during a particular time period, by certain groups of people, or in a certain area of the country. This course examines house types for the purpose of identifying and analyzing geographic patterns that occur in North America. PUL=5

GEOG-G 331 Economic Geography (3 cr.)
An examination of the spatial dynamics and location patterns of economic activities, behavior, and systems. The study of the spatial organization of resource utilization, agricultural production, manufacturing, business, transportation, and trade. PUL=5

GEOG-G 334 Field Geography of North America (3 cr.)
A field course examining some geographic theme or region in North America. Includes preliminary classroom lecture and a field excursion of 1-2 weeks. Normally taught in summer. PUL=5

GEOG-G 336 Introduction to Remote Sensing and Air Photo Interpretation (3 cr.)
Nature and interpretation of remotely sensed data collected from field, airborne, and space-borne sensors. Data from the visible, infrared, and microwave portions of the electromagnetic spectrum are discussed and analyzed from a geographic applications perspective. Visual, photogrammetric, digital image processing, and GIS interpretation approaches are presented. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 337 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.)
Compilation, design, production, and evaluation of maps and related graphic materials. Includes cartometric procedures, symbolization, color use guidelines, map typography, photographic manipulations, computer animation, and geographic visualization techniques. Hardcopy and internet-based outputs. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 338 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)
Introduction to the principles and applications of computer-based geographic information systems (GIS). PUL=1C

GEOG-G 345 Field Study in Geography (3 cr.)
P: 12 credit hours in geography and consent of instructor. Faculty-supervised fieldwork in selected areas of geography. PUL=5 May be repeated up to a maximum of 6 credit hours.

GEOG-G 355 Political Geography (3 cr.)
An examination of the spatial organization of political systems and the interaction of geographical area and political processes. Emphasis on the geographical characteristics of states and the geographical dimensions of international relations. PUL=5

GEOG-G 360 Geography of Wine (3 cr.)
An introduction to the spatial distribution and patterns of viniculture in the world. Emphasis is placed on understanding the complex and often subtle relationships that exists between environmental variables, such as climate, soils, and landforms, and human factors, such as viticultural practices and vinification techniques, in producing different types of wines and variations in their qualities. The geographic origins and diffusion of viniculture are examined along with an analysis of the locations, development, and characteristics of the main wine regions or landscapes of the world. PUL=5

GEOG-G 390 Topics in Geography (1-3 cr.)
An examination of selected problems and issues in geography or from a geographic perspective. Topics vary from semester to semester. PUL=3

GEOG-G 404 Soils Geography (3 cr.)
Soils, genesis, morphology, and classification; soil's physical, chemical, mechanical, and biological properties. Soil maps and related data in land use analysis and the planning process. PUL=4

GEOG G421 Environments of Tropical Lands (3 cr.)
A geographical analysis concerned with developing countries and focusing on issues related to development and the environmental consequences. Concern for the natural environment is expressed with regard to how it is affected by population pressures, economic advancement, and urbanization. An understanding of Third World people and their cultures is presented. PUL=3

GEOG-G 436 Advanced Remote Sensing: Digital Image Processing (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 336 or consent of instructor. Advanced remote sensing theory and digital image processing techniques with an emphasis on environmental applications. Hands-on computer exercises provide significant experience in introductory digital image processing for extraction of quantitative and qualitative information about Earth's terrestrial environments. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 438 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 336 or consent of instructor. Intermediate and advanced topics in geographic information science and spatial analysis techniques using GIS software. This advanced course is for upper-division undergraduates and graduates who seek a greater understanding of this rapidly developing field and to learn how to construct, manage, and analyze their own GIS data and models. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 439 GIS & Environmental Analysis (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 336, GEOG-G 338, and GEOG-G 436 or GEOG-G 438. Applications of geographic information science principles in the collection and analysis of spatial data. Integration of GIS, remote sensing, and/or GPS technologies. Review of current literature on techniques, theory, technology, and applications with an emphasis on environmental issues. Discussions, laboratory, and research project. May substitute for the GEOG-G 491 capstone course. PUL=3

GEOG-G 446 Cultural Biogeography (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 307. Examines human alteration of natural plant and animal distributions. Topics include deforestation, extinction, plant and animal domestication, and introduction of alien organisms. Seminar format. PUL=3

GEOG-G 450 Undergraduate Readings and Research in Geography (1-3 cr.)
Research in selected problems: papers are ordinarily required. PUL=3

GEOG-G 460 Geography Internship (1-6 cr.)
P: 12 credit hours of geography and departmental approval.
Supervised field experience in geography, normally in conjunction with approved work at a government agency or private firm. Requires 40 hours of work per 1 hour of credit. PUL=3

GEOG-G 475 Climate Change (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 303. Advanced course on the evidence for and theories of climate change over a range of time scales, focusing on the period before the instrumental record. PUL=5

GEOG-G 488 Applied Spatial Statistics (3 cr.) P: 6 credits in geography or consent of instructor. Extension of traditional statistical analysis to spatial data. Spatial means and spatial variances, the examination of differences in samples over space, spatial autocorrelation, nearest neighbor analysis, map comparison techniques, emphasis on practical applications. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 491 Capstone Experience in Geography (1 cr.) An independent project for senior-level students, applying geographic theory and techniques to a topic of geographic interest beyond the limits of the regular curriculum. Open to majors or non-majors with appropriate preparation, including GEOG-G 309 and GEOG-G 311. May be taken alone or concurrently with another course. PUL=3

GEOG-G 302 Introduction to Transportation Analysis (3 cr.) Examination of movement of people, goods, and information over space using spatial analysis and planning techniques. PUL=3

GEOG-G 418 Historical Geography (3 cr.) Migration and diffusion, rural and urban settlement, industrialization, and transport development as spatial processes shaping the landscapes and geopolitical relationships of past places and peoples. PUL=3

GEOG-G 424 Geography of Africa (3 cr.) Geographical analysis of the physical features of the African environment and the spatial patterns and interrelationships of the cultural, economic, and political landscapes. PUL=5

GEOG-G 363 Landscapes and Cultures of the Caribbean (3 cr.) Field courses are taught during summer. Includes two weeks of preliminary lectures at IUPUI followed by approximately two weeks of intensive field study in the Caribbean. Destinations vary from year to year; consult class schedule for more information. PUL=3

GEOG-G 478 GLOBAL CHANGE, FOOD, AND FARMING SYSTEMS (3 cr.) P: Junior or Senior Status; Consent of the instructor. Introduction to food production and consumption systems, emphasizing linkages to land use and social change on food/farming system sustainability. Topics include urbanization population growth and economic liberalization; farming livelihoods, gender and poverty; biotechnology; agroecology, global health.

Graduate Courses

GEOG G535 ENVIRONMENTAL REMOTE SENSING (3 cr.) Principles of remote sensing of the earth and its atmosphere, emphasizing satellite data in visible, infrared, and microwave portions of the electromagnetic spectrum. Emphasis on practical applications and digital image analysis. A satellite data analysis project is required.

GEOG-G 536 Advanced Remote Sensing (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 535 or consent of instructor. Advanced remote sensing theory and digital image processing techniques with an emphasis on environmental applications. Hands-on computer exercises provide significant experience in introductory digital image processing for extraction of qualitative and quantitative information about the Earth's terrestrial environments. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 537 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.) Compilation, design, production, and evaluation of maps and related graphic materials. Includes cartometric procedures, symbolization, color use guidelines, map typography, photographic manipulations, computer animation, and geographic visualization techniques. Hardcopy and Internet-based outputs. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 538 Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) Overview of the principles and practices of Geographic Information Systems (GIS). The course will deal with issues of spatial data models, database design, introductory and intermediate GIS operations, and case studies of real-world GIS. Laboratory exercises will provide significant hands-on experience. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 539 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 538 or consent of instructor. Intermediate and advanced topics in geographic information science and spatial analysis techniques using GIS software. This advanced course is for upper-division undergraduates and graduates who seek a greater understanding of this rapidly developing field and to learn how to construct, manage, and analyze their own GIS data and models. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 588 Applied Spatial Statistics (3 cr.) P: 6 credits in geography or consent of instructor. Extension of traditional statistical analysis to spatial data. Spatial means and spatial variances, the examination of differences in samples over space, spatial autocorrelation, nearest neighbor analysis, map comparison techniques, emphasis on practical applications.

GEOG-G 602 TOPICS SEMINAR: Climate, Land, and Environmental Change (3 cr.) P: Consent of instructor. Topics will vary to consider aspects of climate, land and environmental change.

GEOG-G 639 GIS and Environmental Analysis (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 535, GEOG-G 538, and GEOG-G 536 or GEOG-G 539. Applications of geographic information science principles in the collection and analysis of spatial data. Integration of GIS, remote sensing, and/or GPS technologies. Review of current literature on techniques, theory, technology, and applications with an emphasis on environmental issues. Discussions, laboratory, and research project.

GEOG-G 704 Soils Geography (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 538. Examines the spatial aspects of soils from a global and local perspective, including soil genesis, morphology, and classification; physical, chemical, mechanical and biological properties of soil; and land use mapping, analysis, planning, and management.

GEOG-G 830 Readings in Geography (12 cr. max. cr.) P: Advanced course in geography or closely related field. Supervised readings on selected topics.
GEOG-G 502 Introduction to Transportation Analysis (3 cr.) An examination of movement of people, goods, and information over space using spatial analysis and planning techniques.

GEOG-G 560 Geography Internship (1-4 cr.) P: Admission to MS GIS program and permission of major advisor. Faculty-directed study of geographical problems based on internship experience. Area of placement must be related to field of Geographic Information Science. Student may complete more than one internship, but total credit hours cannot exceed four.

GEOG-G 850 Masters Thesis (1-6 cr.) Directed research and writing under the supervision of a faculty committee.

GEO-G 845 Research Papers in Geography (3 cr.) P: Admission to MS in Geographic Information Science program who choose the research papers option (as opposed to the thesis) will develop two research papers under supervision of their major advisor and two additional faculty members.

GEOG-G 578 Global Change, Food and Farming Systems (3 cr.) P: 6 credits in geography or consent of instructor. Introduction to food production and consumption systems, emphasizing linkages to land use and social change on food/farming system sustainability. Topics include: urbanization population growth and economic liberalization; farming livelihoods, gender and poverty; biotechnology; agro-ecology; global health.

GEOG-G 590 Graduate Topics in Geography (3 cr.) An examination of selected problems and issues in geography or from a geographic perspective. Topics vary from semester to semester.

Courses

MSPT-Z 100 Motorsports Studies (3 cr.) A course designed to introduce students to the many different kinds of motorsports, their history and the motorsports industry.

MSPT-Z 444 Motorsports Studies Capstone Seminar (3 cr.) The Motorsports studies Capstone Seminar is an intensive individual project, that draws on the student's chosen area of emphasis in the Motorsports Studies; Communication and Public Relations; Business Finance and Management; and Tourism and event Management. The project will involve an in depth research project, and internship with a motorsports organization or both.

MSPT-Z 445 Motorsports Studies Capstone Internship (3 cr.) The Motorsports Studies Capstone Internship is an intensive individual project that draws on the student's chosen area of emphasis in the Motorsports Studies Curriculum; Motorsports Studies; Communication and Public Relations: Business Finance and Management; and Tourism and Event Management. The project will involve an in depth research project, and internship with a motorsports organization or both.

MHHS-M 301 Perspectives on Health, Disease, and Healing (3 cr.) This course utilizes the perspectives of the humanities and social science disciplines to provide students with a broader understanding of the many facets of health and disease, suffering and dying, as well as art and science of healing. PUL=3

MHHS-M 492 Topics in Medical Humanities and Health Studies (1-3 cr.) Intensive study and analysis of selected issues and problems in Medical Humanities and Health Studies. Topics will ordinarily cut across fields and disciplines. PUL=4 May be repeated once for credit on a different topic.

MHHS-M 495 Independent Project/Seminar in Medical Humanities and Health Studies (3 cr.) P: Requires a minimum of 9 credit hours in the minor. A seminar or research project on a subject in Medical Humanities and Health Studies. PUL=4

MHHS-M 498 Readings in Medical Humanities and Health Studies (1-3 cr.) Individual readings and research. May be repeated once for credit on a different subject.

MHHS-M 504 Introduction to Research Ethics (3 cr.) Introduction to the basic concepts of research ethics. The course covers the historical development of concern with ethics in science as well as practical information needed by students working in science today. Format is lecture and discussion.

MHHS-M 592 Graduate Topics in Medical Humanities (3 cr.) Study of topics in Medical Humanities. May be repeated once for credit on a different topic.

MHHS-M 598 Graduate Readings in Medical Humanities (1-3 cr.) P: Permission of the Program Director required. Focused readings on selected topics in medical humanities by arrangement with the instructor.

MHHS-M 420 The Culture of Mental Illness (3 cr.) This course will consider how mental illness is represented in literature and film by exploring the following: Is there a relationship between the way we understand and perceive mental illness, and the way it is portrayed through popular culture? Have literary and film portrayals of mental illness aided our construction of how we think about mental illness today? How has our understanding of mental illness changed in the last century? We will consider the ways certain understandings of mental illness are constructed, represented and proliferated throughout culture. What are the different representational strategies, in particular the representation of the therapeutic encounter between doctor and patient? PUL=2

MHHS-M 501 Medical Humanities & The Illness Experience: Exploring the Human Condition (3 cr.) This course will proceed as an in-depth scrutiny of the philosophy and empiricism of medical science. The nature of Medical Humanities will be explored by debating issues affecting the human condition in general, and the illness experience in particular. These issues include evolutionary biology and the beginning of life; questions of artificial life and intelligence; the nature of consciousness; genetics and cloning; the pain of the nation over abortion and euthanasia; alternative and experimental medical techniques; organ donation and transplantation; redefining mental health; and the art and science involved in caring for the patient.

MHHS-M 520 The Culture of Mental Illness (3 cr.) This course explores the ways in which our understanding of mental illness is constructed, represented, and proliferated throughout our culture, by examining text and film. will consider how we as individuals and as a society are affected by different representations of mental illness, and how this translates into everyday interaction with others.

MHHS-M 595 Clinical Practicum in Medical Humanities (3 cr.) The Clinical Practicum will allow students the opportunity to not only gain a better understanding of clinical medicine, but also develop a better understanding of how the humanities can inform and enrich the practice of medicine in particular and healthcare in general. The clinical experience is individualized based on the students’ interests. Students will be provided a list of clinical opportunities from which they may design their practicum experience with guidance from the director.

MHHS-M 201 Introduction to Medical Humanities and Health Studies (3 cr.) This survey course is an interdisciplinary introduction to Medical Humanities & Health Studies examining the contributions of humanities and social science disciplines to health care and medicine. Bio-ethical issues, socio-cultural factors of health, literary and historical perspectives, and examples of current research are covered. PUL = 2

MHHS-M 390 A Body of Law: Medicine, Humanities, & Law (3 cr.) P: Student must have at least sophomore status. An introductory course into the intersection of law and medicine as viewed through the lens of the humanities. This course will focus on subtopics of law and medicine, including the legal bases of the doctor-patient relationship, bioethics and law, medical malpractice, and medical professionalization. Its purpose is to introduce students to the way the practice of medicine from both the physician and the patient perspectives is shaped by Constitutional, statutory, and common law. PUL = 2, 5, 3

MHHS-M 410 Addiction Narratives (3 cr.) This course explores the ways in which, through literature, certain understandings of addiction are constructed, represented, and proliferated throughout our culture. We will explore the ways in which the experience of addiction is represented in various cultural forms and in specific texts. Additionally, we will look closely at the relationship between the idea of addiction and other categories such as gender, sexuality, normalcy, race and creativity. In this course we will compare various literary texts and films to see if some seem more “realistic” than others, and explore, through writing and discussion, the possibilities for why this may be so. We will consider how we as individuals and as a society are affected by various representations of addiction, and how this translates into everyday interaction with others. Are some representations dangerous? Students will explore the possibility that representation plays a significant role in our understanding of the experience of addiction and will be encouraged to think critically about the ways various media (film, popular texts, memoir, poetry, biography) affect the way we live our lives and the relationships we develop with others.

Africana Studies (AFRO)

AFRO-A 106 Perspectives from the African American Diaspora (1-3 cr.) This course is a study of selected topics or issues in Afro-American/African Diaspora Studies usually coordinated with symposia and/or conferences sponsored by the AADS Program. This course will expose students to current trends in research techniques, new research, allow them to interact with nationally and internationally known scholars and leaders in the area of AAADS. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 140 Introduction to African American and African Diaspora Studies (3 cr.) Introduction to the theory, method, and content of African American and African Diaspora Studies. Examines the social, political, cultural, and economic experiences of people comprising the African Diaspora. Utilizes an interdisciplinary approach and conceptual, theoretical, and analytical frameworks to illustrate the interconnectedness of black peoples experiences and the importance of studying AAADS as a field of scholarly inquiry. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 150 Survey of the Culture of Black Americans (3 cr.) An introduction to the traditions, life, and experiences of Africans in the United States. The course utilizes learning resources from a variety of disciplines, including history, literature, and the social sciences. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 152 Introduction to African Studies (3 cr.) This course provides students with an interdisciplinary, introductory perspective on African continuities and changes. The course will focus on contemporary African societies while considering the lessons learned through the vestiges of slavery, colonization, apartheid and liberation struggles on the continent. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 200 Research in African American and African Diaspora Studies (3 cr.) Introduce students to basic tools, techniques and processes of scholarly research in African American and African Diaspora Studies. Students learn and apply technology as it pertains to research, address ethical issues, gain an understanding of basic statistical techniques in research and gain proficiency in reading, writing, understanding, and critiquing research articles, abstracts, and proposals. PUL=1C

AFRO-A 202 The West and the African Diaspora (3 cr.) An introduction to Western Europe’s and America’s perception of Africa and Africans. Emphasis is on the image of Africans and their New World descendants, as constucted by European and American intellectuals. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 255 The Black Church in America (3 cr.)
History of the black church from slavery to the present emphasizing the church's role as a black social institution, its religious attitudes as expressed in songs and sermons, and its political activities as exemplified in the minister-politician. PUL=5

AFRO-A 303 Topics in African American and African Diaspora Studies (1-3 cr.)
Study of selected topics or issues in Afro-American studies occasionally, but not always, coordinated with symposia and/or conferences sponsored by the AAADS Program. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 306 Globalization, Struggle, and Empowerment in the African Diaspora (3 cr.)
Examines the historical evolution of black popular music in the 20th century and beyond. It explores various theoretical frameworks explaining why apartheid developed in South Africa, discussing imperialism and the decolonization processes, the denigration of indigenous ethnic groups and communities, and the establishment of the political order. PUL=3

AFRO-A 324 South Africa in the Global Economy (3 cr.)
Examines South Africa's movement from apartheid system of government to one that now embraces democracy and political pluralism. Also examines various theoretical frameworks explaining why apartheid developed in South Africa, discussing imperialism and the decolonization processes, the denigration of indigenous ethnic groups and communities, and the establishment of the political order. PUL=3

AFRO-A 326 Race, Beauty, and Popular Culture (3 cr.)
This course explores and contextualizes the popular cultural meanings and implications of Western beauty standards as they relate to women and/or men of color. Considerations for the course can include discourses involving ideologies of femininity, masculinity, and beauty or attractiveness as they impact issues of race, class, gender, and sexuality. This course addresses questions such as: how are women and/or men of color represented in multimedia, popular culture, and literature? What have been the consequences of applying Western standards of beauty or attractiveness to women and men of color? And how do these standards affect men’s and women's attitudes and understandings of how they should look, act, feel, and behave—both past and present? PUL=2

AFRO-A 352 Afro-American Art II: Afro-American Artists (3 cr.)
A survey of the artistic traditions of the Africans in the New World, from the period of slavery in North and South America through contemporary and expatriate African American artists. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 355 African American History I (3 cr.)
A study of the history of African Americans in the United States. Includes the role African-American culture has played in the development of the American nation. Slavery, Abolitionism, Reconstruction and the post-Reconstruction to 1900. PUL=2

AFRO-A 356 African American History II (3 cr.)
This course will explore each of the major historical events and Black leaders of those times and their influence on the social and political advancement of African Americans from 1900 to the present. PUL=2

AFRO-A 369 The African American Experience (3 cr.)
This integrator course introduces students to the methodological and analytical tools needed to understand the historical background, contemporary challenges, and current policy debates about issues confronting the African American community, such as credit market discrimination, affirmative action, and reparations. A chief goal of the course is to expose students to broad themes in African American history, while also providing them with the necessary interdisciplinary tool (both qualitative and quantitative) to analyze contemporary economic problems and prospects. PUL=1A

AFRO-A 414 Seminar in African American and African Diaspora Studies (3 cr.)
Senior capstone course in African American and African Diaspora Studies. Involves intensive discussion of selected themes/topics related to AAADS. Students are expected to engage in in-depth library and/or field research to apply diasporic theory concepts and analysis to real life, peoples, events, and/or issues impacting people of African descent. PUL=4

AFRO-A 440 History of the Education of Black Americans (3 cr.)
This course focuses on the education of Black Americans and its relationship to the Afro-American experience. Trends and patterns in the education of Black Americans as such relate to the notions of education for whom and for what. PUL=4

AFRO-A 495 Individual Readings in African American and African Diaspora Studies (1-3 cr.) By arrangement with instructor. Investigation of topics of special interest to students that are not covered in the regular program curriculum or that students wish to pursue in greater detail. May be repeated once for credit. PUL=3

AFRO-A 569 The African American Experience (3 cr.) This course introduces graduate students to the methodological and analytical tools needed to understand the historical background, contemporary challenges, and current policy debates about issues confronting the African American community, such as credit market discrimination, affirmative action, and reparations. A chief goal of the course is to expose students to broad themes in African American history, while also providing them with the necessary interdisciplinary tools (both qualitative and quantitative) to analyze contemporary economic problems and prospects.

AFRO-A 311 Religion and Racism (3 cr.) Explores the interaction of religion and racism. Selected case studies may include the bible and racism, racial reconciliation among evangelical Christians, the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, and Islamophobia. PUL=1A

AMST-A 101 Introduction to American Studies (3 cr.) This course introduces the interdisciplinary methods of American Studies and how they enable better understanding of American cultures and ideas. Questions of race, ethnicity, nation, nationality, class, gender, sexuality, and religion are considered in relation to American identities and communities. PUL=5

AMST-A 103 Topics in American Studies (1-3 cr.) Interdisciplinary consideration of various American studies topics sometimes coordinated with symposia and/or conferences sponsored by the IUPUI Center for American Studies. A103 cannot be counted as credit toward an American studies minor. PUL=1A

AMST-A 301 The Question of American Identity (3 cr.) Is American culture unified or does it consist of a potpourri of more or less distinct cultures? Beginning with the 1600s but emphasizing the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, this course explores classic texts in American culture, seeking to locate the terms of American unity in the midst of obvious diversity. PUL=5

AMST-A 302 The Question of American Community (3 cr.) What are the varieties and forms of American social life? This course will explore the manner in which Americans, from Puritan times through the later decades of the twentieth century, have structured and experienced social life in rural, urban, and suburban settings. PUL=5

AMST-A 303 Topics in American Studies (1-3 cr.) Interdisciplinary consideration of various American studies topics. Usually, but not always, coordinated with symposia and/or conferences sponsored by the IUPUI Program for American Studies. PUL=5

AMST-A 304 The Transformation of America 1960–1980 (3 cr.) America in the years from John F. Kennedy to Ronald Reagan. An examination of such topics as the myth of Camelot, the civil rights movement and the subsequent black uprising, Vietnam and its aftermath, the rise of counterculture, campus unrest and the student movement, the road to Watergate and the retreat into narcissism, the pervasive influence of television, and the rise of neo-conservatism. Also, consideration of the literature: modernism and fabulism in fiction, social and cultural criticism, and the new journalism in nonfiction. PUL=5

AMST-A 341 Organizing for Social Action (3 cr.) In this course we will study the social movements of the past and meet the activists who are working for social justice today. We will learn about the history of American protest from pre-Revolutionary days to the present in order to understand how mass organizations are created and how they can be used to realize the American ideals of liberty, equality, justice, peace, and opportunity for all. Emphasis throughout is on bridging the academic perspective of the classroom with the practical concerns of different communities. This will be a traveling seminar, moving between the classroom and the world outside. Our class may meet at the site of a labor, senior, or other community organization, hosted by a representative of that organization. Other weeks, the organizers will come to us. Students have the option of participating in a service-learning project and reflecting on the connections between assigned readings and the practice of organizing. Our central question will be: what can the social-action organizations of the past and present teach us about the possibilities for progressive social change in our world today? PUL=5; RISE=E

AMST-A 353 Music and Decorative Arts in American Studies (3 cr.) Examines music and the decorative arts in American history from pre-Colonial Times to after World War II. PUL=5

AMST-A 354 Literature of Rock ‘N Roll (3 cr.) What constitutes the literature of rock music? Some would say that a three-paragraph review of the latest CD in Rolling Stone is the best and perhaps only example. But what about the countless books, essays, articles and other extended works that have been written about this music? How (and why?) is it possible, for example, to use rock music as the framework for a written discourse on American history (and in such discourse, suggest a logical, relevant connection between Abraham Lincoln and Elvis Presley?) How could an extended review of a rock ‘n’ roll album transform itself (logically and correctly) into first-rate political and social commentary? All of these questions and many more will be addressed in this course, as we explore the “written word of rock ‘n’ roll” in all its wonderfully complex and fascinating permutations. PUL = 5

AMST-A 355 Beat Generation (3 cr.) Get hip and be cool with "The Beat Generation". Explore a uniquely American literary and cultural movement that sought to defy societal rules in an explosive mixture of music, literature and art. Setting precedents the hippies of the 1960’s would later follow, the “Beats” were the original American rebels. Go "on the road" as you take a semester-length virtual road trip across America, a mind-expanding journey into emotion, sensation, music, art and the philosophy of experience. Dig it! PUL = 5
AMST-A 356 American Supernatural (3 cr.)
Belief in the supernatural has been an important component of American culture since the founding of the country. From the Salem Witch Trials to The Amityville Horror and from the stories of Edgar Allen Poe to the television series Lost, there seems to be no limit to Americans appetite for myths and legends that deal with the fantastic, otherworldly or otherwise unbelievable.
This course will examine several aspects of this cultural fascination with the supernatural, from the mystery of “Area 51” to the legends of the delta blues singers. Along the we'll examine larger questions, such as: Why is belief in the supernatural of continuing relevance to American culture? How does the popular and new media (especially the Internet) perpetuate this belief, and is there a danger in doing so? To what extent are the American character and its definition of identity shaped by the belief in the supernatural? PUL = 5

AMST-A 363 American Cyber Identity (3 cr.)
This course examines the blurred lines between not just the physical and virtual world, but our physical and virtual self-identification. It considers challenging questions-and intriguing possibilities-about how we define ourselves when the physical, spatial and temporal limitations of “the real world” are lifted. It will look at the processes or strategies we use to define ourselves as we spend more time online by means of increasingly sophisticated technology, what level of importance are we giving to our sense of American self-identity in the online world (from a historical, social and cultural perspective)? Is it possible to interpret the Constitution to help adjudicate virtual “property disputes”? Are the rights of avatars “self-evident”? And, when we “jack in” (to borrow a term from Gibson’s Neuromancer) to the Internet, how much of our American history and culture do we take with us? PUL = 5

AMST-A 391 Theories and Methods of American Studies (3 cr.)
P: AMST-A 103. The course clarifies the nature of American studies as a field of inquiry and helps students develop skills in cultural interpretation, interdisciplinary inquiry, and clear and effective written communication. The course examines the concept of culture and processes through which cultures form, change, and propagate. The course also considers the ideas of cultural pluralism, subculture, and multiculturalism. The course considers historical and contemporary methods of inquiry in American studies, providing students opportunities to apply these methods in research projects. PUL=5

AMST-A 497 Overseas Study, Derby, UK (1-4 cr.)
Students participating in the exchange program with the University of Derby, UK, must register for sections of this course to receive credit for their work at the partner institution. The title of the course taken at Derby will appear on the student’s transcript under this course number. Consent of instructor required. PUL=5; RISE=1

AMST-A 499 Senior Tutorial in American Studies (3 cr.)
This course provides students with the opportunity to pursue particular interests in American studies on topics of their choices and to work in a tutorial relationship with an American studies faculty member. In this course of directed study, students will be required to produce research projects for filing in the library. PUL=5

AMST-A 601 American Studies in Theory (3 cr.)
This course examines theoretical approaches to the meaning of American by asking students to master theories in the field of American Studies, including: post-structuralism, queer studies, and post-colonialism as well as race, gender, sexuality, class, and religion. Students will apply them to a particular question or problem of academic interest.

AMST-A 602 American Studies in Practice (3 cr.)
P: AMST A601 The courses examines case studies in three different contexts local (Indianapolis), national (Detroit), and international (Copenhagen) to illustrate different types of urban development. Students will combine American Studies theories with the practical methods derived from case studies to distinguish characteristics and conditions dependent on geographic and cultural differences.

AMST-B 497 Overseas Study, Newcastle, UK (1-5 cr.)
Students participating in the exchange program with the Newcastle University, UK, must register for sections of this course to receive credit for their work at the partner institution. The title of the course taken at Newcastle will appear on the student's transcript under this course number. Consent of instructor required. PUL=5; RISE=1

AMST-G 753 Independent Study (3 cr.) Authorization required.

AMST-A 102 Asian-American Studies (3 cr.)
This course seeks to foster an understanding of issues related to race in general and to Asians Americans in particular. Contributing to this understanding will be discussions of Asian American history, stereotypes, racism and oppression, refugees, racial identity development, and diversity within the Asian communities of the U.S. Discussions of the varied, lived experiences of Asians in the U.S. will be utilized to gain insights into how Asian Americans fit into the racial narrative of American culture. PUL=5

Anthropology (ANTH, FOLK, MSTD)

ANTH-A 360 The Development of Anthropological Thought (3 cr.)
An overview of the major theoretical developments within anthropology, as the discipline has attempted to produce a universal and unified view of human life based on knowledge of evolution and prehistoric and contemporary cultures. PUL=4

ANTH-A 395 Field Experiences in Anthropology (1-3 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. A supervised field experience in a selected area of anthropology. PUL=3 May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-A 401 Cultural Resource Management (3 cr.)
The concept of cultural resource management as a theoretical and functional tool to effect the conservation and protection of archaeological resources. Law, project review, site registration, and preservation strategies will be addressed. PUL=2,3,6

ANTH-A 412 Anthropology Senior Capstone (3-6 cr.)
P: Consent of instructor. Only anthropology seniors may enroll. This is a capstone course required of all anthropology majors that is designed to allow students to reflect back on their training as an anthropologist at IUPUI and to explore the ways in which an anthropological ANTH-B 370 Human Variation (3 cr.) An examination of the foundations of human behavior as viewed from the biocultural and evolutionary perspective of anthropology. This course strives to provide the student with a rational middle ground in the nature/nurture debate by demonstrating that human behavior is innately plastic. PUL=2

ANTH-B 426 Human Osteology (3 cr.) This course explores the types of information that can be recovered from bones, including age, sex, size, pathology, diet, and demography as well as how this information can be utilized to obtain and integrated picture of an individual. The skills learned are applicable to forensic anthropology, archaeology, human evolution and anatomy. PUL=2,3

ANTH-B 466 The Primates (3 cr.) The study of our closest living relatives, the prosimians, monkeys, and apes, from the perspective of evolutionary and environmental influences on morphology and complex social behavior. PUL=2,4

ANTH-B 468 Bioarchaeology (3 cr.) Bioarchaeology introduces students to the interdisciplinary field that asks- what can we learn from the analysis of human skeletal remains from archaeological sites? As such, bioarchaeology is the contextual analysis of human remains. Skeletal and dental tissues are often overlooked as being innate and unchanging, when in fact they respond to the external environment and stressors like soft tissues that exist within and around them. The natural and built environments can have a profound impact on human biological variation. As a result, bioarchaeological research emphasizes biocultural interactions and the impact of culture on the human condition (and vice versa). Topics covered in this class include demography, health, growth and development, diet, infectious and non-infectious diseases, occupational markers of stress, migration, and population affinity. The course starts with a historical survey of the field, moves into a discussion of ethics in bioarchaeological research, and introduces important theoretical considerations that influence practice in the subdiscipline. Two subsequent weeks will be spent reviewing basic human osteology, age and sex estimation, and taphonomic factors that can influence and, ultimately, bias research findings. Weeks 6 through 16 will be spent surveying the core areas of investigation in contemporary bioarchaeological research. The lectures and discussions will be supplemented with time in the laboratory, during which students will have the opportunity to examine, describe, score, and analyze human remains, as well as interpret bioarchaeological data. In addition, students are expected to produce an annotated bibliography on a bioarchaeological topic of their choice. PUL=2

ANTH-B 480 Human Growth and Development (3 cr.) Characteristics of normal growth and development from birth to maturity; establishment of constitutional qualities, aging. Anthropology of individual considered from standpoint of causal factors, patterns of expression, and methods of assessment. PUL=3

medico-legal investigations. Forensic Anthropology is an inherently applied field within Anthropology and compliments the focus of IUPUI's Department of Anthropology. Forensic anthropologists are often consulted in investigations when a visual identification of human remains cannot be made by a medical examiner or law enforcement. The goals of a forensic anthropologist’s involvement in medico- investigations often includes excavation and recovery (i.e., forensic archaeology), estimation of the post-mortem interval, the construction of a biological profile (e.g., age-at-death, sex, stature, etc.), positive identification, and providing conclusions and an opinion about the cause and manner of death. Practitioners routinely find themselves working in a variety of contexts from local cases of missing persons to mass disasters and international human rights projects involving the exhumation of mass graves. PUL=2

ANTH-E 300 Culture Areas and Ethnic Groups: (variable title) (1-3 cr.) An ethnographic survey of a selected culture area or ethnic group. PUL=5 May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-E 316 Prehistory of North America (3 cr.) This course will introduce students to the cultural variety and complexity of prehistoric native North Americans. The course focuses on the various environmental adaptations, lifeways, social systems, and material culture that have been revealed through archaeological research. PUL=5,6

ANTH-E 320 Indians of North America (3 cr.) Ethnographic survey of culture areas from the Arctic to Panama plus cross-cultural analysis of interrelations of culture, geographical environment, and language families. PUL=5

ANTH-E 335 Ancient Civilizations of Mesoamerica (3 cr.) Historical ethnography of the major pre-Columbian cultural civilizations including the Olmec, Mayan and Aztec. Emphasis on the social life, cultural achievements, religion, worldview and political systems to illustrate the diversity and richness of Amerindian life before the Spanish conquest. PUL=5

ANTH-E 354 Popular Culture (3 cr.) This course studies how traditional anthropological insight can analyze social and political complexities of contemporary popular cultural phenomena. Focuses on how anthropological subjects such as class, racism, and regionalism lurk within popular cultural phenomena including post-1950 music subcultures, civil religion, and consumer culture. PUL=2,3,5

ANTH-E 380 Urban Anthropology (3 cr.) Urban social organization in cross-cultural perspective. Theoretical perspectives on urbanism and urbanization. Problems focused on include kinship and social networks, politico-economic factors, and cultural pluralism. Strategies of anthropological research in urban settings. PUL=5

ANTH-E 384 The African Diaspora (3 cr.) This course examines the cultural formation of the African Diaspora in the Americas. The course focuses specifically on the development of the African diasporic populations in the Caribbean, Central America and South America in comparative perspective. Students will develop a critical understanding of the African Diaspora as a geographical displacement, as an assemblage of cultural groups, and as a process of political identification. PUL=2,5

ANTH-E 391 Women in Developing Countries (3 cr.) This course explores the nature of women's roles in developing countries. Particular emphasis is placed on examining how development and cultural change have affected the lives of women. PUL=1C

ANTH-E 402 Gender in Cross-Cultural Perspective (3 cr.) This course considers the meaning and social implications of gender in human society. Cultural definitions of "male" and "female" gender categories as well as associated behavioral and structural differentiation of gender roles will be analyzed using current anthropological concepts and theories. PUL=2,5

ANTH-E 403 Women of Color in the US (3 cr.) This course examines the concepts of race, and gender as inextricably tied analytical categories, and how they have structured the lives of African American, Latina, Native American and Asian American women, both US born and immigrant. Themes of oppression, identities and activism figure prominently throughout the course. PUL=2,5

ANTH-E 404 Field Methods in Ethnography (3 cr.) Introduction to the methods and techniques anthropologists use in ethnographic research. Preparation of a research proposal, interviewing, and the use of the life histories and case studies. PUL=3

ANTH-E 411 Wealth, Exchange, and Power in Anthropological Perspective (3 cr.) The course will examine cultural patterns in technology and economic behavior, with an emphasis on non-Western societies and how these patterns influence economic development in the Third World. PUL=1C

ANTH-E 421 The Anthropology of Aging (3 cr.) This course explores age and the aging process cross-culturally by looking at the specific cultural context in which individuals age and by analyzing similarities and differences across cultures. PUL=1C

ANTH-E 445 Medical Anthropology (3 cr.) This advanced seminar in medical anthropology focuses on theoretical approaches to understanding the body and notions of health, illness, and diseases across cultures. Concentrates on interpretive and critical (political economy) approaches to issues of health, and includes critical study of Western biomedicine. PUL=3,4,5

ANTH-E 455 Anthropology of Religion (3 cr.) Critical evaluation of current approaches to the analysis of religious myth, ritual, and symbolism. Problems in understanding religious beliefs of other cultures. Modern development of anthropology of religion. PUL=2,3,5

ANTH-E 457 Ethnic Identity (3 cr.) Nature of ethnic groups and identity viewed in cross-cultural perspective: effects of colonialism and nationalism on ethnic groups; sue of identity as an adaptive strategy; stereotypes and stereotyping; symbols and styles of ethnic identity; and retention and elaboration of local styles. PUL=2,5

ANTH-L 300 Language and Culture (3 cr.) This course explores the relationships between language and culture, focusing on research methodology and surveying various theoretical frameworks. Topics to be discussed include linguistic relativity (the Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis), ethnographies of communication, interview techniques, and methods of data collection and analysis. PUL=3,4,5

ANTH-L 401 Language, Power, and Gender (3 cr.) This course investigates sociocultural aspects of language use, focusing on the interaction of power and gender with language. Topics include differences in men’s and women’s language use, discourse patterns and power relationships, and identity and language use. To what extent does the language we speak sustain the dominance of certain groups in our society? PUL=2,3,5

ANTH-P 330 Historical Archaeology (3 cr.) We will examine the ways in which historical archaeologists investigate Colonial and American cultures and lifeways in various regions of North America throughout time. Special attention will be given to understanding the long and complex history of Native American/European interactions. North American social systems, interaction with and exploitation of the environment, technologies, and material culture. The theory and methods used by historical archaeologists will also be emphasized. PUL=3,4,5

ANTH-P 340 Modern Material Culture (3 cr.) This course examines how contemporary social experience is impacted by material culture ranging from toys to theme parks. Focuses on how consumers perceive themselves and others in modern consumer culture through the medium of commodities and examines systems of inequality that are reproduced and subverted through consumption. PUL=2,4,5

ANTH-P 396 The Rise of Civilization (3 cr.) Covers the development of complex societies in several regions of the world. The material is approached from an anthropological perspective, with emphasis on archaeological methods of data collection and analysis. Early civilizations in Iraq, India, Egypt, Rome, China, Peru, and Central America will be discussed. PUL=2,5

ANTH-P 402 Archaeological Method and Theory (3 cr.) This class is concerned with how archaeologists know what they know about the past. Methods of data collection are reviewed and theoretical interpretations are discussed. The focus of the course is on evaluation of archaeological research and explanation, with special emphasis on critical thinking. PUL=2,4

ANTH-P 405 Fieldwork in Archaeology (3-6 cr.) Archaeological work directed toward field techniques: excavation and preservation of materials, surveying, photography, cataloging. One credit hour per full week of fieldwork. PUL=3; RISE=R,E

ANTH-P 406 LABORATORY MTHD IN ARCHAEOLOGY (1-6 cr.) Specialized training in laboratory procedures and analysis of archaeological materials. Major categories of material culture to be studied include lithics, ceramics, faunal and floral remains. Emphasis is on processing, sorting, identifying, and analyzing material recovered from the previous Field School in Archaeology (ANTH-P 405). PUL=3

Introductory Undergraduate Courses

ANTH-A 103 Human Origins and Prehistory (3 cr.) A survey of human biological and cultural evolution from early pre-Pleistocene hominids through the development of urbanized state societies, with the goal of better understanding our human heritage. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 303.) PUL=2

ANTH-A 104 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (3 cr.) A survey of cultural and social processes that influence human behavior, using comparative examples from different ethnic groups around the world, with the goal of better understanding the broad range of human behavioral potentials and those influences that shape the different expressions of these potentials. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 304.) PUL=5

ANTH-A 201 Survey of Applied Anthropology (3 cr.) P: ANTH-A 104 or ANTH-A 304, and ANTH-A 103 or ANTH-A 303, or permission of the instructor. A survey of such issues in applied anthropology as cultural resource management, community development, cross-cultural communication, Third World development, museum studies, archaeological ethics, and the impact of human diversity on health care, education, and social programs. PUL=3,6

ANTH-A 303 Evolution and Prehistory (3 cr.) P: Junior standing. An advanced survey of human biological and cultural evolution from pre-Pleistocene hominids through the development of urbanized state societies. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 103.) PUL=2

ANTH-A 304 Social and Cultural Behavior (3 cr.) P: Junior standing. An advanced survey of cultural and social processes that influence human behavior, with comparative examples from different ethnic groups around the world. (Not open to students who have taken ANTH-A 104.) PUL=5

Graduate Courses

ANTH-A 565 Anthropological Thought (3 cr.) An overview of the major theoretical developments within anthropology, as the discipline has attempted to produce a universal and unified view of human life based on knowledge of evolution and prehistoric and contemporary cultures.

ANTH-A 594 Independent Learning in Applied Anthropology (1-6 cr.) P: Permission of instructor. Independent research/training using anthropological perspectives/methods in addressing social issues. The project must be a discrete activity with a concrete product, conducted in conjunction with the student’s anthropology advisor and a member of the organization where she or he will be located. May not be repeated for more than 6 credit hours.

ANTH-P 501 Community Archaeology (3 cr.) Community archaeology implies direct collaboration between a community and archaeologists. Collaboration implies substantial adjustment in archaeological methods and epistemologies incorporating community members in setting research agendas, working on excavations, and interpreting results. This course examines a wide range of issues and looks at both successful and unsuccessful projects to arrive at an assessment of best practices.

ANTH-A 699 Master’s Project in Applied Anthropology (1-6 cr.) P: Permission of Graduate Advisor. The completion of a scholarly applied project is an essential element of the MA in Applied Anthropology. This project will be carried out and completed under the direction of the students graduate advisor. experience of communication. Students develop an understanding of a variety of communication theories to more completely interpret events in more flexible, useful, and discriminating ways.

COMM-C 501 Applied Quantitative Research Methods in Communication (3 cr.) The course is designed to offer an opportunity to examine, assess, and conduct quantitative research that employs communication theory and qualitative research methods as a means to test theory in applied settings and/or as a means to applied ends (i.e., problem-solving policy analysis).

COMM-C 503 Applied Learning Project (3 cr.) An applied learning project that provides students with a culminating educational experience. The project gives students the opportunity to apply their knowledge of communicative processes to real-life organizational problems, and provides the opportunity to produce a body of work reflecting their abilities.

COMM-C 510 Health Provider-Consumer Communication (3 cr.) Designed to teach communication skills and practices related to health care talk by examining transactional communication within health care contexts. Topics covered in this course focus directly upon interpersonal dialogue between health care providers and patients.

COMM-C 520 Advanced Public Communication (3 cr.) Critical analysis and employment of rhetorical strategies in forms and types of professional discourses incorporating current technologies.

COMM-C 526 Effective Media Strategies (3 cr.) This course specifically focuses on the effective use of media as a means of persuasion. This course explains how ideas are expressed through techniques unique to the language of radio, television, film, and the Internet.

COMM-C 528 Group Communication and Organizations (3 cr.) This seminar-format course examines the ways in which informal groups and communication networks facilitate a variety of organizational processes (i.e., socialization, diffusion of innovation). Emphasis is placed on developing theoretical understanding of informal groups in organizations as well as on methodological issues involved in studying communication networks in organizations.

COMM-C 530 Communication Criticism (3 cr.) This course will introduce students to criticism as a method of studying persuasive messages in speeches, fiction, mass media, musical lyrics, political campaign literature, art, and other modes of communication in contemporary culture.

COMM-C 531 Media Theory and Criticism (3 cr.) A course organized primarily around theories and critical strategies commonly considered within the broad category of contemporary criticism. The course utilizes primary theoretical texts to introduce students to a variety of methodologies employed in analyzing media messages, and emphasizes the application of theoretical frameworks on the analysis of specific media texts.

COMM-C 544 Advanced Relational Communication (3 cr.) Applications of communication theory/research in such areas as relational culture and relationship development. Includes a scholarly project on a real relationship, and applications of research to areas such as pedagogy and couple/family therapy.

COMM-C 580 Advanced Organizational Communication (3 cr.) The course provides a solid foundation of concepts for understanding and discussing human organizations. Students will analyze, evaluate, and apply the theories and practices related to organizational issues. Through case studies, readings, and practical applications, this course combines a theory-based understanding of communication in organizations with real-world applications.

COMM-C 582 Advanced Intercultural Communication (3 cr.) Exploration of issues related to the intercultural communication process. Consideration of the role of social, cultural, and historical contexts in intercultural interactions. Examination of the relationship between culture and communication from the socio-psychological, interpretive, and critical perspectives.

COMM-C 591 Topics/Seminar in Applied Communication (3 cr.) This is a revolving topics course. The changing nature of the topic allows graduate students to explore, synthesize, and integrate knowledge of the field of communication and the particular discipline of applied communication while focusing on a single topic not otherwise addressed in the course of study. May be repeated for credit.

COMM-C 592 Advanced Health Communication (3 cr.) A course designed to teach communication skills and practices related to health care by examining health care communication theory. Topics range across communication levels (interpersonal, intrapersonal, group, organization, mass media, and mediated communication) within a variety of health care contexts.

COMM-C 593 Advanced Family Communication (3 cr.) Applications of theory and research on the role of communication in creating and maintaining marriages/committed couples and families. Includes a scholarly term paper on a real couple or family’s communication.

COMM-C 594 Communication and Conflict Management in Organizations (3 cr.) This seminar-format course examines the communication exchanges that facilitate conflict management within organizational contexts. Specific attention is focused on negotiation and mediation; however, the communication of alternative means of conflict and dispute resolution are also discussed. In addition, students will be introduced to methods for assessing conflict interaction in organizations.

COMM-C 597 Thesis (3 cr.) Applied communication students who choose the thesis option will identify a research topic and develop it under the guidance of the student’s thesis director (IUPUI professor). The thesis topic will be related to the field of applied communication in its foci and method.

COMM-C 598 Internship (1-3 cr.) This course integrates applied communication theory and practice in a practice setting. Students will apply theoretical concepts and research tools, conduct projects, and interact with communication professionals in the designated setting. In concert with the student’s chosen area of concentration, he or she will address issues of importance to that particular organization.

COMM-C 599 Independent Study (1-6 cr.) This course provides students with the opportunity to synthesize and apply knowledge acquired through course work and professional experience into a completed research project in applied communication. Students will work independently on a topic/issue of choice under the guidance of graduate faculty.

COMM-C 620 Computer-Mediated Communication (3 cr.) An overview of practical and scholarly approaches to computer mediated communication. The readings address mass communication, discourse, community, gender, intercultural understanding, ethics, interpersonal relationships, identity, organizational communication, and education.

COMM-C 621 Persuasion (3 cr.) Takes a rhetorical/critical approach to persuasion in its broadest sense, how it affects our lives everyday and how we can find evidence of persuasive tactics in unexpected places. We will look broadly at theories of persuasion and their application across contexts and fields.

COMM-C 644 Political Communication (3 cr.) Examines the public communication involved in various political contexts. We will consider the communication involved in political campaigns, advertising, and oratory; social media, technology, and popular culture; the news, framing, and political media; citizenship, public deliberation, and decision making in what some argue is a divided political culture. We will read and discuss state of the art research in political communication and meet individuals who are currently working in a communication capacity in public political campaigns.

COMM-C 650 Health Communication in Mediated Contexts (3 cr.) Focus on the effect of media on health behavior. Theories of health behavior change and media effects examined; applications of theory to health campaigns evaluated. Examples of mediated health campaigns and effectiveness discussed. Considerations include: interplay among theory, research, practice; how theory informs practice; how research aids in theory construction/refinement.

COMM-C 680 Qualitative Research Methods (3 cr.) An introduction to qualitative research methods in communication studies, with an emphasis on health communication research. Provides an overview of several techniques for gathering and analyzing qualitative data.

COMM-C 690 Doctoral Quantitative Methods (3 cr.)
Course focuses on the principles and theory of descriptive and inferential statistics within the context of health communication research. Topics include t-test, ANOVA, MANOVA, ANCOVA, correlation, multiple regression, and SEM. Students will gain proficiency using SPSS to analyze novel data sets, and will conduct their own health communication research projects and report the results.

COMM-C 695 Seminar in Communication and Healthcare (3 cr.)
This seminar offers an interface between learning from practicing providers and experts in medical care specialties and becoming emmeshed in health communication research. The course is structured so that the student gains insights from experts in the medical field while also gaining an overview of research issues through reading and engaging in health communication research.

COMM-C 700 Fieldwork/Research (1 - 9 cr.)
This course is designed to allow PhD students to complete independent research projects prior to enrollment in the dissertation course. Students can enroll in 1-9 credit hours in any given semester, depending on the nature of the project. The fieldwork/research course is designed to focus the student's research interests and to serve as a spring-board for dissertation work. Students must have ample preparation in some theoretical area and in one or more research methods prior to registration for the course. The course will allow students to initiate or conduct a research study, including the collection and examination of data (broadly defined), to answer a question or to test a hypothesis related to communication theory. May be repeated for credit.

COMM-C 810 Dissertation (1 - 12 cr.)
This course is eligible for a deferred grade.

COMM-C 533 Improvisation for Scientist (1 cr.)
Students will learn to communicate effectively and responsively through a series of exercises drawn from the methods of improvisational theater. Students will practice connecting to an audience, paying dynamic attention to others, reading nonverbal cues, and responding appropriately.

COMM-C 534 Distilling Your Message (1 cr.)
Students learn to communicate clearly and vividly about complex scientific research and why it matters, in terms non-scientists can understand. Students practice finding common ground with lay audiences and adjusting levels of message complexity for different audiences.

COMM-C 535 Using Electronic Media (1 cr.)
Given the significant gaps in understanding between the public and scientists, this course trains students in the sciences and health professions to format and structure formatted and structured complex, scientific information for a variety of new, electronic communication platforms including social media. Students will collate, synthesize, and translate scientific evidence into information that a non-expert audience can access, understand, and act on.

COMM-C 536 Connecting with the Community (1 cr.)
Students will theorize and develop techniques for shared meaning-making with community partners. They test methods to develop common ground between experts and community members including the lay public and policy makers. Activities focus on developing trust, open communication, and sharing expertise that values and respects lived experiences of community members.

Topics to be selected by students, covering such areas as human resource problems, transportation and housing surveys, demographic shifts, and income distribution issues. PUL=5

ECON-E 335 Introduction to Mathematical Methods in Economics (4 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202, MATH-M 118-M119. Introduction to quantitative techniques used in economics, and instruction in the application of these techniques to the analysis of economics problems. PUL=1

ECON-E 337 Economic Development (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201, ECON-E 202, and junior standing or consent of instructor. Characteristics of economically underdeveloped countries. Obstacles to sustained growth; planning and other policies for stimulating growth; examination of development problems and experience in particular countries. PUL=5

ECON-E 355 Monetary Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 305 or ECON-E 322 or equivalents. Supply and demand functions for money in the context of models of the U.S. economy. Formulation of Federal Reserve policy decisions and effects on interest rates, prices, output, and employment. Current problems in monetary policy and theory. PUL=5
ECON-E 363 Environmental and Natural Resource Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Basic theory and policy of such topics as pollution, resource depletion, environmental risk, and resource conservation. Issues covered include limits to growth, quality of life, and the appropriate roles for the private market and federal control. Credit not given for both ECON-E 363 and ECON-E 463. PUL=5

ECON-E 380 Law and Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. The application of economic method to legal institutions and legal issues. Examples would be the optimum use of resources to prevent crime, the economic value of a human life, the economic consequences of regulating the business firm, the economics of property rights, torts, and contracts. PUL=5

ECON-E 385 Economics of Industry (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. A theoretical and empirical analysis of the structure, conduct, and performance of major American industries. Emphasized is the degree of competition in various markets, how markets operate under conditions of competition or monopoly, and competition as a dynamic process over time. PUL=5

ECON-E 387 Health Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201. This course applies economic theory to the study of policy issues in health economics. Specific issues included are: determinants of demand for medical services and insurance; training and pricing behavior of physicians; pricing behavior and costs of hospitals; market and regulative approaches. PUL=5

ECON-E 406 Senior Seminar (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 321 and ECON-E 322 or permission of instructor. Assessment of the current state of economic knowledge and discussion of how economics is applied to study the problems facing modern society. PUL=5

ECON-E 408 Undergraduate Readings in Economics (3 cr. maximum cr.) P: Permission of instructor. ECON majors only. Individual readings and research. PUL=5,1

ECON-E 410 Selected Topics in U.S. Economic History (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Analysis of selected topics, including transportation developments, government intervention, systems of property rights, slavery, economic growth, income distribution, economic stability, technical change, and others. PUL=5

ECON-E 414 Economics of the Nonprofit Sector (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201. The role of nonprofit organizations (universities, churches, hospitals, orchestras, charities, day care, research, nursing homes) in mixed economics. Public policy controversies such as regulation of fundraising, antitrust against universities, "unfair" competition with for-profit firms, and the tax treatment of donations. PUL=5

ECON-E 420 History of Economic Thought (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Examination of main theoretical developments since the beginning of the systematic study of economics. Theoretical propositions and structures of the earlier writers will be interpreted and evaluated in terms of modern economic analysis. PUL=5

ECON-E 430 Introduction to International Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. Forces determining international trade, finance, and commercial policy under changing world conditions; theory of international trade; structure of world trade; tariff and trade control policies; the balance of payments problem; evolution of international economic institutions; and monetary relations. PUL=5

ECON-E 441 Economics of Labor Markets (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201, ECON-E 321, and ECON-E 270 or equivalent. Analysis of the functioning of labor markets with theoretical, empirical, and policy applications in determination of employment and wages in the U.S. economy. PUL=5

ECON-E 450 Business Conditions Analysis and Forecasting (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201-E202. This course examines sources of instability in industrialized economies. Various theories of the business cycle are examined and critiqued. In addition, the empirical determinants of aggregate demand, prices, and interest rates are discussed. Alternative forecasting techniques are considered and the use of these techniques is demonstrated. PUL=1

ECON-E 470 Introduction to Econometrics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 270, MATH-M 119. Application of regression analysis to economic and business data. Estimation and hypothesis testing of classical regression model. Heteroscedasticity, collinearity, errors in observation, functional forms, and autoregressive models. Estimation of simultaneous equation models. Credit will not be given for both ECON-E 470 and ECON-E 472. PUL=1

ECON-E 485 Economic and Social Control of Industry (Antitrust) (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201 or permission of instructor. This course is a study of the economic reasoning behind and consequences of the application of antitrust laws aimed at altering the structure, conduct, and performance of the American economy. Specific legal cases that have been brought under the Sherman Act, the Clayton Act, as amended, and the Federal Trade Commission Act are analyzed. PUL=5

ECON-E 102 Economics of Personal Finance (3 cr.) Shows how the state of the economy, prices, and interest rates should guide personal decisions about spending, saving, credit, investments, and insurance. Intended for non-business students. PUL=5

ECON-E 375 Introduction to Mathematical Economics (3 cr.) Applications of mathematical concepts to equilibrium and optimization. Applications of matrix theory to input-output analysis, activity analysis, and models of capital accumulation.

Graduate Courses

ECON-E 504 Mathematics for Economists (3 cr.) Topics in mathematics that are particularly useful in the application of microeconomic theory, macroeconomic theory, and econometrics. Topics covered include: matrix algebra, comparative-static analysis, constrained optimization, difference equations in discrete time, game theory, and set theory as applied to general equilibrium analysis.

ECON-E 513 Special Topics in Economic History (3 cr.) Explicit methodology and economic analysis applied to major issues in American and European economic history.
ECON-E 514 The Nonprofit Economy and Public Policy (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 201. The role of nonprofit organizations (universities, churches, hospitals, orchestras, charities, day care, research, nursing homes) in mixed economies. Public policy controversies such as regulation of fundraising, antitrust against universities, “unfair” competition with for-profit firms, and the tax treatment of donations. (This course may not be taken for credit by anyone who has received credit for ECON-E 414.)

ECON-E 519 Regional Economics (3 cr.) Regional economics is the study of economic behavior in space. The course examines the internal and interregional determinants of growth and decline of a region from supply and demand perspectives. Public policies to influence these determinants are considered.

ECON-E 521 Theory of Prices and Markets (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 504 or consent of instructor. Develops the methodology of economic analysis and teaches the tools and language of price theory. Fundamental elements of consumer theory, producer theory and economics of uncertainty. Emphasis on comparative statics and the duality theory. Topics on welfare analysis, the theory of price indices, quality of goods, revealed preferences, the theory of derived demand, expected utility theory, attitudes toward risk, and various measures of riskiness.

ECON-E 522 Macroeconomic Theory 1 (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 520. Introductory course on macroeconomic dynamics; covers growth models and asset pricing theories, endogenous growth theories, optimal growth problems, and competitive dynamic equilibrium models. Dynamic programming tools introduced as needed. All models are cast in discrete time setup; presents deterministic and stochastic theories.

ECON-E 528 Economic Analysis of Health Care (3 cr.) A graduate introduction to health economics. Applications of economic theory to problems in various areas in health care. Applications of econometric techniques to the same. Topics include how physicians, institutions, and consumers respond to economic incentives and what policies contribute maximally to efficiency and welfare.

ECON-E 545 Applied Labor Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521 or ECON-E 470 or equivalents. Discussion of wage rates and working conditions, searches by workers or firms, investment in training, quits and layoffs, shirking, discrimination, the division of household labor, retirement, and implicit contracts. The course also examines the impact of institutions such as unions and the government on the efficiency of the labor market.

ECON-E 568 Public Finance I (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 308 and ECON-E 470. Partial equilibrium, microeconomic analysis of how tax and subsidy policies affect various types of individual and firm behavior. Theoretical models are introduced to assess and develop quantitative studies of fiscal policy. Summaries of the empirical impact of policy will be formed for the purpose of becoming an “input” in the complete general equilibrium analysis conducted in Public Finance II.

ECON-E 569 Public Finance II (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 568. Empirical examination of the general equilibrium effects of major tax and subsidy programs, such as personal income taxation, corporate profit taxation, income maintenance, social security, and government provision of education. In addition, proposed reforms to these programs will be analyzed using empirically based simulation models.

ECON-E 570 Fundamentals of Statistics and Econometrics (3 cr.) Mathematical overview of statistics and econometrics at graduate level. Topics covered include probability and probability distributions, sampling distributions, tests of hypotheses, estimation, simple regression, multiple regression, generalized linear model and its applications, simultaneous equation system.

ECON-E 574 Applied Econometrics and Forecasting (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 570. An overview of techniques employed in economic model building, estimation, and usage. Topics covered include single and multi-equation system estimation, limited dependent variable regression techniques, hypothesis testing, policy analysis, and forecasting. Various forecasting techniques are discussed, including smoothing and decomposition methods and time series analysis. A number of projects are assigned throughout the semester in order to give the student hands-on experience with the different techniques.

ECON-E 581 Topics in Applied Microeconomics I (3 cr.) P: or C: ECON-E 521. This course is a graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in one or more areas of microeconomics. We will demonstrate how economic concepts can be usefully applied to understanding problems in the subdiscipline under study and discuss and apply estimation techniques appropriate for problems in the area.

ECON-E 582 Topics in Applied Microeconomics II (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521 and ECON-E 570 or consent of the instructor. This course is a second graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of microeconomics. We will demonstrate how economic concepts can be usefully applied to understanding problems in the subdiscipline under study, and discuss and apply estimation techniques appropriate for problems in the area.

ECON-E 583 Introduction to Applied Macroeconomics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 522 and ECON-E 570 or equivalents and consent of the instructor. This course is a graduate-level introduction to theoretical and empirical applications in two areas of macroeconomics. We will demonstrate how economic theories can be usefully applied to understanding problems in the subdiscipline under study and discuss and apply estimation and calibration techniques appropriate for problems in the area.

ECON-E 600 Research in Economics (arr. cr.) Individual readings and research.

ECON-E 808 Thesis (M.A.) (arr.)

ECON-E 515 Institutional Setting for Health Economics in the U.S. (3 cr.) P: or C: ECON-E 521 and ECON-E 571. Overview of the structure to the U.S. health care system including health care financing, health care delivery, and government programs. Private and public financing mechanisms as well as government regulation. Comparison of the U.S. system to the health care systems of other countries.

ECON-E 516 Institutional Setting for Nonprofit/Philanthropic Economics (3 cr.) P: or C: ECON-E 521 and ECON-E 571. This course provides a broad overview of nonprofit institutions and philanthropic practices, along with a discussion of available data sources on each. We discuss the size and scope of nonprofit organizations, revenues, governance, regulation and taxation, intersectoral relations, patterns of philanthropy, and public policies that affect giving behaviors.

ECON-E 571 Econometrics I-Statistical Foundations (3 cr.) P: Calculus and Linear Algebra. The probability bases for statistical estimation and testing are introduced in the context of issues, theories, and data found in economics. The classical linear regression model is presented as the starting point for multivariate analyses in econometrics. Students work with various computer programs in and out of the scheduled class periods.

ECON-E 577 Computer Methods and Data Analysis (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 570 or ECON-E 573. The first of a two-semester sequence in computer methods and data analysis. ECON-E 577 teaches students to use large datasets in an econometric analysis to answer a research question, to program in Stata, and to organize a complicated data project. The course also will complete students' introduction to the Stata programming language. The course prepares students to carry out their own large-scale research project and/or efficiently work within an organization that uses large data files to achieve its objectives.

ECON-E 578 Advanced Computer Methods and Complex Datasets (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 577. In ECON-E 578 students learn to conduct empirical research with advanced computer methods and complex datasets. In the first half of the course students will learn the process by which empirical research is conducted by critiquing several published research articles and replicating the research from a previously published journal article. The replication will involve critical assessment of the research question, specific aims, innovation, significance, methodological approach, as well as learning the computer methods and datasets necessary to replicate the results. In the second half of the course students will use their acquired knowledge of research process to write a detailed proposal for an original research project. The course culminates with an oral presentation of the proposal, followed by critical peer assessment of the project's research question, aims, innovation, significance, and methods. In addition to learning the process of research, students will acquire advanced Stata programming skills (e.g., ado-file programming, Mata, maximum-likelihood programming), and be introduced to several complex data sets that are important in health economics research. At the culmination of the course, students will be prepared to execute their first original research project. That execution will commence during the summer following completion of E578.

ECON-E 611 Information Economics and Theories of Incentives and Contracts (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 521. The course covers topics in the theories of incentives and contracts that study situations in which there are explicit or implicit contractual obligations. It explores the role and influence of asymmetric information in determining outcomes with special emphases on moral hazard and adverse selection.

ECON-E 621 Theories of Prices and Market (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 520. Analysis of equilibrium, first- and second-order conditions; statistical derivation of demand and cost curves; activity analysis; general equilibrium; welfare economics; microeconomics of capital theory; pure oligopoly and gave theory.

ECON-E 643 Health Economics I (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 515, ECON-E 573, and ECON-E 611. E643 will provide students with the theoretical knowledge and make them familiar with current research on key issues in health economics, including the production of and demand for health, determinants of health and health disparities, change in health technology, and the economic evaluation of health and health care.

ECON-E 644 Health Economics II (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 515, ECON-E 573, and ECON-E 611. This course builds on the core theory, econometrics and health economics courses to provide an in depth knowledge of key issues related to markets and market failure in the supply of health care services, the impact of insurance on the demand for health care services, response of consumers to insurers' financial incentives, the role of government in health care markets, the labor market behavior of physicians; hospital ownership, competition, and reimbursement. In addition to introducing theoretical concepts the course aims at familiarizing students to current research on these topics by means of review of seminal journal articles. It will provide a foundation for understanding key dimensions in health care markets, appreciate contributions of past literature on the subject and initiate constructive critical thought on the existing work and future directions of research in the field.

ECON-E 670 Econometrics 3-System and Panel Econometric Models (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 573 or equivalent. Simultaneous equation models (2SLS, 3SLS), time series concepts for panel data analysis and serial correlation, pooled cross-section methods, linear panel data models [First Differences, Fixed Effects (FE) and Random Effects (RE)], nonlinear panel data models (ML and GMM),]

ECON-E 673 Econometrics 4-Microeconometrics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 573 or equivalent. Microeconometrics with applications to labor, health, and public economics. Extensive coverage of limited dependent variable and panel data models. Empirical implementation is an essential component of the course.

ECON-E 744 Seminar/Workshop in Health Economics (3 cr.) P: ECON-E 644. The Seminar in Health Economics introduces students to current working papers in health
ECON-E 800 Research in Economics (arr cr.)

ECON-E 809 Thesis (PhD) (arr. cr.)

English (ENG, EAP, FILM, LING)

Concentrations

Creative Writing

ENG-W 206 Introduction to Creative Writing (3 cr.)
Provides students with the opportunity to develop their creative writing skills, and gives them a working knowledge of the basic principles of fiction, poetry and drama. PUL=1A

ENG-W 207 Introduction to Fiction Writing (3 cr.)
An introduction to the techniques and principles of fiction writing. Written assignments, workshop discussions of student work in progress, seminar study of classic and contemporary examples of the genre. This course may be used as a prerequisite for ENG W301. ENG W302, or ENG W305. This course is recommended for English majors pursuing a concentration in creative writing. PUL=1A

ENG-W 208 Introduction to Poetry Writing (3 cr.)
One of three introductory creative writing courses, the course focuses on the fundamentals of poetry writing exclusively, including the image, the line, metaphor, sound play, and poetic meter. Students will practice a variety of techniques, will engage in weekly reading and writing, and will learn to revise their own poems and to help edit their classmates’ work. PUL=1A

ENG-W 280 Literary Editing and Publishing (3 cr.)
P: Any literature course; ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, or ENG-W 208. Principles of editing and publishing literary writing. Kinds of journals, varieties of formats (including print and e-zine), introduction to editing and production processes. Possible focus on genre publishing (fiction, poetry, non-fiction prose), grant writing, Web publishing, etc. PUL=2

ENG-W 301 Writing Fiction (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206 or ENG-W 207 or permission of the instructor. Further exploration in the art of fiction writing. PUL=1A; RISE-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 302 Screenwriting (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206 or ENG-W 207, or permission of instructor. A practical course in basic techniques of writing for film and television. Covers the essentials of dramatic structure, story development, characterization and theme, scene construction, dialogue, and, briefly, the practicalities of working as a screenwriter today. PUL=1A; Rise-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 303 Writing Poetry (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206 or ENG-W 208 or permission of the instructor. Further exploration in the art of poetry writing. PUL=1A

ENG-W 408 Creative Writing for Teachers (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, or ENG-W 208. Offers current and future teachers insights into the creative writing process, teaches them to think as writers do, suggests strategies for critiquing creative work, and provides guidance in developing creative writing curriculum. PUL=1A

ENG-W 305 Writing Creative Nonfiction (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, ENG-W 208, or permission of the instructor. An intermediate course in the theory and practice of creative nonfiction prose, with seminar study of relevant materials and workshop discussion of student work in progress. PUL=1A

ENG-W 401 Writing Fiction (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 301. Study and practice in the writing of fiction. Analysis of examples from contemporary literature accompanies class criticism and discussion. PUL=1A; RISE-Experiential Learning May be repeated once for credit.

ENG-W 403 Advanced Poetry Writing (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 301. Study and practice in the writing of poetry. Analysis of examples from contemporary poets accompanies class criticism and discussion. PUL=1A; RISE-Experiential Learning ENG-W 411 Directed Writing (1-3 cr.) P: Consent of instructor. Individual projects determined in consultation with instructor. Credit varies with scope of project. PUL=1A. May be repeated once for credit.

ENG-W 407 Advanced Creative Nonfiction Writing (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 305. An advanced workshop in the craft of creative nonfiction, with special attention given to defining the genre and its craft. PUL=1A RISE-Experiential Learning

ENG-W 313 Writing Nonfiction Prose (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 206, ENG-W 207, ENG-W 208, or permission of instructor. Students will read and analyze professional and student work as they prepare to practice the art of fact by combining the tools of a researcher with the craft of a novelist. The final portfolio includes a stylistic analysis of the student’s and others’ nonfiction works as well as two illustrated nonfiction texts based on the student's primary and secondary research. PUL=1A

ENG-W 315 Writing for the Web (3 cr.) Introduces students to new forms of writing (beyond word processing and desktop publishing) made possible by computer-based hypertext, electronic mail, and computer conferencing, and explores what impact these new forms have on literacy skills for writers and readers of such computer-delivered texts. PUL=1A

ENG-W 318 Finding your e-Voice (3 cr.) This course helps students understand and negotiate the creation of a successful e-voice with academic, personal, and professional applications. Reading, exploration, discussions, activities, and practice help students transition from an academic to an “e-voice.” Designing and producing a multimedia project meets RISE criteria and further refines developing e-voices. PUL=1A

FILM-C 292 An Introduction to Film (3 cr.) Nature of film technique and film language; analysis of specific films; major historical, theoretical, and critical developments in film and film study from the beginnings of cinema to the present. PUL=3

FILM-C 390 The Film and Society: Topics (3 cr.) Film and politics; race and gender; social influences of the cinema; rise of the film industry. May be repeated once with different topic. PUL=4

FILM-C 391 The Film: Theory and Aesthetics (3 cr.) Film form and techniques; aesthetic and critical theories of the cinema; relationships between film movements and literary and artistic movements; relationships of word and image; analysis of significant motion pictures. PUL=4

FILM-C 392 Genre Study in Film (3 cr.) Problems of definition; the evolution of film genres such as criminal or social drama, comedy, the western, science fiction, horror, or documentary film; themes, subject matter, conventions, and iconography peculiar to given genres; relationship of film genres to literary genres. Focus on one specific genre each time the course is offered. PUL=3 May be repeated once with different topic.

FILM-C 393 History of European and American Films I (3 cr.) FILM-C 393 is a survey of the development of cinema during the period 1895-1926 (the silent film era). PUL=3

FILM-C 394 History of European and American Films II (3 cr.) FILM-C 394 is a survey of European and American cinema since 1927. Particular attention paid to representative work of leading filmmakers, emerging trends, and changing social, economic, and political conditions; film movements and development of national trends, growth of film industry, and impact of television. PUL=1C

FILM-C 491 Authorship and Cinema (3 cr.) Study of the work of one or more film artists. Attention paid to the style, themes, and methods that make the filmmaker's work unique. Filmmakers studied in the contexts of film traditions, ideologies, and industries that informed their work. PUL=4 May be repeated once with a different topic.

FILM-C 493 Film Adaptations of Literature (3 cr.) Analysis of the processes and problems involved in turning a literary work (novel, play, or poem) into a screenplay and then into a film. Close study of literary and film techniques and short exercises in adaptation. PUL=2

ENG-W 260 Writing of Film Criticism (3 cr.) Viewing and critiquing currently playing films, with emphasis on genre, authorship, and cinematic and narrative values. Attention to cultural, historical, and ideological contexts. Students view contemporary films. This is a writing course, which teaches the writing of film criticism; students produce first drafts, present them to classmates for peer reviewing, and complete a final draft for grading. Essays spanning film history serve as models for review writing. PUL=2

FILM-C 350 Film Noir (3 cr.) Film noir is a term originating with the French to describe certain Hollywood films from the 1940s and 1950s that seem to express a dark vision of American culture. These films often share certain characteristics such as: private detectives; femmes fatale; and dark, shadowy, ambiguous worlds of crime. The term film noir, however, is as shadowy, as amorphous, as the films themselves. Is film noir a period, a genre, a category, or a style of filmmaking? Film scholars and critics don't always agree on a definition. However we describe them, films noir continue to intrigue and provoke us. This course will look at the historical and cultural use of the term, and some of the detective and pulp fiction that influenced film noir. We will read what several important critics say about noir. We will watch several of the most influential Hollywood films noir made after 1941, including The Maltese Falcon, Double Indemnity, Laura, Kiss Me Deadly, and Touch of Evil. In addition, we will look at neo noirs, such as Chinatown, Blade Runner, Pulp Fiction, and Devil in a Blue Dress. Finally, we will think about film noir as a discourse, as a set of ideas circulating around these films, which might tell us something about American culture. PUL=3

FILM-C 351 Musicals (3 cr.) Why should we care about this seemingly quaint, esoteric genre in which characters burst into song here in our supposedly advanced era? Musicals are often regarded as in effect a historical genre. They are seen as speaking a dead language (pre-rock Broadwayese and Tin Pan Alley) as breaking the narrative of the classical Hollywood-style film, and of being excessively and cutely associated with show business, fairy tale realms, and folklorish Americana. Musicals are these things, and much more. We will look at the evolution of the one genre that didn't exist in silent cinema, and how it affected the development of the Hollywood studio system. We'll sample the works of Busby Berkeley, Astaire, and Rogers, Minnelli, Kelly, and Garland as well as a few of the better Broadway adaptations, as well as a bit of the musical revival that our current decade has had to offer (and that seems to have been successful). We also look at evolutions of the genre in the last three decades, beginning with Cabaret (1972) and extending to meditations on the form like Pennies from Heaven (1981), up to the neo musicals (Moulin Rouge!, Chicago, etc.) of recent times. You'll come away with a head-pulsing understanding that there couldn't be cinema and media as we know them without musicals. It's an essential genre. Students will learn how to talk about and recognize genre in its textual, historical, and cultural aspects. You will learn how to analyze film texts, how to research and think about the evolution of the genre and how to discuss that in a specific film. You will learn how musicals fit into the overall framework of entertainment, film art, and popular culture of the past eighty-some years and how to think critically about them and to analyze and communicate your own responses to the genre. PUL=3

FILM-C 352 Biopics (3 cr.) We will study one of the richest, but most underappreciated of film genres, the film biography, better known as the biopic. You will learn to discuss biography as a genre; to assess mythmaking in the telling of lives; to analyze the ways that biographical films work cinematically; and to see how, as a dynamic form, the biopic continues to produce portraits of what it means to distinguish oneself in the world. PUL=1C

FILM-C 361 Hollywood Studio Era 1930-1949 (3 cr.) This class deals with a vitally important period in film history as related to American history during the Great Depression, World War II, and the immediate postwar years. We will learn the various elements of filmmaking as practiced in a self-contained production system under which each cinematic component—from camerawork to acting to costuming to editing—had a department dedicated to it. We will learn about audiences and moviegoing during a time when movies were the national pastime in America and in many other countries. We will learn how to identify studio style, genre, to analyze the significance of stars and acting codes. We will study the roles of the actor, the writer, the producer, and the director in this system in which talents were signed to long-term contracts and were essentially owned by the companies. In writing, oral discussions, and exams, you should be able to analyze films of the Studio Era on several levels: What do they have to say as products of an American entertainment industry during two turbulent periods in America? What is the "classical cinema" and how does it combine what Richard B. Jewell calls "some standardization" with "a certain amount of freshness, of innovation, of novelty" demanded by the public? How do we recognize house style, individual authorship, and the differences between them? What is genre? And how do we write about and discuss these elements? PUL=4

FILM-C 362 Hollywood in the 1950s (3 cr.) This course, the second in a series on the history of the sound film, concerns one of the most critical periods of change both in American life and in the American film as art and entertainment. The late forties and early fifties in America brought the end of two decades of depression and world war and the coming of prosperity, suburbs, the baby boom, the Cold War, television, and the first stirrings of the Civil Rights movement. For Hollywood, the era forced the end of the unified mass audience and with it the breakup of the old powerful studios. Now came the (first) age of the blockbuster, of widescreen and stereophonic sound, of youth films, and Method acting, of a measure of psychological realism, and a new division, however, artificial, between art and entertainment films. The fifties are a fascinating period of reinvention and transition. Television, the blacklist, widescreen, Method acting, psychological realism, the decline of the Production Code, the influence of art cinema; iconic films from "Sunset Blvd." to "Some Like It Hot." "Singin' in the Rain" to "The Searchers." "Rebel Without a Cause" to "On the Waterfront." PUL=1C

FILM-C 380 French Cinema (3 cr.) This course will provide students with a broad introduction to the history of French cinema. France has arguably the most avid, energetic, and versatile film culture of any single nation in the world, including our own. The academic discipline of Film Studies would simply not exist without the French; critics such as André Bazin, the "auteur" critics of Cahiers du Cin'ma and Positif in the 1950s, and later scholars such as Christian Metz, Raymond Bellour, and Jean-Louis Baudry, who brought semiotics and psychoanalysis in the field were advocates and analysts of the possibilities of film and its meanings in the modern world. Cinema got its formal start in France. The first public film screening anywhere was presented by Pierre and Auguste Lumière in Paris on December 28, 1895. Among other French contributions to film culture were the first science fiction/fantasy films (of Georges Méliès), the wide-screen lens, the idea of film noir, the Auteur Theory, and the Nouvelle Vague (New Wave), which revolutionized film style around the world in the 1960s. Students will learn the important styles, periods, and directors of French cinema. They will develop an appreciation for the philosophical and aesthetic ideas informing French film, the cultural and political cultures out of which the films are produced, and the unique cross-pollination between the French and American cinemas. PUL=2.

Language and Linguistics

ENG-Z 206 Introduction to Language Use (3 cr.) An introduction to how we use language in our lives. This course explores how and why language varies between different groups and places, as well as the role of context in language meaning and interpretation. Insights are applied to understanding the impact of literature, film, writing, and other disciplines. PUL=4

ENG-Z 301 History of the English Language (3 cr.) P: ENG-Z 205 is recommended. A study of the origins of the English language, focusing on how and why English has changed over time. ENG-L 573 Interdisciplinary Approaches to English and American Literature (3 cr.) Social, political, and psychological studies in English and American literature. Topics may vary and include, for example, literature and colonialism, literature and psychoanalysis, or literature and gender. May also include other world literatures.

ENG-L 606 Topics in African American Literature (4 cr.) Focuses on a particular genre, time period, or theme of African American literature. Examples: twentieth-century African American women’s novels, black male identity in literature, kinship in African American literature, and African American autobiography. May be repeated twice for credit with different focuses.

ENG-Z 541 English for Specific Purposes (ESP) and Materials Development (3 cr.) P: ENG-Z 523 or instructor’s permission. English for Specific Purposes (ESP) focuses on the analysis and teaching of English, including the development of appropriate materials, that meet specific language needs of non-native speakers in specific contexts for specific purposes. This course explores and applies the theoretical principles for identifying the needs, developing curricula and preparing teaching materials for ESP contexts.

ENG-L 625 Readings in Shakespeare (4 cr.) Critical analysis of selected tragedies, comedies, history plays, and poetry.

ENG-G 625 Discourse Analysis and Introduction to Research (4 cr.) This course introduces students to current approaches to text and discourse coherence, including recent theories of cognitive and interactional text modeling.

ENG-L 650 Studies in American Literature to 1900 (4 cr.) Intensive study of one writer, a group of writers, or a theme or form significant in the period.

ENG-G 652 English Language Sociolinguistics (4 cr.) This course investigates sociocultural aspects of language use and explores the relationships between language and society. The course provides background in various theoretical and methodological approaches to sociolinguistics. Other topics to be covered include gender and language, ethnicity and language, social factors in language acquisition, and bilingualism. Familiarity with basic issues and concepts in linguistics would be useful.
ENG-Z 600 Seminar in TESOL (3 cr.) Topics in this course will vary, but will focus on current issues in TESOL and applied linguistics. May be taken more than once with different topics. Up to 9 credit hours.

ENG-Z 690 Advanced Readings in TESOL (1-4 cr.) P: Approval of Instrucor. Directed reading on a focused topic in TESOL and applied linguistics that students initiate, plan, and complete under the direction of an English department faculty member. Credit hours depend on scope of project. May be repeated for up to 6 credit hours.

ENG-L 680 Special Topics in Literary Study and Theory (4 cr.) Reading in sociological, political, psychological, and other approaches to literature.

ENG-L 681 Genre Studies (4 cr.) A variable-title course, Genre Studies examines the specific characteristics of individual genres. May be repeated once for credit.

ENG-L 695 Individual Readings in English (1-4 cr.) Enables students to work on a reading project that they initiate, plan, and complete under the direction of an English department faculty member. Credit hours depend on scope of project.

ENG-W 511 Writing Fiction (4 cr.) A graduate-level fiction writing workshop. Seminar study of advanced techniques in the writing of fiction, both short stories and the novel. Workshop discussion of advanced student work in progress.

ENG-W 513 Writing Poetry (4 cr.) Poetry writing workshop on the study of prosody and form (including formal elements of free verse) in the context of writing by class members.

ENG-W 532 Managing Document Quality (4 cr.) This course will examine and apply principles of planning, researching audience and content, designing publications, drafting, obtaining reviews, conducting user testing, and negotiating within organizational cultures in order to produce effective technical and professional documents.

ENG-W 600 Topics in Rhetoric and Composition (4 cr.) Covers selected issues in current composition and rhetorical theory.

ENG-W 609 Directed Writing Projects (1-4 cr.) Individual creative or critical writing projects negotiated with the professor who agrees to offer tutorial assistance. Credit hours will vary according to the scope of the project.

ENG-W 697 Independent Study in Writing 1 (3 cr.)

ENG-W 500 Teaching Writing: Issues and Approaches (4 cr.) Consideration of fundamental issues in the teaching of writing and the major approaches to composition instruction. Specific topics include teaching invention and revision, diagnosing errors, teaching style and organization, making assignments, and evaluating student writing.

ENG-W 508 Creative Writing for Teachers (4 cr.) Offers current and future teachers insights into the creative writing process, teaches them to think as writers do, suggest strategies for critiquing creative work, and provide guidance in developing creative-writing curriculum. Emphasis on hands-on writing activities in three genres, adaptable for use with students at entry level.

ENG-W 510 Computers and Composition (4 cr.) Based in current theories about the process of writing, this course surveys the use of computer programs (such as word processing) as writing tools, computer-assisted instruction as teaching aids and computer programs as research aids to study writing.

ENG-W 525 Research Approaches for Technical and Professional Writing (4 cr.) Students focus on how to learn about content, audiences in their situations, and document design in order to produce high quality publications.

ENG-W 531 Designing and Editing Visual Technical Communication (4 cr.) Students learn principles of designing publications that communicate both visually and verbally.

ENG-W 590 Teaching Writing: Theories and Applications (4 cr.) Drawing on current scholarship and relevant statements from the rhetorical tradition, this course examines theoretical assumptions in the design of classroom practices.

ENG-W 605 Writing Project Summer Institute (3-6 cr.) By application and invitation only. For teachers from K-university, who together consider major issues involved in the teaching of writing and explore the pedagogical approaches inherent in these issues. The institute explores current theories of writing and their application in the classroom. Preference given to active classroom teachers.

ENG-W 615 Graduate Creative Nonfiction Writing (4 cr.) Writing workshop in such modes as personal essay, autobiography, and documentary.

ENG-L 503 Teaching of Lit in College (2-4 cr.) Classroom teaching of literature in the light of current approaches.

ENG-L 508 Practicum on Teaching Literature in College (2-4 cr.) Topics include syllabus construction, lecture and discussion techniques, use and evaluation of written work. Offered in two formats: as a practicum in course and syllabus design for a future undergraduate course; or as a practicum for AIs running concurrently with the related undergraduate course.

ENG-L 641 English Literature 1790-1900 (4 cr.) The course will explore the nexus between English literature, history, and print culture from the late sixteenth- to the early seventeenth century, using as our starting point England's unexpected (yet, perhaps, divinely inspired) victory over the Spanish Armada in 1588 - the event that established England as a naval, military, and commercial power on par with continental Europe.
From this triumphant moment, we will follow the nation through several succession crises, religious controversies, economic turmoil, struggles over theatrical and print censorship, and violently contested debates about the nature of Kingship itself, all of which led to a Civil War, the closing of the public theaters, the beheading of Charles I, and the eventual Restoration of the monarchy after an uncomfortable period of Parliamentarian and Protectorate rule.

ENG-L 643 Readings in Colonial and Postcolonial Literatures (4 cr.) Study of literature within the historical, cultural and political context of European colonialism and anti- or post-colonial resistance. Topics might include the role of literature in the formation of nations and national consciousness, literatures of particular nations, or post-colonial theory.

ENG-L 657 Readings in Literature and Critical Thinking (4 cr.) Study of major movements, figures, or topics in literary and/or critical theory.

ENG-L 666 Survey of Children’s Literature (3-4 cr.) A survey of literature written for children and adolescents from the medieval period to the present.

ENG-Z 536 Pedagogical Grammar (3 cr.) The focus of this course is on understanding the functions that grammar fulfills in oral and written communication, analyzing those aspects of grammar most problematic for English language learners, and exploring approaches to helping learners understand and use those structures in meaningful communicative contexts. The course combines theoretical discussion about various aspects of grammar with consideration of how to prepare effective lessons for teaching grammar to learners of different ages, proficiency levels and needs.

ENG-Z 570 Second Language Writing (3 cr.) This course explores theories and practices in the teaching and evaluation of second language writing (SLW) as well as connections between first and second language writing, literacy, and culture. Students learn how to identify writing needs, design tasks, and assess writing, and form a philosophy of teaching SLW.

ENG-Z 575 Second Language Learning and Technology (3 cr.) Explores the theory, use, and issues of using technology in second language instruction, focusing specifically on the acquisition of intercultural competence, culture, and pragmatics.

ENG-Z 598 TESOL Internship (3 cr.) P: Completion of ENG-Z 520 and ENG-Z 523, or instructor’s approval, and placement by TESOL Program into an approved internship site. The TESOL Internship is designed to provide students with a supervised internship experience in a professional ESL or EFL context. Interns will gain practical, hands-on experience in TESOL, including teaching, research, and/or program administration.

ENG-W 533 Science Writing (1 cr.) C: COMM-C 533; COMM-C 534. With an emphasis on shorter forms of writing, students discover voices, messages, and forms appropriate for bringing scientific expertise to non-science readers. They practice processes of response, revision, and editing to shape presentations for various readers, contexts, and paths of publication.

ENG-W 535 Advanced Science Writing (1 cr.) Each student identifies a complex project that includes long-forms and/or multi-genres of writing to deliver scientific expertise to non-science readers in a specific community or context. Collaborating through peer-critique and role-playing relevant readships, students adjust their messages and modes of delivery.

ENG-G 513 Academic Writing Graduate Students (3 cr.) Designed to meet the academic writing needs of ESL graduate students from multiple disciplines, this course focuses on a variety of academic writing styles and disciplinary approaches to producing research papers and professional documents. Students practice paraphrasing, summarizing, critiquing discipline-related articles, as well as writing research proposals and a comprehensive research paper.

ENG-G 520 Communication Skills for Graduate Students and Internationals (3 cr.) Designed for graduate students who are non-native speakers of English, this course provides instruction on oral communication skills, academic presentation skills and basic teaching strategies for the U.S. classroom. The primary focus is on oral language skills necessary to present academic materials in English to an American audience. Language skills, teaching skills, and knowledge about the U.S. classroom culture will be developed through discussions and classroom observations/simulations. Presentations, teaching practice and regular conferences will focus on individual needs.

ENG-G 541 Materials Preparation for ESL (4 cr.)

ENG-L 635 Readings in American Ethnic Literature and Culture (4 cr.) In-depth or comparative study of African-American, Asian American, Latino/a, Chicano/a, Native American, and/or other American ethnic literature and culture.

ENG-L 701 DESC BIBLIOGRAPHY/TEXTUAL PROB (4 cr.)

ENG-W 597 Writing Center: Theory and Practice (4 cr.) Writing Center Theory & Practice is designed to examine the techniques of consulting with writers, as well as the various theories that guide and inform consulting. The course will focus on the practical components of writing center work and how writing center and composition theories can be applied to a variety of settings, including but not limited to college, middle school, high school, professional, and other community settings. In particular, this course will train students to consult with writers in the IUPUI University Writing Center. Specific topics will include writing process, collaborative learning, approaches to consulting, consultant roles, consulting strategies for multiple populations of students (including but not limited to multilingual writers, first-generation students, returning students), cultural divides in writing centers, the use of technology and multimodal composing in writing centers, online consulting, assessment and research in writing centers, and composition and learning theories that influence writing center work and resource development.
Geography (GEOG)

Lower-Division Courses

GEOG-G 107 Physical Systems of the Environment (3 cr.) Explores the physical processes of the Earth—its weather, climate, landforms, oceans and ecosystems—and analyzes a range of environmental issues. PUL=3

GEOG-G 108 Physical Systems of the Environment: Laboratory (2 cr.) P: or C: GEOG-G107. Laboratory to complement G107. Practical and applied aspects of Meteorology, Climatology, Vegetation, Soils and Landforms. PUL=3

GEOG-G 110 Human Geography in Changing World (3 cr.) How do languages, religions, customs, and politics change from local to global scales? Learn how humans shape geographic patterns of migration, agriculture, industry, and urbanization. PUL=5

GEOG-G 111 Hurricanes (1 cr.) Introduction to processes involved in the initiation and development of hurricanes, forecasting and modeling tools used to predict their effects, and impacts on the natural environment and humans. PUL=3

GEOG-G 112 Thunderstorms and Tornadoes (1 cr.) Introduction to the processes involved in the initiation and development of thunderstorms and tornadoes, forecasting and modeling tools to predict their spatial pattern and effects, and impacts on the natural environment and humans. PUL=3

GEOG-G 113 The Ozone “Hole” (1 cr.) Introduction to the role and significance of the stratospheric ozone layer and the nature and extent of its depletion. Attention will focus on the development of our understanding, human intervention, and major points of controversy. PUL=3

GEOG-G 114 The Greenhouse Effect and Global Warming (1 cr.) Introduction to the greenhouse effect and global carbon cycle. Attention will be directed to how, when, and where humans have altered this cycle and the implications for future climates. Methods for monitoring climate change will be studied and areas of greatest uncertainty identified. Particular attention will be directed to the spatial pattern of projected effects produced by global climate models. PUL=3

GEOG-G 123 Soil Survey (1 cr.) An introduction to soils geography. Soil development processes, USDA soil survey map interpretation, physical and mechanical soil properties, and land use analysis. PUL=3

GEOG-G 130 World Geography (1 cr.) An analysis of the existing and emerging geographic patterns in the world and of the processes and trends producing such patterns. An examination of the global scale of human activities and interaction with the environment and the linkages tying the various regions of the world into a single, global system. PUL=5

Upper-Division Courses

GEOG-G 303 Weather and Climate (3 cr.) Systematic study of atmospheric processes and interrelationships, with a focus on understanding the physical basis of weather and climate. Emphasis on components of radiation and energy balances, atmospheric circulation, global weather systems, human effects on climate, and climate change. PUL=3

GEOG-G 305 Environmental Change: Nature and Impact (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 107 or consent of instructor. An integrated study of the causes and effects of environmental change. Areas covered include: climate variability (short and long term), environmental chemistry (ozone layer, greenhouse gases, and pollution), and anthropogenic impact that leads to environmental change. PUL=3

GEOG-G 307 Biogeography: The Distribution of Life (3 cr.) A survey of the present and past distributions of the world's plants and animals, emphasizing ecological explanation of species distributions. Topics include evolution and distribution of major plant and animal groups, world vegetation, plant and animal domestication, introduction of plant and animal pests, destruction of natural communities, and extinction. PUL=3

GEOG-G 309 Frontiers in Geographic Thought (3 cr.) Provides a survey of the development of philosophical frameworks and theories used in physical and human geography. PUL=1

GEOG-G 310 Human Impact on Environment (3 cr.) A systematic examination of how people have altered patterns of climate, hydrology, land forms, soils, and biota. Course emphasizes that understanding human impacts requires knowledge of both the sociocultural forces that drive human activity and the natural processes that determine environmental patterns. PUL=3

GEOG-G 311 Introduction to Research Methods in Geography (3 cr.) Introduction to geographic research questions and methodologies. Focus on special characteristics of geographic problems in the realms of both physical and human geography. Study of scientific versus nonscientific methods, the nature of geographic data, methods of data analysis, interpretation, and presentation. PUL=3

GEOG-G 314 Urban Geography (3 cr.) Study and interpretation of urban spatial structures, design, policies, and problems with an emphasis on the geographic perspective. Topics include urban housing markets, racial segregation, homelessness, and urban crime. PUL=5

GEOG-G 315 Environmental Conservation (3 cr.) Conservation of natural resources including soil, water, wildlife, and forests as interrelated components of environmental quality. PUL=3

GEOG-G 321 Geography of Europe (3 cr.) Geographical analysis of the physical features of the European environment and the spatial patterns and interrelationships of the cultural, economic, and political landscapes. Emphasis placed on human impact on the environment through long-term occupancy. PUL=5

GEOG-G 323 Geography of Latin America (3 cr.) A geographic introduction to Latin America: the Caribbean, Mexico, Central America, South America. Focus is on elements that give coherence and identity to geographic space in Latin America. Topics include the natural environment, settlement, the agrarian sphere, urbanization and industrialization, regional development issues and geopolitical themes. PUL=5

GEOG-G 324 Geography of the Caribbean (3 cr.) Geographic introduction to the Caribbean, stressing global and regional political and economic relation- ships, physical, and natural environments, human activities and human-environmental relationships which give coherence and identity to the diversity of Caribbean landscapes, peoples, and cultures. PUL=5

GEOG-G 326 Geography of North America (3 cr.) Continental and regional variations in terrain, climate, and economic and social life of the United States and Canada, with emphasis on geographical principles, sources of data, and techniques of investigation. PUL=5

GEOG-G 327 Geography of Indiana (3 cr.) A geographical analysis of the state of Indiana. Emphasis placed on the interrelationship of the state's physical and human geography. PUL=5

GEOG-G 328 Rural Landscapes of North America (3 cr.) Rural geography of the United States and Canada, focusing on rural settlements, culture, economic activities, and land subdivision. The spatial impacts of economic and technological changes on land use are considered through an examination of relict structures and urban expansion into rural areas. PUL=5

GEOG-G 330 North American House Types (3 cr.) Houses are a visible semipermanent record of human values, political ideas, historical settlement, and community development. This record is reflected in the types of houses built during a particular time period, by certain groups of people, or in a certain area of the country. This course examines house types for the purpose of identifying and analyzing geographic patterns that occur in North America. PUL=5

GEOG-G 331 Economic Geography (3 cr.) An examination of the spatial dynamics and location patterns of economic activities, behavior, and systems. The study of the spatial organization of resource utilization, agricultural production, manufacturing, business, transportation, and trade. PUL=5

GEOG-G 334 Field Geography of North America (3 cr.) A field course examining some geographic theme or region in North America. Includes preliminary classroom lecture and a field excursion of 1-2 weeks. Normally taught in summer. PUL=5

GEOG-G 336 Introduction to Remote Sensing and Air Photo Interpretation (3 cr.) Nature and interpretation of remotely sensed data collected from field, airborne, and space-borne sensors. Data from the visible, infrared, and microwave portions of the electromagnetic spectrum are discussed and analyzed from a geographic applications perspective. Visual, photogrammetric, digital image processing, and GIS interpretation approaches are presented. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 337 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.) Compilation, design, production, and evaluation of maps and related graphic materials. Includes cartometric procedures, symbolization, color use guidelines, map typography, photographic manipulations, computer animation, and geographic visualization techniques. Hardcopy and internet-based outputs. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 338 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) Introduction to the principles and applications of computer-based geographic information systems (GIS). PUL=1C

GEOG-G 345 Field Study in Geography (3 cr.) P: 12 credit hours in geography and consent of instructor. Faculty-supervised fieldwork in selected areas of geography. PUL=5 May be repeated up to a maximum of 6 credit hours.

GEOG-G 355 Political Geography (3 cr.) An examination of the spatial organization of political systems and the interaction of geographical area and political processes. Emphasis on the geographical characteristics of states and the geographical dimensions of international relations. PUL=5

GEOG-G 360 Geography of Wine (3 cr.) An introduction to the spatial distribution and patterns of viniculture in the world. Emphasis is placed on understanding the complex and often subtle relationships that exists between environmental variables, such as climate, soils, and landforms, and human factors, such as viticultural practices and vinification techniques, in producing different types of wines and variations in their qualities. The geographic origins and diffusion of viniculture are examined along with an analysis of the locations, development, and characteristics of the main wine regions or landscapes of the world. PUL=3

GEOG-G 390 Topics in Geography (1-3 cr.) An examination of selected problems and issues in geography or from a geographic perspective. Topics vary from semester to semester. PUL=3

GEOG-G 404 Soils Geography (3 cr.) Soils, genesis, morphology, and classification; soil's physical, chemical, mechanical, and biological properties. Soil maps and related data in land use analysis and the planning process. PUL=4

GEOG-G 421 Environments of Tropical Lands (3 cr.) A geographical analysis concerned with developing countries and focusing on issues related to development and the environmental consequences. Concern for the natural environment is expressed with regard to how it is affected by population pressures, economic advancement, and urbanization. An understanding of Third World people and their cultures is presented. PUL=3

GEOG-G 436 Advanced Remote Sensing: Digital Image Processing (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 336 or consent of instructor. Advanced remote sensing theory and digital image processing techniques with an emphasis on environmental applications. Hands-on computer exercises provide significant experience in introductory digital image processing for extraction of qualitative and quantitative information about Earth’s terrestrial environments. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 438 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 338 or consent of instructor. Intermediate and advanced topics in geographic information science and spatial analysis techniques using GIS software. This advanced course is for upper-division undergraduates and graduates who seek a greater understanding of this rapidly developing field and to learn how to construct, manage, and analyze their own GIS data and models. Lecture and laboratory. PUL=1C
GEOG-G 439 GIS & Environmental Analysis (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 336, GEOG-G 338, and GEOG-G 436 or GEOG-G 438. Applications of geographic information science principles in the collection and analysis of spatial data. Integration of GIS, remote sensing, and/or GPS technologies. Review of current literature on techniques, theory, technology, and applications with an emphasis on environmental issues. Discussions, laboratory, and research project. May substitute for the GEOG-G 491 capstone course. PUL=3

GEOG-G 446 Cultural Biogeography (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 307. Examines human alteration of natural plant and animal distributions. Topics include deforestation, extinction, plant and animal domestication, and introduction of alien organisms. Seminar format. PUL=3

GEOG-G 450 Undergraduate Readings and Research in Geography (1-3 cr.)
Research in selected problems: papers are ordinarily required. PUL=3

GEOG-G 460 Geography Internship (1-6 cr.)
P: 12 credit hours of geography and departmental approval. Supervised field experience in geography, normally in conjunction with approved work at a government agency or private firm. Requires 40 hours of work per 1 hour of credit. PUL=3

GEOG-G 475 Climate Change (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 303. Advanced course on the evidence for and theories of climate change over a range of time scales, focusing on the period before the instrumental record. PUL=5

GEOG-G 488 Applied Spatial Statistics (3 cr.)
P: 6 credits in geography or consent of instructor. Extension of traditional statistical analysis to spatial data. Spatial means and spatial variances, the examination of differences in samples over space, spatial autocorrelation, nearest neighbor analysis, map comparison techniques, emphasis on practical applications. PUL=1C

GEOG-G 491 Capstone Experience in Geography (1 cr.) An independent project for senior-level students, applying geographic theory and techniques to a topic of geographic interest beyond the limits of the regular curriculum. Open to majors or non-majors with appropriate preparation, including GEOG-G 309 and GEOG-G 311. May be taken alone or concurrently with another course. PUL=3

GEOG-G 302 Introduction to Transportation Analysis (3 cr.) Examination of movement of people, goods, and information over space using spatial analysis and planning techniques. PUL=3

GEOG-G 418 Historical Geography (3 cr.) Migration and diffusion, rural and urban settlement, industrialization, and transport development as spatial processes shaping the landscapes and geopolitical relationships of past places and peoples. PUL=3

GEOG-G 424 Geography of Africa (3 cr.) Geographical analysis of the physical features of the African environment and the spatial patterns and interrelationships of the cultural, economic, and political landscapes. PUL=5

GEOG-G 363 Landscapes and Cultures of the Caribbean (3 cr.) Field courses are taught during summer. Includes two weeks of preliminary lectures at IUPUI followed by approximately two weeks of intensive field study in the Caribbean. Destinations vary from year to year; consult class schedule for more information. PUL=3

GEOG-G 478 GLOBAL CHANGE, FOOD, AND FARMING SYSTEMS (3 cr.)
P: Junior or Senior Status; Consent of the instructor. Introduction to food production and consumption systems, emphasizing linkages to land use and social change on food/farming system sustainability. Topics include urbanization population growth and economic liberalization; farming livelihoods, gender and poverty; biotechnology; agroecology, global health.

Graduate Courses

GEOG G535 ENVIRONMENTAL REMOTE SENSING (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 534. Principles of remote sensing of the earth and its atmosphere, emphasizing satellite data in visible, infrared, and microwave portions of the electromagnetic spectrum. Emphasis on practical applications and digital image analysis. A satellite data analysis project is required.

GEOG-G 536 Advanced Remote Sensing (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 535 or consent of instructor. Advanced remote sensing theory and digital image processing techniques with an emphasis on environmental applications. Hands-on computer exercises provide significant experience in introductory digital image processing for extraction of qualitative and quantitative information about the Earth's terrestrial environments. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 537 Computer Cartography and Graphics (3 cr.) Compilation, design, production, and evaluation of maps and related graphic materials. Includes cartometric procedures, symbolization, color use guidelines, map typography, photographic manipulations, computer animation, and geographic visualization techniques. Hardcopy and Internet-based outputs. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 538 Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) Overview of the principles and practices of Geographic Information Systems (GIS). The course will deal with issues of spatial data models, database design, introductory and intermediate GIS operations, and case studies of real-world GIS. Laboratory exercises will provide significant hands-on experience. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 539 Advanced Geographic Information Systems (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 538 or consent of instructor. Intermediate and advanced topics in geographic information science and spatial analysis techniques using GIS software. This advanced course is for upper-division undergraduates and graduates who seek a greater understanding of this rapidly developing field and to learn how to construct, manage, and analyze their own GIS data and models. Lecture and laboratory.

GEOG-G 588 Applied Spatial Statistics (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 534 or consent of instructor. Extension of traditional statistical analysis to spatial data. Spatial means and spatial variances, the examination of differences in samples over space, spatial autocorrelation, nearest neighbor analysis, map comparison techniques, emphasis on practical applications.

GEOG-G 602 TOPICS SEMINAR: Climate, Land, and Environmental Change (3 cr.) P: Consent of instructor.
Topics will vary to consider aspects of climate, land and environmental change.

GEOG-G 639 GIS and Environmental Analysis (3 cr.)
P: GEOG-G 535, GEOG-G 538, and GEOG-G 536 or GEOG-G 539. Applications of geographic information science principles in the collection and analysis of spatial data. Integration of GIS, remote sensing, and/or GPS technologies. Review of current literature on techniques, theory, technology, and applications with an emphasis on environmental issues. Discussions, laboratory, and research project.

GEOG-G 704 Soils Geography (3 cr.) P: GEOG-G 538. Examines the spatial aspects of soils from a global and local perspective, including soil genesis, morphology, and classification; physical, chemical, mechanical and biological properties of soil; and land use mapping, analysis, planning, and management.

GEOG-G 830 Readings in Geography (12 cr. max. cr.) P: Advanced course in geography or closely related field. Supervised readings on selected topics.

GEOG-G 502 Introduction to Transportation Analysis (3 cr.) An examination of movement of people, goods, and information over space using spatial analysis and planning techniques.

GEOG-G 560 Geography Internship (1-4 cr.) P: Admission to MS GIS program and permission of major advisor. Faculty-directed study of geographical problems based on internship experience. Area of placement must be related to field of Geographic Information Science. Student may complete more than one internship, but total credit hours cannot exceed four.

GEOG-G 850 Masters Thesis (1-6 cr.) Directed research and writing under the supervision of a faculty committee.

GEOG-G 845 Research Papers in Geography (3 cr.) P: Admission to MS GIS Program and permission of major advisor. Research papers under the supervision of a faculty committee. Graduate students in the MS in Geographic Information Science program who choose the research papers option (as opposed to the thesis) will develop two research papers under supervision of their major advisor and two additional faculty members.

GEOG-G 578 Global Change, Food and Farming Systems (3 cr.) P: 6 credits in geography or consent of instructor. Introduction to food production and consumption systems, emphasizing linkages to land use and social change on food/farming system sustainability. Topics include: urbanization population growth and economic liberalization; farming livelihoods, gender and poverty; biotechnology; agro-ecology; global health.

GEOG-G 590 Graduate Topics in Geography (3 cr.) An examination of selected problems and issues in geography or from a geographic perspective. Topics vary from semester to semester.

History (HIST)

Undergraduate Courses

HIST-H 105 American History I (3 cr.) Covers English colonization through the Civil War period. Evolution of American society: political, economic social structure; racial and ethnic groups, sex roles; Indian, inter-American, and world diplomacy of United States; evolution of ideology, war, territorial expansion, industrialization, urbanization, international events and their impact on American history. PUL=5

HIST-H 106 American History II (3 cr.) 1865 to present. Evolution of American society: political, economic social structure; racial and ethnic groups, sex roles; Indian, inter-American, and world diplomacy of United States; evolution of ideology, war, territorial expansion, industrialization, urbanization, international events and their impact on American history. PUL=5

HIST-H 108 Perspectives on the World to 1800 (3 cr.) Survey of major global developments to the 18th century; European voyages of discovery, colonization of western hemisphere, penetration of Mughal India, Ming China, and sub-Saharan Africa. Role of revolutions, i.e. Scientific, industrial, social and political (American and French) in establishment of European hegemony in western hemisphere and Asia. PUL=5

HIST-H 109 Perspectives on the World since 1800 (3 cr.) Survey of major global developments from the 19th century to the present: European imperial rule in India, China, Japan, Middle-East, and Africa. Chinese revolution (1912), Mexican revolutions (1911), World War I and II, end of European hegemony. Emergence of new nations in Asia, Africa, and Middle-East. Global inter-dependence as basic theme of 20th century. PUL=5

HIST-H 113 History of Western Civilization I (3 cr.) Ancient civilization, Germanic Europe, feudalism, medieval church, national monarchies, Renaissance. PUL=5

HIST-H 114 History of Western Civilization II (3 cr.) Rise and fall of ancient civilizations; barbarian invasions; rise, flowering, and disruption of medieval Church; feudalism; national monarchies, Industrial Revolution, capitalism and socialist movements; nationalism, imperialism, international rivalries, wars. PUL=5

HIST-H 217 The Nature of History (3 cr.) An introductory examination of (1) what history is, (2) types of historical interpretation, (3) common problems of historians, and (4) the uses of history. PUL=5

HIST-H 220 American Military History (3 cr.) From settlement of colonies to present. European background, colonial militia. Principal foreign wars and their strategic objectives. Technological changes and effect of military on American society. Army is emphasized with some attention to other armed forces. PUL=5

HIST-H 221 Studies in African, Asian, or Latin American History (3 cr.) Study and analysis of selected themes, topics, or problems in the history of Africa, Asia, or Latin America. The course will emphasize general and/or broad themes or topics; the themes or topics will vary from one semester to another. PUL=5 This course may be repeated for credit under different topics.

HIST-A 301 Colonial America (3 cr.) Social, cultural, economic, political, and religious developments in colonial America from first contacts between Native Americans and Europeans through the early eighteenth century. REL-R 323 Yuppies Yogis and Global Gurus (3 cr.) This course will trace the history of encounters and dialogues between Asian religious figures and products and American culture beginning with the eighteenth and nineteenth century missionary ventures to Asia by Americans and ending with present-day emergent religious movements. The course material is weighted toward the late twentieth century to the present. We will explore the moments of discovery and renewal as well as those of domination and exclusion in the encounters between American culture and Asian religious figures and products. A central concern throughout the course will be identifying how encounters and dialogues permanently affected and continue to affect the religious landscape in the United States. The course will focus on Hindu, Buddhist, and Sikh traditions in their encounters and dialogues with American culture. Both missionaries to Asia and missionary gurus from Asia will be subjects of analysis along with Asian immigrant communities and new religious movements. In addition to looking at important figures such as Emerson, Vivekananda, The Beatles, and Bikram Choudhury, we will also evaluate certain religious institutions and movements, such as ISKCON and postural yoga. We will ask: how have Asian religious gurus and products, such as yoga, transformed American religious consciousness and practice? To what extent are Asian religious products constructed anew in the context of globalization? How have religious products been re-defined and re-interpreted as a consequence of global encounters? When have there been moments of violence, intolerance, and discrimination against practitioners of Asian religions in the United States? PUL=5

REL-R 378 Religion and Revolution (3 cr.)
From the founding of the United States to the current uprisings identified as the Arab Spring, religion and political and social revolution often seem to be curious yet common travel partners. This course will ask why and how religion and political revolution travel together. How do religious language, symbols, and identities shape writing and other forms of discourse? How has religion or a critique of religion informed many of the larger social movements of the modern era (slave resistance, black power, feminism, workers' rights, democratic participation and citizenship)? This course will focus on works that foreground the interaction between religion and revolutionary movements throughout the modern era. PUL=2,5,6

REL-R 369 Love, Sex, and Justice (3 cr.)
Do we owe anything to anyone? Is life worth living without love or justice, or both? Are they not fundamental virtues of human relations, unconditionally necessary for us to live well? If justice must be blind, is there room for compassion or desire? Is justice truly "love gone public?" What happens when there is one without the other, or when they appear to be in conflict? What are their limits? This course seeks to address these questions by examining some of the foremost contributors to how we have come to think about love, sex, and justice in American culture in light of certain contemporary public disputes. PUL=5,2,3

Basic techniques for summarizing distributions, measuring interrelationships, controlling extraneous influences, and testing hypotheses are reviewed, as students become familiar with the computer system. Complex analytical techniques commonly applied in professional literature are examined in detail, including analysis of variance, path diagrams, factor analysis, and log-linear models.

SOC-R 585 Social Aspects of Mental Health and Mental Illness (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This is a graduate-level course on the sociology of mental illness and mental health. Provides a thorough grounding in the research issues and traditions that have characterized scholarly inquiry into mental illness in the past. Students will become familiar with public policy as it has had an impact on the treatment of mental illness and on the mentally ill themselves.

SOC-R 593 Applied Fieldwork for Sociologists (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This course will provide a detailed examination of the development of sex research, a sociological perspective on and critique of this corpus, and an opportunity for students to develop research of their own.

SOC-R 594 Graduate Internship in Sociology (3-6 cr.)
P: Graduate standing, 18 hours of graduate credit in sociology, and consent of instructor. This course involves master's degree students working in organizations where they apply or gain practical insight into sociological concepts, theories, knowledge, and methodology. Students analyze their experiences through work logs, a lengthy written report and regular meetings with a faculty committee. (Students on the thesis track may also take this course as an elective.)

SOC-R 610 Sociology of Health and Illness Behavior (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This seminar explores sociological and social scientific research on health and illness behavior. Special emphasis is placed on examining how social factors and conditions shape people's responses to disease, illness, and disability.

SOC-R 697 Individual Readings in Sociology (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and consent of instructor, 6 hours of graduate credit in sociology with grades of B or better. Investigation of a topic not covered in the regular curriculum that is of special interest to the student and that the student wishes to pursue in greater detail. Available only to sociology graduate students through arrangement with a faculty member.

SOC-S 500 Proseminar in Sociology (1 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Introduction to current sociological research interests and concerns through the work of departmental members.

SOC-S 526 The Sociology of Human Sexuality (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. This is a one-semester graduate-level course on the sociology of human sexuality. This course will provide a detailed examination of the development of sex research, a sociological perspective on and critique of this corpus, and an opportunity for students to develop research of their own.

SOC-S 550 Graduate Topics (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. This course examines the broad range of work in social psychology. Emphasis is placed on the relation between the classic and contemporary literature in the field.

SOC-S 585 Social Aspects of Mental Health and Mental Illness (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. This is a graduate-level course on the sociology of mental illness and mental health. Provides a thorough grounding in the research issues and traditions that have characterized scholarly inquiry into mental illness in the past. Students will become familiar with public policy as it has had an impact on the treatment of mental illness and on the mentally ill themselves.

SOC-S 593 Applied Fieldwork for Sociologists (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This course will provide a detailed examination of the development of sex research, a sociological perspective on and critique of this corpus, and an opportunity for students to develop research of their own.

SOC-S 610 Urban Sociology (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Historical and contemporary causes, trends, and patterns of urbanization throughout the world. Various approaches to studying the process of urbanization, including ecological, social organizational, and political perspectives. Current developments and problems in urban planning.

SOC-S 612 Political Sociology (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Possible topics include experimental studies of power relationships, political socialization, political attitudes, political participation, voting behavior, decision-making processes, theories of social power, organizational power systems and structures, the state as a social institution, and political movements.

SOC-S 613 Complex Organizations (3 cr.)

SLA-H 315 Texts and Interpretation (3 cr.) P: SLA-H 215. This course is a required course for all members of the SLA Honors Program. Texts form the foundation for all the Liberal Arts, yet the problems of what a text is, how it is created and transmitted, and how it is to be interpreted are extremely complex and are prerequisite to understanding and meaning. Thus such issues are ones we still face as students of the Liberal Arts, and are of central, indeed fundamental importance to our society and culture of today as essential for our understanding of ourselves and our world culture. The internet and digital media have transformed human communication, yet we remain in a "textual condition," and indeed do so as never before. To analyze and understand this textual condition is indeed the purpose of this course, for which SLA-H 215 is a prerequisite. In analyzing the "phenomena" of texts, the course reflects on the impact of the Liberal Arts tradition as it remains foundational for our understanding of "the educated individual" today, and how the Liberal Arts tradition continues to serve an essential function for our contemporary, post-modern world. The course is primarily a seminar and colloquium, supplemented with lectures by the instructor. Class participation is essential, and the course requires extensive reading and writing assignments. This course is prerequisite to Honors 499 Senior Thesis, and one of the major goals of the course is to have students develop a research proposal for their senior thesis/project, based on a sophisticated analysis of the evidentiary basis therefor. NAIS-N 320 Indians of North America (3 cr.) The intent of this course is to introduce you to the academic study of American Indians and Native peoples. The emphasis is on "introduce" because the subject is extremely complex, and in one semester you really will only receive some basics. The perspective to be taken here is one of scholarship, not an approach that is personal or political, though certainly these approaches will enter into lectures, readings, videos and discussions. You'll be looking at the way in which academic disciplines have examined American Indian and Native cultures, traditions and histories. The viewpoints primarily will be from anthropology, but perspectives also will come from museum studies, literature, history, law, political science, and a range of other disciplines. PUL = 1

NAIS-N 480 Comparative Native American History (3 cr.) Course examines history of Native peoples in North America during both the colonial and republican periods through a comparative perspective of the Spanish/French/ British empires and then the post-colonial periods of U. S. and Mexican history. PUL=5, 1a, 6

NAIS-N 356 American Indian Philosophies (3 cr.) An examination of the philosophical views, themes, and implications of North American Indian traditions, with applications to a variety of cross-cultural and philosophical issues. PUL=5, 1a, 6

NAIS-N 396 American Indian Philosophies (3 cr.) The experiential seminar is designed to demonstrate your accumulated training in Native American Studies in a single original project of your choice, subject to the instructor's approval and under the additional supervision of a faculty mentor. Although the most common way of completing this course is the writing of a research thesis of approximately 8000 words, alternate projects can be explored in consultation with the instructor of the course and the Native American Studies Director. The completed thesis or project should synthesize your learning throughout your Native Studies courses as well as an intentional and designed experience working with or for a specific Native population. The Capstone necessitates multiple drafts of your research that are subjected to heightened peer review and regular feedback from your instructor, your peers and your mentor. PUL = 4,5,1

NAIS-N 207 Introduction to Native American History (3 cr.) This introductory course surveys the history of Native peoples of North America from the earliest times to the present. It seeks to provide students with a broad understanding of Native American history, prepare students for more advanced course work in Native studies, and enhance students' understanding of colonialism and American history. Topics, speakers, and readings are focused on issues that are unique to agencies that collect, preserve, and interpret historical resources.

MSTD-A 550 Museum Methods (3 cr.) This survey of museum practice introduces students to methods, skills, and resources in three areas of museum work: artifacts, interpretation, and organizational administration, as well as to the ethical ramifications of these methods. Course counts toward the Graduate Certificate but not toward the Master's Degree.

MSTD-A 558 Museum Internship (1-6 cr.) P: MSTD-A 503 and two other museum studies courses or consent of the instructor. An arranged learning experience in museum work appropriate to individual career goals focusing on an aspect of museum practice and working with a museum mentor. May be repeated for credit.

MSTD-A 512 Exhibit Planning and Design (3 cr.) Core course. P: MSTD-A 503 or consent of the instructor. This survey of museum education introduces students to a variety of professional skills through exercises, projects, museum visitor observation, and in-museum classes. It covers education theory most central to museum practice, the duties of museum educators, and current issues in museum education.

MSTD-A 514 Museums and Technology (3 cr.) Elective. P: MSTD-A 503 or consent of the instructor. This course surveys the growing use of technology in museums. It examines applications for information management in collections, conservation science, and archives. It examines critically the use of technology in the service of education both in exhibit contexts and in the variety of educational programs and Web-based dissemination of knowledge.

MSTD-A 513 Curatorial Practices (3 cr.) This seminar course will examine current and historical curatorial practices in museums and other exhibition contexts. Case studies will introduce a range of approaches to the storytelling practices involved in curatorial work. Over the course of the semester students will also develop and execute their own curatorial project.

MSTD-A 511 Museum Education (3 cr.) Elective. The class will examine the multiple ways that people learn from and with objects in museums using a range of disciplines including education, history, semiotics, material culture, anthropology, and psychology.

MSTD-A 517 Preventative Conservation (3 cr.) This course offers a theoretical and practical investigation of preventive conservation of artifacts which aims to eliminate or modify conditions that encourage deterioration. Preventative Conservation is the broadcast technique by which preservation of museum objects and collections is achieved. Emphasis is placed on measures that prevent or reduce the potential for damage and loss. Central to preventative conservation methodology, topics include handling procedures, proper storage, and environmental management, agents or deterioration, risk and analysis, emergency preparedness, and planning.

MSTD-A 521 Museum Theatre and Live Interpretation (3 cr.) Elective. The purpose of this course is to provide an in-depth look at the use of museum theatre and live interpretation in museum settings to advance the educational mission and nature of museums. The class examines theatrical techniques, program development and management, and interpretation approaches for a wide variety of museum exhibits and audiences. Students will observe, develop, and implement original museum theatre and interpretation projects as a synthesis and practical application of the knowledge gained. The course will include field visits and observations of various techniques in museum theatre and live interpretation.

MSTD-A 531 Critical Approaches to Museums (3 cr.) Elective. P: MSTD-A 503 or consent of the instructor. This class examines the potential of applying critical pedagogical methods to curatorial practices, interpretation, museum education, and exhibition development as a way to focus on engaging the visitor with artifacts, opening up civic discourse, and promoting deeper connection to community.

MSTD-A 540 Cultural Heritage (3 cr.) Elective. This course explores a variety of issues related the stewardship of cultural property on a local, national, and global scale. Through readings, case studies, discussion, and a semester-long project, students will explore ethical, economic, legal, political, and pragmatic issues related to tangible and intangible heritage and will increase their understanding of the practices and processes of cultural heritage management.

Native American and Indigenous Studies (NAIS)

NAIS-N 101 Introduction to Native American and Indigenous Studies (3 cr.) Introduction to Native American and Indigenous Studies is an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the many components that combine to create the contemporary American Indian and Indigenous experiences across North America, with a focus within the United States. This course is an introduction to the historic and contemporary perspectives on the social, political, and cultural issues of the Indigenous Peoples of North America. Through readings, lectures, discussion, multi-media presentations, critical thinking assignments and reflection exercises, students will be exposed to the many unique challenges faced by contemporary Native Americans. A primary objective of this course is to examine the structural and disciplinary constraints systemically placed on Native Americans and Indigenous cultures from a Native American perspective and students will examine identity, sovereignty, Indian-White relations, federal Indian law and policy, tribal government, art, literature, and film from a Native American perspective. A primary goal for students this term is to explore dominant academic and media representation and research practices and compare and contrast those offered by contemporary Native American scholars, artists, and educators. Students will be encouraged to engage in the process of inquiry and be pushed to think critically and independently. PUL=5

NAIS-N 364 NATIVE AMERICAN LITERATURE (3 cr.) A survey of traditional and modern literature by American Indians, especially of the high plains and southwest culture areas, with particular attention to the image of the Indian in both native and white literature. PUL=5, 1a, 6

NAIS-N 320 Indians of North America (3 cr.) The intent of this course is to introduce you to the academic study of American Indians and Native peoples. The emphasis is on “introduce” because the subject is extremely complex, and in one semester you really will only receive some basics. The perspective to be taken here is one of scholarship, not an approach that is personal or political, though certainly these approaches will enter into lectures, readings, videos and discussions. You’ll be looking at the way in which academic disciplines have examined American Indian sovereignty, Indian relations, federal Indian law, and policy, tribal government, art, literature, and film from a Native American perspective and students will examine identity, Native American cultures, traditions and histories. The viewpoints primarily will be from anthropology, but perspectives also will come from museum studies, literature, history, law, political science, and a range of other disciplines. PUL = 1

NAIS-N 480 Comparative Native American History (3 cr.) Course examines history of Native peoples in North American during both the colonial and republican periods through a comparative perspective of the Spanish/French/ British empires and then the post-colonial periods of U. S. and Mexican history. PUL=5, 1a, 6

NAIS-N 356 American Indian Philosophies (3 cr.) An examination of the philosophical views, themes, and implications of North American Indian traditions, with applications to a variety of cross-cultural and philosophical issues. PUL=5, 1a, 6

NAIS-N 396 American Indian Philosophies (3 cr.) The experiential seminar is designed to demonstrate your accumulated training in Native American Studies in a single original project of your choice, subject to the instructor's approval and under the additional supervision of a faculty mentor. Although the most common way of completing this course is the writing of a research thesis of approximately 8000 words, alternate projects can be explored in consultation with the instructor of the course and the Native American Studies Director. The completed thesis or project should synthesize your learning throughout your Native Studies courses as well as an intentional and designed experience working with or for a specific Native population. The Capstone necessitates multiple drafts of your research that are subjected to heightened peer review and regular feedback from your instructor, your peers and your mentor. PUL = 4,5,1

NAIS-N 207 Introduction to Native American History (3 cr.) This introductory course surveys the history of Native peoples of North America from the earliest times to the present. It seeks to provide students with a broad understanding of Native American history, prepare students for more advanced course work in Native studies, and enhance students' understanding of colonialism and American history. PUL=5

NAIS-N 398 Women in American Indian Religions (3 cr.) Women in American Indian Religions is a course designed to examine the roles of women in American, Indian religions and practice, and the expression the feminine aspects in their world views. PUL = 4,5,1

NAIS-N 399 Studies in NAIS (3 cr.) Specialized and intensive studies in Native American and Indigenous Studies with an interdisciplinary emphasis. PUL = 5, 2

NAIS-N 300 Topics in NAIS (1-3 cr.) Specialized topics in Native American and Indigenous Studies with a multidisciplinary emphasis. PUL = 5, 2 religious and spiritual traditions. This class explores all aspects of the practice of pilgrimage or sacred journeying, from its nationalistic aspects, as with Medjugorje in Croatia, to its economic development aspects, the impact of the internet and globalization, pilgrimage an protest (as with Gandhi's famous salt march), and so on. The similarities and differences in the practice of pilgrimage in Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism, Christianity, and other religions and spiritual traditions, all the way to Graceland can be considered. What are the points of commonality?

The reasons for pilgrimage vary greatly and were most famously described by Chaucer in his classic book
The Canterbury Tales. Our class will explore the many dimensions of sacred travels. PUL=5,6,3

REL-R 375 Religion Behind Bars (3 cr.) This course will explore punishment, prison, and the prison industrial complex's relationship to religion. The course will examine the development of the prison in the Western world, specifically the United States, and its relationship to religious norms, values, and institutions. In addition to the historical evolution of prison and the prison industrial complex, this course will also address the current prison system and the role of religion in the contemporary moment. Finally, this course will look at how religion is shaped in and by the prison system and the prison industrial complex. PUL=5,6

REL-R 378 Religion and Revolution (3 cr.) From the founding of the United States to the current uprisings identified as the Arab Spring, religion and political and social revolution often seem to be curious yet common travel partners. This course will ask why and how religion and political revolution travel together. How do religious language, symbols, and identities shape writing and other forms of discourse? How has religion or a critique of religion informed many of the larger social movements of the modern era (slave resistance, black power, feminism, workers' rights, democratic participation and citizenship)?
This course will focus on works that foreground the interaction between religion and revolutionary movements throughout the modern era. PUL=2,5,6

REL-R 369 Love, Sex, and Justice (3 cr.) Do we owe anything to anyone? Is life worth living without love or justice, or both? Are they not fundamental virtues of human relations, unconditionally necessary for us to live well? If justice must be blind, is there room for compassion or desire? Is justice truly "love gone public?" What happens when there is one without the other, or when they appear to be in conflict? What are their limits? This course seeks to address these questions by examining some of the foremost contributors to how we have come to think about love, sex, and justice in American culture in light of certain contemporary public disputes. PUL=5,2,3

Sociology (SOC)

Undergraduate Courses
SOC-R 100 Introduction to Sociology (3 cr.) P: ENG-W 131 or consent of instructor. Consideration of basic sociological concepts, including some of the substantive concerns and findings of sociology, sources of data, and the nature of the sociological perspective. PUL=5

SOC-R 121 Social Problems (3 cr.) Selected current problems of American society are analyzed through the use of basic sociological data and the application of major sociological frameworks. Policy implications are discussed in the light of value choices involved in various solutions. PUL=5

SOC-R 234 Social Psychology (3 cr.) Sociological approach to human character, with emphasis on the psychology of the individual in social situations.
Topics include socialization and the self, language and communication, interpersonal relations, attitude formation, conformity and social influence, and group processes.
PUL=5

SOC-R 240 Deviance and Social Control (3 cr.) An introduction to major sociological theories of deviance and social control. Analyzes empirical work done in such areas as drug use, unconventional sexual behavior, family violence, and mental illness. Explores both "lay" and official responses to deviance, as well as cultural variability in responses to deviance. PUL=5

SOC-R 295 Topics in Sociology (3 cr.) Exploration of a topic in sociology not covered by the regular curriculum but of interest to faculty and students in a particular semester. Topics to be announced. PUL=5
SOC-R 305 Population (3 cr.) Focus on study of people in terms of relative numbers, geographic distribution, and factors influencing change. Included are considerations of population theory, values related to population questions, an overview of basic techniques of analysis, and mortality, fertility, migration, and growth trends. PUL=5

SOC-R 314 Families and Society (3 cr.) The family is a major social institution, occupying a central place in people's lives. This course explores formation and dissolution of marriages, partnerships, families; challenges family members face, including communication and childrearing; reasons for and consequences of change in American families; and how family patterns vary across and within social groups. PUL=5

SOC-R 315 Political Sociology (3 cr.) Analysis of the nature and basis of political power on the macro level—the community, the national, and the international arenas. Study of formal and informal power structures and of the institutionalized and non-institutionalized mechanisms of access to power. PUL=5

SOC-R 316 Society and Public Opinion (3 cr.) Analysis of the formulation and operation of public opinion. Although the course may focus on all aspects of opinion and behavior (including marketing research, advertising, etc.), most semesters the course focuses on political opinion and behavior. Special attention will be given to two aspects of opinion in our society: its measurement through public opinion polls and the role of mass communication in manipulating public opinion. The distortions in the popular press's reports of the results of survey research are considered in depth. PUL=5

SOC-R 317 Sociology of Work (3 cr.) Analysis of the meaning of work, the dynamic social processes within work organizations, and environmental constraints on organizational behavior. PUL=5

SOC-R 320 Sexuality and Society (3 cr.) Provides a basic conceptual scheme for dealing with human sexuality in a sociological manner. PUL=5

SOC-R 321 Women and Health (3 cr.) A review of the relationships among cultural values, social structure, disease, and wellness, with special attention focused on the impact of gender role on symptomatology and access to health care. Selected contemporary health problem areas will be examined in depth. Alternative models of health care delivery will be identified and discussed. PUL=5

SOC-R 325 Gender and Society (3 cr.) A sociological examination of the roles of women and men in society, analysis of the determinants and consequences of these roles, and assessment of forces likely to bring about future change in these roles. Although focus will be on contemporary American society, cross-cultural variations in gender roles will also be noted. PUL=5

SOC-R 327 Sociology of Death and Dying (3 cr.) An analysis of historical, social and psychological forces influencing human mortality. Topics include: changing images of death and dying, technology's dehumanization of dying, hospices, funerals, grief, widowhood, children's death, suicide, genocide, and the social structure's influence on the death and dying process. PUL=5

SOC-R 329 Urban Sociology (3 cr.) The social dynamics of urbanization, urban social structure, and urban ecology. Theories of urban development; the city as a form of social organization; macroprocesses of urbanization both in the United States and other countries. PUL=5

SOC-R 330 Community (3 cr.) Social, psychological, and structural features of community life. Topics include microphenomena such as the neighborhood, networks of friendship and oppositions, social participation, community power structure, and institutional frameworks. PUL=5

SOC-R 335 Sociological Perspectives on the Life Course (3 cr.) Focuses on the human life course as a product of social structure, culture, and history. Attention is given to life course contexts, transitions, and trajectories from youth to old age; work, family, and school influences; self-concept development, occupational attainment, and role acquisition over the life cycle. PUL=5

SOC-R 338 Comparative Social Systems (3 cr.) History and general theories of comparative sociology. Major focus on comparative analyses of social structure, kinship, policy and bureaucracy, economics and stratification, and institutionalized belief systems. Some attention is given to culture and personality and to cross-cultural methodology. PUL=5

SOC-R 344 Juvenile Delinquency and Society (3 cr.) Legal definition of delinquency, measurement and distribution of delinquency. Causal theories considered for empirical adequacy and policy implications. Procedures for processing juvenile offenders by police, courts, and prisons are examined. PUL=5

SOC-R 345 Crime and Society (3 cr.) Examination of the creation, selection, and disposition of persons labeled criminal. Emphasis on crime as an expression of group conflict and interest. Critique of academic and popular theories of crime and punishment. PUL=5

SOC-R 346 Control of Crime (3 cr.) History, objectives, and operation of the crime control system in relation to its sociopolitical context. Critical examination of philosophies of punishment and programs of rehabilitation. PUL=3

SOC-R 349 Practicum in Victimology (3 cr.) This course introduces students to the real world of criminal victimization through readings and required observation of victim service agencies in operation. Students will have the opportunity to learn the circumstances of victimization, to experience victims' reactions to their violation, and to observe agency responses to victims. PUL=5

SOC-R 351 Social Science Research Methods (3 cr.) A survey of methods and techniques used by sociologists and other social scientists for gathering and interpreting information about human social behavior.

SOC-R 355 Social Theory (3 cr.) This course covers several traditions of classical, contemporary, and post-modern social thought (e.g., social Darwinism, conflict theory, functionalism, symbolic interactionism, critical theory, and feminist theory). The social context, construction, and application theories are included. PUL=5

SOC-R 359 Introduction to Sociological Statistics (3 cr.) Measures of central tendency, dispersion, standardizing and normalizing procedures, and simple index numbers. Simple notions of probability as related to statistical inference (means, proportions, binomial distribution, chi-square, simple regression).

SOC-R 381 Social Factors in Health and Illness (3 cr.) Examines the social aspects of health and illness, including variations in the social meanings of health and illness, the social epidemiology of disease, and the social dimensions of the illness experience. PUL=5

SOC-R 382 Social Organization of Health Care (3 cr.) Surveys the nature of, and recent changes in, the health care delivery system in the United States. Patient and professional roles and the characteristics of different health care settings are explored. Current debates about the nature of the professions and professional work are emphasized. PUL=5

SOC-R 410 Alcohol, Drugs and Society (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. This is a survey of the use and abuse of alcohol, including extent of use, history of use and abuse, "biology" of alcohol, alcoholism as a problem, legal actions, and treatment strategies. PUL=5

SOC-R 415 Sociology of Disability (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. This course examines disability from the point of view of a variety of sociological perspectives and theories, concentrating on that of symbolic interaction. Attention will also be given to disability in history and the media and to the disability rights movement. PUL=5

SOC-R 420 Sociology of Education (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. A survey of sociological approaches to the study of education, covering such major topics as education as a social institution, the school in society, the school as a social system, and the sociology of learning. PUL=5

SOC-R 425 Gender and Work (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. This course examines the changing roles that women and men play in paid and unpaid work, and how these roles are socially constructed through socialization practices, social interaction, and actions of social institutions. The interaction of gender, race, ethnicity, and social class on individuals' involvement in work will also be explored. PUL=5

SOC-R 430 Families and Social Policy (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. This seminar explores how the state and labor market currently affect family structure and the quality of family life in the United States and the role the state and labor market could play in the future. Family policies in other parts of the world will be considered for possible applicability to the United States. PUL=5

SOC-R 461 Race and Ethnic Relations (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. Comparative study of racial, ethnic, and religious relations. Focus on patterns of inclusion and exclusion of minority groups by majority groups. Discussion of theories of intergroup tensions--prejudice and discrimination--and of corresponding approaches to the reduction of tensions. PUL=5

SOC-R 463 Inequality and Society (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. Presentation of conservative and radical theories of class formation, consciousness, mobility, and class consequences. Relevance of social class to social structure and personality. Emphasis on the American class system, with some attention given to class systems in other societies. PUL=5

SOC-R 467 Social Change (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. Basic concepts, models, and individual theories of social change; historical and contemporary analysis of the structural and psychological ramifications of major social trends. PUL=5

SOC-R 476 Social Movements (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. Study of the origins and dynamics of contemporary social movements in American society, with some attention to cross-national movements. Coverage of progressive and regressive movements aimed at changing the social, economic, and political structure of the society. Case studies of expressive and ideological movements, including fads, cults, and revolts and revolutions. PUL=5

SOC-R 478 Formal Organizations (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. This course is a broad presentation of the study of the nature, origin, and functions of bureaucratic organizations. Emphasis on bureaucratic organizations as the predominant mode of contemporary task performance and on their social-psychological consequences. Theoretical and empirical considerations in organizational studies from Weber to contemporary findings. PUL=5

SOC-R 480 Sociology and Social Policy (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. This course is a broad overview of the increasing use of sociology in the formulation and implementation of social policy. Specific case studies will be examined. Recommended for students with an interest in medicine, law, education, social service, urban affairs, etc. PUL=5

SOC-R 481 Evaluation Research Methods (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100, SOC-R 351, SOC-R 359, or consent of instructor. A comprehensive study of research techniques and practical applications in the area of the evaluation of social programs. Recommended for students with an interest in social research concerning medicine, law, education, social service, urban affairs, etc. PUL=5

SOC-R 485 Sociology of Mental Illness (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 or consent of instructor. A survey of current problems in psychiatric diagnosis, the social epidemiology of mental illness, institutional and informal caregiving, family burden, homelessness, and the development and impact of current mental health policy. Cross-cultural and historical materials, derived from the work of anthropologists and historians, are used throughout the course. PUL=5

SOC-R 490 Survey Research Methods (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100, SOC-R 351, SOC-R 359, or consent of instructor. In this practicum, students will design and conduct a survey, learn how to code survey results, enter data, and analyze data with the mainframe computer. A report will also be written. The advantages and disadvantages of survey methodology will be highlighted and ethical issues will be discussed.

SOC-R 493 Practicum in Sociological Fieldwork (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 100 and SOC-R 351, senior standing, or consent of instructor. Role of systematic observation as a sociological method. Training in fieldwork techniques and the application of sociological concepts to actual social situations. The core of this course will involve a supervised fieldwork research project in some area of social life.
SOC-R 494 Internship Program in Sociology (3-6 cr.)
P: SOC-R 100, 9 credits of sociology with a B (3.0) or higher, junior standing with consent of instructor. This course involves students working in organizations where they apply or gain practical insight into sociological concepts, theories, and knowledge. Students analyze their experiences through work logs, a paper, and regular meetings with the internship director. PUL=5

SOC-R 495 Topics in Sociology (3 cr.) Exploration of a topic in sociology not covered by the regular curriculum but of interest to faculty and students in a particular semester. Topics to be announced. PUL=5

SOC-R 497 Individual Readings in Sociology (3 cr.)
P: Consent of instructor and 9 credit hours of sociology courses with at least a B (3.0) or higher. Investigation of a topic not covered in the regular curriculum that is of special interest to the student and that the student wishes to pursue in greater detail. Normally available only to majors through arrangement with a faculty member. PUL=5

SOC-R 498 Sociology Capstone Seminar (3 cr.)
P: SOC-R 100, SOC-R 351, SOC-R 355 (or SOC-R 356 or SOC-R 357) and senior status. Designed to help graduating senior sociology majors to synthesize and demonstrate what they have learned in their major while readying themselves for a career and/or graduate study. PUL=5

SOC-R 500 Topics in Applied Sociology (3 cr.)
This course surveys the major techniques for investigating current epidemiology, the health care professions, socialization of providers, and issues of cost and cost containment.

SOC-R 517 Sociology of Work (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of the instructor. Course explores how work is being restructured in the "new economy". Topics include the changing meaning of work, the quest for dignity in the workplace, the plight of the working poor, and prospects for the labor movement (among other items).

SOC-R 525 Gender and Work (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing and 6 credit hours of sociology, or consent of instructor. This course critically analyzes contemporary theory and research on gender and work. It examines how women's and men's roles in paid and unpaid work are socially constructed, through socialization, social interaction, and the actions of social institutions. The interaction gender, race, ethnicity, and social class will be explored.

SOC-R 530 Families and Social Policy (3 cr.)
P: SOC-R 100, SOC-R 220 or SOC-R 314, and graduate standing. This seminar will explore how the government and labor market affect family structure and the quality of family life. Students will study the implications of family research for social policy and learn to develop theoretical frameworks for evaluating social policies affecting families.

SOC-R 537 Gender and Society (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of the instructor. This course examines some central emphases on gender of social interactionist theory and feminist theory/methods. In addition, we will relate these approaches to the study of contemporary gender approaches in selected social spheres, which may vary according to instructor's specializations.

SOC-R 551 Quantitative Research Methods (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This course surveys the major techniques for investigating current sociological problems. It emphasizes the relationship between theory and practice in understanding and conducting research. Although methods intended for rigorous hypothesis testing through quantitative analysis will be of major concern, the course will also examine issues in field research essential to a full understanding of a research problem.

SOC-R 556 Advanced Sociological Theory I (3 cr.)
P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. In-depth study of classical sociological theorists, particularly Marx, Durkheim, and Weber. Examines their roles in defining the discipline of sociology.

SOC-R 557 Advanced Sociological Theory II (3 cr.)
P: graduate standing or consent of instructor. In-depth study of contemporary sociological theories (e.g., social conflict, structural functionalism, symbolic interactionism) as a continuation of the issues raised by the classical sociological theorists as well as a response to the epistemological and social changes of the late twentieth century.

SOC-R 559 Intermediate Sociological Statistics (3 cr.)
P: SOC-R 359 or equivalent, graduate standing or consent of instructor. SOC-R 359 or equivalent, graduate standing or consent of instructor. Basic techniques for summarizing distributions, measuring interrelationships, controlling extraneous influences, and testing hypotheses are reviewed, as students become familiar with the computer system. Complex analytical techniques commonly applied in professional literature are examined in detail, including analysis of variance, path diagrams, factor analysis, and log-linear models.

SOC-R 585 Social Aspects of Mental Health and Mental Illness (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This is a graduate-level course on the sociology of mental illness and mental health. Provides a thorough grounding in the research issues and traditions that have characterized scholarly inquiry into mental illness in the past. Students will become familiar with public policy as it has had an impact on the treatment of mental illness and on the mentally ill themselves.

SOC-R 593 Applied Fieldwork for Sociologists (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This course will provide students with both a theoretical and methodological background in the different types of qualitative analysis used in sociological fieldwork. Students will have the opportunity to study and to evaluate representative examples of qualitative studies and to complete by themselves a project done using qualitative methods.

SOC-R 594 Graduate Internship in Sociology (3-6 cr.) P: Graduate standing, 18 hours of graduate credit in sociology, and consent of instructor. This course involves master's degree students working in organizations where they apply or gain practical insight into sociological concepts, theories, knowledge, and methodology. Students analyze their experiences through work logs, a lengthy written report and regular meetings with a faculty committee. (Students on the thesis track may also take this course as an elective.)

SOC-R 610 Sociology of Health and Illness Behavior (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing or consent of instructor. This seminar explores sociological and social scientific research on health and illness behavior. Special emphasis is placed on examining how social factors and conditions shape people's responses to disease, illness, and disability.

SOC-R 697 Individual Readings in Sociology (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and consent of instructor, 6 hours of graduate credit in sociology with grades of B or better. Investigation of a topic not covered in the regular curriculum that is of special interest to the student and that the student wishes to pursue in greater detail. Available only to sociology graduate students through arrangement with a faculty member.

SOC-S 500 Proseminar in Sociology (1 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Introduction to current sociological research interests and concerns through the work of departmental members.

SOC-S 526 The Sociology of Human Sexuality (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. This is a one-semester graduate-level course on the sociology of human sexuality. This course will provide a detailed examination of the development of sex research, a sociological perspective on and critique of this corpus, and an opportunity for students to develop research of their own.

SOC-S 530 Introduction to Social Psychology (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. This course examines the broad range of work in social psychology. Emphasis is placed on the relation between the classic and contemporary literature in the field.

SOC-S 560 Graduate Topics (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Variable with topic. Exploration of a topic in sociology not covered by the regular curriculum but of interest to faculty and students in a particular semester. Topics to be announced.

SOC-S 569 M.A. Thesis (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor.

SOC-S 610 Urban Sociology (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Historical and contemporary causes, trends, and patterns of urbanization throughout the world. Various approaches to studying the process of urbanization, including ecological, social organizational, and political perspectives. Current developments and problems in urban planning.

SOC-S 612 Political Sociology (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Theory and research in formal organizations: industry, school, church, hospital, government, military, and university. Problems of bureaucracy and decision making in large-scale organizations. For students in the social sciences and professional schools interested in the comparative approach to problems of organizations and their management.

SOC-S 616 Sociology of Family Systems (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Focus on the nature, structure, functions, and changes of family systems in modern and emerging societies, in comparative and historical perspective. Attention is given to relationships with other societal subsystems, and to interaction between role occupants within and among subsystems.

SOC-S 632 Socialization (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. The processes of development of the individual as a social being and societal member, focusing on childhood or socialization into adult roles.

SOC-S 659 Qualitative Methods in Sociology (3 cr.) P: Graduate standing and/or consent of instructor. Methods in obtaining, evaluating, and analyzing qualitative data in social research. Methods covered include field research procedures, participant observation, interviewing, and audio-video recording of social behavior in natural settings.

SOC-R 569 Thesis (3 cr.) P: SOC-R 359 or equivalent, graduate standing or consent of instructor. Thesis

An interdisciplinary study of selected themes, issues, and methodologies in Women's Studies. PUL=5 May be repeated for up to 6 credit hours.

WOST-W 480 Women's Studies Practicum (3-6 cr.)
P: WOST-W 105 and consent of instructor and program director. Internships in the Women's Studies Program are offered to provide opportunities for students to gain work experience while serving women's needs. This experience is combined with an academic analysis of women's status and experience in organizations. PUL=3

WOST-W 495 Readings and Research in Women's Studies (1-6 cr., 6 cr. max cr.) Individual readings and research. PUL=5 May be repeated twice for credit with a different topic.

WOST-W 499 Senior Colloquium in Women's Studies (1 cr.) P: Consent of instructor. Must be approved by the WOST Director prior to the semester in which the student plans to take the course. Reserved for students who are pursuing a Women's Studies minor. This is a culminating interdisciplinary course for advanced students who are prepared to present the results of an original major research effort on a topic in Women's Studies. Participants will be expected to read and evaluate the presentations of other students and participating faculty. PUL=3

WOST-W 601 Survey of Contemporary Research in Women's Studies: The Social and Behavioral Sciences (3 cr.)
An exploration of feminist perspectives in the social sciences. Theoretical frameworks and research styles used by feminist social scientists are examined, as are feminist critiques of traditional social scientific frameworks and research methods. Research reports by feminist researchers in social scientific disciplines are also read and analyzed.

WOST-W 602 Contemporary Research in Women's Studies: The Humanities (3 cr.)
Review of literature on sex roles, psychology of women, socialization, and politicization of women. Training in methodology of research on women; critique of prevailing and feminist theoretical frameworks for studying women.

WOST-W 695 Graduate Readings and Research in Women's Studies (3-6 cr.)
An opportunity for graduate students in various programs at IUPUI to explore specific issues within the field of Women's Studies, guided by faculty with particular expertise in these areas. The course is used to do readings and research that go beyond what is covered in other Women's Studies graduate courses offered on this campus. It also involves faculty not normally involved in the teaching of these other courses but who have skills and knowledge relevant to the issues being investigated.

WOST-W 701 Graduate Topics in Women's Studies (3-4 cr.)
Advanced investigation of selected research topics in Women's Studies. Topics to be announced.

World Languages and Cultures (WLAC, ASL, CLAS, EALC, FREN, GER, ITAL, NELC, SPAN)

Arabic (NELC)

NELC-A 131 Basic Arabic I (4 cr.)
Introductory language course in modern standard Arabic as in contemporary literature, newspapers, and radio. Focus on grammar, reading, script, conversation, elementary composition, and culture. PUL=1A,5
